Minnesota Zoo Reopens After 23-Day Strike

Dolphins were jumping a little higher, the whales had a target for their splashes, and the crow was again stealing visitors' quarters at the Minnesota zoo when it reopened after a 23-day shutdown due to the state employees strike.

The zoo animal collection grew while visitors were away. A black Celebes crested ape was born, several birds hatched, and the first family of Canadian lynx is now on exhibit.

The lynx, a secretive animal of the north woods, is rarely seen in the wild. But the zoo has two pairs, one of which successfully bred and now has three kittens. The mother and offspring were put on exhibit reopening day for a fresh look at the visitors.

The Celebes crested ape, born on July 30, was a welcome addition to this social troop of primates. They are not commonly found in captivity, but the zoo now has 10 scampering about the rock-work in their tropics building exhibit.

Zoo director Edward Kohn stated, "While we can't hope to recoup all of our losses, we plan to extend the active summer season into the fall with a variety of promotions." The zoo will participate in the Renaissance festival and the state fair with a variety of animals. The performing "For the Birds" show will continue with its five daily shows, and a whale feeding contest is held every Saturday.

Admission prices to the zoo are adults 17 and over, $3; ages 12-16, $1.50; ages 6-11, $1; seniors 62 and over, $1.50; and children five and under are free. On August 31 — September 4, it's two-for-one days on the price of admission. The zoo is located south of the Twin Cities in Apple Valley and open daily from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Amy Nichole Myers, third

Lea Marie Saga, fourth

Winners of the baby photo contest sponsored by the Thief River Falls Jaycee women have been announced by Sue Sculthorp and Pam Brule, chairwomen of the project.

First place winner was Amy Jo Wessel, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wessel, Thief River Falls, who received 2,680 votes. In second place was Holly Jo Bjorgaard, 20 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bjorgaard, Viking, who received 2,844 votes. Third place went to Amy Nichole Myers, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Myers, Thief River Falls, with 2,396 votes; and fourth place winner was Lea Marie Saga, two months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland S. Saga, Mentor, 2,140 votes.

Four winners were among the 77 baby photos entered in the contest, with photos displayed for judging by the public at First Northwestern State Bank and Northern State bank in Thief River Falls.

First place winner in the contest will receive a $50 savings bond, second place a $15 gift certificate from Bostwick's; third a $10 gift certificate from J. C. Penney and fourth a $5 toy.

4-H News

New Solum

Unfinished business included an overview of the fair with Gordon Hall, Lisa Edington and Jaki Weleski commenting on working in the foodstand. Joyce Kron talked on how they would improve the fair next year by: putting all the foods in their categories, how they would give a complete meal for the people who worked in the foodstands. She also commented that they would improve the horse barn facilities, and that they would prepare the judges better. Maria Edington commented on the Crazy Days Milkstand. New business included mowing the lawn around the clubhouse again. The club decided to do it August 21 at 1:00 p.m. Lisa and Maria Edington, and Mike VanHorn volunteered. Joyce Kron brought up record completion. The records are due September 14 and since the next meeting was the 21st of September, Joyce Kron, Linda VanHorn and Tarry Edington would judge them and then turn in the best of the club. Lisa Edington made a motion to have a picnic, Mike VanHorn seconded it. Later the club decided to have it at Lake Bronson on September 13. Judy Weleski and Joyce Kron volunteered to work on the food committee. The picnic was decided to be at 12:30 p.m. Ron Solney gave his treasurer's report. Mike VanHorn made a motion to adjourn the meeting. Jake Weleski seconded it.

A demonstration was given by Jaki Wekesli on "hemming a skirt or dress". There was six 4-H members present, three parents and four visitors and one leader.

Next meeting will be September 21 at the Rosebank clubhouse. Topic is the picnic.

Graduating a year early from Lincoln high school, Gwen was a member of the National honor society. She is a Bible and clerical major.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q — I was unable to use my Veterans Administration education benefits before my time limit expired. How do I apply for an extension?

A — The extension of the delimiting date for education benefits can be granted to veterans who can prove they were unable to pursue a course of education because of a physical or mental handicap, not the result of the veteran's own willful misconduct, during the period of entitlement. Apply to nearest VA regional office.

Q — What portion of a home loan does the Veterans Administration guarantee?

A — The VA will guarantee up to 60 per cent of a loan provided it does not exceed the maximum guaranty entitlement available to the individual. The current maximum guaranty entitlement for homes is $27,500. The maximum for mobile homes is $20,000, not to exceed 50 per cent of the loan.

Q — If a veteran qualifies for Veterans Administration education benefits under the Post Vietnam Era Contributory Program, is there a time limit on when these benefits must be used?

A — Yes. No benefits are payable to a veteran beyond 10 years following the date of last discharge or release from active duty.

Q — If I encounter legal difficulties while purchasing a home using the GI Bill, will the Veterans Administration provide or pay for any legal assistance I may need?

A — No. VA will provide neither legal assistance nor advice, nor will the agency pay for any legal assistance a veteran obtains to deal with troubles encountered in the purchase or construction of a home.

Q — I received an income questionnaire with my November Veterans Administration pension check. Why am I required to complete and return it?

A — Your continuing eligibility to pension and the amount of your pension are determined from your total income. Income questionnaires are sent out annually to enable the Veterans Administration to verify correct payment. If VA does not receive the questionnaire by January 1, pension will be suspended.

Low-cost life insurance (up to $10,000) is available for veterans with service-connected disabilities. All Veterans Administration regional offices nationwide can provide interested parties with all the important details.

VFW Auxiliary Makes Donation To Hospital

Thief River Falls VFW auxiliary, under the hospital rehabilitation committee chairmanship of Mrs. Otto Myhrer, recently purchased therapy equipment for the occupational therapy department of Northwestern hospital. The equipment can and already has been used at Northwestern hospital by a variety of patients who have difficulty with communications, fine and gross eye-hand coordination, arm and hand weakness, visual impairment and lack of mental stimulation.

The portable unit has a variety of kits in it that can be used in various phases of rehabilitation, including occupational speech and recreational therapy. The patient can improve his eye-hand coordination, arm or hand strength by writing, tracing or playing a therapeutic game on an adjustable transparent writing surface.

The patient uses an erasable marker to write or trace over given forms which are designed to have a patient use certain muscle movements or mental stimulation. After a patient has completed his assigned task, the clear plastic is erased and another assignment or therapy sheet can be inserted.

Art Heinze, director of occupational therapy at Northwestern hospital, expressed his sincere thanks to the Thief River Falls VFW auxiliary for the donation to the occupational therapy program.

Thief River Falls VFW auxiliary earns its funds by conducting various fund-raising projects. In addition to the therapy equipment donation, the VFW auxiliary also assists veterans at the Fargo Veteran's administration, helps needy families of veterans, donates money to the Veteran's administration for gifts at Easter and Christmas, as well as numerous other services to assist the needy.

Review Insurance To Meet Health Care Costs

Costs of medical care are rising at nearly 1 per cent a month, according to the Consumer Price Index. To hold down the costs of taking care of yourself, the Minnesota Society of Certified Public Accountants (CPAs) suggests you review your insurance policies to be sure they are keeping pace with inflation. You may also want to investigate alternative forms of medical and dental care, such as Health Maintenance Organizations and dental centers.

Insurance does not pay for everything, but to cover as many medical expenses as possible many people have both basic protection and major medical policies. Basic protection can pay all or some of the costs of hospitalization, including a room, nursing services, surgeon's fees, drugs and lab tests.

It's a good idea to have a policy that pays toward the costs of diagnostic tests done in a doctor's office, as well as in the hospital. Check your policy (or one you are considering) to find out how long a hospital stay the basic protection covers; what percentage (or "inside limits") of the cost of a hospital room and other services will the insurance company pay? Or does the policy have "service benefits," meaning that services will be paid in full, based on reasonable charges? If you pay $200 a day for a hospital room and insurance will only pay $100, you are left with $100 per day to pay for. Find out if the policy pays any of the costs for prescription drugs.

A major medical policy takes over where basic protection leaves off. Once you pay a certain amount, called the deductible, the policy will start picking up the medical costs. The deductible is often $100 each year, but it can be $1,000 or more. Generally, the higher the deductible, the less expensive the policy.

Most major medical policies pay 75 to 80 per cent of costs above the deductible. For example, your basic protection pays $500 or your $6,500 hospital bill. After you pay a $100 deductible, the major medical policy pays 80 per cent (or $4,720) of the remaining $5,900. You would pay the $1,180 that is left. Total paid out of your pocket: $1,280.

Examine your policy to determine if once you pay a certain amount, say $1,500, the insurer will pay for everything else. Some policies limit the amount they will pay over a year or over your lifetime. To have adequate protection, you should have a policy that provides a lifetime maximum of around $250,000.

No matter how comprehensive a policy, you will still have to pay for some medical expenses. Blue Cross no longer pays for routine tests given when you enter the hospital, unless they are requested by your doctor. Before you go to the hospital, discuss with your doctor how necessary the tests are. If a test is not vital, and will not be covered by insurance, you and your physician may agree that it could be eliminated.

When your doctor writes a prescription for you, ask if a generic drug may be substituted for the brand-name one. If the doctor agrees, then ask the pharmacist to fill the prescription with the generic drug.

An alternate to traditional insurance policies is a Health Maintenance Organization (HMO). Here, you pay a monthly charge for a variety of medical services, such as routine care, emergency services, dentistry, and maternity care. Individuals can pay about $40 to $50 a month as a member of an HMO, while the charge for families averages $110 to $120 per month. Your fee may include some sort of hospitalization coverage, and coverage for prescriptions and eyeglasses.

Members of HMOs generally pay 10 to 40 per cent less for their medical care than do those with conventional health insurance. One disadvantage to an HMO is that you might not always see the same doctor. Before you decide whether or not to join an HMO, be sure you know exactly how much you will be paying and what services are included, and compare these fees and benefits with those of health insurance plans, CPAs say.

You can also save 15 to 50 per cent of dental expenses by investigating dental centers, often located in department stores and shopping malls. Compare the fees and qualifications of the dentists with those of private dentists in the same area. Even though you save money, as with HMOs, you may not be able to develop a one-on-one relationship with a single doctor.

And finally, CPAs say, don't forget to budget for health care. Even with adequate insurance coverage, you may be paying for part of the cost, so calculate an average quarterly amount based on past experience. Frequently, medical costs must first be paid by you with the insurance company reimbursing you later. This can cause a cash flow problem which can play havoc with your budget if you don't plan ahead, CPAs say.

Council Gives Consideration To Sjoberg's

that his proposed addition was intended for use by senior citizens, who found most other rental units unsuitable due to their decreased mobility.

"I had 91 people on a waiting list for my other units this spring," he said. Gunderson added he currently had 35 on his waiting list and was turning away one or two a week. Council approved the zoning change, and also approved a preliminary plat to build four eight-plex apartment buildings on the site.

Chris Twomey of the Occupational Development center (ODC) requested signs designating no parking between the curb cuts, allowing access to the parking lot and in front of the overhead doors along the west side of Davis avenue. He explained that they frequently had patients who needed to load and unload wheelchairs in front of the building, and that cars parking in the area could cause a safety hazard.

Alderman Penning opposed the request on the grounds that the frontage requested (estimated at 50 feet by Twomey) was excessive. Police Chief Kenneth Froschheiser suggested that since most of the parking was being used by patrons of the Eagles club, that hours or time limits be established for parking. After considerable discussion, Twomey's request for "no parking between signs" markers was granted.

In other business the council:

—Accepted the offer of Northern Eagle Airways to pay $125 per month instead of the $200 per month which was paid by National Car Rental for the franchise agreement on rental cars at the airport. The lowered fee was approved on the grounds that Northern Eagle Airways was no longer using the desk or parking stalls at the airport, as well as the fact that business was slow at the airport.

—Requested city attorney Robert Wurst to contact the Public Service commission regarding Inter-City Gas' notice of a rate increase.

—Rescheduled a hearing on Highway 59 south frontage road improvements for Tuesday, October 20.

—Approved a dance permit for the Jaycees to hold an outdoor dance following the fiddler's contest, and a teen dance at the curling club, both on September 5.

—Agreed to relieve Dale Wennberg of any liability on about two acres of his property which the city uses for a motocross track.

—Approved a progression raise for Madelyn Vigen to $1,112 per month.

—Approved a request from city planner Jack Quinlivan to have a professional traffic engineer do a study on speed limits for various thoroughfares.

—Set a special meeting for 7 p.m. Tuesday, September 1 to review the final draft of a proposed city traffic flow plan.

—Passed an ordinance adopting the Minnesota building code.

—Discussed the need for a better identification system on rural fire calls following a meeting August 13 with Silverton township board members and residents.

—Granted permission to the Red Lake volunteer fire department to solicit funds within the city.

—Granted an arborist license to Heaton's Tree Service, as set forth in ordinance 51.

—Passed a resolution appointing Robert Jablinske to replace Alvin Jablinske as sanitation commissioner.

—Approved public safety committee recommendations to remove the 30 minute parking zone from in front of Pennington Hotel; extend two hour parking zone to include the west half of 200 block on W. Third street; remove the loading zone sign by Poppler's furniture on second street; establish one hour parking on both sides of Zeh street west from the tracks to Main avenue; establish a handicapped zone and one hour zone in front of the school district service center; and establish a no parking zone on first street across from the hospital.

ONE OF EIGHT candidates competing for the title of Miss Brooks for 1981 is Tammie Tvedt, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Tvedt of rural Plummer. Tammie has been involved in cheerleading while attending Plummer high school. Her hobbies include swimming, riding bike, and riding a three-wheeler. She is sponsored in the competition by the Cozy Bar. Miss Brooks for 1981-82 will be honored at the Blast to Brooks celebration September 12. Sunday School Rally Day Set at Oak Ridge

Sunday, September 13, at 10 a.m. Sunday school classes will hold an organizational meeting at Oak Ridge church, according to Supt. Gary Page. If you are new to this neighborhood, or have children that did not attend last year but would like to attend this fall, please contact him as soon as possible. Confirmation classes will begin the following Wednesday evening, Sept. 16. For details, contact Pastor Bob Moberg in Viking.

There was a packed house Sunday evening, August 23, when family night was held at Oak Ridge church. Featured were the Wernberg-Erickson children band and a humorous, but thought-provoking, skit presented by some of the ladies from Viking. Coffee and refreshments were enjoyed during the social hour which followed. The next family night is scheduled for September 27, and will feature another musical group, the King's Men, from Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Wavil Erickson and Matthew of Thief River Falls were Sunday visitors at the Melville Bakken home.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnt Dahlen of Dahlen, N.D., arrived Saturday at the home of Mrs. Edith Dyrdal. She then accompanied them to visit with Nels Dyrdal at the CNC unit of Northwestern hospital, and with Mrs. Dyrdal during her work break. Later they were pie and ice cream guests at the Daryl Lewis home, and visitors at the Don Dyrdal home. The Dahlens were Edith's overnight guests and attended worship services with her the following morning, after which they enjoyed dinner together with Mrs. Ernest Melvie Sr. and Darleen of Viking, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Hugg and Jeffrey, and Ollie Urdahl in Thief River Falls. After visiting at the Don Dyrdal home again Sunday afternoon, they joined the Hugg family at the Melvie home in Viking for a light supper before the Dahlens returned home.

Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Werre of Lodi, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Jim Heifort of Moorhead and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bradley were Saturday visitors at the Pete Bradley home. Visitors that evening were Mr. and Mrs. Mike Burkel, Miss Mable Christofferson and Mrs. Florence Frankenberger. Mrs. Werre and Mrs. Heifort are Pete's sisters, and the Werres have been spending three weeks in this area while visiting other sisters in Moorhead.

Mrs. Kendall Jensen visited Friday afternoon with Mrs. Ron Rondorf in St. Hilaire. The previous Wednesday forenoon she had visited with Mrs. Lydia Olson in Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Lloyd Dyrdal, Jason, Melissa and Brent visited Friday at the Melville Bakken home.

Bill Hoglo was a Saturday afternoon visitor and coffee guest at the Daryl Lewis home.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Solseng, Heidi and Tracy of Fargo, ND arrived Friday to visit at the Ester and Martin Solseng homes. Mr. and Mrs. Gary Page and Brandon of Thief River Falls also visited with them during the weekend. Elton and family left again Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Langaas were Sunday coffee guests at the Norval Johnson home in Thief River Falls after visiting with Mrs. Amanda Langaas at Valley Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Olson visited Friday evening at the Alvin Jablinske home in Sanders.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Allerson, Lori and Charles of Anoka arrived Friday evening to spend the weekend at her parental Charles Sorenson home. Charles accompanied them to Winnipeg on a sight-seeing trip Sunday, and they enjoyed a picnic dinner at Lake Winnipeg. The Allersons were accompanied by Mrs. Mae Maidment of Thief River Falls when they returned home Monday.

Leonard Olson was a Thursday evening coffee guest at the Daryl Lewis home.

Mrs. Marion Hoglo accompanied Mrs. Marvin Olson and Kelli of Rocksbury to Warren Thursday morning, where they picked up Mrs. Wallace Lamb, Kathy, Nancy and John, before continuing on to Grand Forks to shop. While there they also met Mrs. Vernon Hecht of East Grand Forks for noon luncheon.

Friday evening a group of senior citizens from Skylite apartments went to the Johnson boarding home in Thief River Falls to sing. Prior to the concert, Mrs. Johnson served the group a picnic supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Solem and Cindi were Sunday evening luncheon guests at the Elton Underdahl home in Newfolden.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dyrdal, Lynn, Rog, Jeri, Bryce and April spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Nels Dyrdal in Thief River Falls.

Karla Nygard was a Thursday afternoon coffee guest of Mrs. Edith Dyrdal. Mrs. Alvin Nygard was also a brief caller later in the afternoon.

Mrs. Andy Hjelle of Newfolden was a Thursday overnight guest at the home of her daughter, the Melville Bakkens.

Douglas Green returned home August 17 from National Guard training in Georgia. Doug is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Green.

Sammi Hjelle of Newfolden spent Saturday overnight and Sunday at the Duane Olson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Grundhaus of Thief River Falls were Sunday evening visitors at the Inar Mikkelson home.

Mrs. Dennis Green, Mindy and Meridith and Mrs. Ray Soiney left Friday for Minneapolis to visit at the Tim (Debbie Green) Sollid home and did some shopping. They returned Sunday evening.

Michael Lamb of Warren was a Friday breakfast guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Marion Hoglo. Also visiting with him there later that morning were Mrs. Ron Rondorf and David and Jimmy Hoglo of St. Hilaire, and Mrs. Gary Hoglo and Jacki.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Dahl of Newfolden were a week ago Monday evening visitors at the Roger Solem home.

Mrs. LaVern Hamre of Numedal was a late Sunday afternoon coffee guest at the Daryl Lewis home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Olson and Tricia spent Friday evening and overnight at the Wayne Hannon home at the Grand Forks air base, returning Saturday morning.

Merle Nelson and Wayne Nelson were Monday dinner guests and Merle, Wayne, Randy Swenson and Lloyd Pederson were Tuesday dinner guests at the Burt Lane home.

Congratulations to Mrs. Marvin Bakken, who won a cassett player in the KKAQ bumper sticker contest this past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Olson were Sunday evening coffee guests at the Donald Olson home.

MN. News Council Forum For Debate

Should the news media, in an effort to get the "scoop", endanger the life of a kidnap victim? Should newspapers publich a press release from an advocacy group without attributing the source? Should a paper publich unofficial charges affecting a person's reputation without giving the accused a chance to respond?

Minnesota has a forum to address such important journalistic questions. The Minnesota News council, established 10 years ago, is an independent, non-governmental review board which hears complaints about accuracy, access and fairness in news reporting. Its 24 members drawn equally from the public and the news media listen to grievances about newspapers and broadcast stations.

In the three cases above, the council decided that a large metropolitan newspaper's presence during a ransom drop was not responsible journalism; that 32 weekly newspapers should have reported the source of the release so that their readers could better judge the credibility of the information; and that a metropolitan community newspaper should have given the accused an opportunity to be heard.

Before the council will act, the complainant must waive the right to legal or governmental action against the news medium. The council is an alternative, not a supplement, to legal or governmental action.

The council begins its work by requesting a written response from both parties. If necessary, the council will hold a hearing. Testimony from both sides then becomes the basis for a council determination. The council cannot penalize news organizations or impose sanctions to enforce its determinations, but council hearings are effective because of the publicity they generate. Many broadcast stations and newspapers report council findings regardless of the outcome.

Complaints are sometimes resolved before the hearing stage. Earlier this year, a man was angered by a daily newspaper's account of a pending lawsuit against him. At the urging of the council, and in compliance with the council's first procedural requirement, the complainant discussed the matter with the paper. As a result, the paper printed an article about his complaint clearing up mistakes made in the first story.

Any individual, group or organization may use the council's services. Not every media issue, however, falls within the council's purview. The council will not deal with advertising content, nor will it consider argument over editorial comment — unless the facts are in dispute.

Each case that comes before the council is reviewed on an independent basis. Sometimes what the media has done is validated. For example, when a metropolitan television station's coverage of local officials drew controversy, the council upheld the station's use of media time. In fact, the station was commended for its "determination to cover the affairs of an important and powerful public body."

Last year, 90 complaints were processed by the council. Complaints against newspapers have been heard since the council's inception in 1971. Broadcasters were included under the council's purview in 1977.

But the Minnesota News council is more than a vehicle for airing complaints. It is an arena where news gatherers and news consumers are brought together to study the process of "getting a story out" and the effects of that story on the public. In this arena, a better public understanding is gained for the complexities and pressures of the news business. Journalists, too, become better informed about public expectations.

Supported completely by contributions from the public (corporations, foundations, associations and individuals) and news media in Minnesota, the council is a non-profit organization.

No fees are charged for the council's services; just a little time is required. For more information, write or call the Minnesota News Council, Box 14147, Minneapolis, MN 55414-0147 (telephone: 612-376-7102).

Safety Tips For Cyclists, Drivers Given

Looking for trouble?

Experienced motorcyclists make a practice of looking for trouble on the road ahead of them. Because they look well ahead, they give themselves plenty of time to adjust to problems like slippery spots, bad bumps, broken pavement, loose gravel, wet leaves or objects on the road. They are especially alert for cars that may not be aware of their presence.

Automobile drivers are not always as aware as they should be for the presence of motorcyclists with whom they share the road. This "untrained eyesight" can be dangerous for the motorist and especially the motorcyclist, who is not as well-protected, according to Minnesota AAA. Crash studies show that cyclists are five times more likely to suffer serious injuries than people riding in any other type of vehicle. Minnesota AAA adds that most motorcycle accidents occur because an automobile driver fails to see the motorcyclist or sees him-her too late to avoid a collision.

Cyclists need to make an extra effort to make sure that motorists see them. Just as important, says Minnesota AAA, is the necessity for car drivers to heighten their awareness of cyclists. Knowledge of the motorcycle and the capabilities of its driver would prevent hundreds of accidents each year.

Minnesota AAA says novice cyclists also need to know their own and their machines' capabilities. According to the Motorcycle Safety Foundation, the fact that 75 per cent of motorcycle accidents involve riders who have less than six months' riding experience illustrates the need for development and implementation of high quality rider education programs.

Minnesota AAA and the Motorcycle Safety Foundation offer these tips for cars and motorcycles to share the road safely:

For automobile drivers:

+ When on the highway, give the cyclists a full lane, as a driver would another car.

+A motorcycle cannot stop as quickly as a car because it is a lighter vehicle. Give the cyclist enough room to brake and stop safety. Learn to recognize hazards which the motorcyclist must avoid, such as loose gravel, wet pavement, oil slicks and objects in the road.

+ Make a specific effort to look for a cycle when making a left turn. Intersections are the most likely places for motorcycle accidents to occur.

+ Although many motorcyclists avoid driving in a motorist's "blind spot," always turn and check over the shoulder before making a lane change.

+ When driving at night, dim lights early. Glare from headlights on a cyclist's goggles or face shield is severe.

For motorcyclists:

+ Be sure motorists see you. Wear reflective or bright clothing and drive with the headlight on. If necessary, use your horn.

+Automobile drivers are not always aware of the hazards a cyclist faces. Always try to clearly indicate to him-her what you intend to do. Signal to him-her when you must slow down for sand, gravel, water and other road hazards.

+Stay out of the auto driver's "blind spot." Your best defense is his-her knowing you are present.

Nothing a motorcyclist does will guarantee that others will see him-her. The only eyes they can really count on are their own. Motorcyclists and motorists should always "look for trouble" — not get into it, but to stay out of it.

City, 681-3897

House guests at the Eldon Moe and Mrs. Ethel Moe homes from August 5-10 were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Blocklinger of Concordia, Kan.

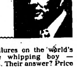
Friday, Aug. 14 Mrs. Bernice Vatsaas, Mrs. Ida Omlid, Mrs. Ethel Moe and Mrs. Hannah Kisch enjoyed a trip with the Senior Citizen bus to Bagley where they all visited the museum and to Bemidji where they had dinner at the Depot Restaurant and also had time for some shopping.

Solems Return From Trip To Norway

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem returned home Wednesday, Aug. 19 from a trip to Norway sponsored by their children as an early 50th wedding anniversary gift. They left by charter flight from Minneapolis, Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 5 and arrived at the Gardemoen Airport, 40 miles north of downtown Oslo the next morning, due to time zone changes. They were accompanied by their sons, Stuart Solem of Grand Rapids and Rev. Kermit Solem of Rothsay, who made all the arrangements during the trip. A cousin met them at the airport and the first few days were spend in the Eidsvoll area where Alfred's father lived before coming to America. Highlights of their trip were visits to "Eidsvoll Bygningen", where the Constitution of Norway had been written in 1814, a voyage on Lake Mjosa, the largest lake in Norway, by a paddle steamer between Eidsvoll and Lillehammer, museums at Hamar and Elverum and the famous outdoor Gustav Vigeland Museum in Oslo with its 1650 sculptures and other attractions, a two-day Viking Panorama Fjord tour from Bergan to Laerdal and from Laerdal to Oslo by motorcoach and by fjord steamer, which included a visit to a 12th century wooden "Stave" church, a drive above the timberline in reindeer country and a cruise on the Naeroy Fojrd and the Sogne Fjord. The Solems also visited the Orje area, south of Fredericksdalen, where Alfred's mother had lived. They met several relatives, the weather was usually sunny and all in all, a life-time dream of finding roots has materialized, thanks to the Solem's children.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Halvorson accompanied by Mrs. Hulda Elden of Oslo were overnight guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. ElRoy Enervold at Langdon a week ago Friday, Aug. 14 and enjoyed visiting with the Enervold's guests from Norway.

Mrs. Ethel Moe, Mrs. Bernice Vatsaas and Mrs. Hannah Kisch accompanied Mrs. Harlan Hallstrom of St. Hilaire to Winnipeg where they spent Tuesday and Wednesday last week.



THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Why Should Business Care?

I spoke recently to a businessman who, in his frustration over the excessive red tape and regulation which entangle his company, threw up his hands and asked me, "Why should I even concern myself with this? I'll just do what the government wants and pass the costs on to my customers."

Why should business care? This is a question that every member of the business community should ask himself at one time or another. Why should we be leading the fight to reduce the burden of taxes and regulations on the American people, when we could simply pass those costs on to them?

There are many reasons why the business community does and should care. Here are just a few:

You Can't Pass a Jail Term Onto Your Customers

On a very practical level, business wants to comply with regulations because they are part of the law of the land — laws which carry civil and criminal penalties for the failure to comply. I have talked to many law-abiding business people who are concerned and even fearful that somehow they may be breaking the law by inadvertently overlooking some obscure requirement they don't know about or don't understand.

We Live in an Interdependent World

Excessive regulations isn't the only reason why foreign producers are gobbling up ever increasing shares of our markets at home and abroad, but it is a major one. Inflating the prices of our products to compensate for the $100 billion regulatory price tag on our economy may not affect the relative position of two American companies because both are subject to these costs. But how about the foreign competitor who isn't and thus, can offer a comparable product for a lower price? American consumers are often left with no choice but to purchase cheaper foreign-made products.

To Some, Every Profit Is a "Windfall"

As excessive government spending, taxes and regulation have slowed our productivity growth and fueled inflation, the politicians who promoted these policies have not hestitated to blame their failures on the world's favorite whipping boy — business. Their answer? Price and profit controls such as those proposed by Sen. Kennedy in his 1980 presidential campaign. Should a future Administration be able to convince the American people that such controls are the answer, business would be caught in a terrific squeeze: A growing tax and regulatory burden on the one hand, but no right to match those increased production costs with price increases. This nightmare alone is reason enough for the business community to be involved on a daily basis in educating people and politicians as to the real culprits of inflation.

Waste is Wrong

The Bible teaches you that, and so did your mother and your Aunt Mathilda! Part of the American character, as it has developed in a free enterprise environment, is to fight waste and inefficiency. Business people take price in being problem solvers, carefully weighing costs against benefits to produce the best possible product or provide the best possible service at the lowest cost. After all, we are consumers too! To resign ourselves to accepting a built-in layer of wasted resources and effort, even if price increases could produce the same bottom line, is offensive to most members of the business community.

Shortly after taking office in 1977, President Jimmy Carter ordered his Cabinet officers and agency heads to personally read all the rules and regulations their staffs promulgated. The order was later discarded because the officials found that there weren't enough hours in the day to read all the requirements. But the business community has to live with these regulations every day, and divert resources that could otherwise be used for expansion, modernization and the creation of jobs to meet the nonproductive whims of government regulators. No one is suggesting that the federal government should have no regulatory role to play in our economy. But with 56 million words of fine print federal rules now on the books, few would disagree that the government has far exceeded the bonds of common sense and and propriety. The result is a tremendous and unnecessary cost which escapes no member of our society.

You bet business cares — and so should all Americans.

STEINER . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gustafson, Stacy, Susan and Tony attended the open house at the Viking Covenant church Sunday afternoon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Halward Anderson's 25th wedding anniversary. In the evening they were among the guests at a pot luck supper at the Wallace Hanson home of Viking in honor of the August birthdays of Clarence Gustafson, Sandi and Julie Gustafson and Jon and Nancy Hanson. Stacy and Susan stayed overnight at the Hanson home.

Family Night At Oak Ridge Lutheran Church

Mrs. Ethel Moe, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Moe and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem attended family night at the Oak Ridge Lutheran church Sunday evening. The excellent program emceed by Mrs. Egbert Malberg of Viking included several musical selections, both instrumental and vocal by the Erickson twin boys and the Wernberg youngsters, a skit by women of the Viking ALCW and remarks by Pastor Robert Moberg. Lunch was served following the program.

At the last report from Gary Halvorson and his three bicycle-riding companions they were at Dawson Creek in British Columbia and were happy to have covered the hilly roads of the Alcan Highway. Their plans are to go by way of Bismarck, Grand Forks and to Bemidji where their bicycle journey from Anchorage terminates.

Mrs. Angeline Larson spent all last week at her trailer home at Pinehurst Resort at Twin Lakes near Mahnomen.

Marvin and Carol Yonke of East Grand Forks spent the past weekend at the home of his folks, the Leonard Yonkes. Mr. and Mrs. James Kosmatka, Brian, April and Sheri Ann of Grafton arrived at the Yonke home Sunday forenoon and were house guests until Thursday.

THE CANTILEVER BRIDGE

The best way to replace a missing tooth (or teeth) is by anchoring the artificial replacements to natural teeth on both sides - just like a bridge over a river is supported on both shores.

There are some specific situations, however, where a bridge can be attached to only one adjacent tooth. This is called a cantilevered bridge. Such a bridge is most often found in the front of the mouth. Back teeth, used for grinding and subject to tremendous strain (often over 300 pounds per square inch) are poorer risks for the cantilever bridge. The front teeth, used for cutting, suffer much less pressure (about 75 pounds per square inch).

Since front teeth are not employed for grinding, they can more readily chance carrying the load of the replacement tooth with only one tooth supporting it.

However, cantilever bridges are occasionally used in the back of the mouth, mostly when the missing tooth is the farthest tooth back. The dentist may attach it to two, three or even four teeth in front of the space (the more supporting teeth, the stronger the cantilever) to support it.

Public Notices

Card of Thanks

A sincere thanks to the many friends, relatives and neighbors for the many cards, gifts and flowers and assistance we received when Kenneth Dahl died unexpectedly.

Thanks to Rev. Charles Gunderson for officiating and to Mrs. Omer Nesland for the message in song. Thanks to the pallbearers, thanks to the VFW Post 2793 for military rites, and those who helped at the Ebenezer Cemetery.

Thanks to those who brought food to our home and lunch at the church after the committal. Thanks to the Green Funeral home for their service and guidance.

May God bless you all.

Arthur, Olga, Ole, Oscar and Eddie Olson

Card of Thanks

I would like to say thank you for the benefit dance which was put on for me in Highlanding.

Special thanks to the Dick Miller band for the good music and also to Mr. and Mrs. Mayer Holen and Mr. and Mrs. Erling Dahlen for arranging the dance and also serving lunch. Thanks to everyone who came and who have remembered me these past six months. Your thoughtfulness has been very much appreciated.

Thune, deceased; Minnie Gutterud; the unknown heirs of Minnie Gutterud, deceased; Myrtle Amundrud; Melvin Gutterud; Raymond Gutterud; Rosanna Johnsrud; Theodore Gutterud; the unknown heirs of Theodore Gutterud, deceased; Mary Gutterud; Delores Burger; David Gutterud; also all other persons unknown claiming any right, title, estate, interest or lien in the real estate described in the Complaint herein, Defendants.

SUMMONS

THE STATE OF MINNESOTA TO THE ABOVE NAMED DEFENDANTS:

You are hereby summoned and required to serve upon plaintiffs' attorney an answer to the Complaint which is on file in the office of the Clerk of the above named Court, within twenty (20) days after service of this Summons upon you, exclusive of the day of service. If you fail to do so, judgment by default will be taken against you for the relief demanded in the Complaint.

This action involves, affects, or brings in question real property situated in the County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit:

The North One-half of River Street South of Lots One (1) and Two (2) in Block Four (4) of Park Addition to Thief River Falls; the South One-half of River Street between Lot Two (2) of Block Four (4) and Lot Five (5) in Block Five (5) in Park Addition to Thief River Falls; the South One-half of River Street bounded by lines as follows, beginning at the Northeast corner of Lot 5 in Block 5 of Park Addition to Thief River Falls; running thence due East 25 feet, running thence due North 25 feet, running thence due West 25 feet and running thence due South to the Northeast corner of said Lot 5 in Block 5 in Park Addition to Thief River Falls.

The object of this action is to obtain a judgment that plaintiffs are the owners in fee of the above described real property as follows:

That Helen Christensen, Edwin R. Christensen and Jerry L. Wedul, as joint tenants, are the owners in fee of the North One-half of River Street lying South of that part of Lot One (1) of Block Four (4) of Park Addition to Thief River Falls lying East of a line drawn 25 feet West of and parallel with the East boundary line of Oak Avenue projected Northward to the Red Lake River;

Plastech Research, Inc. is the owner in fee of the North One-half of River Street lying South of Lot Two (2) and the westerly 35 feet of Lot One (1) in Block Four (4) of Park Addition to Thief River Falls;

Jerry L. Wedul as Personal Representative of the Joanne Wedul Estate is the owner in fee of the South One-half of River Street between Lot Two (2) of Block Four (4) and Lot Five (5) in Block Five (5) of Park Addition to Thief River Falls and the South One-half of River Street bounded by lines as follows, beginning at the Northeast Corner of Lot Five (5) in Block Five (5) in Park Addition to Thief River Falls, running thence due East 25 feet, running thence due North 25 feet, running thence due West 25 feet and running thence due South to the Northeast corner of said Lot Five (5) in Block Five (5) in Park Addition to Thief River Falls; subject to a contract for deed from Jerry L. Wedul, as personal representative of the Joanne Wedul Estate, to Donald D. Barron, Darby J. Barron and Jean M. Barron, which contract for deed is dated July 9, 1981, and was recorded in Book 171 of Records at Page 632 in the office of the Pennington County Recorder; and that none of the said defendants have any estate or interest therein or lien thereon.

Senior Citizens News

Thursday, Aug. 20 was another busy day at our center. We fluffed up Arctic scraps for stuffing more bed pillows and ends were sewn up. Some owl fridge ornaments were started and we will try to finish them another Thursday. Inga Johnson came to help figure out the amount of cloth we will be needing to complete the bird quilt we are trying to get finished.

There were 16 that registered in our record book Thursday. We missed Gust and Amanda Johnson, also Ruth Anderson. Clara Nelson of Karlstad was our only guest as we consider Inga and Oscar Johnson still with our group.

Four door prizes were given away. Ruth Harper received Irene's, Hulda Stromberg received Mildred's, Louis Lofstrom received Clara's and Inga received Mabel Borsvold's.

Mildred and Ruth Harper attended a Senior Citizens picnic together with other Senior Citizen clubs at the Old Mill State park Wednesday.

Polly Stalock was our hostess on Thursday.

The Peridot
GENUINE BIRTHSTONE FOR AUGUST
Only by night and on royal authority could search be made in ancient times for the Peridot. It was said to bring eloquence and persuasiveness, to repel the terrors of the night and when set in gold, to exert great power over evil spirits. The Peridot was much treasured by the Crusaders. Its promise is married happiness.

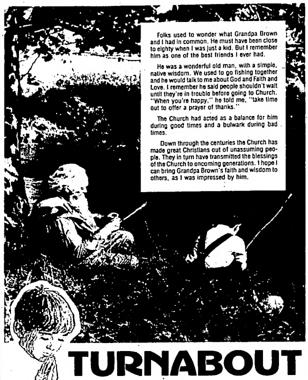
"The Church That Really Cares"

Donald E. Poros, Pastor
Davo Finsaus, Youth Pastor



Folks used to wonder what Grandpa Brown and I had in common. He must have been close to eighty when I was just a kid. But I remember him as one of the best friends I ever had.

He was a wonderful old man, with a simple, native wisdom. We used to go fishing together and he would talk to me about God and Faith and Love. I remember he said people shouldn't wait until they're in trouble before going to Church. "When you're happy," he told me, "take time out to offer a prayer of thanks."

The Church had acted as a balance for him during good times and a bulwark during bad times.

Down through the centuries the Church has made great Christians out of unassuming people. They in turn have transmitted the blessings of the Church to oncoming generations. I hope I can bring Grandpa Brown's faith and wisdom to others, as I was impressed by him.

Do Romance Novels Offer Escape To 'Real' Life?

by Pat Kaszuba
'U' News Service

As she read, her soft lips trembled in anticipation, and when at long last she knew that Kate had captured the heart of the dark and brooding Damien Savage, her eyes filled with tears of joy.

As she closed the cover of the thin volume, she yearned for more. Yet she did not worry for she knew that the next Harlequin novel would take her away from the piles of laundry, dreary typing and the other drudgeries that fill her days.

But what, besides escape from an unexciting life, is she seeking? And what is she getting?

For one thing she and the 10 million other women who read Harlequin novels are being told over and over that the ways of the "traditional woman" lead to a happy life and a successful marriage, according to Mariam Frenier, a history professor at the University of Minnesota at Morris.

"Harlequins give lessons which indicate that if a woman is loving and patient and changes her behavior to suit her man — that if she is 'traditional' — he will cease to be sardonic, cruel, distant and strange (the hallmark of Harlequin heroes)," Frenier said. "In this, Harlequin tells wives that if they behave like battered women they will obtain and keep a good marriage."

Frenier, who teaches a course in gender role socialization, said she thinks women look to romantic novels for support of their ideas of how love and marriage should work. "Harlequins offer an explanation of and cure for the frustrations of modern marriage," she said. "Specifically I think the reader is getting guidelines on how to cope with marriage to a stranger in a world in which men and women are not only socialized to be as different as possible from each other, but also to have very different expectations of marriage."

Frenier began to examine romantic fiction a few years ago when she decided to trace the development of antifeminist attitudes among women. "I chose to look for the traditional image in the obvious place — the American media. While those media have been castigated by feminists for the way they portray women, there have been no studies that concentrate on the elements in media portrayal which make the traditional role alluring," she said.

"Although television is our most important medium . . . I decided to look at novels rather than at television because the latter is so heavily controlled by the major networks that consumers have relatively little choice in programming," she said.

While the basic formula for Harlequin novels has remained the same over the years, some of the books are getting sexier as a result of the 1960s sexual revolution, Frenier said her findings indicate.

In 1973 the Canadian publisher Harlequin Enterprises began marketing a series of more sophisticated, sexier books called "Harlequin Presents." And to keep its established audience satisfied, the tamer "Harlequin Romance" novels are published at the rate of a dozen every month.

In both types of Harlequin novels, the formula dictates the plot: girl meets man; girl gets man; girl loses man; and girl gets man for keeps.

Notice it is "girl" instead of "woman." That's because the formula dictates the hero to be older, more worldly and sophisticated, more experienced sexually, and richer, according to Frenier.

It is essential in romantic novels for men to have superficial power over women because women are seen as having the most powerful of weapons — their sexuality. "Women (in the novels) have to be so weak and so young and so all-that-stuff because if they had equal status, women would be much more powerful," she said. "In fact in these novels sexually attractive women are so powerful they must be controlled by extremely dominant men and their power must be undercut as much as possible."

Harlequin heroines are so innocent they are usually unaware they are using their powerful artillery. "While portrayed as powerless, usually small, young and naive . . . they often cause their heroes to lust, force their heroes to love, inflict pain upon their heroes and win their heroes' hands in marriage," Frenier explained.

When it became common knowledge during the 1960s that, yes, women do indeed lust, Harlequins began to admit that maybe, just maybe, so do their heroines — under the proper circumstances, of course.

"The traditional unmarried woman was supposed to be disinterested in sexuality and the virgins in the early 1970s Harlequins were disinterested," she said. "In contrast, the virgins in these new sexier novels lust and their lust is not only central to the novels, but I suspect it is the reason for their rising popularity . . . (but) basically Harlequin heroines still reject premarital sex."

Therefore to hold to the Harlequin tradition, lust can come only in the presence of love. "Lust enters these sexier novels probably because sex sells . . . but if sexual attractiveness triggers a relationship, we need to know its relationship to love; these novels give us the answer," Frenier said.

And what of the stalwart breed that melts at the batting of a young innocent's eyelash? "Seldom are the heroes of women novelists real people," Frenier said. "This is not only true of Harlequins but of the bestsellers I am reading."

In novels by women, heroes have either been devils or angels, she said. In Harlequins they are always devils to be softened by an innocent young woman.

This is made obvious by the "marvelously malevolent" names given to Harlequin heroes, Frenier said. Among her favorites are "Devil Haggard" who is the true love of "Oriel Millstock" and "Damien Savage and Kate Darwood" who we met in the first paragraph.

While reading formula fiction and knowing that even Devil Haggard can be tamed by the right woman may be unappealing to some readers, Harlequin fans like the advance knowledge, Frenier said.

"I think people who read them like the predictibility, they like knowing more than the protaganist," she said. "They like the happy endings; it must be soothing."

No Room For Compromise

Following editorial is from the Wall Street Journal:

With passions in the air controllers' strike rising and the local union leaders starting to go to jail for contempt, organized labor is protesting that President Reagan is out to bust the controllers' union.

There's another way of looking at it. By choosing to go head-to-head with the administration and federal law, the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Union (PATCO) has put itself in the position of trying to bust the Reagan administration. And it should be obvious now, if it wasn't before, that the President simply cannot afford to let that happen, for all sorts of far-reaching reasons that have absolutely nothing to do with relations between the Federal Aviation Administration and PATCO.

Mr. Reagan confronted the controllers fairly and forthrightly. As federal employees that had signed an oath agreeing not to strike, in accordance with a federal law that says "an individual may not accept or hold a position in the government . . . if he participates in a strike against the government." In firing the strikers the President was doing exactly what the law requires.

The President yesterday supported this legal requirement with a philosphical principle, saying, "If ever we feel that our oath of office need not be kept, how long would we have this society?" When put that way, a small strike by only 15,000 federal workers becomes a big issue. And it seems to us about time American Presidents took such stands more often. Politics is indeed the art of compromise but leadership is the art of espousing solid principles and defending them so that others will have a standard to follow. It is a wise President who knows when to do the one and when to do the other.

Organized labor also is confronted with an issue of principle, the knotty question of how much support to give to an illegal strike. Its main response, in addition to the strike-busting charge, has been to claim that the anti-strike law is unjust to federal workers. The American Civil Liberties Union has picked up that theme as well, but surely the lawyers at the ACLU know that the proper place to argue such a point, when the law is so clearly written, is in the Congress, not in the streets. If the labor movement and the public sector unions who now play such a major role in the AFL-CIO intend to employ civil disobedience as a collective bargaining weapon they might do well to first ask themselves how this will go down with a public and Congress that have become increasingly irritated over their demands.

That is not to say that the task of the administration in dealing with the controllers is not unpleasant and messy. A Virginia federal judge yesterday jailed Steven L. Wallart of PATCO Local 291 in Newport News and Norfolk for contempt, making him the first PATCO official to feel the full power of the courts and thus a potential martyr. William Winpisinger, the left-leaning head of the Machinists, has asked his aircraft maintenance workers not to cross PATCO picket lines. If passions continue to rise, labor may yet choose to try to elevate the controllers' struggle into a major contest.

But Lane Kirkland and other cool heads at the AFL-CIO should first give some thought to what the administration has at stake. Mr. Reagan has tried to restore public confidence in presidential policy and repair the erosion that occurred during the zigzags of the Carter administration.

Central to this effort are clarity and constancy of presidential purpose on a whole range of issues with global implications. They include, for example, commitments to rebuild military strength, to restore the dollar to soundness, to cut taxes and regulation, to resist Soviet imperialism, to curb the wild ascent of federal spending. Resisting the demands of a small labor union was not even on the agenda until PATCO chose to try to strong-arm the White House. Now that it has, the symbolism is all too clear.

If the President backs off on what he said he would do — that is to uphold the federal law — both respect for the law and his presidency will suffer. He will be labeled irresolute, unable to stand the heat that labor unions can so effectively apply, another Margaret Thatcher beaten by the public sector in his first year. The underlying fear in this democracy that elected leaders are gradually losing their power to the civil service and the permanent bureaucracy will have another brick of evidence to support it.

The struggle with the controllers may be short or it may be protracted and bitter. But if PATCO is busted as the union leaders fear, its members will have no one to blame but themselves. They have simply chosen to put the President in a position where the losses from compromise would grossly outweigh any gain.

News Council Works

Efforts are again underway in Washington to close some avenues of information to which the public is entitled access. The efforts are being made under the argument that the restrictions are necessary to protect national security, improve law enforcement or preserve business confidentiality.

Many people don't understand the media and the fact that news people are often the representatives of the public in keeping a watchful eye on government at all levels. There is growing distrust of the instant and printed media and a public increasingly willing to accept government control of the press. The attitude and the result are dangerous.

Editor Ken Hickman of the Grand Rapids Herald-Review notes that this state has an organization to help maintain or restore confidence in the integrity of the press. He writes as follows:

Minnesotans are fortunate to have access to the Minnesota News council, a pioneer in the field of offering a sounding board for complaints about the media and for resolving disputes. Formed ten years ago, the council believes that there is room for examination and discussion of media performances by journalists and citizens, without treading on First Amendment rights.

First principle of the council's charter is the preservation of press freedoms. It sharply opposes any government regulation of the press. But it recognizes the possibility for mistakes and damaging misunderstandings and encourages people with complaints to resolve their differences directly with the news organization involved.

Before the council will act the complainant must waive the right to legal or governmental actions against the news media. The council is an alternative — not a supplement — to legal or governmental action. If an effort on the part of the complainant fails to obtain satisfaction from the media, a complaint may be presented to the council. The council has no authority to penalize news organizations or to impose sanctions to enforce its determination. But its hearings generate widespread publicity, and newspapers and radio and TV stations generally report council findings.

Ninety complaints were processed by the council last year. Individuals who have gone through the hearing process have almost without exception praised the fairness and thoroughness of the council even when disagreeing with the final decision. Members of the council are equally divided between the media and the public to assure that all sides are represented.

It is important for the media to make certain that the reading, viewing and listening publics understand the rights, the responsibilities, the problems and limitations of news gathering and dissemination.

This nation's government needs more openness, not less freedom of information. Organizations like the Minnesota News council can urge responsible action by all forms of the media and improve trust and understanding. The media has an awesome responsibility to inform the public. The government should do nothing to make that task more difficult.

Borrowed Nonsense:

"I'm happy to see you have discovered the Word," said the minister when he found a seriously ill lawyer paging through a Bible. "What is it you are looking for?" "Loopholes," the lawyer replied.

1921 — 60 YEARS AGO

Personal Property tax values for 1921 were $325,000 less than in 1920, county auditor T.P. Anderson reported. — A movement was under way to open for settlement 324,000 acres of land south and west of Red Lake. — A new appeal was taken in the Thief River Falls paving bond case, further delaying a start on the project.

NW Regional Commission Okays Plans

Northwest regional development commission met recently at the area vocational technical institute for its first quarterly fiscal year 1982 meeting.

Guest speaker for the evening was John Tubbesing, director of the ride-share program for Minnesota department of transportation. Tubbesing indicated the program was working well in some areas, and in the event of an energy emergency it would be a very important program. He expressed a desire to come to any community to assist in setting up a ride-share program in preparation for an energy emergency which he speculated could hit sometime in the next five years.

The commission adopted a transportation plan for Region I which consists of an inventory of various transportation modes within the region. These include aeronautics, bikeways, pipelines, railroads, highways and transit. Due to the importance of agriculture to the economic base of the region, the overriding concern addressed in the goals and policies adopted in the plan is the efficient and timely movement of agricultural commodities to markets outside the region.

The plan identifies the trunk highways within the region which have been included in a 20-year priority list for reconstruction and resurfacing in order to maintain vital links of the present highway system.

The plan also points out potential changes in the future movement of agricultural commodities as unit train rates which have recently gone into effect for certain grain shipments going to the Twin Ports and the Twin Cities have made the railroads more competitive with trucks for transporting grain from the region to these markets. Potential of the Minnesota ride share program within the region and the need for a regional energy emergency plan was also included in the plan.

Bob Wolfe, district highway engineer, commended the transportation advisory committee on its work on the transportation plan and said "it makes my decision making a lot easier". Wolfe also said "it is imperative that the commission make state decision makers aware of the fact that agricultural commodity movement is the top priority for this area".

Harry Sjulson of St. Hilaire was reelected by the school boards within the region to represent schools on the commission for the next two-year term. He is a member of the Thief River Falls board of education.

The commission approved funding for an evening performance for Thief River Falls of "Teddy Roosevelt" by the Performing Arts Reportory Theatre Co., New York, from the arts block grant funds. Funding was also approved for the "Chore Service Program" operated by Tri-Valley opportunity council. Funding is derived from Title III-B funds from the older Americans act administered by the commission, and provides services designed to help elderly residents of the region remain in their own homes.

Overall economic development plan update for the region was approved, and the commission formed a natural resources advisory committee to aid the commission in dealing with land management planning problems. Members of the committee will be selected from throughout the region who have some expertise or interest in natural resources and land management.

The 1981 annual report of the commission was distributed. Copies will be available on a limited basis at the NWRDC office. Next meeting of the full commission will be held October 27.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT NATURAL GAS
Even though energy costs are going up - experts agree GAS is the customer's best value.
Each gas conversion improves our country's balance of payments. (Each 1,000 gallons of oil reduction at home level can reduce OPEC oil imports by 24 barrels.)
"Admittedly there is a surplus production and surplus oil in storage at the moment. But there is no surplus of oil below ground for the long term. And there is the ever-present possibility of a political upheaval which could remove the aboveground surplus virtually overnight. Consumers worldwide would be well-advised to remember this."

Approximately 200 people enjoyed the ham dinner and entertainment presented by a group of orchestra members from the Oklee community composed of Arlie Brekke, K.B. Knutson and Orlien Rindahl. (Mr. Rindahl is Don Rindahl's dad and is a terrific accordionist). They all played with gusto, vim and vigor and dedicated several numbers to all of the Norwegians present and to all who wish they were Norwegian. Mr. K.B. Knutson, one of the violinists, is well known throughout the area for his skill as a musician and his work with the Minnesota Senior Federation. He took the opportunity to mention the organization and to introduce some of the people. Mrs. Rindahl who accompanied the musicians on the piano was also introduced. Chuck Cheney, Marshall County Auditor, who became known nationally after he organized the first county-wide "People Speak" meetings whose purpose is to promote future growth and development of grass roots participation in the Voice of America. Mr. Cheney was given much favorable publicity as a result of these meetings which became the model for counties throughout the U.S.

The Agassiz Retired Teacher's Organization met at Gatzke on Sunday afternoon. Members from Middle River, Gatzke and Grygla were present. Their next meeting will be on Tuesday, Sept. 22 at Gatzke.

Fruity sweet prunes, carrots and crunchy nuts team up to make this quick bread irresistible.

If you're looking for quick and easy snacking ideas, this tasty Carrot Prune Bread can't be beat. Chock-full of wholesome good flavors and crunchy texture, it's one healthy snack guaranteed to disappear fast.

This tasty quick bread gets its plum sweet flavor from moist and delicious California prunes. If it has been a while since you've enjoyed prunes, you're missing a good bet. Prunes are simply sunripened, juicy plums that have been dried to remove the water. They not only have great taste, but they're a good source of vitamins and minerals, like vitamin A and hard-to-get iron.

Whether you use moist and chewy prunes as a flavorful ingredient, or as a tasty snack right from the package, you'll find they're plum good.

CARROT PRUNE BREAD

2 cups flour
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup (about 6 ounces) coarsely chopped pitted prunes
½ cup shredded coconut
½ cup chopped nuts
2 cups shredded carrots
1 cup vegetable oil
3 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla

In large bowl combine flour, sugar, baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Add prunes, coconut and nuts. Toss to blend thoroughly. Add carrots, oil, eggs and vanilla. Mix just until blended. Turn into greased and floured 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Smooth top. Bake in 350 degree oven about 1 hour and 15 minutes until bread is springy to the touch and begins to pull away from sides of pan. Cool 15 minutes. Turn out onto rack. Wrap while slightly warm. For best flavor, store 24 hours before serving. Makes 1 loaf.

The Norman Liedberg's brought Norman's cousin's wife and daughter to the airport to meet the plane to return to their home in Sweden after spending a couple of weeks with relatives in the Argyle and Goodridge areas.

Dinner guests Sunday at the Neil Liedberg home were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Liedberg and Jim and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dahlen. They also helped Mr. and Mrs. Neil Liedberg celebrate their anniversary. Later that day Mrs. Orlin Hanson came to the Liedberg home with anniversary greetings and was a coffee guest. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hanson and Benji also brought anniversary greetings later in the week to the Liedbergs.

Sunday afternoon guests at the Ruth Liedberg home to bring her belated birthday greetings were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Liedberg and Jim, Helen Lofthus of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Neil Liedberg, Nathan and Sheri.

Nathan Liedberg returned home with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Liedberg to spend the week visiting.

Sunday evening guests at the Dave Dahlen home were Mr. and Mrs. Neil Liedberg and Sheri.

Mr. and Mrs. Tinus Tollefson of Crookston were visitors and lunch guests at the Anne Easthouse home on Tuesday.

Notice

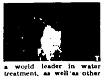
A wedding reception will be held at the Dale Cervin home for Doris Cervin and Jamie Miller August 29 at 3 p.m. No invitations are being sent. All friends and relatives are welcome. If it rains it will be held at the Faith Lutheran church in Goodridge.

Guests at the Dale Hanson home on Wednesday evening were Mrs. Albert Kassa, Mrs. Ernie Swanson and Mrs. Neil Liedberg and Sheri.

The Goodridge senior citizens met Thursday, August 20 with 22 members present. Cards and bingo were played. Sarah Kusmak took blood pressures. Lunch was served by Mr. and Mrs. George Vraa. Door prizes were donated by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Oldrich Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rehm and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hutchinson. Door prizes were won by George Vraa and Sarah Kusmak. Visitors were Flora Phillips of California and Clara Ramstad of Canada. Next meeting will be a pot luck picnic at Cross Lake near Fosston. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson have been spending their summer there taking care of the resort.

What's In It For You???

CHEMICALS KEEP OUR WATER CLEAN AND SAFE



It may surprise you to learn that without chemicals most water would be unfit to drink.

Some chemicals treat drinking water to fight harmful bacteria and germs. Others remove color, taste and odors caused by minute particles suspended in the water.

Impure water is obviously harmful to the human system. In a similar way, it's also destructive to industrial systems where water is used to generate steam, for cooling or to become an integral part of the manufacturing process.

The same things that make water look, taste and smell bad cause problems in manufacturing equipment, too. Chemical treatments by specialists control the formation of scale deposits, corrosion and microbiological fouling. Left untreated, these conditions slow industrial production and result in higher costs of finished materials.

Some of the same chemicals that remove impurities from water for drinking or industrial use help clean water for reuse or return to its source.

Nalco Chemical Company, a world leader in water treatment, as well as other members of the chemical industry provide the products and technical assistance to keep industrial production running and control pollution.

Industry controls and prevents water pollution with wastewater treatment plants. Through new technology and operating procedures, these plants help keep potentially harmful materials from reaching streams and lakes.

The chemical industry was among the first to do something about water pollution. In fact, Nalco began working with industry to remove contaminants from plant discharge streams long before pollution became a national concern.

The chemical industry is committed to continuing to provide modern benefits while protecting people and the environment.

As MN Uranium Rush Slows . . .

'Background' Radiation Studied By Researchers

by Jeanne Hanson
'U' M News Service

As the geat Minnesota uranium rush slows down to await state regulations, moratoria from local governments, and more favorable market conditions for mining companies, University of Minnesota researchers are giving perspective to the issue by studying "background" radiation from the radioactive element.

Background radiation from uranium has been in the earth's rocks, air, and groundwater since the planet was formed, according to Richard Lively, a geochemist at the Minnesota geological survey.

The water wells of Minnesota have radioactivity levels above average for the country as a whole, Lively said. In a survey designed to gather baseline data before any uranium mining occurs, researchers sampled water from 2,000 wells across the state. Levels are found to vary from zero to 26,000 picouries of radiation per liter of groundwater. Not all of the country has been mapped for ambient groundwater radiation this way, he said, but parts of the east coast have registered hundreds of thousands of picocuries.

Radioactivity levels vary across the state in a patchwork pattern: a well may register a level twice as high as another only half a mile away, Lively said. Radioactivity reflects the geology of the area — potentially greater uranium-bearing rock concentrations create greater radioactive seepage into the groundwater.

This radioactivity occurs naturally and has nothing to do with any drilling for Uranium, Lively said. Uranium has a half-life of 4.5 billion years: in that length of time, half of its radioactive atoms pass through all stages of decay and turn into lead, the nonradioactive end product.

Background radioactivity is created by the decay of radon gas into polonium, one of the many stages in the decay of uranium. This byproduct, though it is created continuously underground, is short-lived — 97 per cent of it decays in 19 days. It is confined to the area around the uranium ore concentration, since radon can travel only several hundred feet under the most favorable conditions.

Rain is also temporarily radioactive, said Edward Ney, Regents' professor of physics and astronomy, but he estimates that rain water radioactivity decays within two hours. Ney has just started measuring levels of active products of radon gas in Twin Cities air and rain water. Rocks near the surface "exhale" the gas, which is then swept up into the atmosphere and begins to decay into charged particles.

Such particles may form the nuclei for raindrops. "Radiation may even be the missing link in why clouds rain," Ney said, noting that rain is 10 times more common over land than over the oceans, where there are no radioactive rocks to exhale radon.

All rocks on earth contain some uranium, said Richard Ojakangas, professor of geology on the Duluth campus. Granite rock, for example, typically contains about five parts per million of uranium, enough to cause a scintillometer to flicker at 50 to 100 counts per second. This device, a sophisticated Geiger counter, notes significant gamma ray radiation with 20,000 flickers per second. Ojakangas carried one around the state in his original survey of Minnesota's uranium potential.

Minnesota has anywhere from none to dozens of significant ore bodies, Ojakangas said. This uranium, one of the high-grade types, should occur in boundary zones called unconformities between folded older rocks and younger rocks. When the older rock was at the surface (1,800 million years ago in the case of northeastern Minnesota sites and 1,800 to 3,500 million years ago in southwestern Minnesota), it has eroded by running water. This water may have carried dissolved uranium to open spaces in the rock. Or the uranium may have been deposited by water later, when younger rock forced the older rock under in folds, or after both rock zones were in place.

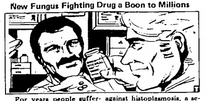
Unconformities in northern Australia and northern Canada have already been shown to contain the world's largest and richest concentrations of uranium, Ojakangas said.

Because uranium ore is concentrated by water and deposited in open spaces underground to begin with, ore zones are already in contact with the groundwater, Ojakangas said. So exploratory drilling should not create additional radiation in the groundwater.

The implications for any future uranium mining could go one of two ways — it may be decided that Minnesota has too much radiation already or that more won't make much difference. Policy decisions should emerge from the legislature and regulatory agencies within the next year.

NEWS OF HEALTH

New Fungus Fighting Drug a Boon to Millions



For years people suffering serious internal fungal diseases have faced a bleak treatment regimen: hospitalization and intravenously administered medications that pose considerable risk of side effects such as phlebitis and kidney damage.

Doctors have had no choice but to use these drugs, despite the risks, since certain systemic fungal diseases can be life-threatening. This is particularly evident when the body's resistance to infection is down, such as during cancer chemotherapy or antibiotic therapy.

Scientists at Janssen Pharmaceutica have been working for 20 years to perfect a drug effective against a wide variety of fungi, yet free of these undesirable side effects. They have finally succeeded with Nizoral™, the first oral antifungal agent with broad spectrum effectiveness, but minus the side effects associated with current antifungal drugs.

As a new type of fungus fighter in the medical armamentarium, Nizoral™ can now be used effectively against histoplasmosis, a serious lung infection; "valley fever," a flu-like disease common in the Southwest; candidiasis, a disease that causes lesions of the heart valves, kidneys and lungs; candiduria, a urinary tract infection; and mucocutaneous candidiasis, a disfiguring infection of the lips, mouth and esophagus.

This significant development by Janssen, a Johnson & Johnson company, not only is a boon for those people now suffering these serious fungal infections, but also for countless millions who carry these fungi in their systems but who show no symptoms until they are weakened by another illness.

In approving it for use, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has noted that Nizoral™ "represents an important therapeutic gain" in the treatment of serious fungal disorders. Antifungal therapy has taken a giant leap forward with this safe, effective and easy to administer oral drug, a product of painstaking research.

Researcher Says Minnesota Water Crisis Possible

by Paul Dienhart
'U' M News Service

In the land of 10,000 lakes, sitting in the glass-walled conference room overlooking the shores of Lake Minnetonka, it's an especially shocking thought: "A water crisis is as certain as an oil crisis."

The statement comes from Richard Hanson, an expert on using enzymes to detoxify poisons in water and the new director of the Gray Freshwater Biological Institute, the University of Minnesota research facility in Navarre.

True, Minnesota has not faced a pollution disaster of the magnitude of Love Canal, nor a water shortage as severe as in the Southwest. But toxic chemicals have been found in well water in New Brighton and St. Louis Park. The Boundary Waters are threatened by acid rain, the animal and plant-killing acid that forms when smokestacks send sulfur dioxide into the air. Heavy metals in the Mississippi river can make bones brittle and damage kidneys. Some of the hallowed 10,000 lakes are choked with algae.

"Minnesota has more to worry about water quality than quantity," Hanson said, but even water quantity is not what we think it is. Depleted aquifer water is becoming a big problem in Midwestern states. Some neighboring states seem on a disaster course with the development of large-scale irrigation and the water intensive process to separate oil from shale."

Hanson predicts that as pure water becomes more scarce, the question of who owns the water will turn into a major legal and political fight.

"As techniques to identify pollutants become more sophisticated, more water is being identified as polluted," Hanson said. "I think it should be of great concern that President Reagan appears to be ready to relax water pollution standards. We know from experience that some industries, unfortunately, have very little conscience. No matter how abhorrent bureaucracy may be, we need it for our protection."

Hanson arrived from the University of Wisconsin, Madison campus, where, over the past 16 years, he became a leader in the science of enzymes. He discovered that certain bacteria produce enzymes that detoxify a wide variety of water pollutants. His current research centers on isolating the part of the enzyme, a huge protein molecule, that breaks down the poisons. He hopes to use genetic engineering to manufacture this "super bug" on a large scale.

"The most optimistic result would be if this enzyme material could be used like water softener to detoxify lakes and rivers," he said. "There's also a great deal of industrial interest in the process. Industries could clean waste water before returning the water to the environment.

"The main question is, will this process be economically feasible? That largely depends on how many penalties are placed on dumping. We haven't completely realized that we can't just dump wastes. It seems to take a Love Canal incident to arouse public interest. If you don't think there's a pollution problem, just watch the algal blooms on Lake Minnetonka."

Not only the public, but scientists, too, have much to learn about water pollution. "The scientific understanding of water pollution is very poorly developed," Hanson said. "There's been an explosion of biological knowledge in recent years that has yet to be applied to water pollution."

In some cases, textbook explanations of pollution may be in error, Hanson said. "For example, texts say certain bacteria convert ammonia to nitrate. I think there's a fair chance that a completely different set of organisms may carry out the process in freshwater lakes, organisms that weren't discovered until the '70s."

Hanson hopes to apply this new knowledge to research on Minnesota lakes, particularly nearby Lake Minnetonka.

Hanson also wants to bring more visiting scientists and students to the institute. "There's an extraordinary shortage of trained scientists," he said. "Helping to train the next generation of freshwater biologists is the best reason for this institute to exist."

The Gray Freshwater Biological Institute opened in 1974, built with money raised by local businessmen concerned about water pollution. It was presented to the University of Minnesota in 1976.

Make Easy Italian Skillet At Campsite Or At Home

When taking to the open air for the weekend, make the meals simple.

Stash staples in the backpack or galley as the basis for quick and hearty one-dish meals.

Campbell's Chunky Minestrone Soup with nuggets of garden vegetables, for example, gives richness and body to this Italian-style skillet.

If you're traveling only to the backyard or patio, this entrée is quick to prepare and easy to serve.

SPAGHETTI AND CLAMS PYRENEES

1 large clove garlic, minced
1/2 tsp. basil leaves, crushed
2 tblsp. salad oil
1 can (19 oz.) Campbell's Chunky Minestrone Soup
2 cans (about 6 oz. each) minced clams
4 cups cooked spaghetti

In saucepan, cook garlic with basil in oil a few minutes. Add remaining ingredients. Cook over low heat 15 minutes; stir occasionally. Makes about 6 1/2 cups, 4 servings.

"Everybody is Somebody in Thief River Falls"
Published Twice A Week
THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES
Volume 70 (USPS 627-360) Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Monday, August 31, 1981 Number 67

"2001 — CAN WE Get There From Here?", a plan of action to assure Minnesota's future quality of life through creative financing incentive, was discussed at the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce last week by Bill Schilling (left) manager of government affairs with the St. Paul chamber of commerce and Neel Johnson, vice president of the First Bank in St. Paul. Speakers presented the plan to a group of concerned local businessmen who gathered at the chamber for a special meeting.

Drug Charges Heard Today In Roseau Co.

Nine Roseau and Kittson county residents charged with various drug offenses are scheduled to appear in Roseau county district court today. They were arrested by state and county law enforcement officers August 19, 21 and 22, in connection with a drug purchase set up by agents of the Minnesota bureau of criminal apprehension.

Defendants and charges include Arlyn Monsrud, 28, Badger, aiding and abetting the sale of marijuana; Alroy Monsrud, 25, and Jane Monsrud, 25, Badger, each charged with possession of a controlled substance and possession of a controlled substance with intent to sell; and Don Lorenson, 26, Karlstad, aiding and abetting the sale of marijuana;

Also Donovan Hendrickson, 23, Strandquist, distrubuting a controlled substance; Stephen Mercil, 30, Newfolden, distributing a controlled substance; Nolan Kjos, 21, Greenbush, distributing a controlled substance; Leon Thompson, 22, Karlstad, sale of a controlled substance; and John E. Simmons, 28, Robbin, sale of a controlled substance. Kathy Wicklander, Roseau, who was arrested August 19, was released without charge pending further investigation.

It was indicated by Roseau county authorities that further charges were pending against several of the persons arrested. Officers confiscated about 50 pounds of marijuana believed to have a street value of about $40,000.

Study Presents Plan For Future Of Minnesota

"2001 — Can We Get There From Here?"

"Yes," say Bill Schilling, manager of government affairs with the St. Paul chamber of commerce and Neel Johnson, vice president of the First Bank in St. Paul, as they spoke to a group of concerned businessmen at the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce Wednesday.

Special meeting was called by the chamber in Thief River Falls for its general membership and several special committees. Schilling's presentation during the meeting last week drew a large number of concerned businessmen to listen to and express their views to the plan of action "to assure Minnesota's future quality of life through creative financing incentive."

"We think Minnesota is a great state with a high quality of life and with good people," Johnson stated, in summarizing the plan of action presented.

"But in the year 2001 we see problems," he said. "There exists a relationship between this high quality of life we enjoy and the economy. To maintain this high quality of life, we must act to ease problems facing our economy."

Present problems having an effect on business growth in Minnesota include high energy costs, high taxes, workers' compensation rates, the long distance between market places and most raw materials, and the decline in natural resources (with the exception of agriculture).

"In the future, energy costs will continue to rise and resources will become even more scarce," stated a recent publication prepared by a committee of concerned community leaders through the St. Paul area chamber of commerce, governmental action group.

Publication went on to state that, in speaking of the relationship between a healthy economy and high quality of life, ". . . the private sector is needed to support the high standards assumed, accepted and enjoyed by the people of the state. The factors which comprise a high quality of life are not free. They must be funded by the fruits of a healthy economy, and that economy must be nurtured."

Program last week focused on a strong business community to maintain this high quality of life, to support a "good life" for the future.

Today Minnesota ranks near the top nationally in all tax categories. Personal income taxes rank third; corporate taxes rank fourth; and only 11 other states have a five-cent sales tax or more, according to the publication.

Major recommendations to achieve the healthy economy necessary to Minnesota's future expressed last week included developing and implementing a five-year Unified State Economic Policy on Investment Strategies affecting (1) workers' compensation rates; (2) personal and corporate taxes; (3) capital gains taxes; and (4) debt and equity capital.

To briefly summarize the above points, it was stated that (1) reasonable limits must be placed on the workers' compensation

VERNE SPENGLER, farm management instructor at the Thief River Falls area vocational technical institute, was named president-elect of the Minnesota Vocational Agriculture Instructors association at their annual meeting held August 17-20, in conjunction with the first comprehensive vocational conference at the Minneapolis auditorium. Over 3,500 teachers from all vocational areas gathered for workshops and meetings under the theme, "Know How in Vocational Technical Education."

Times To Print Early Issue

Because of the Labor day holiday Monday, the Times will publish its Monday edition on Saturday of this week. The advanced publication schedule will again require early advertising and news copy to permit meeting the earlier deadlines. Cooperation of advertising and news sources will be greatly appreciated.

Red Lake Falls Library Hours

Red Lake Falls public library will no longer be open on Saturdays, effective September 1.

University To Offer Classes Here This Fall

Four classes will be offered in this area through Bemidji state university's office of area services this fall. Registration may be completed at the first class session.

Those offered at the Thief River Falls area vocational technical institute will include: Interpersonal Tools and Techniques for Special Needs Students, 6 to 9:45 p.m. Tuesdays, from September 8 to November 3 in room A123;

Dynamics of Motivation, 6-10:15 p.m. Tuesdays, from September 1 to October 21, in room 109; and Discipline in the Classroom, 6:30-10:15 p.m. Mondays, from August 31 to October 26, in room A123.

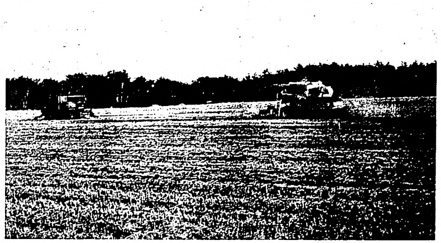
Offered at the Red Lake Falls High School Library will be Philosophy of Vocational Education, 6-10 p.m. Fridays, and 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. Saturdays, from September 11 to 26.

AVTI Record Enrollment Set

Opening day enrollment at the Thief River Valls area vocational-technical institute this morning totaled 517 students — the largest enrollment on record for the institute, according to Orley Gunderson, director. More information on the opening will be made available for Wednesday's edition.



HELPING OUT with combining are friends and neighbors of Dake W. Ayers, 59, who died unexpectedly Saturday evening. "You can find out just how many friends you have at a time like this," said Paul Furuseth, brother-in-law of Ayers. Among those lending equipment (four combines, trucks and other machinery) to combine the 60 acres Sunday were Duane Olson, John Nelson, Roger Hible, Don Dyrdal, Richard Haugen, Erwin and Joel Melvie, Leland Nelson, Gary Nelson, Gary Novak and Dwight Larson, among many other friends and neighbors. Bringing food to the workers during the afternoon and evening were Janice Olson, Janice Nelson and Ann Dyrdal.

Unemployment Rates Generally Up In June

Unemployment rates tended to rise in the month of June 1981, as large numbers of new entrants to the labor force exceeded the number of jobs which became available. This occurred not only nationally, but throughout the state, and in the northwestern region as well.

In Pennington county, however, unemployment rate in June was 10.4 per cent (slightly lower than the 11.3 per cent rate noted in May) with 7,546 people in the labor force and employment figures set at 6,726. There were 7,410 labor force personnel in May 1981 with employment figures set at 6,576).

Unemployment rates witnessed in other selected northwestern Minnesota counties (Marshall, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau) from May to June this year illustrated the same amount of decreases as increases. In Marshall county, figures dropped slightly from 11.9 to 11.6; in Polk, an increase from 8.7 to 9.1; Red Lake, 12.9 down to 12.6; and Roseau, 10.2 to 13.0.

Total employment rose by 150 between May and June, a gain exceeding the increase in the labor force which was 136. Consequently, both the number and percentage of unemployment dropped in June. Unemployment figures decreased in June of 1980 from 927 to the 820 figure witnessed that same month, only one year later. Unemployment figures remained similar in May and June of 1981, with 14 fewer persons unemployed in June than in May.

In looking at Region I of Northwestern Minnesota on a total basis, an increase in the unemployment rate was noted from 9.3 to 9.6 from May to June 1981. Entrants to the labor force in June of that same year stood at 48,714 as compared to employment figures of 44,017. Unemployment figures for June 1981 rose from 4,419 to 4,697 from May to June 1981.

In June 1981, area counties of northwestern Minnesota (specifically Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk and Roseau) experienced a continuation of labor market trends which has been evident in the late spring months. Most of the seasonal employment in the region was

FIRST MISS GRYGLA was crowned Friday evening in the Grygla school gymnasium when Kim McLean, 17, was selected from among eight contestants in a pageant attended by more than 500 people. Lori Holthusen, 19, was first runner-up and Lois Verbout, 18, was second runner-up. A senior at Grygla high school this fall Kim is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McLean. She is five feet seven inches tall, weighs 115 pounds, has dark brown hair and brown eyes. Her talent number at the pageant was a flute solo. Other photos from the Grygla fall festival will be published in Wednesday's edition of the Times.

Nine Digit ZIP Urgency Denied By Durenberger

According to Sen. Dave Durenberger, "the postal service program to expand the ZIP code has as many lives as digits."

In light of the fact that a bill signed by President Reagan August 13 postpones implementation of the nine-digit ZIP code until 1983, Durenberger claims that postal service activities, in spending "hundreds of thousands of dollars running Madison Avenue advertising," and in notifying customers of their new ZIP codes in a letter promising the benefits of increased postal productivity through automation, have left the public more confused than ever.

Durenberger says bluntly, "you should ignore the Postal Service letter; it will neither lower the cost nor will it provide better service."

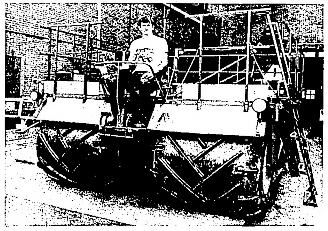
Stating, "the postal service may continue to urge you to use the new ZIP code, but no benefits direct or indirect can be realized by any mailer who puts the nine digits on a letter today," he concludes, "we can only hope that this will be the last of ZIP's nine lives."

Sister Of TRF Woman Struck By Propeller

Debra Carlson, 22, was listed in critical condition today after she reportedly walked into the propeller of a small airplane at Lake Bronson on Saturday. Miss Carlson is a sister of Mrs. Michael (Marcia) Larson of Thief River Falls.

According to Kittson county authorities, Miss Carlson apparently walked into the propeller of the plane in which she had been riding about 4 p.m. Saturday.

Cattail Production Study Necessary For Success



SPECIALIZED EQUIPMENT is required for some of the work being done with cattail studies by the University of Minnesota. Tim Nystrom, junior scientist in agricultural research, is shown with the research platform which was imported from Europe. The vehicle can travel on any surface from concrete to water and will carry personnel and equipment for marshland studies. Nystrom is also working with others in the department on developing cattail harvesting equipment.

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

To those northern Minnesotans who are accustomed to seeing cattails appear anywhere moisture is present — from a low spot in a grain field to a depression in a drainage ditch — the idea that scientists are trying to learn how to grow them may seem a little ridiculous.

But as the words of a once popular song indicate, it ain't necessarily so.

"We're at the stage of cattail study now where the study of corn was more than 50 years ago," states Nancy Andrews, assistant director of the bio-energy coordinating office at the University of Minnesota in St. Paul. "Nobody around here has ever tried to grow cattails before. They're a very prolific plant in the wild, but nobody knows what will happen when the effort is made to produce cattail biomass tonnage on cultivated plots."

The bio-energy coordinating office of the university, in cooperation with the Minnesota Energy agency and other interested groups, is trying to learn as much as possible in as short a time as possible about cattail production. The Marshland plant is considered a likely possibility as a renewable energy provider, either dried and burned in its natural form or converted — at least in part — into liquid fuel or petroleum substitute for chemical feedstocks.

Andrews said she was in Chicago last week to visit with researchers at the Institute of Gas Technology, a department of the Illinois Institute of Technology, which has been primarily involved in peat gasification techniques and studies. But the institute is also interested in the gasification of biomass, and has done research with the use of kelp along the Pacific coast, as well as limited study on cattail, willow and other woody or herbaceous plants.

In looking at long-term biomass utilization, it is likely that any plant constructed to convert biomass to energy would be set up to utilize a variety of biomass crops. Envisioned by one researcher who talked to Andrews was a large conversion plant which could use the biomass

BIOMASS:
Minnesota's
Future Energy

PROFESSOR PAUL READ of the department of horticultural science and landscape architecture at the University of Minnesota in St. Paul is assisting the bio-energy coordinating office with plant propagation research. He is shown here with plants which have been grown from small bits of plant material under controlled conditions in the laboratory. With existing techniques, it is possible to take a single plant and within months have thousands of plants grown from it, ready for transplanting outdoors.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Maribeth Vigstol And Scott R. Miller Wed

Maribeth Rose Vigstol of Plummer and Scott Robert Miller of Red Lake Falls exchanged marriage vows recently at a four o'clock ceremony at the Immanuel Lutheran church at Plummer.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Nels Vigstol of Plummer and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller of Red Lake Falls.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony were Rev. Tim Miller of Plummer and Rev. Clifford Randall of Moorhead. Sue Johnk of Moorhead, a friend of the bride, was the organist. She played "Psalm XVIII" as the processional and "Trumpet Voluntary in D" as the recessional. She also accompanied Ronalie Vigstol, Fargo, a sister-in-law of the bride, as she sang "He Has Chosen You For Me," and "The Lord's Prayer." Carol Kristiansen of the Norwegian Language camp near Bemidji, played the recorder solo, "Pa Jamtlandsveg," following the giving and receiving of the couple.

Vases of peonies graced the altar.

The bride was attired in a gown which she had designed and sewn. It was fashioned of white polyester crepe, featuring a fitted bodice with a lace yoke and high collar, accented with lace trim. Wide cuffs of matching lace complemented her long, full sleeves. Her gracefully flared skirt was edged with a deep flounce of the same fabric. A floral wreath of white silk roses and babies' breath held her finger-tip veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses, blue daisies and greenery, in cascade arrangement.

Sheryl Ratchenski of Cavalier, N.D., was maid of honor. Other attendants were Karen Halvorson of Malta, Mont., Candy Nordine of Moorhead, friends of the bride; and Becky Largis of Red Lake Falls, a sister of the groom. All wore floor-length gowns of yellow rayon with a Japanese print; and they carried bouquets of blue and white daisies.

Bruce Columbus, a friend of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Wes Largis, Red Lake Falls, a friend; David Miller, Red Lake Falls, a brother; and Steve Vigstol, Anoka, a brother of the bride. Like the groom, they wore brown tuxedos with yellow boutonnieres.

Serving as ushers were the bride's brothers: Lee Vigstol of Minot, N.D.; Russ of Harlingen, Tex.; Dave of Fargo, N.D., and Dan of Cedar.

The mother of the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of peach rayon topped by a lace jacket. The groom's mother wore a spaghetti strap, floor-length gown of a blue and white print on beige, topped with a sheer jacket. Their corsages were of yellow roses.

Mrs. Mabel Lykken, Grafton, N.D., grandmother of the groom, was guest of honor. The bride's personal attendant was her sister, Mrs. Anne Anderson, Santa Ana, Calif. Shari and Jodi Vigstol, nieces of the bride, distributed the wedding programs, which were designed by the bride.

The reception, featuring a beef barbecue followed. The event was planned for the Plummer park but due to the heavy rain, it was held at the Plummer school. Approximately 275 guests attended.

Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Vigstol of Plummer and Mr. and Mrs. John Harren of Grygla. Registering the guests were Julie Adolphson, Moorhead, a niece of the bride, and Peggy Scheer, Detroit Lakes, a friend. Gift bearers were Becky, Lisa and Patty Vigstol, nieces of the bride. Mike and Jacquie Farrel, Anaheim, Calif., were at the gift table; and DeEtta Vigstol, Anoka, a sister-in-law of the bride, was in charge of pinning the flowers.

The three-tiered, heart-shaped wedding cake, iced in yellow and trimmed with white scalloping and yellow roses, was baked and decorated by Ronalie Vigstol. She assisted Shirley Vigstol, Red Lake Falls, a sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Dorothy Lowe, Minneapolis, an aunt of the groom, in cutting and serving it. Pouring coffee were Jan Vigstol, Cedar, a sister-in-law of the bride; and Debbie Birkeland, Hutchinson, a sister of the groom. Roving coffee pourers were the bride's nieces: Caryl Adolphson, Red Lake Falls, and Tammie and April Anderson of Santa Ana, Calif.

Punch was served by Ruth Vigstol, Harlingen, Tex., a sister-in-law of the bride, and Bobbie Tydlacka, Hutchinson, a sister of the groom. Jean Vigstol, a sister-in-law, broke and served the Kransekake.

Carving the barbecued beef were the bride's brothers: Neil Vigstol, Harlingen, Tex.; Ray of Red Lake Falls, and Dick of Cedar. The reception was given by the bride's parents, assisted by members of the Anna circle of Immanuel church.

The bride is a graduate of Plummer high school and Concordia college, Moorhead. Prior to her marriage, she was employed at Annette's Fabrics in Thief River Falls. The groom is a graduate of the Red Lake Falls high school. He attended Bottineau school of Forestry, Bemidji State university, and AVTI, and was engaged in farming near Plummer.

The wedding trip, was by car to Alaska, where the couple is now employed. Their at-home address is General Delivery, Delta Junction, Alaska. Photo, Nordheim Photography, Fertile.

I wish to express my deepest gratitude to all my kind relatives, neighbors and friends from whom I received cards, letters, flowers, plants, gifts, phone calls, food and visits while I was in the hospital and after I came home.

Special thanks to Pastors Ose and Allert for their visits and to the Anderson's with whom Merle stayed during my absence.

Your kindness and concern are very much appreciated and will always be remembered.

May God bless each one of you.

Barriault And Walker Marriage Vows Spoken

Marilu Barriault of this city and Rich Walker of Michigan were united in marriage Friday evening, August 21, at 7:00 p.m., at Trinity Lutheran church in this city.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Gloria Anderson of Viking; and the groom is the son of Mrs. Elisabeth Graham of Canada.

Rev. Carl Andersen officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by members of the families and friends. He also served as soloist.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, Jeff Anderson. She was attired in an off-white cotton gown with lace outlining the scoop neckline and flowing down the front of the skirt. Her short sleeves were of matching lace. On her head, she wore a wreath of white babies' breath. She carried a solitary red rose accented with babies breath, ferns and a matching red ribbon.

Marsha Hanson of Newfolden attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a blue floor-length gown and carried a solitary white carnation with greenery.

The groom was attended by his brother, Ken Graham of Canada. He wore a rust-colored suit while the groom was attired in an off-white suit with a red rose boutonniere, accented with a sprig of babies' breath.

Serving as ushers were Bret and Barry Hanson of Newfolden, nephews of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Graham selected a red and white dress complemented by a corsage of red and white carnations. The mother of the groom wore a blue dress with a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception, given by the bride's mother, was held at the bride's home at 114 North Maple. Hostesses were Gloria Anderson and Marsha Hanson.

Highlighting the serving table was a double tiered wedding cake, iced in white and decorated with pink roses. Topping the cake were a miniature bride and groom. Elspeth Raynane, a sister of the groom, cut and served the cake. Leon Barriault ladled the punch.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding and reception were the groom's other sister, Dianne Graham, and his brother-in-law, Stan Raynane.

The couple is at home in this city at 114 North Maple. The groom is employed by radio station KKAQ.

U.S. Chamber Reviews Social Security Plan

Some hard truths about social security face Americans of all ages. Unless Congress takes corrective action sometime this year, the old age and survivors trust fund — a key reserve that ensures payment of monthly checks to retirees, survivors and dependents — will run out of funds.

But the news is not all bad. According to the U.S. chamber of commerce, immediate and long-range financing problems can be met without raising payroll taxes or dipping into revenues collected for general purposes of government.

First, says the business federation, the public must accept two truisms: One, social security is not a system of private savings or retirement accounts set aside for workers who pay taxes into the system. Money is not accumulated and then paid out when the worker retires. Two, if it was such a system, most retirees would run out of pension checks in a year or two.

A recent analysis demonstrated benefits are far more generous than workers' contributions to the system.

The present system will provide maximum benefits for a worker retiring in 1982, when both worker and spouse are 65, of: worker's monthly benefit $753; spouse's monthly benefit $376; 5 per cent cost of living adjustment $677; value of Medicare $3,000; total annually $17,225.

If the worker's money had simply been placed in an account under his name over a 45-year period, this worker would have contributed only $14,706 in taxes. Even counting the employer's contribution, benefits would have run out in less than two years.

If not an individual retirement program, what is social security? Social security is a pay-as-you-go system, under which those working pay taxes to pay retirment benefits to those already retired, as well as a host of other benefits: Disability insurance, hospital coverage, spouses' and children's benefits. The system was never intended to be the sole financial mainstay of the retired populace. It was designed to augment personal savings or other pension income.

Chamber recommendations for the future of social security include:

+Universal coverage, extending Social Security to cover all federal workers, almost 2.9 million, and state and local government workers not already covered by the program. The chamber estimates that this would result in additional revenues of $100 billion in five years.

+Modify cost-of-living adjustments in benefits. Each June, social security benefits are raised an amount equal to the increase on the consumer price index (CPI) which exaggerates cost-of-living increases. Experience has shown that retirees' benefits are going up faster than workers' wages. The more equitable system would be to index benefits to whichever is lower, the rise in prices (CPI) or the rise in wages.

+Revise the benefits structure: gradually reduce future benefits for early retirement at 62 while gradually raising the retirement age from 65 to 68.

These, plus other revisions, would account for approximately $155 billion in estimated savings and revenue increases, according to the chamber. Of the total, universal coverage and revised cost-of-living adjustments would account for more than $126 billion. Within a few years, the system would be out of danger.

Curling Friends Have Picnic

Mr. and Mrs. John Lubitz entertained their curling friends at their home Sunday afternoon in the form of a pot luck picnic dinner and various forms of entertainment. Present besides the Lubitz family were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Amundgaard and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Augustine and boys, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Engen and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Giles and Mary, Mrs. Angie Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Solem, Robert and Andrew and Mr. and Mrs. Terry Lubitz, Marie and Billy.

Mrs. Elaine Ose and Mrs. Helga Dyrud accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Loiell Dryud, Lars and Maren Sunday to Grand Forks, where they visited at the Dr. Foreman home. Mrs. Foreman is the former Leola Dyrud. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Harland Dyrud, Susan and Patrick of Grand Forks. Birthdays of Mary Dryud, Jon Foreman and Harland Dyrud were celebrated.

Mrs. Joe Ose, who suffered a head injury in a three wheeler accident and was a patient at the United hospital in Grand Forks for two weeks, returned home Saturday. She has been given doctors instructions not to do any work for some time, although her headaches are not as severe as at first. We all hope she will have a complete recovery.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Emil Swanson,
rural Thief River Falls

Zucchini Cookies

1 cup grated zucchini
1 cup sugar
½ cup shortening, part butter
1 beaten egg
2 cups flour
Scant teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
one-fourth teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped nuts
1 cup raisins

Method: Combine zucchini, sugar and shortening and beat well. Add remaining ingredients and mix. Drop by teaspoon on cookie sheet. Bake in a 375 degree oven from 12 to 15 minutes, or until golden brown.

The Swansons are retired but are still living on the farm 10 miles west of Thief River Falls. They have one daughter, Sharon Andrews, a widow, who lives in Nashville, Tenn. She has a son, David.

Mrs. Swanson is a seamstress and was employed for many years by Narverud cleaners. She still enjoys sewing. Her husband is an avid hunter and fisherman. Both enjoy gardening.

They are members of the Oak Ridge Lutheran church.

CLARIFICATION

Regarding the zucchini pancake recipe submitted by Mrs. Hible, the recipe is a one-step method — all in the blender. (My error) The peeled zucchini, cut into chunks is placed into the blender (do not blend), then add buttermilk until the liquid reaches the two cup mark — add remaining ingredients and blend. Sorry for any inconvenience my misunderstanding of the recipe may have caused you. (EMS)

Area Summer Job Service Reports Success

Minnesota job service has operated mini offices or summer employment offices throughout Minnesota since they were first started in Fairmont, in 1969. Since that time they have been expanded to many areas in Minnesota and are known as mini offices, job squads, and summer employment offices.

Main purpose of these offices are to assist young people to secure unsubsidized employment opportunities during the summer months, to enable them to secure funds for recreation, school clothing, and school expenses. During the summer of 1981 student employment centers were operated at Baudette, Greenbush, Hallock, Red Lake Falls, Roseau, Warren, Warroad and Thief River Falls. In the main, these centers were operated from June 1 to August 11 with the exception of the Baudette office, which started on June 15.

Offices were staffed by students from the respective communities who were selected with the assistance of CAP agencies, high school counselors and personal interviews. Usually the centers were located in city halls, county courthouses or in the school of the area.

J.K. Stadum, area manager of Minnesota job service in Thief River Falls, summarized the 1981 campaign. He indicated that during 1981 the offices were able to place 201 young adults in non-agricultural jobs in and 82 in agriculture opportunities. The combined student work staff at the centers made a total of 1549 personal and telephone contacts with employers to solicit job openings. In many instances they used individual door to door solicitation of job openings by making personal contacts within the employer community in the various towns. They telephoned many employers and also the farm homes of the area to solicit job opportunities for their fellow students. Most of the placement made at these mini office locations were of youth age 14 to 21. Several youth were placed in more than one temporary job.

Activity totals declined in 1981. In 1980 350 young adults were placed through these employment centers. The reduction in the activity at the centers in 1981 was due primarily to a lack of openings in sunflower roguing, a general downturn in the economy in the area, tight money and the high interest rates — all contributing to a lessening of the demand for student workers.

The program, Stadum continued, was supervised by Jeff Gustafson, E.S. specialist. He was assisted in the supervision of the centers by William Poole who supervised the southern offices and Dick Staydohar who supervised the northern offices.

Centers were staffed by: Lorie Skjerven and Kim Koropatnicki, Thief River Falls; Lori Branden and Mike Miller, Greenbush; Joan Carlson and Nola Muir, Hallock; Deb Lizotte and Julie Schmitz, Red Lake Falls; [illegible] Derry and Jane Ferderer, Roseau; Shawn Lamb and Bev Flaten, Warren; Traci Harrison and Renae Tveit, Warroad; and Janice Gubbels, Baudette.

The student positions were funded out of the governor's youth program, with the exception of the Baudette facility, which was funded from Minnesota CEP funds out of Bemidji and Detroit Lakes, Rural Minne-CEP operations. The supervisors were funded from the regular Job Service funds; all costs were borne by Minnesota Job Service.

Sports Health Forum Slated On Sept. 11-12

First annual sports health forum, sponsored by American Red Cross, the Institute for Athletic Medicine and the Minnesota State High School League, will be held Friday and Saturday, September 11-12, at the Holiday Inn downtown in Minneapolis.

Sports health forum is open to physicians, nurses, coaches, trainers, therapists and adult athletes interested in keeping athletes healthy.

Tenley Albright, M.D., an Olympic Gold Medalist in figure skating and a practicing physician, will discuss sports medicine from both her perspectives in a major speech at the forum banquet Friday evening. Vern Gagne, wrestling star and tennis enthusiast, will speak about his experiences as a life-long athlete in a presentation at the Saturday lunch.

Workshops and seminars of the sports health forum feature our nation's outstanding authorities in the field of sports medicine, presenting contemporary information on typical sports injuries and how to prevent and treat them. Topics include Nutrition for the Athlete; Flexibility and Warm-up; Weight Training for All Ages; Facial Trauma and Protection; Ankle Injuries; and First Aid for Fractures and Wounds.

Sports resources and programs will be on display during the sorum. A sports health film festival will run continuously during the forum, showing audio-visuals related to sports medicine.

To register for the sports health forum, contact American Red Cross at (612) 871-7676 or 11 Dell Place at Groveland Ave., Minneapolis, MN 55403.

TIP Program Will Start On September 1

Persons who want to collect rewards for providing information to the Department of Natural Resources on violators of Minnesota game and fish laws can begin phoning their tips in on September 1.

Two phone numbers have been set up at the DNR's Enforcement Division to handle the calls, one a toll-free number for long distance and another for local calls.

Callers can remain anonymous if they choose and all communication between the DNR and the informant can be conducted by use of a code number to identify the tipster.

Rewards can be paid in cash at a time and place of the tipster's choice. Rewards in excess of $250 will be determined by a committee up to a maximum of $1,000.

Toll-free number is 1-800-652-9093. The number for calls in the Twin Cities metro area is 227-3999.

Funds to finance the Turn In Poachers (TIP) reward program have been raised through contributions from many conservation and sportsmen's clubs and through a series of fund raising banquets held this summer in various parts of the state.

Monies are being raised by a private non-profit organization called TIP, Inc. It's president is well-known conservationist Burnett Dahl of Red Wing and Viking coach Bud Grant is honorary chairman.

Similar programs have enjoyed marked success in several western states and are credited with reducing the depredations of lawless hunters and organized poaching rings.

"The violator knows that every citizen can collect a reward or bounty by turning him in," said Joseph Alexander, DNR Commissioner and a former conservation officer. "This raises his risks enormously and should have a salutary effect on all but the most foolhardy."

Disease May Be Mistaken For Senility

What we think of as "senility" is not a normal sign of growing old; in fact, it is not even a disease.

Instead, problems such as increased forgetfulness, confusion, depression and irritability can actually be symptoms of a wide range of mental and physical disorders. Some can be treated and cured or even prevented. Others are irreversible.

The most common incurable form of mental impairment among older persons, affecting anywhere from 500,000 to 1.5 million American adults, is Alzheimer's disease, which affects the brain cells. It is estimated that of all older persons with mental impairment, more than half are suffering from Alzheimer's disease.

An individual with Alzheimer's disease may first experience nearly unnoticeable symptoms often attributed to emotional upsets or other physical illnesses. Gradually, however, he becomes more and more forgetful, particularly about recent events. As the disease progresses, memory loss increases and other changes in personality, mood and behavior are likely to appear. Judgment, concentration, orientation and speech may be impaired. In the most severe cases, the disease may eventually render its victims totally incapable of caring for themselves.

Although the person with Alzheimer's disease may deny or be unaware of the full extent of his limitations, especially in the later stages of the disease, the unexplained changes in personality and behavior are a source of deep frustration for the individual, his family and friends. The emotional and financial drain on victims of Alzheimer's disease, their loved ones, and society at large is enormous.

While it is incurable, it can be treated. Proper medical diagnosis and care can help control many symptoms and, perhaps more importantly, help the individual and the family cope with the illness' effects on their lives.

The National Retired Teachers association has launched a nationwide public service campaign to inform older people and their families about Alzheimer's disease and stimulate research aimed at finding a cure. Study Presents Plan For Future Of Minnesota benefit system; (2) corporate and personal income tax rates must be reduced over a five-year period to provide existing and new businesses with funds needed to complete, maintain and expand their businesses; (3) capital gains improvements for individuals and corporations are needed over a five-year period to stimulate investment for existing industries and to provide venture capital growth for new industries; and (4) financial institutions must be created to meet the needs of service industries, manufacturers, retailers and processing industries.

"We need to address these problems today," Johnson stated. He further explained that visits are being made through 50 towns in Minnesota to discuss the plan.

"This is a statewide issue," he said. "Different communities are doing different things to meet the recommendations needed for a strong future. We as citizens must get out and talk to our legislators."

There is cause to worry about the future of Minnesota, Schilling stated. In recent years, no major non-Minnesota firm — with the exception of the taconite industry — has set up a large operation in the state. Also, the growth of private sector jobs has slowed in relation to public sector jobs. Because of these problems, along with those described earlier, a number of large and small Minnesota businesses have begun to invest increasingly in new plants outside of Minnesota.

The study of four major areas that could affect the state's future economy if not carefully considered were also emphasized during the meeting. "Negatives in any of these areas could adversely affect future state growth," it was stated in the chamber of commerce publication. Areas include population and labor, energy, transportation and natural resources.

In conclusion, it was stated that in order for Minnesota to maintain and improve its healthy economy, improved business incentives must occur. Significant legislation and economic changes are also important, the publication stated, if Minnesota is to escape "an endless cycle of damaging program cuts and tax increases."

Jobless Rates Generally Up For This Area

fully underway by June, and the region saw an increase in its total labor force during this month due to school graduations (Marshall, 7,217; Pennington, 7,546; Polk, 16,483; Red Lake, 2,508; and Roseau, 5,780).

All of these figures decreased from those obtained in June of 1980, however, except for the county of Polk which noted an increase of 718 in the labor force, from June 1980 to June 1981.

In the month of June, the unemployment rate throughout the nation usually rises somewhat dramatically, due to the influx of recent school graduates who all enter the labor market at the same time. While this happened to some degree in June, 1981, many of the spring graduates apparently had entered the labor force in May, which somewhat alleviated the seasonal surplus of new labor force entrants.

In June, slight employment declines took place among adult men and teenagers, while the employment level for adult women remained fairly constant.

Construction employment, which has been greatly influenced by the recessionary effects of high interest rates, declined for the second consecutive month. Manufacturing employment held steady in June, 1981 while government employment declined by about 110,000 jobs during this time. Other employment sectors experienced little or no change from their totals in the previous months.

In the state of Minnesota, total employment rose by about 35,700 between May and June, 1981, but this gain was exceeded by an increase in the labor force of 50,000. Consequently, both the number and percentage of unemployment rose in June. Industrial sectors in which employment gains occurred were both durable and nondurable manufacturing, wholesale and retail trade, services and government. Construction employment declined again in June from the previous month by an estimated 3,100 workers, with the greatest decline noted in building construction. Overall employment conditions throughout Minnesota tended to be better in the summer of 1981, when compared to the previous year. Total number of jobholders continued to rise, and unemployment has declined somewhat.

Job openings remain fairly scarce in the major communities of the Northwestern Minnesota region, with the exception of those areas with large concentrations of resorts and other tourist facilities.

In looking at those figures explaining persons in northwestern Minnesota collecting unemployment benefits, in June, 1981, the construction sector had the largest number of claimants, except in Region one, where manufacturing layoffs were responsible for many workers drawing jobless benefits.

However, the total number of claimants in the Northwestern region in June, 1981, was down by 12 per cent from the total in May, indicating that in many industries, claimants have been returning to work. In June, the number of "long-term claimants (those receiving benefits for 15 weeks or more) declined by 474 throughout the region from the previous month, which was another positive development.

In upcoming months, according to the Northwestern Minnesota labor market review, the number of persons in the Northwestern region who are drawing jobless benefits should continue to decline, as these persons either return to work or exhaust the maximum of 26 weeks of benefits. Claimant totals traditionally are at their lowest levels late in the summer, before beginning to rise later in the fall.

The Bureau of the Census recently released data which gives a breakdown of the 1980 population by race for all counties, cities and townships in Minnesota. Figures for counties in Northwestern Minnesota (again looking at the counties of Marshall, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau) represent the final count of population.

Data obtained illustrates the following — of the total population of Pennington county, which was recorded at 15,258, 15,117 of these persons were white, 12 were black; 61 American Indian, Eskimo and Aleutian; 42 Asian and Pacific Islander; 70 Spanish origin and 26 listed under the "other" category.

In Marshall county — 13,0[illegible] total; 12,975 white; three black; 24 American Indian, Eskimo and Aleutian; 12 Asian and Pacific Islander; 51 Spanish origin and 13 other; Polk — 34,844; 34,070; 64; 268; 84; 560 and 358; Red Lake — 5,471; 5,454; 0; seven; eight; 14; two; and Roseau — 12,574; 12,451; one; 86; 18; 22 and 18.

Breakdowns of the 1980 population figures by age category and employment status are not yet available.

'Kids On The Block' To Become TRF Residents

by Bonnie Wentzel
Times Reporter

"Kids on the Block," a handicapped awareness program to help children develop positive attitudes toward handicapped people, will receive $3,000 in Thief River Falls area United Way support this year.

The program is one of several handicapped services supported by United Way, an organization geared to helping people. Also supported by the organization are various elderly, family, health and youth services. United Way support for each group is listed in the August 24 issue of the Times.

Kids on the Block program and the Falls delivered meals program for homebound persons, are two new areas receiving United Way support this year.

Kids on the Block are due to arrive in Thief River Falls within the next two weeks, according to Linda Taylor, who will work with the program as a learning aid to elementary school children within the Thief River Falls area. Presently, there are eight persons involved within the program, she said, and anyone interested in joining may contact her at 681-7489.

The seven almost life-sized puppets will be arriving complete with props, including a helmet, wheelchair, Braille watch and pet dog; Chatabout cards which will serve as discussion devices to connect the situations in the "shows" with real people, 50 Braille alphabet cards and a Braille book with print on one page and Braille on the opposite page.

Seven new "residents" arriving will include Mark Reilly, 11, a victim of cerebral palsy; Brenda Dubrowski, 10, a "normal" child of average intelligence but who has a weight problem; Ellen Jane Peterson, 17, who has Down's Syndrome; Renaldo Rodriguez, 10, who is almost totally blind; Melody James, 9, a young girl very curious about her exceptional friends; Mandy Puccini, 12, who is deaf; and Jennifer Hauser, 10, who has a learning disability and who discusses with her friends what it's like to go to the resource room to learn "in a different kinda way."

Some of the props are carefully used when Mark Reilly is introduced to audiences. The young "boy" gets around in his wheelchair which he calls a "cruiser" and wears a helmet to protect his head.

Idea behind the puppet program, according to recent information compiled on the kids, is to have children around the country emphathize with the puppets to hopefully lead to their seeing and hearing the world through a different perspective and accept differences illustrated by the handicapped puppets as natural.

International program began with an idea sparked by Barbara Aiello, a nationally recognized special educator. With the help of Ingrid Crepeau, puppeteer and Emmy award winning designer, Aiello created the Kids on the Block and she has performed with them all over the United States, Canada and the Bahama Islands. Kids on the Block began as a small program touring schools in the Washington, D.C. area, which has now become evident in schools throughout the nation.

The Kids have been used by many groups throughout the country, including teacher specialists and parent groups. Puppeteers are important since they must convey their messages through the puppets so the children will remember the life-like characters and their disabilities rather than the puppeteers. "Puppeteers rethink how a real child would deliver lines. They mentally establish the personality of the character, an essential ingredient for a strong performance," stated a recent story on the program.

Sometimes, it has been stated, there is fear about handicapped people, yet children want to know about them. Puppets provide the opportunity for youngsters to ask questions which they wouldn't ask adults or other handicapped children. Kids on the Block is aimed at presenting the information about disabilities in a non-threatening manner. Once the children understand the disabilities, it is hoped their fears will disappear.

According to recent information on the program, in 1975, public law 94-142 was passed stating that to the "maximum extent possible, handicapped children . . . are to be educated with children who are not handicapped."

Through the use of the Kids on the Block puppets, it is hoped that children will be aided in wanting to intereact with handicapped children.

Support for this program, just as for other programs, is needed. Thief River Falls area United Way campaign will begin September 22 and will continue until October 6. Goal of this year's campaign has been set at $50,000.

Thief River Falls United Way does post-campaign budgeting, making next year's allocations after the funds are raised. Each agency is reviewed annually and allocations are based on need and service provided to the community and surrounding area.

The United Way film this year, which may be used by businesses, clubs or other organizations, will feature Charles Bronson and Jill Ireland. It may be obtained by contacting Sharon Fugleberg, secretary of the United Way board, at 681-6633.

Cattail Study Necessary For Information

production from about a 30-mile radius. Such a plant would use crop residue, wood waste products, commercially grown biomass crops and related materials within the area so that it could be operated on a year around basis. The plant's product would be pipeline quality synthetic natural gas.

While places like the institute in Chicago are working on conversion aspects, the University of Minnesota at present is putting the greatest part of its efforts into production studies. Involved are methods and rates of seeding (or planting), responses to fertilizer use, competition from other plants, relationship of water levels to plant growth, comparison of controlled plots with "natural" areas, and similar studies.

Research is getting a big assist from the department of horticultural science and landscape architecture where professor Paul E. Read and his staff are working with reproduction techniques for plant increase.

Through cloning and controlled laboratory environment, it is possible to provide a large number of transplantable plants from a single segment of plant tissue within months. Such ability would allow selection of the best plants for reproduction and permit them to be multiplied in a much shorter time span than in a natural setting.

The horticulture department has been working with cattail studies since early this year and with woody biomass plants such as alder and willow for over a year.

Two years ago property was made available to the university by Iron Range Resources and Rehabilitation board at Zim, near Eveleth. On this property three 50x100 foot study areas were created. In one area the peatland was merely tilled and a trench dug around it. On a second area a foot of the peat was removed, and on the third five feet of peat was removed. The areas were then planted at various rates with the use of rhizome pieces or seed in small plots. Portions of the study areas will be harvested this fall and production data noted and compared.

This year the university was offered and is using former wild rice paddies on the Jim and Tom Godward farm located near Aitkin. Jim Godward was the first person in Minnesota to be granted a permit to pump water from a stream for the purpose of growing wild rice. That was at Marysville, near Brainerd. His son Tom is now manager of the operations at Aitkin.

On the Godward farm the university has the availability of land to create larger cattail stands which would more accurately simulate larger scale cattail production. The site is also within reasonably short driving distance of the St. Paul campus — on some of the nearest peat soil to the university.

Experimental plots were planted on the Godward farm this spring and will be harvested in late September or early October. Not only will the production be studied, but the university will experiment with the use of various types of harvesting equipment and techniques. Jim Godward has assured the university personnel of continued cooperation in the studies.

During the present growing year, the university has hired work done by the Godwards on an hourly basis for use of equipment and machinery. This has included building dikes, making dike repairs, applying fertilizer and other work. "It's been a real bargain for us," Andrews said. "We get not only the advantage of equipment at the site but the know-how of people who have been working with wetland farming for as long as just about anybody in the state."

As information is accumulated and studied, a pool of knowledge will be created to draw from in future years. If peat is considered a viable energy source — and peat is merely a long-term decay and settling of biomass product — then utilizing the renewable biomass should be viable as well.

The last article in this series will be published on Wednesday.

RESEARCH ASSISTANT in ecology, Mike Penko works with parasites which may be economically significant in managed cattail stands. Larvae in this temperature controlled unit at the University of Minnesota in St. Paul are fed various diets and subjected to temperature and light changes to determine affect on their growth. Although the burrowing larvae seem to be little threat in natural stands, the studies will determine likely loss as well as control techniques should cattail be grown for sale as a biomass energy product.

CATTAIL PLANTS may be affected by larvae such as this, shown slightly smaller than actual size. Research is being done at the University of Minnesota with larvae extracted from natural cattail stands. In its adult stage, this larva will become a grey moth.

Publish New Legislative Manual For MN.

Secretary of state's office announces publication of "The Minnesota Legislative Manual 1981-1982". The latest edition of the manual highlights the Minnesota Constitution.

Feature article by Betty Kane, a member of the 1973 Minnesota Constitutional study commission and author of a 1961 league of women voters study on the state amending process, presents a historical overview of successful and unsuccessful attempts to change the state constitution and discusses the amending process in Minnesota.

Secretary of State Joan Growe said that the feature article and a new table recording all amendments proposed since 1858 were an appropriate response to the 1980 election when Minnesota voters decided on five proposed amendments to the state constitution.

Every two years since 1891, the secretary of state has compiled and published "The Minnesota Legislative Manual" which becomes a continuing record of Minnesota government. The manual includes votes cast at the November 4, 1980 general election reported by precinct within legislative district; information about the three branches of state governments, local administration and Minnesota representatives in the federal government; as well as other general and historical data.

According to Growe, a limited number of manuals are distributed to Minnesota schools and libraries and single copies are available to citizens upon request. A student edition is published for use in schools and a classroom size set has been sent to every Minnesota public high school.

Requests for "The Minnesota legislative manual 1981-1982" or the student edition should be sent to Election and Legislative Manual division, Office of the Secretary of State, 180 State Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55155.

Fair Exhibitor Eligible For Quie Overnight

If you have exhibited at the Minnesota state fair for at least 20 years, Governor and Mrs. Al Quie invite you and your spouse as candidates to participate in a September 23 "Overnight at the Mansion."

In addition to a state fair exhibitor, people who fall into the following categories are also eligible for an overnight stay at the state Summit avenue residence:

—Someone who attended a one-room country school and presently lives in Minneapolis.

—A couple living in a house that has been owned by the same family for at least 100 years.

—A person whose last name begins with the letter "B" and is living in a town with a population under 300, and spouse.

First Lady Gretchen Quie requests that qualifying participants send a postcard with their name, address and daytime phone number to 1006 Summit avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota, 55105.

Winners will be selected by a random drawing and will be notified by telephone.

Further information and questions may be directed to project chairwoman Sue Dahl (612) 938-4779.

Farmers Union Presented With Special Award

Minnesota farmers union (MFU) was presented with the special governor's award at a statewide conference of vocational education administrators and teachers in St. Paul August 19, in recognition of the farm organization's long standing support of vocational education.

One of four awards given out at the first comprehensive Minnesota vocational conference held August 17 through 20 at the Minneapolis auditorium, the governor's award is given to an institution or organization that has shown active involvement, support and advocacy for the advancement of vocational education in the state that is visible and recognized by all, according to Marlene Palkovich, St. Paul vocational education administrator who organized the awards ceremony.

More than 4,000 vocational teachers and administrators from throughout the state participated in workshops, seminars and other events covering all vocational education fields at the conference.

The Frank Kalin Award, which recognizes the contributions of an individual vocational educator, was presented to Robert Van Tries, retired assistant state commissioner of vocational education. The John Carroll award, which recognizes the contributions of an individual in industry to vocational education, went to Daniel McPherson, vice president of General Mills.

The Charles Prosser award, which recognizes an individual for support of vocational education that is recognized on a national level, was presented to John Butler, retired president of Dunwoody Institute. The Prosser award has been given on only one other occasion — in 1974 to Hubert H. Humphrey.

F. B. Daniel, cooperative development specialist and educational adviser for MFU, accepted the Governor's award on behalf of the organization.

Noting that Minnesota is recognized as the national leader and model for vocational education, Daniel told the conference the state vocational education system today faces two major challenges . . . "to resist the temptation to take for granted what we have built and to preserve the financial support needed by the system to insure its continued success and development."

Unleash Banvel® against tough Hemp Dogbane
Your Dogbane days are numbered when you unleash Banvel®* + 2,4-D against problem hemp dogbane. A late application of Banvel + 2,4-D can beat back hemp dogbane and other combine choking broadleaf weeds in corn and sorghum.
Apply Banvel this fall shortly before harvest before the first killing frost. It will not only make harvest faster and easier with fewer slow downs caused by weed choke-ups, but will also give you a head start on dogbane control next year. Follow with another late fall application next year for effective hemp dogbane control.
The two year Banvel + 2,4-D Hemp Dogbane program will pay you back with better yields from weed-free rows and faster, cleaner harvests.

A Time For Sharing

Opening day enrollment figures for the Thief River Falls school system show a substantial enrollment drop of 114 students from a year ago — part of a continuing trend over the past several years. The drop is no reason to push the panic button, but it must stimulate some creative thinking about the future of the local schools.

District 564 is still of sufficient size to absorb such a student loss without having to sacrifice many programs in the curriculum. Smaller districts have gone on for many years without the numbers available to make up classes of interested students in special areas, and thus the students in those schools have been somewhat deprived of special training.

Over the years consolidation of school districts was touted as the answer to such problems, with the idea that bigger is better being expounded. Many consolidations took place, some of the problems were alleviated, but there were many bitter struggles and lasting animosities created.

It should now be apparent that consolidation of school districts will not often be effective from this point on. More likely to be successful, from a cost and efficiency standpoint, will be a system of sharing for the benefit of the greatest number of students.

Here in Thief River Falls the Northwest vocational center seems to be a working example of sharing. Member schools share in the costs and transport students here for exposure to training in a variety of vocational fields. Students from a number of schools thereby receive instruction that few would be able to receive on an individual school basis.

Carrying the sharing concept a step further, why wouldn't it be possible for two or more schools to share science instructors, mathematics teachers, language experts, almost any classroom instructor? If it is feasible to take busloads of students to a teaching facility, it must certainly be feasible to have an instructor cover a couple of area schools on a rotating or even a daily basis.

The same situation should be applicable to a degree in administration. We note that to the north of us three small school districts are sharing the same superintendent. The state high school league has allowed "pairing" of schools to permit extra-curricular programs to operate with participants from two districts on the same teams or activities.

Publisher Bob Johnson at Wadena points out in a recent editorial, "Taxpayers throughout the state have indicated they want the brakes put on government spending at all levels. Those brakes can be applied without the educational system suffering if the school boards are willing to consider sharing with neighboring districts. Such considerations are often killed because of local residents' fears of consolidation. That's why sharing should be considered openly and without thoughts of consolidation.

"Declining enrollments also should be an important factor in considering sharing. Unless current facilities are completely outmoded, it is difficult and almost impossible to get favorable votes on bond issues for school building construction at the present time."

In this area, school districts surrounding Thief River Falls have generally good facilities — in most cases, better than some of those in District 564. It would seem sensible to get the greatest utility from those buildings through a system of sharing.

"Current laws may not be conducive to as much sharing as we'd imagine, but laws can be changed and now is the time to consider those changes," Johnson writes. "School districts determined to maintain their individuality would best be served by school board members who are willing to seriously consider sharing of facilities and teachers."

Your Tax Dollars At Work

It is true we often are critical of government for not being open enough in its actions, but sometimes we wonder if the public notification effort doesn't get a little out of hand.

For instance, we recently received a "news release" from the USDA Midwest information office in Chicago which is apparently intended for public distrubition. What vital information does the release — likely sent to all newspapers and instant media offices throughout a several state area — have for us to consider?

The story tells us that "Copies of the proposed rule for 'Standards and Labeling Requirements for Mechanically Processed (Species) Product and Products in Which It Is Used' are available upon request." We're sure most of our readers will want to rush right out and order at least one.

What will they get?

"The 78-page Federal Register issue contains the proposed rule in full, a summary, a preliminary regulatory impact analysis of the proposed change, some conclusions of consumer studies done on mechanically processed meat products, and exhibits showing current and proposed labeling requirements," according to the release.

It's bad enough that it takes a 78-page issue of the Federal Register to handle a rule on labeling of processed meat. It's worse that an item of limited and selective interest is deemed worthy of public note — to the tune of an expensive mailing at least.

Isn't it great to see your federal tax dollars at work?

What Got Watt?

Following editorial is from the Ely Echo:

The screams of anguish from some environmental groups have become a shrill din bordering on violation of the noise pollution laws as they decry the continuing efforts of Interior Secretary James Watt to dismantle several decades of conservation activity involving land and water conservation in the U.S. Some of the screams are aimed at President Ronald Reagan, either requesting that he put the arm on Watt, fire Watt or possibly assassinate Watt.

The reason the nation has a James Watt as Interior Secretary is not because of President Reagan. It is because of the environmentalists themselves. It has been the insistence by various single-issue pressure groups that no tree shrub, insect, fish, bird, flower, animal or rock or anything else be used, disturbed, moved or even breathed upon, that brought us James Watt. He is a reaction to nonsense. He was inevitable. The problem with the environmental groups is simply that they lack a sense of proportion. Everything is a number one priority, whether it is saving a single tree from a construction crew or an entire lake from pollution. Each group has its own little action cut out and beware anyone or any group that gets in the way. In their zeal, they simply do not care who gets trampled on or whose rights are violated as long as they get their way. The pay off is a reaction as sure as day follows night. And they still don't understand it.

There is an insistence on continual government acquisition of private land for parks, wildernesses and recreation areas when the government cannot manage what it already has. There is an insistence that all trees, grass, water and wildlife on federal areas should be there to look at, not to use . . . in spite of increased needs by the people for more wood, food, fiber, recreation, drinking water and industrial water. What finally evolved was a massive program where the environmentalists were plastering the nation with an unending number of "Keep Out" signs followed in fine print by the message "Unless We O.K. Your Admittance."

Unfortunately, there will be a lot of other losers in this reaction by the Watt people, losers including the nation's fishermen and hunters when the forests, fields, streams, lakes fish and wildlife will reflect the detrimental effects of turning the clock backward. The trouble is that the people who want to lynch Watt are the same ones, by and large, who set the stage for his arrival . . . and would go right back to the same program if they got a chance. They never learn.

Watt has the idea that there is open season on any of the nation's resources by anybody who wants them. The hard core environmental people want it all locked up . . . for everybody but them. It would be nice if we could put the Watt people and the single issue environmental people in the same time capsule and ship them all off to Saturn.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Summer Question: Why do young people who complain about having nothing to do have to stay out so late at night to get it done?

Pointing to a newspaper photo, a mother told her young son, "These little boys are orphans. They have no mother or father and no Aunt Hattie like you do. Would you like to give them something?" The boy thought a minute. "Let's give them Aunt Hattie," he replied.

WALKATHON winners were presented with $10 gift certificates by Chairman Steve Young, Physical Therapist at Northwestern Hospital, Friday. David Koch, 6, was the youngest; Christiane Wald was the oldest, and David Bennor raised the most pledges at $343. About $2,300 was raised by 41 participants walking a total of 552 miles, all but six completing the entire course. The money will be used for the development of community health education workshops, including programs on diabetes, fitness for senior citizens, women's health issues, and a model employees' physical fitness program.

"Cancer Answers" is a weekly column sponsored by the Red River Valley Medical society, the Red River Valley unit of the American Cancer society and the Thief River Falls Times. Questions may be mailed to the editor, Thief River Falls Times. All questions will be answered, and those of a general interest will be published in "Cancer Answers."

Dear Cancer Answers:

I read somewhere recently that Valium, the tranquilizer, might be associated with cancer. I take Valium occasionally for my nerves. Am I in danger of getting cancer? Should I stop taking Valium?

Nervous

Dear Nervous:

The articles published recently about Valium and cancer were based on research done by a Canadian scientist, Dr. David Horrobin. Dr. Horrobin reported his studies suggest that Valium may enhance or promote the growth of cancerous tumors in animals.

According to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, another study done by an independent testing laboratory for the drug company that manufactures Valium showed no evidence that the drug causes or promotes cancer in rats. An FDA-supported drug study group found no evidence of an association between Valium and breast cancer.

At this time the National Cancer Institute and the Food and Drug Administration do not consider Valium to be a cancer-causing substance. However, further testing is being done to learn whether or not there is any association between Valium and cancer.

You should talk to your doctor about your concerns. If it would ease your mind to stop taking Valium, the doctor may be able to prescribe another type of tranquilizer.

Dear Cancer Answers:

Not long ago, when I had a yearly physical exam, my doctor found a small lump on my shoulder. He said it should come off, and at an appointment a few days later, he froze the area and cut the lump out. After it was examined in the laboratory, the report came back that the lump contained basal cell cancer. Still, my doctor said not to worry — that everything was fine. I thought that every cancer was bad. Should I worry: Should I have more treatment?

D.R.

Dear C.R.:

Basal cell carcinoma is a form of skin cancer that grows mainly on areas of the body regularly exposed to the sun. It is one of the least serious forms of cancer because it grows very slowly and rarely spreads to other parts of the body. Basal cell tumors are usually fairly simple to remove and require no further treatment. This is one of the few cancers doctors almost always consider cured as soon as the tumor is removed.

Some people seem to be slightly prone to developing basal cell tumors. They may have several of them over a period of years. These new tumors do not mean that the original cancer has spread — each one is independent. People who have had a basal cell skin cancer diagnosed should be alert for any other unusual looking areas on their skin and should have regular physical examinations.

DAWN PLANTE, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Plante of rural Brooks, will be one of eight candidates competing for the title of Miss Brooks for the 1981-82 year. Dawn, who enjoys swimming, tennis, baking and listening to music, is a member of the Erskine school. While in school, she has been a member of the paper staff, choir, and has played volleyball. Her plans following high school include attending the University of Minnesota in Crookston to become a legal secretary. She will be sponsored in the competition by Brooks Farm Supply. Miss Brooks for 1981 crowned during the annual Blast to Brooks celebration September 12 will succeed Linette Genereux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Genereux of Terrebonne.

Dear Cancer Answers:

I had a biopsy for throat cancer but the doctor delayed it for a week. Why didn't he do it the same day rather than put it off? Since the diagnosis was cancer am I now at increased danger?

Wilma

Dear Wilma:

The exact reason for the timing of the biopsy could only be provided by your doctor. However, we can reassure you that waiting five days was not dangerous. Cancer is relatively slow growing and frequently takes many years to reach a stage that can be diagnosed.

Whenever a doctor says or does something you don't fully understand, you should ask for a simple explanation.

Dear Cancer Answers:

My mother recently had a mastectomy for breast cancer and she's now taking chemotherapy. I've noticed that she seems to begaining quite a bit of weight. Is this normal for people on chemotherapy or is it something we should be concerned about?

A.S.

Dear A.S.:

Many breast cancer patients who are taking prednisone as part of their chemotherapy experience a temporary weight gain. This is due to a combination of factors.

Prednisone seems to create a sense of false appetite which makes the patient want to eat more frequently. Because the drug also tends to irritate the lining of the stomach, the patient may be encouraged by her doctor to drink more milk or to try to eat smaller, more frequent meals. The milk or food helps to protect the stomach lining from the irritating effects of the prednisone. Patients taking this drug also seem to retain more fluid than normal causing them to feel slightly puffy or bloated.

Although the weight gain may be bothersome for your mother, it should last only as long as her course of chemotherapy. In the meantime she might try eating foods that are lower in calories.

Your mother's doctor undoubtedly is monitoring her weight. Your or your mother should discuss your concerns with the doctor who may be able to offer other suggestions to help keep her weight under control.

Dear Cancer Answers:

My sister's doctor recently told her that she had chronic ulcerative colitis. He said that the condition was not serious, but should be checked regularly because of the chances of it turning to cancer.

What is the risk of a person with colitis getting cancer?

M.S.

Dear M.S.:

The risk of colon cancer in patients with chronic ulcerative colitis varies, according to a number of factors. For example, persons who have had colitis since their teens run a 20 per cent risk of developing cancer of the colon if the colitis has persisted for 20 years.

On the other hands, adults with recently diagnosed chronic ulcerative colitis have a cancer risk of only about 2 per cent. The danger of cancer increases with the duration of the colitis.

The severity and extent of the colitis also influence the cancer risk. Other factors may be a family history of colon cancer or personal history of colon polyps.

Because each individual case is different, regular check-ups are a must.

In some cases of longstanding severe colitis, surgery is recommended when the physician feels that there is a significant chance of cancer developing. The operation involves removing the diseased portion of the bowel. This not only eliminates the danger of cancer; it restores the individual to good health.

Since your sister's doctor said that her condition is not serious, her chances of developing cancer are probably slim. The fact that a risk does exist, however, underscores the importance of regular checkups.

Gov. Quie's Column

State government officially resumed full operation last week upon the negotiation of a tentative settlement in the strike by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) Council 6, whose members had been on strike since July 20.

The approval by the union members and the vote ratification by the Legislative Commission on Employee Relations last Wednesday ended the largest strike in Minnesota history. The striking employees have been working since Aug. 11, when negotiators arrived at a settlement which they felt fair to the employees and yet within my budgetary guidelines.

When the strike became imminent, the state said we could afford a package of improved salaries and benefits for those involved in the strike totaling up to $85 million. AFSCME's demands totaled $135 million when they voted to strike last month. During the strike, the state offered to restructure its offer to the union and continued to negotiate in good faith while insisting that the final costs take into account the budgetary constraints facing our state.

We were successful. The final settlement results in a net cost to the state of $84.8 million. This is made possible by the savings of slightly over $7 million which occurred during the strike. The decision to use a protion of the strike savings to finance the settlement was based on our judgment to establish a fair and equitable wage benefit package for this group of employees and should not be interpreted as a policy that the state would apply to other unions which strike.

This new contract is fair and equitable. However, there have been significant changes which will result in long-term savings to the state and thus to you as a taxpayer.

The State of Minnesota has, in the past, paid the full cost of all employee health and medical insurance, and at least 90 per cent toward the cost of any dependent coverage the employee may elect to carry. Cost to the state varied under each of the different health plans offered. That procedure obligated the state to pay the total cost of any plan elected by an employee and constituted an open-ended commitment to absorbing spiraling health care costs.

Under the new contract, the state has adopted a new concept of a flat-rate contribution by the state, with employees picking up the difference in cost depending on the benefit plan he or she chooses.

This was a rational, cost-effective management decision and provides an incentive for each employee to enroll in a health care program with lower premiums while providing long-term protection for the state in absorbing increased medical insurance costs.

Although the strike was legal, I believe it was unfortunate. While the employees will gain an average of $275 during the next two years as a result of the strike, on the average they sustained a loss of $975 due to lost wages and because the settlement is not retroactive. The contract became effective August 11.

I am glad the striking members of Council 6 employees are back to work and I thank both the state employees who continued to provide essential state services during the course of the strike and the managers and administrative officials who coordinated my strike contingency plan. With their foresight and hard work, the citizens of Minnesota received continued service with a minimum of disruption.

Birthday

Mrs. Ray Solney, Mrs. Clara Letsch, Mrs. Marie Solney and Mary Sabo brought birthday anniversary greetings to Mrs. Myrtle Rude Thursday in Thief River Falls and enjoyed a birthday luncheon complete with the traditional cake. Mrs. Rude's birth date had been the previous day.

Mrs. Urban Ewing of Isanti and Jessica Welsch of Rush City arrived Friday and spent until Sunday at the Charles Ellingson home. Mrs. Ewing was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Ellingson, Saturday when she attended her 50th class reunion. Seven of the nine graduates, all of whom are living, attended the reception held that afternoon in the banquet room of a cafe in the Beltrami mall. Patty, Tara and Connie Ellingson of Thief River Falls also arrived at their parental home Saturday to visit their grandmother and cousin and were overnight guests. Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Ellingson and Missy of Aurora and Sharon Ahlert and Alice Ellingson of Newfolden joined them for dinner and the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Linert and Amanda of Thief River Falls were Saturday afternoon visitors at the Kendall Jensen home.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Zavoral of Thief River Falls were Saturday afternoon coffee guests of Mrs. Wilma Olson.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT
NATURAL GAS
With oil prices currently averaging nearly $1.20 per gallon, natural gas continues to be a great buy. Not only a great buy, but a sound investment. The homeowner who replaces oil with natural gas this year for heating, can look forward to as much as 40%, or more, savings in fuel costs. Where else can one look for a similar recovery rate on the investment dollar? There is no better investment! That's real ESP (Energy Savings Payback).
GEE, I DIDN'T KNOW THAT!
Natural gas has been a vital American energy resource for 50 years. As we advance into the 1980's, we find natural gas supply readily available. Natural gas will continue to play a major role in meeting this nation's future energy needs and it will be a primary factor in reducing our country's overdependence on OPEC oil.

Use Music Therapy At Courage Center

During a recent summer afternoon, a small group of physically disabled adults gathered at Courage center in Minneapolis to sing.

Some of them were in wheelchairs and some used canes. Their ages ran the gamut from early 20s to early 70s. For 35 minutes they happily sang a variety of songs, ranging from gospel to a Russian folk song.

These people were enjoying a brief, enriching moment in their lives during a music therapy session.

Music therapy, one of a number of rehabilitation programs at Courage center, is more than just entertainment, according to music therapist Cindy Raynor.

"As part of a 'whole person' approach to rehabilitation, music therapy fits in well with other modes of rehabilitation," she said. "Music therapy not only increases a person's sense of self-esteem, but can actually aid physical recovery from a disability."

Raynor cited examples of rehabilitation achieved from music therapy.

"It's been observed that some people with speech impairments who have difficulty talking properly can sing fluently," she said. "Other people who have had strokes or disabling accidents causing decreased function in one of their arms have sometimes been shown to be able to use that arm while playing an instrument like a guitar."

Music therapy sessions include singing, playing instruments and listening to, enjoying and interpreting many styles of recorded music. Raynor emphasized that her program isn't meant to teach mastery of singing or playing instruments, but is designed to give people with physical disabilities a chance to try out several forms of musical expression.

"We want to expose people to music and let them hear it, play it and appreciate it," she said.

Music therapy sessions are targeted to all ages. Besides the adult outpatient group session, the center offers private lessons for individuals, young adults living in the center's transitional residence and young children attending preschool classes.

According to Raynor, disabled preschoolers benefit greatly from music therapy while they're preparing for future mainstreaming in public schools.

"Music stimulates children to use their minds, voices and bodies whether they're singing or playing simple rhythm instruments," she said. "The songs they sing can teach them about colors, the alphabet and parts of their bodies."

But whether a music therapy client is three years old or 70, the benefits from music therapy seem evident when clients themselves talk about their experiences.

Back at the adult session, when everyone was singing a Russian folk song, none sang it with more gusto than Leya Gerlickman, 57, of Minneapolis, who only a few years before had been a seriously ill former bank teller living in the Ukranian city of Kiev.

She spoke in halting English about emigrating to the U.S. with her sister and her sister's husband in 1978 and how an American nephew discovered Courage center for her when she complained about being "very, very bored."

She declined to reveal her disability, saying, "Tell people I'm handicapped in a wheelchair. That's all they have to know." But she's more than willing to talk about her involvement in music therapy.

"I wasn't very musical in Russia before I was handicapped," she said. "I didn't have the time. I worked 10 to 12 hours a day at the bank and then went home to do my housework."

"But in music therapy I enjoy singing and laughing and talking with my friends," she added. "I like the people and they help me forget about my disability."

Gerlickman's classmates find her good humor contagious and she seems to be the life of the party at her sessions.

"I tell the other people jokes and stories about Russia," she said. "In Russia they don't care about sick people. They give you money but no attention. In America they care about handicapped people and they help you. That's the reason I feel happy enough to sing."

Wood Stoves & Safety Is The Topic Tuesday

All persons interested in burning wood can attend a session at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Northwest experiment station, agricultural research center, Crookston, on wood stoves and safety.

Other programs planned by the Northern Tier Solar Energy Society include sessions explaining installations of active and passive solar systems, heat exchanges, earth shelter and wind energy units. A tour of local solar units which are installed and operating is set for Saturday, October 24.

Membership is open in the society and includes a monthly newsletter. A $15 annual membership fee or a meeting fee of $2.50 is charged.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

A basic American principle is that the best government is the government closest to the people. To reaffirm that principle after 50 years of unbridled growth of government at the federal level, President Reagan has proposed that some 84 health, education and social categorical aid programs be consolidated into six block grants for states and localities to spend the way they see fit.

As you can imagine, this proposal has evoked howls of protest from members of Congress, Washington, bureaucrats and professional welfare lobbyists who view themselves as the wisest judges of what is best for the rest of us. Yet, not only does the block grant concept represent a long-overdue reversal of decision-making authority away from Washington, it would also allow a more efficient delivery of government services to those citizens who depend on them.

Each time a new social program has been enacted at the federal level, a new federal bureaucracy has sprung into existence to grind out the rules, regulations and paperwork associated with that program. States and localities have then been forced to respond in kind by spawning bureaucracies of their own to comply with those federal mandates. The result is not surprising: By the time each layer of bureaucracy skims its share off the top of the federal aid dollar, there are but a few cents left to help the citizens for whom the funds are intended.

By consolidating dozens of such programs into block grants and cutting many of the strings that Washington has attached to them, the federal layer of bureaucracy now governing those programs would become a dinosaur ripe for extinction. That means more dollars will reach the end of the aid pipeline and provide actual services for people — instead of red tape for one bureaucracy to create and another to untangle. States, cities and local governments would be given greater authority to decide how the allotted funds could best be spent to meet their particular needs.

Sounds sensible enough, doesn't it? Nevertheless, specific block grant proposals have already been defeated in various Congressional committees, and the outlook for the administration's "new federalism" is uncertain.

The most frequent criticism of block grants is that worthy programs and their needy recipients would be neglected by callous, wasteful state governments. But isn't there something else behind Congressional opposition to block grants? After all, playing Santa Claus 365 days a year with billions of dollars of federal aid is a role few politicians are willing to relinquish — especially to another politician. Many a Congressional career is being perpetuated by the ritual of dispensing grants and aid to a thankful constituency. Never mind that it is the constituency's money in the first place!

Americans recognize a responsibility to help those who are less fortunate, and the suggestion by block grant opponents that this commitment would dry up and disappear the moment Washington stops mandating it is nonsense. Those who are truly interested in delivering the best possible social, health and educational services to our citizens should recognize that officials at the state and local levels have the potential to be far more responsive to the needs and priorities of their area than does a coterie of bureaucrats in Washington.

Do we need any further illustration of this than the department of education's bilingual education ruling last year? Until the courts knocked it down, this ruling required that a school with 25 students speaking a foreign language had to teach those students all the subject matter in that language rather than teach them English first. I cannot conceive of 50 states making such a silly decision as that. So much for the wisdom of Big Brother!

Budget control, tax reduction and regulatory relief are all important parts of President Reagan's promise to reduce the role of big government in our economy and our everyday lives. Yet, in an important sense, the block grants stand at the center of what the conservative rebellion in this country is all about. By eliminating a direct federal role in dozens of aid programs, the block grant approach represents a potent weapon in the fight to control the federal budget. But more important, the enactment of block grants would signal the beginning of the end to federal paternalism with a reaffirmation of the people's right and ability to make their own decisions affecting themselves and their communities. It's about time.

Is your job hazardous to your health?

According to the authors of a new study, while the American business community has made excellent progress in guaranteeing the physical safety of the workplace, we still have a lot to learn about a condition which they claim afflicts one out of every two workers — job burnout.

Job burnout is a label used by James P. Spradley and Robert L. Vinga to describe a debilitating physiological condition brought about by unrelieved work stress. Their book, "The Work-Stress Connection, How to Cope With Job Burnout," details hundreds of people in hundreds of varied occupations who face potentially serious health problems as a result of the day-in-day-out pressures of their jobs. All told, the authors estimate, job burnout now costs American business 430 million lost workdays a year, not to mention other less quantifiable costs in worker productivity.

I had the opportunity to discuss this problem with Dr. Spradley in a recent edition of "What's the Issue?", the U.S. Chamber's syndicated radio interview program. He made it clear that job burnout has many causes and takes many forms — from the unrelieved boredom of an assembly worker to the relentless pressures on a top corporate executive. But whether burnout is a product of underwork or overwork, the lack of challenge or too many challenges, the employee is risking serious health problems such as high blood pressure and ulcers if the root causes of this condition are not found and addressed.

In some cases, corrective action rests with the individual employee. Most extreme, of course, is for the burned-out employee to leave his job for one which is more suited to his talents, temperament and goals. Knowing thyself is important, and if in the course of choosing a profession, you make a wrong choice, you should have the courage to pick up and move on. Life is too short to stay behind a roadblock.

For other burnout victims, a simple change in lifestyle may be all that is necessary. For example, many office workers have discovered that instead of cocktails, naps and television, a comprehensive physical fitness program is the best way to relieve the accumulated pressures of the workday.

But the burden of preventing burnout does not rest solely with employees. Dr. Spradley discovered that in many cases, high incidence of employee burnout can be attributed to the particular operating style of the boss. A hypercritical boss quick to complain when things go wrong but aloof when a worker does a good job can adversely affect the morale — and productivity — of all employees.

Most important, though, is that the business or organization has a clearly defined sense of purpose — a mission which all employees from the top of the scale to the bottom can embrace and make their own. As both a teacher and a manager, it has been my experience that the mission of an organization is the most important ingredient in modern work life, and the most critical factor in preventing employee burnout.

At the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, for example, we have made it our mission "to advance human progress through an economic, political, and social system based on individual freedom, incentive, opportunity and responsibility." Is that a tall order? You bet! But we really believe that we are part of a team leading millions of Americans to our belief that we can get this country back on track by reaffirming the principles of private enterprise upon which our nation was founded. This sense of purpose helps our organization, but it also provides meaning and direction for each of us individually.

If business is not yet alert to the growing health problems caused by burnout, then it should be, because business pays the bills. We now foot the bill for more than half the cost of medical care in this country, through health insurance and other services offered to employees. For this reason alone, "The Work-Stress Connection" makes an important contribution to our understanding of health and productivity problems brought about by stress. The more we learn, the more we can fix. It's that simple.

Doctors Report On Prenatal Diagnosis

Dramatic new developments in ways to treat the fetus with birth defects while still in the womb give new importance to the rapidly developing field of prenatal diagnosis, according to a report in the current "Journal of the American Medical Association." (JAMA).

March of Dimes research grantees Michael R. Harrison, M.D., and Mitchell S. Golbus, M.D., with co-author Roy A. Filly, M.D., of the fetal treatment program of the University of California, San Francisco, describe the diagnosis and therapeutic alternatives possible for fetal malformations that can be recognized early in pregnancy.

Drs. Harrison, Golbus and Filly were principals in successful prenatal surgery reported in the press late in July, involving correction of a urinary obstruction on a male fetus before birth. The child and his normal female twin were delivered alive and well, and the boy is progressing satisfactorily at three months of age.

"Our ability to diagnose birth defects has achieved considerable sophistication. Treatment of several fetal diseases has proven feasible, and treatment of more complicated lesions will undoubtedly expand as techniques for fetal intervention improve," the authors write.

"It seems likely that the fetus with a treatable birth defect is on the threshold of becoming a patient," they conclude.

Much of the animal research over more than three years which led up to the successful prenatal treatment was supported by the March of Dimes.

The article points out that prental diagnosis will not alter current practice with many birth defects, since some cannot be corrected, and more correctable conditions are best treated after normal delivery.

"However, a few are amenable to treatment before term," they say. "Since their recognition will influence management of the pregnancy, prental diagnosis of these disorders assumes practical clinical importance."

The authors acknowlege that fetal therapy raises complex medical and ethical issues, such as defining the benefits and risks of fetal diagnosis and treatment.

In the same issue of JAMA, Dr. John C. Fletcher, a bioethicist at the national institutes of health, points out in an accompanying editorial that "the great appeal of fetal therapy is the promise of earliest feasible treatment to correct diseases that result in a lifetime of physical suffering and economic burdens."

"The economic considerations should be secondary to the opportunity to relieve or prevent suffering, but the economic question should not be passed over lightly," Dr. Fletcher writes. "Fetal therapy may represent one example where treatment is indeed prevention."

Timothy Seed Production Up 137 Per Cent

Timothy seed for 1981 is forecast at 11.4 million pounds, up 137 per cent from 1980, according to a recent release prepared by the Minnesota agricultural statistics service. Area for harvest is estimated at 44,000 acres, up slightly from 42,000 acres in 1980.

This year, in sharp contrast to the drought year 1980, moisture was adequate in the northwestern Minnesota Timothy seed producing area. Growing conditions were generally very good except for scattered severe hail and insect damage.

Weather at harvest time was excellent. Harvest was about a week later this year than last; average beginning date was August 7 in 1981, compared with July 30 in 1980. Yields are expected to average 260 pounds per acre, close to 1979's record high of 275 pounds.

In looking at United States production figures, production of Timothy seed in 1981 is forecast at 13.5 million pounds, up 66 per cent from last year's short crop but 28 per cent below 1979 production. Minnesota's return to a normal level of production this year is responsible for the gain in U.S. production. Other states in the four-state growing area showed declines this year. Farmers in Illinois and Missouri reported heavy seed loss from excessive and heavy rains at harvest time. Some Ohio acreage intended for seed was cut for hay after rain caused shattering of heads. However, good yields were obtained from fields that were harvested.

Total supply of Timothy seed for the 1981-82 marketing season is indicated at 22.5 million pounds. This is one-third higher than last year, but 4 per cent short of the 1979 supply. Farmer-owned carryover of 1.49 million pounds was down 23 per cent, but this was more than offset by heavier stocks held by dealers.

Cross Country Program Grows

Renewed interest in the Thief River Falls cross country program under second-year coach Lynn Dyer has produced an ever-growing turnout for the sport that stood at 47 Friday and was expected to hit 50.

"It's been crazy," said Dyer about the number of program participants that seems to increase with every practice, "but it's a nice kind of crazy," he smiled.

The Thief River Falls cross country program has really blossomed. In addition to the increased number of runners for both boys and girls in grades 6-12, the Prowlers have plenty of talent; enough talent that Dyer expects the boys to be Region 8AA contenders and figures the girls will be Northwest Athletic Conference champions.

The Prowlers, who annual make one home meet appearance among their list of invitational meet appearances, have added a second home meet this fall: a varsity-alumni race Friday, October 9, at 7 p.m. on the Thief River Country Club golf course. That's just three days after the Thief River Falls invitational, a 4 p.m. event Tuesday, October 6.

All Lincoln cross country alumni are invited to run in the Oct. 9 race. Interested runners are asked to contact Dyer by calling 681-2700, extension 325, or 681-2067.

Area Sports Coverage

This week will mark the beginning of football and volleyball seasons at many high schools in the area, and The Times will once again include Goodridge, Middle River, Plummer, Oklee, Grygla-Gatzke and Marshall County Central in sports coverage that centers around Lincoln high school and Northland community college teams.

Area coaches have been most cooperative in the past and hopefully will continue to keep in touch this fall. If your football and volleyball scores don't appear on a regular basis, Goodridge, Middle River, Plummer, Oklee, Grygla-Gatzke and Marshall County Central fans should just remind their coaches to report their results — win or lose, at home or on the road.

Miscellaneous

+Bemidji high school girls tennis coach Ellis Halgrimson told Pat Miller of the Bemidji Pioneer that lack of facilities is hurting the Lumberjills' tennis program. "Our lack of facilities keeps the numbers down," he said. "I don't feel Bemidji is a tennis town. Tennis has come a long way in ten years, but it's still not being promoted. The college is the only place in town where you have suitable facilities and if an athlete can't practice or play, how long will she stay on the team?" Bemidji lost a pair of potential starters in singles when Heather and Tiffany Turner moved to Florida.

+Thirty-two young hockey players were evacuated from the Brainerd area civic center August 22 when a leaky valve spewed deadly anhydrous ammonia into the building. The youngsters, who were taking part in the Herb Brooks hockey school at the arena, were removed from the building without injury and the leak was stopped within an hour's time, according to a story appearing in the Brainerd Dispatch.

+A reminder that the 1981 Lincoln high school football season opener Friday vs. Grand Forks Red River will have a 5 p.m. start at Cushman Field in Grand Forks. Immediately following the Prowlers and Roughriders will be an East Grand Forks vs. Grand Forks Central game, prompting the early start for the first one.

+Detroit Lakes American Legion baseball coach Ric Otto told Ralph Anderson of the Becker County Record that the 1981 season was a disappointment for the Lakers, who won 10 of their first 11 games, but struggled to a 15-15 finish. The defending District 9 tournament champions were eliminated in sub district play. "Emphatically, it was a disappointing season," said Otto, who expects things to improve in 1982. "I am anxious for 1982 to start already. I feel that we have a tremendous core of talent returning for next year and we will add a number of outstanding prospects from the Legion B team that finished its season brilliantly. I have sensed a feeling among the players that 1982 will be a season dedicated to proving that 1980 was no accident and that 1981 was an accident. Our Detroit Lakes American Legion baseball program is at a watershed point," he added. "From here we will either improve our play, and expand and improve our schedule and assume a competitive position on a state-wide basis, or we will abandon such ambitions for being satisfied to play a league schedule."

+Bemidji American Legion baseball team named Bryan Hickerson, the club's top pitcher and hitter, its most valuable player award winner, with Paul Sickman named the most improved player and Daryl Strunk tabbed rookie of the year. Bemidji coach Whitey Anderson told a banquet and audience that the 1981 team had set a goal of reaching the District 6 tournament and had gained that goal. Next year he said the team will raise its sights to gaining a state tournament berth.

North Star Transport Wins North Region Title

North Star Transport of Thief River Falls, a state tournament runner-up the week before, came up with an unbeaten championship performance in the eight-team, double-elimination Northern Region Class B fast pitch softball tournament played Saturday and Sunday at Sioux Falls, S.D.

State champions and runner-up teams from Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, along with the host Stockman's Bar team from Sioux Falls and an additional Twin Cities entry — Green Leaf Bar of Minneapolis — took part in the tournament.

North Star Transport opened against Green Leaf Bar Saturday, winning 9-0 as pitchers Al Erickson and Marty Brown combined on a six-hit shutout. Erickson went the first six innings for the win, backed by home runs from Ron Ostby and Mike Kvarnlov.

Saturday night produced a North Star Transport confrontation with City-Wide of Duluth, the team that beat them twice to win the Minnesota state Class B tournament title. North Star Transport turned the tables this time, winning 13-3 ten-run rule game in six innings. Brown pitched a three-hitter while Ostby and Roger Cota both collected three hits in the winners' 13-hit attack.

North Star Transport beat Stockman's Bar 4-1 in the match-up of the tournament's last unbeaten teams early Sunday afternoon. Cota and Ostby homered and Brown picked up the win.

Stockman's Bar got another shot at North Star Transport in Sunday night's championship game, but the Thief River Falls team jumped out to a 4-0 lead after four innings and held on for a 5-3 victory.

Erickson started on the mound in the title game and went through four scoreless innings before giving up three hits and three walks in the fifth to make it close. Brown came on in relief and got out of a two-out, bases-loaded jam by striking out the Sioux Falls clean-up hitter.

North Star Transport collected 12 hits in the championship game, including a home run by Nick Neibauer and two hits apiece by Bruce Johnson, Howard Dalager and Darrell Stromlund.

After struggling with a .236 team batting average through eight state tournament games, North Star Transport pounded out 40 hits in four region starts, posting a .333 team batting average at Sioux Falls.

The Northern Region is the end of the line for North Star Transport since national tournament play is conducted only for Class A and Class AA teams.

Middle River Will Face Early Season Challenge

North Tri County Conference nine-man high school football observers are looking at Middle River, Oklee, Gonvick-Trail and Clearbrook to wage a four-way battle for first place in 1981. And if that's the case, Middle River coach Eldon Sparby will find out in a hurry just where his team stands as the Skippers open the season against the other three challengers: playing Friday, September 4, at Oklee; Friday, September 11, vs. Clearbrook; and Friday, September 18, at Gonvick-Trail.

"I think the conference will be decided pretty early," noted Sparby, who knows the Skippers' fortunes will depend upon a strong start.

"We're looking for a pretty good year," added Sparby. "We're not fast, but we've got good size. We're going to have to try to control the football; we won't have that wide open offense like we had last year. Defense will be our strong point. We don't know what to expect on offense."

Seven seniors who were either full or part-time starters a year ago when Middle River went 7-2 are listed as "key people" by Sparby, including co-captains Steve Bengtson, a fullback-defensive lineman, and Mike Peterson, a quarterback-linebacker.

The others are runningbacks Doug Kilen and Jeff Cwikla, third-year starter at defensive end Ryan Johnson, defensive end-offensive guard Dan Burda and center Harlen Olson.

In addition, two other seniors are expected to help, with Brent Walton slated to play safety and Jon Neumann, who missed last year with a back problem, providing a big target as a receiver.

Twenty-four candidates reported for the start of football practice, and Sparby said he was pretty well satisfied with the turnout.

Meanwhile, graduation losses decimated the Middle River volleyball team, leaving coach Julie Helgeson with just one returning starter this fall: senior Debbie Dahl.

"This will be very much a rebuilding year," confessed Helgeson. "I think we'll be respectable, though. We have some good athletes who are willing to work hard and learn."

Dahl, along with junior Kari Skoglund and sophomore Paula Rantanen, a pair of performers off last year's junior varsity, are expected to be the Skippers' leaders this fall.

Middle River will take part in the Roseau volleyball jamboree Thursday before opening regular season play Tuesday, September 8, at Plummer.

Grygla Teams Open Seasons

Grygla-Gatzke high school coaches Darwin Hagen and Curt Vandermeer find themselves working with the number two this fall.

Hagen, the Eagles' football coach, has just two seniors among the 18 players who are working toward the 1981 season opener Friday, at 7:30 p.m. North Tri County Conference nine-man game at Plummer.

Meanwhile, Curt Vandermeer, the Eagles' first-year volleyball coach, inherited a team that lost just two seniors to graduation, but both of them — Jill Saurdiff and Lois Verbout — were all-conference players. The Eagles, who will take part in a jamboree at Roseau Thursday, open their regular season volleyball schedule Tuesday, Sept. 8, at Badger, with junior varsity play opening things at 6:30 that night.

Lack of numbers and lack of experience are the obvious problems facing the Grygla-Gatzke football team. Runningback John Verbout and guard Gerry Lunsetter are the team's only seniors, with Lunsetter also qualifying as the Eagles' only 200-pounder.

Others expected to join Verbout and Lunsetter as key performers for the Eagles this fall are juniors Rodney Hagen, a quarterback; Kelly Englund, a runningback; and Paul Polansky, a lineman; along with sophomore Doug Schulz, a runningback.

"It's kind of a rebuilding year," admitted Hagen. "We're kind of young, but we've got some good kids."

Vandermeer, who succeeds Pam Worth as the Grygla-Gatzke volleyball coach, has returning veterans in seniors Jean Verbout, Ginny Paulson, Tammy Sistad, Sherri Anderson, Pebs Peterson and Wendy Wikert, with juniors Becky Klein and Denise Wikert also expected to push for playing time.

"We're going to start kind of slow," warned Vandermeer, "but I think we'll end up pretty decent. We're short, but we'll be scrappy."

Vandermeer was more than happy with the number of girls who reported out for the sport this fall — 26. The Eagles' home opener will be played Thursday, September 10, vs. Warroad. All Grygla-Gatzke volleyball matches start with 6:30 p.m. junior varsity games, followed by the varsity match.

FRIDAY WILL mark the opening games of the 1981 football season for Minnesota high school teams, but Thief River Falls, Warroad and East Grand Forks got a taste of the action Saturday during the eighth annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Pigskin Preview. Originating from their own 40-yard line, teams ran 25 offensive plays against the other two opponents during the nearly three hours of varsity scrimmages. Strong defensive play highlighted the host Prowlers' performance. Offensively they had trouble moving the football, failing to reach the end zone against East Grand Forks and scoring only when a short pass play over the middle against Warroad was turned into a 30-yard touchdown. Meanwhile, Thief River Falls kept East Grand Forks out of the end zone and surrendered only a long touchdown pass against Warroad. East Grand Forks put the ball in the end zone four times against Warroad without giving up a score. In the photos, Thief River Falls quarterback Brent Schmitz called out signals against Warroad; Thief River Falls runningback Jeff Imgrund tried to get outside on Warroad while the Prowlers' coaching staff looked on; and Warroad runningback Mike O'Donnell fumbled the ball away as Thief River Falls' Kerry Wollin gave chase. Barbecue supper served by the Sports Boosters followed the scrimmages. Thief River Falls will open its 1981 football season Friday when the Prowlers face Grand Forks Red River in a 5 p.m. game at Cushman Field in Grand Forks. At 8 p.m. at the same site, East Grand Forks opens against Grand Forks Central. The Prowlers' home opener will be played Friday, September 11, vs. Detroit Lakes. Other Thief River Falls home games this fall will be played Friday, September 11, vs. Grand Rapids; Friday, October 2, vs. Moorhead; Friday, October 9, vs. Bemidji; and Friday, October 30, vs. Crookston. All Thief River Falls home games start at 7:30 p.m. Bemidji will serve as the Prowlers' homecoming opponent.

LEAPING IN THE air, Lincoln high school senior Christie LaCoursiere was able to return a shot at the net against East Grand Forks Friday morning in the first round of No. 1 doubles competition in the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Early Bird invitational high school tennis tournament. LaCoursiere was paired with freshman Michelle Olson for the Prowlers' 1981 home opener, a six-team affair involving Barnesville, Bemidji, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Moorhead and Thief River Falls.

Lincoln Boys, Girls Expect Successful Seasons

Prowlers Field Strong Cross Country Teams

Easy winner of the most optimistic coach award at Lincoln high school this fall is Lynn Dyer, who is beginning his second year with the Prowlers' boys and girls cross country teams. He figures both of them to be championship caliber squads, with the boys expected to challenge the Region 8AA leaders and the girls gunning for a Northwest Athletic Conference title.

"We're pretty excited," says Dyer, looking ahead to the 1981 season that starts Tuesday, September 8, at Roseau for both the boys and girls.

Thief River Falls boys placed seventh in Region 8AA in 1980 when the Prowlers did not have a senior on the team. Expected improvement on the part of the nine returning lettermen, plus some impressive newcomers, could vault the team among the title contenders.

"Our goal is to be one of the top two teams in the region," explained Dyer, who expects the Prowlers to handle most area opponents, but looks to teams like Cold Spring Rocori, St. Cloud Tech and St. Cloud Apollo as chief Region 8AA challengers.

"We've got to be one of the best teams around," offered Dyer. "Our guys are really fired up."

"It's going to be a real battle for positions," pointed out Dyer. "There's lots of competition for spots; our line-up could change every meet."

Seniors Sue Hanna and Kristy Forsberg will captain the Lincoln girls. Eight returning letter winners include the captains, plus senior Mary Beth Dondelinger; sophomore Sheri Sabo; freshmen Delaine Johnson, Jackie Thune and Tricia Armstrong; and eighth grader Jina Mules.

Rest of the squad includes sophomore Jessica Soine, along with freshmen Georgia Howard, Kris Hoff and Julie Finstad.

There are enough girls on hand this year to make the Prowlers a very competitive team, noted Dyer. "I think we're going to be strong," said Dyer about his girls. "I think we could be the conference favorites."

Hanna and Forsberg, who placed among the top 25 runners in Region 8AA last fall, could move up considerably in 1981, says Dyer.

Annual Thief River Falls invitational will be held Tuesday, October 6, beginning at 4 p.m. on the Thief River Country Club golf course.

Vehicle Use On Wildlife Area Explained

Motor vehicles may be operated in state wildlife management areas (WMA) on federal, state or county highways and township roads in accordance with their established regulations. Driving on all other roads and trails in WMAs is regulated by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

On some of the larger WMAs vehicles are permitted on roads other than federal, state, county and township routes. In northwestern Minnesota, these areas include Thief Lake, Roseau river and Red Lake WMAs. Motor vehicles on those areas may be driven only on established roads, not in excess of 20 miles per hour. No vehicle may be driven beyond a sign prohibiting vehicular use or beyond a man-made vehicle barrier.

On all other WMAs vehicles are prohibited except on routes designated by signs as being for travel purposes.

No all-terrain vehicles including off-road motorcycles and "three-wheelers" may be operated in WMAs. No vehicle may be parked where it obstructs traffic.

Snowmobiles are permitted on WMAs in northwestern Minnesota north of U.S. Highway 2 from East Grand Forks to Bemidji. They must be used in accordance with all other laws and regulations.

Host Prowlers Win Title In Tennis Tournament

First Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Early Bird invitational high school tennis tournament proved to be a smashing success Friday — at least for the host Prowlers who won team honors and took four of the five individual trophies in the sun-drenched six-team event.

Thief River Falls finished with 23 out of a possible 25 points, followed by Bemidji with 17, Crookston 15, Moorhead, 10, Barnesville 6 and East Grand Forks 4.

Individually, the Prowlers came up with winners at No. 1 singles where sophomore Kim Lawrenz was unbeaten in five matches; at No. 2 singles where sophomore Amy Thorstad tied senior Kristi Bahr of Bemidji with a 4-1 record but won the trophy because of an 8-3 victory over Bahr in the eight-game pro set matches; at No. 1 doubles where senior Christie LaCoursiere and freshman Michelle Olson finished 5-0; and at No 2 doubles where seniors Nancy Swanson and Marsha Erickson also swept all five matches.

Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson was elated with the Prowlers' performance. "It was just an outstanding effort," he said. "I didn't think we could win by that much. They played very, very well. It was a marvelous day."

Only trophy to leave Thief River Falls Friday was at No. 3 singles where Crookston junior Tia Shortridge emerged as the winner. She finished 4-1, as did Thief River Falls freshman Penny Johnston. But Shortridge beat Johnston 8-2 in head-to-head competition.

Thief River Falls, 1-0 in dual meet competition, will host East Grand Forks Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in both varsity and junior varsity play. The Prowlers visit Bemidji Thursday for another 3:30 match.

DNR NEWS

It's coming around to that time of year when many big game hunters, both archery and firearms, are thinking about building a new stand or checking out the old one. Permanent stands are perfectly legal as long as they are constructed no higher than six feet above the ground on private land or on public land where such stands are permitted.

However, permanent stands for big game hunting (deer, moose or bear) are not permitted on state wildlife management areas (WMA's). DNR Commissioner's Order Number 1961 states: "It is unlawful to construct, occupy or use any elevated scaffold or other elevated device for the purpose of hunting, watching for, or killing big game, except that portable tree stands may be used for this purpose provided they are removed each day at the close of hunting hours and do no permanent damage to trees in which they are placed". Portable stands must be placed no higher than six feet. Hunters are cautioned that this Commissioner's Order would prohibit the use of any elevated device, such as 55-gallon oil drums which have been found on some WMA's. Big game may be hunted on WMA's from trees, at any height, as long as an artificial scaffold, platform or other construction is not used.

State wildlife management areas should be posted, at least on the property corners, with black and white or black and yellow signs. If you are in doubt as to whether your favorite deer stand is on a WMA, check with your local area wildlife manager or conservation officer. Maps showing the location of WMA's, and complete regulations are available from Jon Parker, Area Wildlife Manager, P.O. Box 502, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. His office is on the second floor of the city auditorium, telephone 681-7789. Maps and regulations can also be obtained by writing to the Thief Lake Wildlife Management Area.

Lower Fort Garry Unique Attraction

On the banks of the Red river just 20 miles north of Winnipeg stands one of North America's two stone trading posts that date back to the fur-trade era.

Lower Fort Garry, built in the early 1830's, is a peaceful and beautiful as its creator, George Simpson, hoped it would be.

After the earlier Fort Garry, at the junction of the Red and Assiniboine rivers in what is now downtown Winnipeg, was ruined by floods in 1826, Simpson, Governor of Rupert's Land, decided to build the lower fort on high ground north of the treacherous St. Andrews rapids and away from the hectic pace of life at the settlement.

A clerk of the time wrote that "not a wife can sell her butter nor a farmer his grain without an audience with the Governor". Simpson was seeking a quieter place from which to direct the affairs of the Hudson's Bay company, to which King Charles II of England had granted the rights to all the land draining into Hudson bay. This amounted at the time to almost half of the North American continent.

In 1831 Simpson brought Pierre Leblanc, a French-Canadian craftsman, from York Factory on Hudson bay to supervise construction. Leblanc first built a large stone residence for the governor and his new wife Frances. Shortly afterwards, this "Big House" was flanked by two large stone warehouses, each three stories high. This group of buildings formed the nucleus of the complex, which eventually also included the "men's house" where male employees of the company lived, the doctor's house and a store. The buildings, and the eight-foot high retaining walls, are made of limestone from the nearby river banks.

Outside the compound are a blacksmith's shop, the engineer's cottage and the Fraser house, an original post-on-sill structure built by James Fraser, a Scottish farmer, in the early 1830s. It is one of the few remaining Red river frame buildings in Canada.

The most striking thing about Lower Fort Garry is its air of authenticity. Researchers spent years scouring Canada, England and the U.S.A. for furniture, clothing, dishes, pots and pans, books, pictures and artifacts dating back to the mid-1800s.

Period costumes have been copied in minutest detail, and "animators" dressed as the associate governor, his wife, the store clerks, maids, cooks and the blacksmith greet visitors and speak as if they were living back in the 1800s.

In the huge downstairs kitchen of the Big House, maids bake bannock, scones and ginger and oatmeal cookies. "Associate Governor" Eden Colville and his wife, who lived in the house in the early 1850s, meet visitors at the front door and talk about their home. It contains elegant furniture, silver urns, marble figurines, pewter jugs, quill pens and a multitude of other artifacts. A set of orange- and-white stoneware dishes is displayed on the sideboard of the formal dining room where the Governor entertained the chief traders and factors of the Hudson's Bay company and highly-placed people from the community. Doorways are low and beds are small, since the average man at that time was about five-feet-five and the women about five feet tall.

A housewife in the Fraser house makes tallow candles from sheep or beef fat poured into metal tubes, with a string for the wick. She also makes soap, from the same fat treated with wood ash lye. In front of a bellows-fed fire, the blacksmith forges horseshoes, locks and bolts, tongs and candlesticks.

An original York boat stands in a lean-to beside the fur loft building. Hundreds of these sturdy boats, which carried up to two tons of cargo, traveled the waterways from Hudson bay to the Rockies and from the Red river to the Arctic.

In the men's house are spinning wheels, looms and skeins of wool dyed in rainbow hues with berries, herbs and bark, which the staff women weave into shawls, rugs, wall hangings and cushion covers.

The ground floor of the fur loft building (one of the two warehouses) contains a replica of the Hudson's Bay store that served the people of the settlement. Shelves are stacked with every conceivable item of clothing, yardgoods and household ware. There are dishes made of tin, wood and china; there are beads, horse bells, traps, guns, brooms, Hudson Bay point blankets, men's and women's boots and a universal pain-killer which was 90 per cent alcohol and sold in large amounts for every imaginable ailment.

Settlers received credit notes or tally sticks for their farm produce, with which they then made their purchases. When shipments arrived each year from England, such large and eager crowds gathered outside the store that customers were only allowed in two at a time, to be served by the two clerks behind the long counter.

On the second floor of the building is a storeroom containing barrels of currants, rice and lead-based paint. In the fur loft above hang hundreds of cured pelts of fox, lynx, wolf, raccoon, beaver and mink. Staircases, walls and original ceiling beams in all the buildings have been preserved wherever possible; when replacement was necessary they have been carefully copied.

In the stone posts of the east gate — at the main entrance to the Big House — visitors can see the carved names of soldiers who were garrisoned here in 1870-71. The fort, however, never served as a military installation, but was the administrative centre and provisioning post for the fur trade. Troops were sent in 1846 to discourage the growing free trade movement around the settlement; and again in 1870 to restore order after the Metis, under Louis Riel, had seized the Upper Fort in protest against the transfer of Rupert's Land to Canada.

The fort was later used as a training ground for the Northwest Mounted Police, as a provincial penetentiary, as a temporary "lunatic" asylum and finally a company residence until 1911, when it was leased to the Manitoba Motor country club. The big house was used as a clubhouse until 1962. The title had passed from the Hudson's Bay company to the Crown in 1951 and Parks Canada began restoring the site to its original character in 1964.

About 140,000 people visited Lower Fort Garry in 1980, and Al Buzlak, visitor services officer, says the numbers grow steadily every year. Between 16,000 and 20,000 school children are taken on tours every year between mid-May and the end of June. A visitor's reception building, opened in 1980, contains a 150-seat theatre where a slide show depicts the history of the fort. A brilliant new exhibition area details the story of the fur trade and early settlement through artifacts, illustrations and mannequins representing fur trade society.

The restored buildings of the fort are open to the public from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., mid-May to mid-October. The historical grounds are open year round during daylight hours, and group interpretive programs during winter months are available through appointment with the park office. With the help of the "animators", visitors can easily take a time-trip into Manitoba's past as they stroll through Lower Fort Garry's beautifully-restored buildings.

RIVER LOTS FOR SALE

Beautiful heavily wooded river lots for sale in a peaceful, secluded area 2½ miles south on 32 N. We still have several choice 2½ to 5 acre plots left. 3 have walkout basement sites with private riverside parks; one has 920 ft. of river frontage. We also have 4 left in our Oak grove overlooking Aubel's Dam and rapids with huge old oaks and a scenic view. We have 40 acres of river property and will sell only the 7 homesites on the river frontage mentioned above. We don't want to disturb the quality of life on our homestead by overbuilding or commercial development. A few 1 to 2 acre lots are also available farther back from the river at considerably lower prices. Reasonable interest and terms available. We invite you to share with us the enjoyment of country living.

Site Sought For Nuclear Disposal

It's lethal and piling up, yet there's still no permanent dump for the nation's troublesome stock of nuclear waste.

But the pressure's on. Temporary storage sites, some holding highly radioactive wastes for nearly 30 years, are almost full. By the mid-1980s, some nuclear power plants may start shutting down unless they can find a repository to store more atomic refuse.

"According to the timetable we have now, a permanent federal storage site should be ready by 1997," says Dr. Yvonne Condell, Moorhead, member of a national program review committee for the office of nuclear waste isolation. "We're searching for at least three to five suitable locations and a decision on them will be made within the next three years."

Condell sits on one of four nationally appointed committees overseeing the federal government's search for a permanent nuclear waste repository. It is an independent citizens group under contract with the department of energy, made up of 14 people charged with reviewing the non-technical aspects of the search. Other committees are looking at the technical angles.

After a year of studying the scientific and social problems involved, Condell's committee recently visited possible disposal sites in Mississippi, Nevada and Washington, kicking off a narrowing search to entomb the nation's accumulation of atomic trash.

Weapons programs alone have generated over a half million tons of highly radioactive wastes, most of it stored "temporarily" on federal reserves in Washington, South Carolina and Idaho.

But a growing concern, and the primary one now, Condell said, is commercial waste from the nation's 72 nuclear power plants. It's building up faster and contains more radioactivity than military waste.

A typical 1,000-megawatt commercial power reactor, like the ones at Monticello and Red Wing, produces 30 tons of radioactive waste a year. In the U.S., these reactors have accumulated nearly 6,000 tons of it all kept temporarily in water-filled cooling pools at the reactor sites. Many of these pools are running out of space, says Condell. Most were designed for only five or 10 years of storage.

Radioactive wastes are by-products of nuclear fission. They're deadly, containing some of the most virulent and penetrating radioactive carcinogens (cancer-causing agents) known — plutonium 239, strontium 90, cesium 137 and others. By 1990 there's expected to be seven times as much power plant waste as there is now. Besides the 72 reactors currently on line, 85 new ones are under construction and 19 are on order.

Seven states already prohibit construction of any new reactors until the disposal issue is settled.

Although there's been some talk about shooting nuclear wastes into space or sinking them into the polar ice caps, Condell said, research is now focused on burying them deep underground, about a half mile down in stable geological formations of granite, basalt, salt or shale. From the health and environmental safety standpoint, she said, most of these formations haven't been disturbed in millennia, and are away from threatening earthquakes and threatened aquifers.

Because of the granite bedrock under Minnesota's northern tier, it is one of 23 states being studied as a possible nuclear waste site, Condell said. North Dakota's Williston basin, also once a possibility, is no longer high on the list.

Salt formations, because of their self-healing properties, are prime targets now, Condell said. Heat from buried nuclear waste might crack surrounding bedrock. But salt has the plastic ability to seal itself up again. And the presence of salt itself (because it hasn't dissolved) proves the long-standing absence of water. Some of the salt formations are six miles deep and three across and haven't been disturbed in millions of years.

Stability of the formation is important, Condell said, because some radioactive elements remain dangerously toxic for thousands and even millions of years.

Besides the half-mile buffer of earth and rock, Condell said, the spent commercial fuel rods will be sealed in either leach-proof glass or ceramic containers and then locked in thick stainless steel canisters about one foot wide by 12 feet long. One year's waste from a single 1,000-megawatt nuclear power plant will fit into 10 of these canisters.

Although it can be reprocessed, most of the energy remaining is in the form of weapons-grade plutonium. Worries about terrorism, nuclear proliferation and the fragile SALT II negotiations with the Soviets convinced former President Carter to halt all nuclear reprocessing, even though Britain, France and the USSR are currently recycling spent fuel. Even with the ban, Condell said, it might be wise to keep these wastes within reach. Someday they might provide insurance against our depleting supply of uranium ore.

Now the big question: Who wants all this radioactive garbage in their back yard? Practically no one, Condell says. More than 15 states have already passed laws banning or restricting storage or transport of nuclear wastes within their borders.

One of her committee's primary jobs, though, is to make sure the federal government doesn't blunder or bluster its way into a site selection. "We don't want to mislead or bully anyone," she said, even though the federal government probably has veto power over states that are reluctant to take the wastes.

"Our objective is to get the consent and concurrence of the people who'll live near the repositories," Condell said. "We're basically serving a public relations function, both keeping the people informed and advising the government on how acceptable its plans are. We don't want them to take sacred tribal land, for example. We don't want to repeat the recent mistakes that power line companies in Minnesota made."

This spring they visited their first potential site, an insolated area in Perry county, Mississippi. The committee spent a week meeting with city and civic leaders from nearby communities, exploring the social, economic and people issues that might affect the county if it were selected as a nuclear waste repository site. Perry county sits atop huge salt formations that are plentiful around the Gulf of Mexico.

The committee opened its relationship with Perry county officials by making a presentation and then answering questions, Condell said. One of their first questions was pointed: "Are you telling us, or asking us (if we're going to be a nuclear waste dump)?"

We told them, Condell said, that our committee wasn't there to give them a snow job or a hard sell. "Our objective is to educate community leaders on the subject and get their consent and concurrence. We don't want them to read in the newspapers that the town has been selected as a nuclear waste repository. We're expecting some give and take."

The committee's not just looking at the immediate future, Condell said. "We're looking at the social, safety and economic issues that will affect the area five to six generations down the line." Although some radioactive elements in spent fuel remain dangerously toxic for millions of years, she said, most largely decays after 600 years.

The committee has also looked at a prototype repository at a nuclear test site 70 miles outside of Las Vegas, NV. There'll be other sites, too, but they're facing a deadline now. Construction of exploratory shafts at three sites is expected to begin in 1983.

"Whether you're pro or anti-nuclear power," Condell said, "the issue of disposing nuclear waste is still pressing. It's not a matter of should we or shouldn't we. We have to."

Hospital Will Offer Diabetes Control Class

Affecting children and teenagers as well as adults, diabetes can lead to severe permanent damage to vision and limbs unless the diabetic learns how to control the disease on a daily basis.

"Life With Diabetes — A Step By Step, Day By Day Plan" is a series of classes offered four consecutive Mondays from 7-9:30 p.m. beginning September 8, at Riverview hospital, Crookston, for diabetics, their families and health professionals on the management and control of diabetes through diet, medication and exercise.

Instructors include three registered nurses and a registered dietitian. Preregistration is required no later than Sept. 4 by calling 281-4682, ext. 413.

A fee of $15 for the entire program entitles diabetics to bring a family member or a friend, free of charge, to acquaint them with procedures involved in diabetes control. Health professionals attending the course can obtain nine contact hours towards continuing education.

Antique Cars Will Be Shown This Weekend

North Dakota Region Antique Automobile Club of America is holding its antique car show at Grand Forks arena Saturday, and Sunday.

This event is purported to have the largest gathering of antique, class, and special interest cars ever assembled in the area. Over 100 automobiles will be on display from the early 1900's up to and including the early 1960's. Many are traveling great distances just to show their restored machines.

The program will include music, old time costumes, old car displays and old motorcycles.

Gates are open 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Sunday.

For further information and details concerning the Great Antique Car Show, contact Gary Sannes, 522 Cottonwood, Grand Forks, ND, phone 772-1492.

Family Camp Is Labor Day Weekend Event

Gloryland Gospel Team, Gully, will sponsor a Labor Day family camp at Sand Hill lake Bible camp, south of Fosston, September 4-7 with registration at 4 p.m. and the evening service at 7:30 p.m.

Theme for the camp will be "Living In The Lord's Anointing", accented by speakers, Ken Bolin, Rev. John Goodrich, Rev. and Mrs. Larry Johnson, Dr. and Mrs. Ed Ortiz, Rev. David Johnson and Rev. Gary Johnson.

Special music will be presented by The Joyful Sound, Crookston, Ken Bolin, Oklahoma City, OK; Dr. and Mrs. Ed Ortiz, the Gloryland Gospel team and others.

There will be special classes for children during the morning sessions. There is no registration fee, but reservations would be appreciated so that adequate preparations can be made. Write or call: The Gloryland Gospel Team, Gully, MN 56646. Phone 218-268-4141.

The camp is operated completely on a free-will offering basis. Dormitories for family units and singles and all meals will be provided. Spaces for trailers, motorhomes and tents are also available.

State Funds To Help Retarded Made Available

Three programs were funded by the Minnesota legislature to develop services for mentally retarded persons.

The family subsidy, begun in 1975, last year served 105 families, and now is open to 95 additional families over the next two years. The subsidy provides monthly grants to families of mentally retarded children under age 18 to help with costs involved in providing services at home. The program is designed to prevent placement outside the home. Services that could be paid for under the monthly subsidy include respite care, medical expenses, child care, and special housing or transportation costs.

For further information, contact local county welfare or social service offices or Shirley Bengtson, Mental Retardation Division, Minnesota Department of Public Welfare, 4th Floor, Centennial Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55155, telephone (612) 296-2168.

The legislature also authorized grants to assist non-profit organizations in constructing, buying, or remodeling small group homes for mentally retarded or cerebral palsied persons. Such homes are expected to be needed in greater numbers as more people move from state hospitals into the communities. For further information, contact Mary Kudla at the address listed above, telephone: (612) 296-3829.

A third program is the new semi-independent living service (SILS) funding. Funds are available to providers of SILS programs to provide training in skills needed by a mentally retarded person to function in a more independent manner. The services are for people who need more than basic food and lodging, round-the-clock care or supervision.

FFor more information, contact Bob Meyer at the above address, telephone: (612) 296-2147.

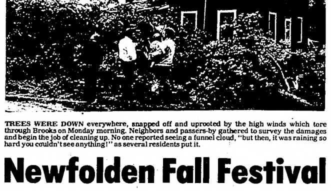
A DOOR was left behind when the garage owned by Russel Noyes was lifted from over his car, right, and dropped on the house owned by Sidney Myhre and occupied by Joyce Cook. Cook's car, left, was pushed sideways about a foot, and damaged by the high winds at Brooks. Remains of the garage were also scattered on the other side of the house. Noyes' car appeared untouched.



TREES WERE DOWN everywhere, snapped off and uprooted by the high winds which tore through Brooks on Monday morning. Neighbors and passers-by gathered to survey the damages and begin the job of cleaning up. No one reported seeing a funnel cloud, "but then, it was raining so hard you couldn't see anything!" as several residents put it.

Newfolden Fall Festival Event Schedule Listed

Schedule of events has been completed for the Newfolden fall festival which will be held Saturday and Sunday, September 12 and 13. A wide variety of events and activities is being planned which will offer entertainment or participation for nearly everyone.

Saturday events open at 9 a.m. with registration and first round of the festival tennis tournament, punt and pass competition registration and opening of games and booths. Parade will be held at 11 a.m., a country market from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and a pumpkin judging contest at noon. A tug of war is planned for 1 p.m., pancake supper from 4:30 to 7 p.m., talent show from 7:30 to 9 p.m., Red River Valley fiddlers' old-time dance at 9 p.m. and street dance at 10 p.m.

Sunday events include qualifications for the horseshoe tournament at 10 a.m., bicycle race registration at 10 a.m., pig roast from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., horseshoe tournament at 1 p.m., mixed doubles tennis tournament at 1 p.m. and Miss Newfolden pageant at 8 p.m.

Parade participants are to line up at 10:30 a.m. on September 12. Additional entries are being invited but must be received by September 10. For entry details call 874-7745 or 449-4245 evenings.

Tennis tournament will be held Saturday on the courts east of the high school and entries will be accepted in junior singles (ages 9-15), men's singles, women's singles, men's doubles and mixed doubles. Entry fee will be $3 per player per event, plus a fall festival button, and each player is asked to provide a new can of tennis balls. Players will also be asked to help out as line judges in matches preceding their own. For registration and details, call 874-4501. Mixed doubles will be played Sunday afternoon.

Qualifications for the horseshoe tournament will take place Thursday and Friday evenings and Sunday morning at the pits south of the tennis courts. Tournament will start at 1 p.m. Sunday. Entry fee will be $3 plus a fall festival button. For registration and entry details call 874-7675.

Punt and pass competition, similar to those seen on television, will be held on the football field north of the high school September 12. Entry will be by fall festival button and competition will be held by age groups. Entry information is available by calling 874-4935.

A bicycle race course is being laid out and racing will be held on Sunday, September 13, within age groups and in overall competition. Entry fee is a fall festival button. Registration and entry details are available by calling 523-5235.

2 More 10-Ton Routes Okayed In NW Minn.

Seasonal and temporary 10-ton routes have been designated, effective September 1, in southern, northwestern and west central Minnesota and in the St. Paul metropolitan area by commissioner Richard P. Braun, the Minnesota department of transportation announced.

Added to the 10-ton system in northwestern Minnesota are: TH 32 from TH 102 at Fertile to Ulen in Clay, Norman and Polk counties (temporary route); and TH 200 from TH 32 north of Twin Valley to US 59 at Mahnomen in Mahnomen and Norman counties (temporary route).

In west central Minnesota, TH 9 from US 10 to CSAH 39 at Borup in Clay and Norman counties has been designated.

The temporary and seasonal designations allow the routes' use by trucks with tandem axle loads up to 34,000 pounds and total gross weights of 80,000 pounds for properly registered vehicles. Special permits are not required to use these routes.

The newly designated routes will remain at the 10-ton rating until Mn-DOT determines that they should be posted for lower weight limits.

Sessions On Natural Foods Thurs., Fri.

Pennington county homemakers will learn about selecting and preparing natural foods at two training sessions taught by Deborah Matero, Pennington county extension agent. First session will be conducted Thursday (September 3) at 7:30 p.m. in the courthouse meeting room. A repeat of the lesson will be offered Friday (September 4) at 1:30 p.m. at the same location.

Matero will define natural foods and will demonstrate how homemakers can introduce these foods to family meals. Foods to be demonstrated include whole grains, wheat germ, sprouts, tofu and carob. Samples of these foods will be available to participants.

Anyone interested in joining a homemakers club should contact Deborah Matero at the Pennington county extension office: 681-2116.

Hearing On Revenue Funds At St. Hilaire

City of St. Hilaire will conduct a public hearing at 7 p.m. September 14 in the city hall for the purpose of hearing written and oral comment from the public concerning the use of revenue sharing funds as contained in the 1982 proposed budget.

Amount of unappropriated revenue sharing funds in the local trust fund is $463. Amount of revenue sharing funds expected to be received during the year is $1,800.

Old Mill Will Grind Flour This Weekend

Labor day weekend vacationers will again find the grist mill at Old Mill state park in operation from 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday and Monday.

The 103-year-old Case steam engine will once again provide power for the grinding. Marshall county historical society is providing manpower through the volunteers-in-parks (VIP) program.

Other activities at the park include camping, picnicking, swimming and hiking, according to Leonard W. Anderson, park manager.

Two Accident Victims In Fair Condition

Report this morning from Deloris Spencer, assistant administrator at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls, indicated that two victims of a recent automobile accident are listed in fair condition.

Accident happened Saturday evening on a gravel road curve two miles east of Middle River.

Reported in fair condition are Kevin Seidel, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Seidel, rural Newfolden and Scott Sorter, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luvern Sorter, rural Middle River.

According to a report of the accident, Seidel lost control of his 1968 Mercury at the curve, causing the vehicle to leave the roadway and land in a ditch.

Mrs. Elwin Ness, who resides one-quarter mile from the site of the accident, reported hearing the victims' cries for help as she drove by, and called the ambulance. The vehicle driven by Seidel was totaled.

Both victims suffered broken right legs. Sorter, who also sustained a punctured lung, is yet a patient in the intensive care unit.

Republic Plane Entered During Overnight Here

Passengers for Republic Airlines early morning flight from Thief River Falls to the Twin Cities were delayed several hours this morning when it was discovered that the plane which overnights here had been entered sometime during the night.

An interior door had been broken, a person or persons entered the cockpit area and apparently tampered with the controls. Although no damage nor theft could be determined, the flight was canceled and another plane with a mechanic aboard brought here from Minneapolis to check out the aircraft. The flight departed about 10:15 a.m., using the plane brought from Minneapolis.

The incident has been reported to the Federal Aeronautics administration and is under investigation locally by the Pennington county sheriff's department.

Tractor Pull To Draw Big Units

A CLOUD OF DUST nearly obscures the entry as this four-wheel drive pickup competes in a Red River Valley tractor pulling association sanctioned event. Pickups and tractors in a number of classes will compete at the truck and tractor pulling contest in Thief River Falls Saturday, beginning at 2 p.m. Sanctioned by the Red River Valley association, the pull will attract entries from a wide area with some unusual equipment to be competing.

Engines will roar, dust or mud will fly and drivers and machines will strain when the first annual Thief River Falls Jaycees tractor and pickup pull is held Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Pennington county fairgrounds in Thief River Falls.

Although there will be seven classes for standard out-of-field tractors and friendly competition there will be high, attention will be concentrated on the open classes where some unique entries will be competing.

Among the bizarre but efficient units will be a jet turbine creation by Don Anderson of Detroit Lakes. It is powered by a T-59 Lycoming engine out of a UH 1B helicopter which generates up to 1,500 horsepower, coupled to a semi-tractor rear end machined to accept a planetary final drive. The special pulling tires are over six feet high. By adding strategically placed weights, the tractor will compete in all three weight classes of modified competition. It is the only jet turbine tractor in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Anderson competes in 15 to 20 tractor pulls a year, mostly with the Red River Valley Tractor Pulling association which is sanctioning and regulating the pull here Saturday. Drivers will be competing for points toward year-end placement awards. The points competition will assure many units from a wide area.

Among the competitors will be Norman Carlson of Rosholt, SD, president of the association. His tractor is powered by an Allison engine out of a P-51 Mustang, a World War II fighter plane. The V-12 engine is capable of producing up to 2,000 horsepower. A similar engine will be used by Karam Loyland of Thompson, ND, in his entry.

Innovation is no stranger to other entries, however. Gene Haugen of McIntosh will enter his creation which has two 440 Chrysler engines coupled together. And the Ellingson Brothers of Bemidji use up to three 454 Chevrolet engines in their pulling machine. When pulling some of the units will generate tire speeds of up to 75 miles per hour.

Anderson was the 1980 points champion in the 5,500 pound class of modified tractors but fell two points short of the title in the 7,500 pound class. He has a background of auto, motorcycle and snowmobile racing and says that tractor pulling is a "fantastic way to play with high horsepower without the danger of speed."

Tractors and pickups in the competition will pull a skid which shifts weight forward as it is pulled down the course. Objective is to pull the skid the greatest distance to win the

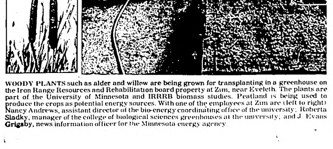
Biomass Versatility Is Key To Future Demand



WOODY PLANTS such as alder and willow are being grown for transplanting in a greenhouse on the Iron Range Resources and Rehabilitation board property at Zim, near Eveleth. The plants are part of the University of Minnesota and IRRRB biomass studies. Peatland is being used to produce the crops as potential energy sources. With one of the employees at Zim are (left to right) Nancy Andrews, assistant director of the bio-energy coordinating office of the university; Roberta Sladky, manager of the college of biological sciences greenhouses at the university; and J. Evans Grigsby, news information officer for the Minnesota energy agency.

One of the nation's noted scientists is impressed with the versatility of biomass conversion and feels that it is deserving of much more funding and study.

"Studies for just one of the huge coal gasification plants have probably taken more money than the entire biomass budget since they thought of the word," states Dr. Ed Lipinski, a scientist at Battelle Institute in Columbus, Ohio, in a telephone interview with the Times Monday.

There has probably been less than $150 million in total spent on biomass energy study over the past five or six years, he said, indicating that he would like to see both government and private industry involved in the research. Growing a new crop for which there isn't a firm market requires public financial help for awhile. Seed companies are not in a position to make that kind of investment in new variety development, disease resistance studies, insect pest investigation and related items.

Private research on biomass use is certainly going on, Dr. Lipinski said, but it is not widely publicized by industry. "Industry prefers to wait until the plants are going up before announcing what is being done," he said. "I am aware of several projects that are underway and I would expect accelerated activity in the next couple of years."

Dr. Lipinski became acquainted with Douglas Pratt, head of the botany department at the University of Minnesota in St. Paul, as a result of Dr. Pratt's work in biomass energy studies, particularly with cattail. Dr. Pratt directs the bio-energy coordinating office at the university.

"What I'm in favor of doing is quite a bit of experimentation with a wide variety of crops such as cattail," Dr. Lipinski said. "These plants have had only modest support up to now but merit a lot more.

"Cattail study has been side-tracked largely because of the interest in corn, which is relatively inexpensive and considered a big bargain. People know how to process it well. Starch from cattails therefore has to compete with something which is familiar and has proved to be cheap. If the price of corn rises because of buyer demand, then manufacturers will begin to look for other sources of cheap starch."

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Gayle Peterson And Brian Walker Wed Here

Miss Gayle Peterson and Brian Walker, both of Moorhead, exchanged marriage vows recently at St. Bernard's Catholic church in this city.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Peterson of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Walker of Red Lake Falls.

Rev. James Bernauer officiated at the double ring ceremony. Organist was Polly Schmitz, a friend of the couple. Kathy Achenbach sang "The Rose," and "Wedding Song." Tim Hagl was Reader, and Billy Achenbach, Mass server.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was attired in her mother's ivory satin wedding gown. At the neckline, she wore a rose pendant, a gift from the groom. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion fell from a ivory satin headpiece. She carried a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses.

Matron of honor was Arlene Mercil, a sister of the groom. Bridesmaids were Diane Walker and Sandra Schob. All wore blue silk gowns with floor-length pleated skirts. They carried red roses and ivory gladioli.

Serving as flower girl was Tanya Schob, godchild of the bride. The rings were carried by Andy Walker, nephew and godchild of the groom.

Attending the groom were Derald Mercil, as best man, Bryan Grove and Brian Peterson. Ushers were Gordon Peterson and Paul Walker. The groom wore a blue tuxedo and his attendants wore white attire. Their boutonnieres were of red sweetheart roses and babies' breath.

The mother of the bride was attired in a green floor-length gown complemented by a corsage of yellow and white roses. The mother of the groom wore a pink floor-length gown with a corsage of pink and white sweetheart roses.

Kristi Jorgenson was the bride's personal attendant.

Serving as hosts and hostesses at the reception that followed were Mr. and Mrs. Alan Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ng. Karen Dammen presided at the guest book and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Walker ladled the punch.

The four-tiered wedding cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Leonard Melin, was topped by fresh flowers. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Herb Achenbach, a friend of the bride, and Mrs. Phillip Walker, an aunt of the groom. At the coffee service were Mrs. Oscar Dammen, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Delwin Schob, the bride's godmother.

Becky and Amy Walker, nieces of the groom, were in charge of the gifts.

Following a wedding trip to Canada, the couple is now at home at Buffalo. The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and Northland Community college. The groom is a graduate of Lafayette high school, Red Lake Falls; Northland Community college, Thief River Falls, and Moorhead State university. Photo, R.L. Nieland studio, Thief River Falls.

Geving And San Families Gather For Reunion

Geving-San families, formerly of the Thief River Falls and Goodridge area, held their first family reunion at Breezy Point resort at Pequot Lakes the week of August 16.

Members of the immediate family spent the week exchanging memories of bygone days and catching up on current happenings. They also enjoyed golfing, swimming, sailing and waterskiing at the resort.

Family members included Mrs. Sadie Geving of Thief River Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Geving and children of Anoka; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert (Lorraine Geving) Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Tony DeFelice, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Larsen, and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hopkins and children, all of Westland, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hopkins and Sean of Poughkeepskie, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Louis (Ardith Geving) Martin, Tacoma, Wash.; and Dr. and Mrs. E.J. (Lynn Geving) Hagin, Santa Maria, Calif.

On Saturday, August 22, they were reunited with other family members at the Glen Geving home in Anoka, where a total of 62 attended the barbecued pig dinner.

Family guests included Mike Maxwell, Davenport, Iowa; Robert Martin, Seattle, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin San, Duluth; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon San and family, Shakopee; Kermit San and children, Lakeville; Mr. and Mrs. Nicky Ventrella and family, Madison; and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Caine, Hibbing.

The family is planning a second reunion next year in California.

Sandy Zimpel Bridal Shower Set at Plummer

Sandy Zimpel will be honored at a bridal shower on Thursday, September 3, at 8:00 p.m., at the St. Vincent dePaul Catholic church basement in Plummer.

Everyone is welcome to attend.

Jaymee Sue Pasch And Kenneth Lindblom Wed

Jaymee Sue Pasch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Pasch of Lockport, Ill., and Kenneth Jerome Lindblom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Lindblom of Goodridge, exchanged marriage vows recently at St. Dennis Catholic church in Lockport, Ill.

Rev. Theodore Berst officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Organist was Lois Nelson and soloist was Elaine Rutter.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, was attired in a floor-length gown of white organza with tha lace stand-up collar. A coordinating lace ruffle on the bodice formed the V-yoke, creating off-the shoulder sleeves. At the hemline was a double lace ruffle. Her headpiece was a crown of stephanotis and babies' breath. She carried a cascade of burgundy roses, white snowflake mums and fresh babies' breath.

Maid of honor was Kim Kovs. Other attendants were Marge Lindblom, Minneapolis, sister of the groom, Jan Price, sister of the bride, and Darlene and Lori Pasch, sisters-in-law of the bride. Their floor-length burgundy gowns were styled with off-the-shoulder burgundy lace trim. Each attendant carried a bouquet of pink roses, white snowflake mums and burgundy babies' breath.

Also participating in the wedding party were the bride's nieces: Kristine and Kathryn McIntosh, as junior bridesmaids, and Tara Pasch, as flower girl. They wore pink floor-length gowns with white lace on the collar and at the hemline. They carried baskets of burgundy roses and white snowflake mums.

Attending the groom as best man was Mark Pearson of Moline, Ill. Groomsmen were Duane Lindblom, Goodridge, and Curtis Lindblom, New Holland, Pa., brothers of the groom; Jerry Pasch, brother of the bride, and Vern Lindquist, Watertown, Wis. Ushers were Tim and Jeff Pasch, brothers of the bride, and Randy Amundgaard, Fort Wayne, Ind. The rings were carried by Tony Pasch, nephew of the bride. Their attire included silver gray tuxedos with tails, white shirts with banded ties; gray shoes and white carnation boutonnieres, accented with burgundy babies' breath.

The mother of the bride wore a pink floor-length gown with lace trim, and a pink orchid wristlet. The groom's mother was attired in a mauve floor-length gown styled with a pleated skirt and a lace insert on the bodice. Complementing her gown was an orchid corsage.

A reception at the Riviera Country club was given for 150 relatives and friends. Music and dancing followed.

Traveling to the wedding with the groom's parents were Mrs. Lucelle Yonke of St. Hilaire and Miss Hilda Waale of Thief River Falls. Other out-of-town guests were Mrs. Selma Johnson and Mary and Dwight McDonough of Rockford, Ill., Gerald and Carol Vermeire of Mason City, Ill., Mark and Jane Hotzler of Bloomington and Randy Gaven of Fargo, N.D.

Following a two-week wedding trip to Siesta Keys and Orlando, Fla., the couple is now at home in Woodridge, Ill. Both are employed at International Harvester company in Hinsdale, Ill. Photo, Edward Fox, Chicago, Ill.

Johnnie Handys, Trail, Note 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Handy were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday, August 8, at 3:00 p.m., at the Sand Valley Lutheran church in Trail.

The event was hosted by their children: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Handy of Fosston, Dr. and Mrs. Frank (JoAnn) DeMarino, Clarksburg, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Edward (Lynda) Tureene of Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Handy of Fargo, N.D., were host and hostess, Tee-Tee DeMarino and Maja Turenne presided at the guest book and scroll basket, and Danny DeMarino and Jon Handy distributed the programs and served as ushers. All are grandchildren of the couple.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Pete Fjerstad of Gully, the couple's attendants, and Mrs. Minnie Dahl of Edina, who hosted the wedding dinner 50 years ago.

For the program, Robert Handy served as master of ceremonies. Granddaughters Marci and Michelle Turenne sang two selections with Nora Hushagen of Thief River Falls as accompanist. A slide presentation was given by Scott Handy, a reading by Stacey Vasend of McIntosh, and a poem, "Fifty Years Ago," was read by Sanna Brovold of Gully, a special friend of the couple, who also presented the Handys with a book of memories. Tributes and congratulatory wishes were extended by Lauraine Sova of Sioux Falls, S.D., Mrs. Minnie Dahl, and Rev. Dale Moe, who led in prayer and the table grace. The assembled guests participated in the program by singing, "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You."

A reception dinner, catered and served by the Rex cafe, followed. For the occasion, the blue and gold theme was carried out in decorations. Flowers were provided by friends, Myrtle Lund, Ruby Samson and Emma Nyland.

The four-tiered anniversary cake, baked and decorated by Rose Aaknes of Trail, was cut and served by Susan Olson of Thief River Falls and LuAnn Weik of Fargo. Coffee was poured by Donna Mae Rupulske of Burnsville and Emma Nyland of Trail. All are nieces of the couple. Grandnieces, Stacey Emerson of Milwaukee, Wis., Lorinda Ness of Embarrass, Jenny Spenser of Thief River Falls, Julie Emerson of Osakis and Jennifer Emerson of Baker served as waitresses. Marci and Michelle Turenne were at the punch bowl.

An anniversary dance from 9:00 p.m., to 1:00 a.m., was hosted by the children at the Trail outdoor pavilion. Music was provided by the Mary Joyce orchestra of Grand Forks.

The Handys were married October 10, 1931 at Crookston. Since then, they have lived and farmed in the Trail community. In addition to their three children, they have seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Ladies Golf Fun Day Highlighted By Texas Golf

Texas golf highlighted the Thief River Falls Ladies Golf fun day held last week at the Country club. Vi Johnson was presented with the All-star golf award.

Hostesses at the noon luncheon were Gloria Kildahl, Cammy Johnson, Nancy Bugliosi, Laura Mattson and Opel Kjos.

During the luncheon several announcements were made. Deb Jacobson requested that all women golfers who had won gift certificates this summer are to use them at the Pro shop before September 30.

Bridge chairman, Eula Kvikstad reported that arrangements have been made for bridge playing during the winter months at the Riverside Terrace activity room. Bridge will be played the second and fourth Monday of the month from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m.

It was also announced that this season's Ladies Golf club activities will conclude on September 21 with the Ladies Stag.

The flowers donated by First Northwestern bank were won by Ellen Bolen.

Mrs. Randy Tharaldson And Tara to be Honored

Mrs. Randy (Kym) Tharaldson and daughter, Tara Rose, will be honored at a shower on Saturday at 7:30 p.m., at the Richard Tharaldson home.

All friends and relatives are welcome to attend.

Three Is Lucky Number For Teacher Of Year

For Donald R. Glover, Minnesota's 18th teacher of the year, three is a lucky number.

The 36-year-old White Bear Lake adapted physical education teacher was named Minnesota ToY at a public luncheon in Bloomington. Three years ago, he was named cross country coach of the year for Region IV AA schools (Minnesota state high school league) and, three years before that, he was named Region IV track coach of the year.

Glover says "teaching should be as enjoyable as learning." He is the first physical education teacher-coach selected in the program's 18 years and one of the youngest. Among the final 13 candidates was John Hustad, music teacher at Franklin middle school in Thief River Falls.

Glover and his teaching partner are responsible for the White Bear Lake program that provides movement and physical education programs for special education students and others who cannot function in a regular phy ed class.

"Teaching should be as enjoyable as learning," Glover wrote in his philosophy of teaching, which accompanied his nomination by the White Bear Lake Teachers' association. "One sure way to ensure enjoyment on the part of both teacher and student is the element of creativity. Creativity offers challenge (it doesn't come easy to everyone), challenge offers involvement; involvement coupled with enthusiasm, to me, equals enjoyment.

"To creatively solve the problem of scoring a goal, figuring an equation, or writing a theme, should be an exciting adventure for a student. The teacher's adventure will be in giving that student an opportunity to create. I feel that the ability to create fosters initiative and inventiveness, and because we are living in a world of permanent change, these are very important gifts or by-products of teaching and are needed by every society."

Born in St. Paul, Glover graduated from high school in St. Charles, received his bachelor of science degree from Winona state university in 1967 and a master's degree in science from Winona in 1970.

He also has done graduate work at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis; the U.S. International university, San Diego, Calif.; River Falls (Wis.) state; East Coast university, Dade county, Fla.; Camp Isabella; and through Independent School District 624.

He joined White Bear Lake's senior high faculty in 1969 after two years with the Winona public schools and has taught at White Bear's Mariner senior high and K-12.

Glover, his wife, Carol (Nisbitt), and two daughters, Christina Marie, 15, and Leigh Ann, 12, live at 2150 Spruce Place in White Bear Lake.

WADE DELAGE came home from school to the farm south of Brooks Monday to find most of their machine shed strewn across a field. He inspected the snapped poles which remained on the ground, along with the back wall of the 96 by 36 foot building. "I could have made a lot of money if we'd charged a toll on our driveway today," he commented, referring to the people coming to view the aftermath of Monday's storm.

NEW PASTOR at Our Saviour's Lutheran church in Thief River Falls is Rev. Les Galland who has moved here from Everett, WA, with his wife and family. The family includes sons James, 16 and Jonathan, 5, and daughter Janeen, 20. Rev. Galland is shown in front of the new 32x34 addition to Our Saviour's Christian academy, a private school for grades K-12 located on the southeast edge of Thief River Falls. 81-82 Outreach School Plans For Retreat

The 1981-82 School year at the Outreach training school of McIntosh will begin at a retreat beginning with registration from 3 to 5 p.m. on Friday.

Outreach is a non-denominational vocational Bible school offering the "Christian Workers Course," offered tuition free to post high school students. It is recognized by the state and federal governments.

Outreach, incorporated in 1967, will launch the 14th year of classes. Special feature of the retreat will be showing of the full length films "John Hus" and "Pilgrim's Progress," Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. There is no charge to attend the film showings but there will be a free will offering. The public is also welcome to worship on Sunday at 10:30 p.m.

Any youths seventh grade and older are welcome to attend the retreat that ends Monday Noon (Labor day). Call 218-563-2575 for more details.

UMC Offers Calligraphy Night Class

Two sessions of calligraphy are among the first offerings of the fall quarter continuing education courses at the University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC).

Calligraphy may be utilized wherever decorative handwriting is desired such as greeting cards, poster lettering, documents, or quotes for framing. Both sessions will be instructed by Pat Kuznik, UMC art instructor.

Session I will meet from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 8 and 9, in Dowell 115.

Fee for the course is $13.80 plus $6.50 material fee for one-half credit. For more information or to register call UMC at 218-281-6510, extension 346.

Plan Insight Weekend For Sept. 25-27

Insight weekend — an enrichment experience for couples sponsored by the United Methodist church — will be held on the weekend of September 25-27 at the church's campground in Park Rapids from 8 p.m. Friday until 2 p.m. Sunday.

Four years ago pastors and several lay couples created the first insight weekend. The church is now hosting the fifth insight weekend. The program stresses the positives already present in each relationship and offers a variety of constructive models which couples can choose to learn from and adapt.

Couples from any religious background are welcome. Cost for the weekend is $65 per couple, with $10 due at registration. This covers lodging, meals and all the materials used during the program. Register at the United Methodist church office or by contacting Rev. Mark Johaningsmeir.

Rites For Mrs. Ray Semrud Held Here Tues.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ray (Margaret) Semrud, 53, of Thief River Falls, were held Tuesday at 10:30 a.m., at St. John Lutheran church. Mrs. Semrud died unexpectedly on Saturday in Moorhead while visiting her daughter.

Rev. Allen Ashbacher officiated at the services. Mrs. Sherman Idso was the organist and Calvin Lindstrom, the soloist. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Donald Schoonboven, Milton Powell, Charles Semrud, Robert Hedtke, Al Sollom and Jerry Okland.

Mrs. Semrud, the former Margaret Schoppenhurst, was born May 27, 1928 at Gaylord to Wilson and Myrtle Beseke Schoppenhurst. She moved with the family to Albany, Ore., where she attended school, graduating from Albany high school in 1945.

On April 14, 1949, she was united in marriage to Ray Semrud at Albany. The couple lived at Albany until 1951, when they moved to Minnesota, living first at Bloomington and then at Farmington. Since 1970, they have made their home in Thief River Falls. For the past seven years, Mrs. Semrud had been employed by the Minnesota Job Service in this city.

She was a member of St. John Lutheran church and was past secretary of Escape, a Canadian-American Power boat association.

Surviving are her husband, two sons: David Semrud, St. Paul, and Richard, Thief River Falls; five daughters: Mrs. John (Margaret) Semrud-Clikeman, Grafton, Wis.; Mrs. Donald (Karen) Cameron, Moorhead; Kathryn Semrud, Fargo, N.D., Laurie Semrud and Mrs. Harlan (Amy) Krikeide, both of Thief River Falls; four grandchildren and her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Schoppenhurst, Norwood.

She was preceded in death by her father.

Rites Held At Greenbush For Adolph Vaage

Adolph Vaage, 76, of Greenbush, died Sunday evening at the Greenbush Community hospital.

Funeral services for Adolph Vaage were held today (Wednesday) at 2:00 p.m., at the Oiland Lutheran church with Rev. Gust Nordvall officiating. Soloists were Dewey Melby and Mrs. Anna Erickson. Mrs. Gust Nordvall served as pianist. Interment was in the church cemetery with the Collins Funeral home, Greenbush, in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Lester Erickson, Burnie Erickson, Erling Wahl, Delphin Wahl, Glenn Erickson and Jonas Vatnsdal.

Adolph Vaage, a son of the late Anton and Nellie Vaage, was born April 21, 1905 in Soler township, Roseau county, near Greenbush. He attended school and grew to manhood in that community. He farmed near Greenbush for several years before moving to Minneapolis, where he was employed. He later returned to the Greenbush community. For the past two years, he had been a resident of the Greenbush Community Nursing center.

He waz a life-long member of the Oiland Lutheran church.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Nora Rutherford, Minneapolis; a half-sister, Alma Jackson, also of Minneapolis; and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by two brothers and a sister, who died in infancy.

Dale Schipper Services Held At Hillsboro

Memorial services for Dale Jon Schipper, 47, of Hillsboro, N.D., son-in-law of Mrs. Hazel Christenson of this city, were held Tuesday, August 25, at 2:00 p.m., at Our Saviour's Lutheran church in Hillsboro. Schipper died Friday, August 21, at Moorhead.

Dale Jon Schipper was born March 8, 1934 at Crookston. He attended high school and the Agricultural college at Crookston and was employed there at the Crystal sugar beet plant. At the time of his death, he was assistant senior master mechanic at the Crystal Sugar plant at Hillsboro, N.D. He also owned and operated the Schipper Construction company at Hillsboro.

He was a member of the Civic and Commerce club at Hillsboro and the Church of Christ, Crookston.

He was married in Crookston in 1954 to Audrey Christenson. She survives. Also surviving are a daughter, Tami, and one son, Shaun, all of Hillsboro; his mother, Sylvia Schipper, a brother, Vance, a sister, Lavada Hanson, all of Crookston, and a brother, Bural, Winger; and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his father, Ed Schipper, and two sons: Scott and Todd Schipper who died in 1978, victims of a motorcycle accident.

Rites Held For Dake Ayers, 59, Norden Farmer

Funeral services for Dake Ayers, 59, of rural Thief River Falls were held today (Wednesday) at 2:00 p.m., at Our Saviour's Lutheran church. Ayers died unexpectedly Saturday at his home in Norden township, Pennington county.

Rev. Les Galland officiated at the services. Music was provided by Mrs. Gary Erickson, organist, and George Magsam, soloist. Interment was in the Park Ridge cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Honorary pallbearers were Andrew Skaar, Glen Olson, Charles Sorenson, Lloyd Howick, Harold Langaas, Everette Yonke, Erwin Melvie, Lloyd VeVea, Wayne Johnson and Dewaine Johnson.

Serving as active pallbearers were Myrle Johnson, Daryl Lewis, Martin Solseng, Allan Gjerde, Donovan Dyrdal and Eldon Larson.

Dake Whitekar Ayers, a son of the late Dake W. and Sadie Taylor Ayers, was born Oct. 29, 1921 in Norden township, Pennington county. He attended school in Thief River Falls and was a graduate of Lincoln high school.

On Nov. 7, 1953, he was married at Euclid to Eva Armstrong. Since their marriage, they have operated the home farm in Norden township.

Ayers was a member of Our Saviour's Lutheran church, was secretary-treasurer of the Park Ridge cemetery association for many years, and was a member of the Farmers Union and other agricultural groups. He also served as township assessor for over 30 years.

He is survived by his wife, three sons: Richard, Randall and Robert Ayers, all of Thief River Falls; three daughters: Diane, Denise and Darla, also of Thief River Falls; two sisters: Mrs. Merle (Ardis) Wakefield, Hartland; and Mrs. Paul (Iris) Furuseth, Thief River Falls; and a brother, Eldred Ayers, Thief River Falls.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by one sister.

Stephen Kadlec Rites Held At Pisek, N.D.

Mass of Christian Burial for Stephen J. Kadlec, 77, of Red Lake Falls, was offered today (Wednesday) at 10:30 a.m., at St. John's Catholic church in Pisek, N.D. Kadlec died Sunday at St. John's hospital in Red Lake Falls.

Rev. Leonard Loegering was celebrant. The church choir provided the music with Elaine Kadlec serving as organist. Interment was in the Veteran's section in the church cemetery at Pisek. The Petterson Funeral home, Red Lake Falls, was in charge of arrangements.

A wake service was held Tuesday at 8:00 p.m., at the funeral home in Red Lake Falls with Rev. Jerome Fellon officiating.

Pallbearers were Stephen Olson, James A. Olson, Robert Kerian, Louis Kadlec, Gerald Lovchik and Alfred Kolar.

Stephan J. Kadlec was born Dec. 25, 1903 at Pisek, N.D., to John and Frances Lovchik Kadlec. He grew up in the Pisek area where he farmed until World War II. During the war he served in the U.S. Army Signal Corp in Europe and Africa. Following his discharge, he was employed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, living at Riverdale, N.D., until he retired in 1970. In 1972, he moved to Red Lake Falls. For the past three years, he had been a resident of Sunset Court. He never married.

He was a member of the VFW and the American Legion.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Florence Rusth, Red Lake Falls; and two brothers: A.L. (Tony) Kadlec, Missoula, Mont., and Edward, Minneapolis; and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents, two sisters and two brothers.

HOW MUCH SHOULD A FUNERAL COST?

Funeral costs — like those of other services and goods — must be equated with value received. Prior knowledge of what these costs can be serves the best interest of the consumer. We do not sell funerals. They are selected by survivors who have chosen us in their time of need. In addition to our costs there are those of final disposition of the body, a monument or marker and other miscellaneous expenses. We stand ready to discuss with you all aspects of funeral-related costs at any time. Since no two funerals are exactly alike it would be wise to find out what it would cost for the kind of funeral you want. Get the facts. Then, you make the decisions.

Answers from the Bible by Pastor Don Peres

Q. Where did God come from? What was He doing before He created the Universe, if indeed He did create the Universe?

A. These questions assume that everything, including God, is subject to the limitations of time and space, as man is. Many people have questioned that there is nothing outside of time and space since Albert Einstein's theory of relativity.

Einstein showed that time can actually be altered, slowed down, speeded up, when objects begin to travel at extremely high speeds. Some would suggest that all things originate and operate within the context of fixed time and space, and that nothing exists outside of time and space, but this is not necessarily correct.

God did indeed create the Universe, and does exist outside of time and space as we know it.

Genesis 1:1 says, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth."

Colossians 1:17 says "And He is before all things, and by Him all things consist."

II Peter 3:8 says "that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day."

Psalm 90:4 says, "For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday when it is past."

John 1:3 says, "All things were made by Him; and without Him was not any thing made that was made."

While not totally understandable to some, the facts do make it easier to accept the Biblical teaching that God exists outside of time and space as we know it.

He has revealed these things to mankind through the Bible. The Bible has demonstrated itself to be more than a mere book; it is the actual Word of God. The evidence is more than convincing to anyone who will honestly consider its claims.

If you have any questions that you would like to have answered from the Bible, please write Pastor Don Peres, Box 129, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

New Bikeway Maps Offered By Mn-DOT

Eight new bikeway maps — two for extreme northeastern Minnesota and six for west central Minnesota — and two updated maps for the central portion of the Twin Cities metropolitan area are now available from the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT).

Designed to provide a reliable, compact and comprehensive travel aid for bicyclists, the new maps are among 40 prepared by Mn-DOT out of a projected series of 54.

Maps previously published by Mn-DOT cover southern and central Minnesota, Minneapolis-St. Paul metropolitan area, city of Duluth, St. Croix Valley and the north and south shore areas of Lake Superior.

New northeastern Minnesota maps cover the areas surrounding Ely and Grand Marais as well as a portion of Canada. Six new maps for west central Minnesota include the areas around the cities of Alexandria, Fergus Falls, Moorhead, Morris, Park Rapids and Wadena.

Updated maps of the Twin Cities area include Bloomington, Brooklyn Center, Columbia Heights, Crystal, Edina, Fridley, Golden Valley, Hopkins, Lauderdale, Minneapolis, Mounds View, New Brighton, New Hope, Richfield, Robbinsdale, St. Anthony and St. Louis Park.

The maps rate roadways for biking suitability from "good" to "unsatisfactory." The maps show road surface type and the location of paved shoulders. They also indicate roads which prohibit bicycles and show the availability of off-road bikeways.

Each map also provides historical, social, cultural and recreational information.

For a price list and order form, contact Map Sales, Mn-DOT, B-20 Transportation Building, St. Paul, MN 55155. Phone (612) 296-2216.

"Fill It Up" Without Labor This Weekend

Minnesotans need not labor to find gasoline while traveling this holiday weekend.

Minnesota AAA's Labor day fuel survey results show that participating stations continue to have ample quantities of gasoline to sell at slightly lower prices than in midsummer. This situation may be attributed to an increase in domestic oil production. The number of wells drilled in the U.S. during the first half of 1981 exceeds the number for the first half of last year by 28 per cent, according to the American petroleum institute. More expensive imports fell by about 11 per cent compared with a year ago.

Current average prices at full-service stations in Minnesota are $1.399 per gallon for regular, $1.579 for premium, $1.444 for unleaded, $1.475 for unleaded premium, and $1.338 for diesel.

Prices at self-service pumps are $1.296 per gallon for regular, $1.439 for premium, $1.35 for unleaded, $1.388 for unleaded premium, and $1.251 for diesel.

Almost all stations surveyed will be operating during their normal hours through Labor day, September 7.

Lower prices and ample supplies may draw more travelers onto the highways this weekend. According to Barbara Mittelstadt, AAA traffic safety coordinator, statistics indicate that Labor day ranks second in overall holiday traffic accidents, fatalities and injuries. The number of those accidents for which drunk drivers are responsible in staggering, said Mittelstadt. AAA warns motorists to be alert for erratic drivers and to report them to the nearest law enforcement official.

"In addition to staying sober yourself," said Mittelstadt, "this is the most effective way of defending yourself, your family and other motorists from the drunk driver. If you drink, it's your business," she added. "If you drink and drive, it's everybody's business."

Versatility Is Key To Biomass Future Uses

Several major routes can be followed in utilization of biomass, including extracting chemicals for use in industry instead of producing energy. This is one of the advantages which Dr. Lipinski sees in biomass utilization.

"One method essentially takes the biomass to ethyl alcohol as if it were to be used for fuel," he explained. "Then, at the last minute, you dehydrate it and make ethylene out of it. Ethylene is the starting point for polyethylene plastics and styrene — such as styrofoam — and for ethylene glycol which is made into anti-freeze and a large number of polymers and solvents. This route can be followed from the fermentable biomass.

"Another route to chemicals is by means of gasification, making gaseous fuels like methane or synthetic natural gas or industrial fuel gases (carbon monoxide and hydrogen) which can be used to make methyl alcohol, formaldehyde and other products. A big family of plastic and solvents are made from those sources."

Dr. Lipinski said that it becomes a question of which is the best strategy according to what resources you have. Do you use coal for chemicals and biomass for fuel, he pondered, or use biomass for chemical feedstock and coal, shale and other products for fuel?

"When petroleum gets short," he noted, "we shouldn't pounce on one thing such as biomass or coal or shale, we should use a combination and sort out what is the best source for the products needed."

In addition to direct substitution of biomass and other energy or chemical products for existing products, the scientist sees a necessity for indirect substitution as well.

"Twenty years ago I was involved in project work to design equipment to handle polythylene film instead of cellophane in packaging," he said. "Cellophane is made from cellulose which comes from trees while polyethylene is basically a petroleum product. We could go back to using cellophane for packaging and substitute for polyethylene. Instead of using dacron for clothing, we could use acetate and rayon, both well-known materials that we know how to form and shape and launder. This is indirect substitution."

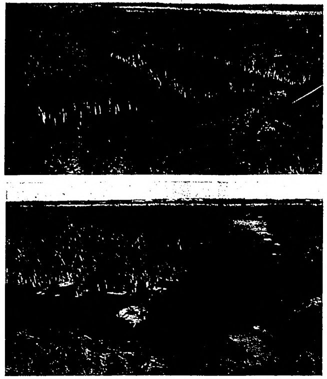
At the present time products used for chemicals command several times the price of those used for fuel. As a result, manufacturers would prefer to sell their products for chemical use.

"One thesis is that chemical and fuel use shouldn't compete," Dr. Lipinski said. "another idea is that we should go flat out for maximum agricultural production and divert any surpluses into the infinite fuel market, where it would fill a relatively small part of the total gas or fuel oil demand."

Cost factors enter the picture in addition to available supply and consumption of an exhaustible resource. Dr. Lipinski said the country is already at the cross-over point where ethyl alcohol from corn at $3 per bushel is cheaper than from ethylene at the current price of 28 to 29 cents per pound.

Given these potentials, the research work being conducted through the bio-energy coordinating office at the University of Minnesota becomes a little more credible. Huge industrial plants may not spring up alongside the marshes and peatlands of northern Minnesota, solving all the unemployment problems and creating vast wealth. Many people hope such happenings will not come to pass.

But it is entirely possible — even probable — that energy and chemical demands and costs will permit the utilization of prolific plant life which our area can provide. When that time comes, the answers to many of the questions should be at hand. That's what forward-looking research is all about.



CATTAIL PRODUCTION plots near Eveleth are being operated by the University of Minnesota on land provided by the Iron Range Resources and Rehabilitation board. Growth studies above include plantings on peatland that has been excavated to the depth of one foot and five feet, to provide insight into use of biomass crops for reclamation of mined peatlands. "We're not advocating peat mining," notes Nancy Andrews, assistant director of the bio-energy coordinating office at the University of Minnesota, "but we want to have information available which may contribute to enlightened discussion on peatland reclamation."

Missionary At Assemblies Of God Sept. 16

Rev. Dwight Palmquist, an Assemblies of God missionary to the Philippines, will share in a missions service at the Thief River Falls Assemblies of God church on Wednesday, September 16, at 7:30 p.m. Public is invited to attend.

After his graduation from North Central Bible college in Minneapolis, Rev. Palmquist and another minister, Louis Walton, opened a church on Minneapolis' northside, which they co-pastored for several years. Following this, Rev. Palmquist began his missionary service in the Philippines.

He has been involved with Teen Challenge which ministers primarily to youth with drug, alcohol and moral problems, and directed a multi-media ministry with an all Filipine film evangelism team.

Miss Newfolden contest Sunday evening in the school gymnasium will complete the festival. Buttons to provide funds for the celebration are on sale at Hardware Hank store and the Marshall County state bank in Newfolden. They will also be on sale at the school grounds Saturday and Sunday and the community center Saturday.

Rural Social Work Course Slated At MSU

A new course in "Rural Social Work" will be offered at Moorhead State university this fall.

Classes will meet from 9 to 10:50 a.m. Mondays and Wednesdays beginning September 14. They'll be taught by Richard DuBord, an associate professor who grew up and once practiced social work in rural North Dakota.

Topics covered will include the values, social trends and available social services in rural communities along with an examination of family, school and church influences in small towns.

For more information, call DuBord at the MSU social work department, phone 236-2773.

Food Stamp Changes In Effect Oct. 1

Major changes in food stamp eligibility rules and benefits will begin taking effect October 1, according to Mary C. Jarratt, assistant secretary of agriculture for food and consumer services.

"The changes, required by the omnibus reconciliation act of 1981, are aimed at saving $1.7 billion in federal costs for the food stamp program in fiscal year 1982 which begins October 1," she said.

"The new rules must be implemented swiftly to achieve the projected savings and operate the program within the amount Congress appropriates to avoid across the board benefit reductions."

Jarratt said the first package of rules, which will be ready for public comment next month and take effect October 1 will:

—Remove higher income households from the program, or reduce their benefits;

—Drop strikers from the program;

—Prorate the initial month's benefits of new recipients from the date of application;

—Delay cost of living adjustments in the U.S. department of agriculture's "thrifty food plan" used for calculating food stamp benefits; and —Delay and reduce cost of living adjustments in the deductions allowed from gross income in determining benefits.

"Three additional rule-making packages will follow," Jarratt said. "Those packages will cover new fraud and abuse penalties, provisions to provide Puerto Rico with a low income nutrition assistance block grant to replace food stamp funding, and procedures for state welfare agencies to begin monthly reporting and retrospective accounting systems for administration of the food stamp program."

Proposed rules on fraud penalties and claims collection procedures will be ready for public comment in October, with final rules expected early next year. Proposed rules for establishing retrospective accounting and monthly reporting systems will be ready for comment by the end of the year, she said; the food stamp act requires that these rules be "in place" by October 1983.

Regulations governing the new block grant for Puerto Rico will be issued later this year — to be in effect by July of 1982.

Jarratt said Congressional action on the food stamp program is not complete with the passage of the Omnibus reconciliation act of 1981.

"In September, Congress plans to complete action on food stamp reauthorization legislation in the House of Representatives and on food stamp appropriations in the U.S. Senate," Jarratt said. "Both are required for the program to operate after September 30."

Extra Patrol Ordered For Final Holiday

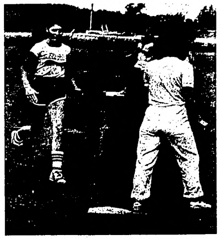
Labor Day, Monday, September 7, marks the last summer holiday of 1981 and will find a considerable increase in traffic volume, according to Minnesota public safety commissioner John P. Sopsic.

Sopsic said that state residents often take advantage of the final summer holiday, resulting in more traffic congestion when they return to their homes Monday night.

Minnesota state patrol, according to Chief Roger Ledding, will have more than 100 extra troopers on duty Labor day weekend, a 78-hour period from 6 p.m. Friday, September 4, to midnight Monday, September 7. Project 20 and Project 55 teams assigned to help enforce the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit will be working those days, Ledding said.

"We hope Labor day travelers will plan trips so they can avoid the necessity of going long distances in a short time," Ledding said. The department of public safety is cooperating with various REACT teams who are providing free refreshments at freeway rest stops to give motorists a break during their trips.

Labor day also marks the last weekend this year for Operation CARE (Coordinated Accident Reduction Enforcement) participated in by the Minnesota state patrol. CARE in a national program promoting various phases of traffic safety.



IT WAS A BUSY DAY for the newly crowned Miss Grygla, Kim McLean, during the fall festival in Grygla Saturday. She rode in the festival parade, rushed home for a quick photo session with the Times photographer, then hurried off to the softball field to participate in the women's tournament. She lined a single in her first at bat and is shown scoring one of her team's runs.

LEC Lists 30 Cases Sept. 1st

Law enforcement center report dated September 1 recorded 30 cases, with 25 handled by the Thief River Falls police department, and five handled by the Pennington county sheriff's department, listed by reporting date.

Those handled by the Thief River Falls police included: August 17 — Rick Reierson, Thief River Falls, reported damages estimated at $300 done to the taillight and trunk lid of his car.

August 18 — Bennie Sanden, Badger, was driving south on Main and struck Neal L. Paulson, Thief River Falls, driving east on First. Sanden then continued east on First to Kendall avenue, where he struck the rear of a vehicle driven east by Elphie Adlis, Strandquist. Betty Ann Johnson, Thief River Falls, a passenger in the Adlis car, sustained a slight injury. Damages were $100 to the Sanden car, $400 to the Paulson car, and $150 to the Adlis car.

August 19 — Fleet Supply reported two denim skirts, valued at $39.90, missing. Two empty hangers were found in the rest room after two girls had been trying on clothes. The case is under investigation.

August 19 — City owned wood, valued at $20, was reported stolen from a pile near the city utilities building.

August 20 — Robin Swanson, Karlstad, was driving north on highway 59, and Dale Redinger, Thief River Falls, was driving east on Greenwood when they collided. Three passengers in the Swanson car had slight injuries. Damages were $2,500 to the Swanson car and $500 to the Redinger car.

August 20 — Roxanne Anderson, Thief River Falls, reported theft of her wallet and contents, valued at $45, while at Best Western.

August 20 — Two tires, valued at $181.32, were reported slashed on a four-wheel drive pickup at the Michael Motors lot.

August 21 — Jon Jacobson, Thief River Falls, was stopped on third street for a train, when Thomas Kenville, Thief River Falls, struck the rear of his Blazer. Jacobson's vehicle received no damages, but Kenville's car had $700 in damage.

August 21 — Carl Onkka, Thief River Falls, reported theft of a toolbox and tools, valued at $445, from his vehicle.

August 21 — Mary Kildahl, Thief River Falls, reported theft of her eyeglasses, valued at $120, from near the cash register where she works.

August 22 — Midland South station reported theft of gas worth $1. A description was given of a vehicle which is being sought.

August 22 — Bricks, valued at $27, were reported broken at Falls Concrete. Four juveniles are being charged with vandalism.

August 23 — Kenneth Fisher, Plummer, was driving south on highway 59, and Linda Mickelson, Oklee, was driving west out of Dale street when they collided. Damages were $200 to the Fisher car and $300 to the Mickelson car.

August 23 — Harold Hinden, Thief River Falls reported theft of a CB radio and Fuzz Buster, valued at $250, from a semi truck parked in front of his house.

August 24 — Robert Bakke, Thief River Falls, reported egg and tomatoes thrown at his garage and car. Cost of cleaning the car is $20.

August 24 — A concession stand near the college was reported broken into, and $20 worth of cups, napkins and plastic utensils stolen. The case is under investigation.

August 25 — Rosella Worner, Thief River Falls, was stopped at the corner of Dale street and Highway 59 when Julie Nomeland, Thief River Falls, collided with the rear of her pickup. Damages were $200 to the Worner vehicle and $700 to the Nomeland car.

August 25 — Greg Buringrud, Thief River Falls, reported theft of his brown Arctic 10-speed bike, valued at $150.

August 25 — Mark Olinger, Thief River Falls, was driving west on highway 1 when a motorcycle driven east on Dewey by Gary Baumeister, Thief River Falls, struck the left side of his car. Baumeister was charged with too fast for conditions. Damages were $600 to the Olinger car and $500 to Baumeister's cycle.

August 26 — Alan VanWert, Thief River Falls, reported a mirror, valued at $40, broken from the driver's side of his vehicle.

August 26 — Ron Pilcher, Thief River Falls, reported a mirror, valued at $50, broken on his car. Damage estimated at $10 was also done to a mirror on his pickup.

August 26 — Harold Johnson, Thief River Falls, reported the left side rear view mirror, valued at $75, broken from his car.

August 27 — Robbie Hogan, Thief River Falls, reported theft of his red Marco 10-speed bike, valued at $130.

August 27 — Connie Brinkman, Thief Riever Falls, reported theft of her 1970 Chrysler Newport, valued at $500. The car was later recovered with no damage at Franklin school.

Cases handled by the Pennington county sheriff's department included:

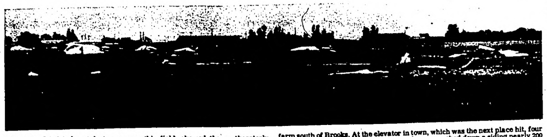
August 23 — Mrs. Don Grochow, rural Thief River Falls, reported $30 damages to a mailbox and stand, caused by an unknown vehicle.

August 23 — Don Magner's car had its windshield and three headlights broken, antenna bent, and driver's door dented while it was in the ditch. The case is under investigation.

August 25 — Two rear wheels, valued at $83.20, were reported stolen from a riding lawnmower owned by the Highway 59 Fix It shop. The case is under investigation.

August 25 — Two metallic signs saying "Back Behind The Barn Boys", valued at $50, were reported stolen from a pickup parked at the Thief River Falls golf club.

August 25 — Greg Buringrud, Thief River Falls, reported theft of two tires, valued at $80, from his pickup. The case is under investigation.



A TRAIL of twisted metal strewn over this field, showed the northeasterly direction the storm took after snatching the machine shed from the Dick Delage farm south of Brooks. At the elevator in town, which was the next place hit, four railroad cars, weighing about 30 tons each, were pushed down a siding nearly 200 yards, and onto the main track.

ENROLLMENT DOUBLED from last year when classes at Our Saviour's Christian academy opened for classes Monday in Thief River Falls. There are 56 students enrolled in grades K-12 in comparison with 28 students last year. The school uses the Accelerated Christian Education (ACE) curriculum which permits each student to advance according to ability. Spiritual development is also emphasized by Scripture memorization and chapel time on Tuesdays from 1:45 to 2:30 p.m. Teachers are Mrs. Delores Kading, kindergarten; Mrs. Les Galland, first grade; Miss Barbara Myhre, grades 2-5; and Mrs. Don Lerud, grades 6-12. Volunteer monitors assisting are Mrs. Carolyn Dyrud, Mrs. Kathy Swenson, Mrs. Diane Hoglin, Mrs. Coco Erickson, Mrs. Duane Davidson, Mrs. Delores Berg, Mrs. Mark Kelly, Mrs. Dixie Koch and Janeen Galland. Ownership and operation of the school was acquired by Our Saviour's Lutheran church last year from King's Way Christian academy.

Planetarium At MSU To Offer New Showings

Moorhead state university planetarium will open its fall season September 16 to October 18 with "Skywatchers of Ancient Mexico," a documentary tracing the astronomy and archeology of early American civilizations.

Being open is kind of a surprise, says planetarium coordinator Denis Mudderman. Flagging attendance early last year put the planetarium on the edge of closing. But a surge in admissions during the winter shows, stretched year-end receipts to over $11,600. That's nearly double the earnings of the previous year.

Mudderman says the added income along with a $10,000 state allocation MSU received this summer guarantees the planetarium will stay open through the school year. Seven five-week shows are scheduled from September through May.

"Skywatchers of Ancient Mexico" will run Wednesday through Saturdays at 7:30 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays at 3 p.m. Admission is two dollars for adults and one dollar for children under 12 and senior citizens.

The show follows the development of Central American and Mexican civilizations that spanned 3,000 years and created sophisticated systems for mathematics, astronomical observation, writing and architecture.

Other shows coming up: "Starbound: A Space Age Fable," October 21 to November 22; and "The Star of Christmas," December 2 to January 3.

The MSU planetarium is located in Bridges Hall, room 153, near the intersection of 8th avenue and 11th Street south. Special group showings for 20 people or more can be arranged. For information, call the planetarium at 236-3982.

COLOR GUARD from the Grygla VFW post led the parade which was one of the highlights of the Grygla fall festival Saturday.

CHURCH GROUPS were represented in the Grygla fall festival parade on Saturday, including this float from St. Clements Catholic church. The churches also conducted food sales for festival visitors throughout the day.

Reagan Pushes 'Hands Off' For Auto Industry

Unlike the Carter administration, the Reagan White House has developed a policy of almost "helpful neglect" toward the U.S. auto industry, says the automotive information council (AIC).

This conclusion was clear from a report on the government's current attitude, as related by Charles Swinburn, deputy assistant secretary for policy and international affairs in the department of transportation.

Swinburn, who also held an important post in the department during the Carter administration, said the new administration's policy emphasizes non-interference by the government.

Swinburn said the Reagan policy toward the auto industry was based largely on a report made to the President last April by transportation secretary Drew Lewis.

"Our conclusion is that the government intrusion into the auto industry is a cause of the problem which has resulted in putting 'a sick giant on our hands'," he said. "We have listed 34 tentative actions by the national highway traffic safety administration and the environmental protection agency that will help get the government off the industry's back."

He said, however, that the government is not backing down from its commitment to safer motoring and reduced air pollution, and it's not bypassing due process. All changes are proceeding as fast as possible through the regular rule-making procedures of the DOT.

Unfortunately, this due-process approach is forcing the auto makers to continue spending hundreds of millions of dollars on air bags and other programs which the government will eventually kill, he said.

Swinburn reported that the administration has dropped plans for all fuel economy standards after 1985 and has asked the federal trade commission to cancel the 1969 antitrust "smog decree" which prohibited cooperation among the auto companies on emission controls.

Cattlemen's Institute Set Oct. 29

Beef cattlemen's institute scheduled October 29 in the Winter shows south arena, Crookston, is all set with registration to begin at 5 p.m., a picnic-style supper at 5:30 p.m. and program at 6:30 p.m. Institute is scheduled four weeks later at the suggestion of beef cattlemen and county extension directors.

Two-starred theme for this year's program is "Longtime herd testing and preconditioning," by J. David Nichols, longtime cow-calf producer from Anita, Iowa, who will be keynote speaker.

Kurt Wohlgemuth, an extension specialist from NDSU, Fargo, ND will talk on "Preconditioned calves, how to get on feed," and other management tips. Ray Thompson, Marshall county extension director, Warren, will preside at the session. Popular beef-cattle demonstration will close the program for the day with commentary by extension marketing specialist Paul Hasbargen and area agent in farm management, Bill Penning, both of the University of Minnesota.

Advertising At Rest Areas Is Started In MN.

First of 47 planned sign kiosk plazas to provide comprehensive travel information for tourists was opened August 24, at the Thompson Hill travel information center in Duluth, the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) announced.

The second sign kiosk plaza is set to be opened September 10 at the Heath Creek rest area on interstate highway 35 near Faribault.

The plazas will provide advertising for services such as restaurants, resorts and campgrounds, hotels, motels and service stations. They will also provide public service information to travelers on programs such as Minnesota Rideshare.

The plazas are being built by CDI, Inc., St. Paul, in cooperation with Mn-DOT. Mn-DOT provides space at each highway rest area and CDI returns a percentage of the sales revenue advertising to Mn-DOT.

Advertising revenue from the sign plazas will go into the highway user tax distribution fund.

Permitting commercial advertising at rest areas is also expected to reduce the growth of advertising signs along Minnesota's state and interstate highways.

The program has been recommended by the federal highway administration as a way to promote conformance with the federal highway beautification act and to provide needed travel information.

Nominations Now Open For Phillips Awards

Nominations are now open for the 18th annual Phillips awards for outstanding employees, employers or self-employed individuals with physical disabilities, sponsored by Courage center in Minneapolis.

Five winners will be honored for overcoming their disabilities and making significant contributions to society. Winners will receive $500 cash awards and certificates at a public ceremony October 16 at Courage center.

Phillips awards program was created in 1964 by Rose and Jay Phillips in Minneapolis, who provide an annual grant to support the program. Program was designed to show that people with physical disabilities can be excellent employees and serve as an inspiration to others.

Deadline for nominations is September 17. Nomination forms and information are available from Bill Hopkins, Public Affairs Director, Courage Center, 3915 Golden Valley Road, Golden Valley, Minnesota 55422, (612) 588-0811.

During the 1970s, the labor force participation rate for white women grew much more rapidly than for black women so that by the close of the decade there was little difference between their overall participation rates, about 51 per cent for white and 54 per cent for black women, according to a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Dance, Theater Music In MSU Arts Schedule

Shakespearian comedy from the John F. Kennedy Center, bluegrass music from the Appalachians, 50 dancers from Romania along with the regional sounds of the Dakota String Quartet will headline Moorhead State University's (MSU) series for the performing arts this school year.

Six-part season opens in September with a New York dance company and continues through April with a variety of performances.

All shows begin at 8:15 p.m. in the Center for the Arts auditorium. Season tickets are $20 for six admissions. Single show tickets vary from $4 to $6. For details, contact the MSU theatre box office at 236-2271.

This year's series schedule includes:

—September 27 and 29 — "5 x 2 Plus," a six-member modern dance repertory company from New York who have performed on Broadway and toured Europe, specializing in modern dance from the 1920s on. Each show will feature a different performance.

—October 27 and 28 — "The Dakota String Quartet," a professional ensemble with the South Dakota Symphony.

—November 19 — "Maramuresul," the Romanian Folk festival, a company of 50 dancers, singers and musicians on their first American tour.

Feb. 16 and 17 — "The Acting Company," on tour for the John F. Kennedy Center with John Houseman producing director. Group will present two classic comedies here, Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" on the first night and Wycherly's "The Country Wife" on the second.

—March 19 and 20 — "Nikolais Dance Theatre," also from New York, is a 20 member group that comes with its own special lighting effects that turn dance into a theatrical display.

—April 25 — "The McLain Family Band," direct from Appalachia, with the downhome bluegrass sounds of eastern Kentucky. They've toured in 61 countries and 43 states, from the Kennedy Center to the Grand Ole Opry.

MARIA ANNE HIRSCHMANN ("Hansi"), a former Nazi youth leader, but now an American by choice devoted to her Christian faith, will speak at the Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls Wednesday (September 9) at 8 p.m. Her visit to Thief River Falls is sponsored by a group of churches, including the Assembly of God, Evangelical Covenant church, Evangelical free church, Faith Lutheran Brethren church, First Baptist church and Our Saviour's Lutheran church. Hansi speaks of her experiences from a background of brainwashed thinking and starvation in a Communist labor camp to her appreciation of her new homeland in the United States.

In 1870, the first written contract between coal miners and operators was signed, providing a sliding scale of pay based on the price of coal, according to "Important Events in American Labor History, 1778-1978," published by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Guard Offers Student Loan Payment Plan

National guard has announced a new incentive program which will enable qualified enlisted guard members to apply for assistance in repaying federal student loans.

According to Major Duane Paisley of the guard's state recruiting and retention office, the program is designed to help recruit talented high school graduates for critical military jobs and aid in retention of non-commissioned officers (NCO's) and enlisted members already in the guard, who wish to extend their enlistments.

The program, called SRIP, which is an acronym for "selected reserve incentive program," is authorized under Public Law 96-342. It is designed to repay outstanding federal student loans at the rate of 15 per cent per year or $500, whichever is greater for each year of selected reserve service.

Students who have guaranteed student loans given under part B of the higher education act of 1965 and-or national direct student loans under Part E of the act may be eligible, if the loans were made after Oct. 1. 1975.

"The program offers an excellent opportunity for a person to continue his or her education, serve our country locally, retire a loan indebtedness and get paid while serving in the Minnesota national guard," Maj. Paisley said.

"Not only that, but the loan repayment program can be combined with other enlistment and extension programs. There are no adverse affects to this as long as the eligibility requirements for all programs are met," he added.

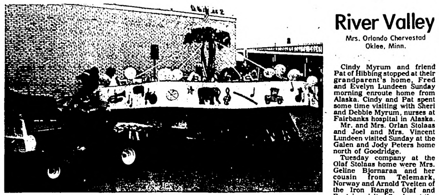
Under the plan, an eligible enlistee with a $6,000 loan, for example, at the time of enlistment would have his or her loan account credited for $900 upon the anniversary of the first year of service. If, during the year, the individual borrowed an additional $4,000, the first anniversary credit would still be $900, but the second anniversary would be $1,400.

Fifteen per cent loan repayment could occur on each subsequent yearly anniversary of the individual's enlistment. In addition, the program will pay all acrued loan interest that was not deferred during the year of satisfactory guard service.

Thus, a student who borrows $10,000 in student loans could have $9,258 repaid by the guard over a six-year enlistment. This is over and above any regular pay or bonuses.

Guard recruits go through basic training and advanced training in their job specialities. They also must train one weekend each month and two weeks annually, usually during the summer. They can be called up to serve with the regular armed forces during a war or national emergency and can be called up by the governor to help cope with natural disasters, civil strife or other emergencies.

Interested young men and women may contact their local national guard armory for details. If needed, the Minnesota army national guard state recruiting office at (612) 296-4049 or 296-4676, can put individuals in contact with their nearest recruiter.



BAND BOOSTERS created this float for the Grygla fall festival parade on Saturday. The carousel rotated as the float was pulled along the parade route.

ROBIN MYHRE, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wes Myhre of Brooks, will be one of eight candidates competing for the title of Miss Brooks for 1981-82. Miss Brooks will be crowned during the annual Blast to Brooks celebration September 12. All girls competing in the contest will be selling buttons for the annual Blast to Brooks with the girl selling the most buttons to reign as Miss Brooks. Robin attends Plummer high school where she has been active in band and cheerleading. She enjoys swimming, sewing and bike riding. She is yet undecided as to where she will attend college following graduation from high school. She is sponsored in the event by Cenex.

Beginning Friday, Thief River Falls starts a challenging 1981 high school football schedule that features highly-touted Grand Forks Red River, tabbed a serious challenger in the tough Eastern Dakota Conference; Grand Rapids, figured to rank among the top Class AA teams in Minnesota; and Moorhead, a perennial football power.

In addition, Detroit Lakes, Staples, Bemidji, Fergus Falls, East Grand Forks and Crookston all promise to test the Prowlers in 1981.

It's a tough slate, but one that Thief River Falls coach John Schmitz isn't backing away from. "That's the kind of schedule we should be playing," said Schmitz. "Those are the kind of teams we have to play if we want our program to improve and be recognized. We feel we can play with those people."

Thief River Falls finished 5-4 in Schmitz' first year as head coach in 1980. It was the Prowlers first winning season in six years and was just two points away from being an outstanding 6-3 campaign. It included a 12-7 victory over a favored Red River team; a remarkable 33-21 triumph over Moorhead to snap an endless dry spell against the Spuds; and it saw the underdog Prowlers challenge state playoff-bound Grand Rapids on nearly even terms before the Indians pulled away to a 30-6 triumph.

Wins also came against Detroit Lakes 32-21, Staples 29-7 and Fergus Falls 21-6. In addition to Grand Rapids, the Prowlers lost to Bemidji 26-12, East Grand Forks 7-6 and eventual Class A state champion Crookston 46-0.

An upset or two may be needed again this fall to match or surpass last year's record.

Northmen Open Against Favorites

Northland community college also faces a difficult 1981 football season, especially at the start when the Northmen open against four Minnesota junior college athletic association (MJCAA) Northern Division title contenders: Sept. 12 vs. Golden Valley Lutheran; Sept. 19 at University of Minnesota-Crookston; Sept. 26 at Mesabi; and Oct. 3 vs. Vermilion.

Then after hosting Hibbing Oct. 10, Northland travels to Fergus Falls Oct. 17 to face the Spartans, who might be the best of them all.

Fergus Falls returns 25 lettermen and 19 starters off last year's strong 7-1 team — the best finish in the 11-year history of the sport at the school.

Fergus Falls coach Steve LeGrand feels his club will be a division contender, but says they'll find out in a hurry how they stack up, opening with Mesabi and Vermilion. LeGrand calls those two the teams to beat in the Northern Division.

"Mesabi has Pepper Lysaker, whom I rate as the best coach in the league," said LeGrand. Vermilion, like Fergus Falls, has most of its lettermen back and is described by LeGrand as a "big and physical team."

"If we can win both of those games we'll know we have something going," said LeGrand.

Northland coach John Helley was a little disappointed with a turnout of 41 players for the start of practice this week, but he's convinced the Northmen will be improved over last year's 1-7-1 team.

"The numbers (turnout) could have been better; I'm not totally satisfied with the numbers," acknowledged Helley, "but I'm really pleased with the physical condition of those who reported. They're in good shape and there is a lot of unity and spirit on the team. I definitely think we'll be improved."

Helley was very pleased with the 13 Lincoln high school graduates who reported for practice, including ten freshmen. That's the largest local representation on the team in the school's six-year-old football program.

Miscellaneous

+Oscar Almquist, former head hockey coach at Roseau high school, has been named Roseau county outstanding male senior citizen of the year. Born in Eveleth, Almquist starred in hockey, football and track as a high school student and then played amateur hockey at Virginia before attending St. Mary's College in Winona where he played hockey, football and baseball. He was captain of the school's football and hockey teams and was an All-American hockey goalie in 1932. He played pro hockey in Eveleth and St. Paul before moving to Williams where he taught and coached hockey in 1937-38. He then joined the Roseau school faculty, coaching the Rams' hockey teams for 29 years, during which time Roseau made 14 state tournament appearances, winning four state titles, coming up with four state runner-up trophies, two third-place finishes and one consolation championship. For 32 years Almquist served as principal and athletic director at Roseau. An honorary member of the American hockey coaches Hall of Fame, he also has been named to the Minnesota state hockey coaches Hall of Fame.

+In addition to being covered in The Times, Lincoln high school football games will also be aired on KTRF radio again this fall, with KTRF also broadcasting North Tri County and Top of the State games, including Friday's Oklee vs. Middle River match-up.

NCC Football Has 41 Players Report

Forty-one players were on hand at the start of the week as Northland community college opened its 1981 preseason football drills. The turnout included 14 sophomores and 27 freshmen.

Coached by John Helley, the Northmen open their season Saturday, September 12, against perennial Minnesota junior college athletic association (MJCAA) Northern Division power Golden Valley Lutheran on the Thief River Falls athletic field.

Oklee Teams To Be Contenders

Oklee high school football coach Dale Svaren figures the Bobcats can be a North Tri County Conference title contender this fall — if they can get by Middle River Friday in a key 7:30 p.m. game at Oklee that kicks off the 1981 season for both teams.

The Bobcats and Skippers shared second place in the North Tri County nine-man standings in 1980 with 7-2 records (two games behind unbeaten McIntosh-Winger), and both are prominently mentioned as championship caliber ball clubs in 1981 preseason reports, along with McIntosh-Winger and Clearbrook.

"Middle River is definitely the favorite," stressed Svaren. "That first game is a biggie for us," he added. "If we can get by that one we'll be hard to catch."

A small turnout of 18 players in grades 9-12 greeted Svaren this fall, including just three seniors: center Mike Vetteleson, fullback Leaf Fore and tailback Ricky Dulka. Fore and Dulka will serve as co-captains.

Top juniors included flanker Jon Lindquist, end Matt Radniecki and quarterback John Cyr, who was used mostly as a flanker in 1980. But Svaren considers Cyr a good passer and says his club has a good group of receivers.

"We're going to put the ball in the air quite a few times," he promised. Last year the Bobcats averaged about 20 passes per game.

There are also three returning seniors on the Oklee volleyball team this fall: Pam Parenteau, Mary Johnson and Janet Klasen. A strong junior class is headed by Roxanne Plante.

"We should be pretty good this year," pointed out Oklee volleyball coach Ardis Hofstad, whose team will open the 1981 season Tuesday at home against Erskine, a 7 p.m. match.

But just how good the Bobcats are will be measured against area volleyball power Fosston. The Greyhounds beat the Bobcats in the 1980 District 30 championship match.

Prowlers Open 1981 Football Season At Red River Friday

Three week's worth of preseason drills will be tested Friday when Thief River Falls opens its 1981 high school football season against Grand Forks Red River. The game has a special 5 p.m. kickoff at Grand Forks' Cushman Field, the site of an 8 o'clock game that night matching East Grand Forks against Grand Forks Central.

Thief River Falls coach John Schmitz announced a tentative starting line-up for the opener that included Keith Grochow (5-8, 154) and Ken Bakke (5-8, 130) alternating at split end; Dave Upham (6-1, 170) at tight end; Jon Ness (5-10, 224) at one tackle spot and either Kevin Leach (6-1, 188) or Eric Bondy (6-2, 187) on the other side; Rob Jorstad (5-7, 191) and Jeff Ness (5-10, 159) at guards; Jim Hallamek (5-10, 158) at center; Brent Schmitz (5-8, 140) at quarterback; Jeff Imgrund (5-7, 149) and Kent Kainz (5-9, 160) at halfbacks; and Jim Dillon (5-10, 164) at fullback.

Hallamek, and Jeff Ness, both juniors, are the only underclassmen in the group.

Defensively it'll probably be Dillon and Kainz at the ends in the 4-4 set, with senior Todd Anderson (6-1, 185), Jon Ness, Bondy or Leach at tackles; Upham and junior Jerry Kertz (5-9, 159) at outside linebackers; Hallamek and Jorstad on the inside; Imgrund and senior Rick Langlie (5-10, 145) at the corners and Grochow at safety.

Two would be starters are question-marks for Friday. Wade Hruby, a 5-10, 210-pound guard, is nursing an arm injury, and Mark Harder, a 5-11, 208-pound center, still isn't sure of his status following the removal of a cast from a severely broken wrist, an injury suffered early in the 1980-81 hockey season. Both players are seniors.

Thief River Falls beat Grand Forks Red River 12-7 to start the 1980 football season, the first win for the Prowlers over the Roughriders in five years. They've been opening the season against each other every year since 1972, with Red River holding a 5-4 edge during that nine-year spell. Thief River Falls hasn't beaten Red River at home since the 1967 season, the first year in which the two teams met.

Thief River Falls' 1981 home opener will be played next week, Friday, September 11, vs. Detroit Lakes. The Lakers open at home against Fergus Falls Friday. Other season openers for future Thief River Falls opponents will find Grand Rapids hosting Duluth Denfeld, Staples entertaining St. Cloud Cathedral, Moorhead at Fargo South, Bemidji at home against Crosby-Ironton and Crookston hosting West Fargo.

The Prowlers hosted Warroad and East Grand Forks in the eighth annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Pigskin Preview Saturday.

"Defensively we performed well, although we have areas to work on yet," noted Schmitz about the Prowlers' Pigskin Preview performance. Offensively Thief River Falls didn't fare as well, but Schmitz says, "We feel we'll be okay offensively." Heavy substitution played a part in the failure of the offense Saturday, he explained.

MCC Football, Volleyball Teams Title-Contenders

According to football coach Sam Gebhart and volleyball coach Sarah Ackerman this could be a banner fall for athletic teams at Marshall County Central high school in Newfolden. They both say they have enough experience and enough talent returning to make the Nordics winners in 1981.

They both came close in 1980 when Marshall County Central shared the Top of the State Conference football title with Argyle but watched from the sidelines when the Eagles got the post-season playoff berth, and the volleyball team saw a near-title slip away in the District 32 finals against Kennedy.

"I expect us to be one of the top teams," said Gebhart about his team's status in the six-team, Top of the State Conference. However, he expects Argyle and Hallock to be strong again this fall, and says Stephen, Greenbush and Tri-County, three teams who had a combined won-lost conference record of 4-20 in 1980, to be improved.

"We're going to be a pretty well balanced team," explained Gebhart. "We have a number of people returning, giving us good depth."

Much of the Nordics' strength rests in their backfield where they have no less than four very capable quarterbacks — Dave Kragness, Jeff Dahl, Todd Stokke and Rick Van Camp. Kragness was an all-conference selection on both offense and defense a year ago.

The Marshall County Central line is a little thin on experience, admits Gebhart. Those who saw playing time in 1980 who are expected to provide the nucleus of the 1981 team include Troy Broderson, Ron Koestner, Mark Knutson, Bill Johnson, Scott Anderson, Jamie Sagstuen, Lowell Engen, Paul Yutrzenka, Greg Hestikind, Alan Melvie, Ken Kron, Grant Nelson, Stokke, Van Camp, Dahl and Kragness.

Knutson, Dahl and Kragness are tri-captains.

New opponent Halstad will be in Newfolden Friday to kick off the 1981 season. Top of the State Conference play starts the following week when the Nordics host Tri-County. Top of the State teams will meet each other on a home-and-home basis this year, and all of those games will be conference-counting affairs.

Ackerman is no less enthused about the Nordics' volleyball team that returns six seniors off last year's squad, including tri-captains Tamie Anderson, Dianne Make and Nancy Halvorson, along with Dorene Larson, Jill Johnson and Shelly Hodne.

Juniors Sue Olson, Cecily Johnson, Brenda Dahl and Jenny Wegge, along with sophomores Shelly Anderson and Nancy Nelson will round out the varsity squad and all 12 can be expected to see playing time as the Nordics substitute freely.

"I am expecting a real good year," confirmed Ackerman. "I have four excellent spikers (Johnson, Maki, Larson, Olson); two real good setters (Maki, Larson); and 10 of the 12 girls are excellent servers."

The Nordics start their 1981 volleyball season Tuesday at Roseau. First home match will be Tuesday, September 15, vs. Grygla-Gatzke. Marshall County Central home matches start with 6:30 p.m. junior varsity games.

Rebuilt Huskies Open Football Season Friday

Forced to start nearly from scratch, Goodridge high school football coach Rick Nelson will begin trying to put the pieces back together Friday when the Huskies begin their 1981 nine-man North Tri County Conference football season against Erskine. Game time at Goodridge is 7:30 p.m.

Graduation losses nearly wiped out the Huskies, who had seniors starting at 15 of the 18 positions on offense and defense en route to a 4-5 finish in 1980.

Only returning starters are all backs — quarterback Mike Drangstveit, runningback John Cullen and runningback Kevin Fraser, who was a starter as a defensive back a year ago. All three are senior tri-captains.

"When you lose that many starters you have a lot of holes to fill," acknowledged Nelson. "But our backfield will be okay. We won't run people over, but with a little finesse we should be able to do all right. Where we're really going to be hurting is up front. We don't have any experience or any size."

With Drangstveit, Cullen and Fraser set in the backfield, the other spot will go to either Darin Easthouse or Darrell Wiskow, a pair of juniors. Senior Jerry Tharaldson a 6-1, 185-pounder and sophomore Jeff Langan look good as receivers giving promise to a passing attack.

Approximately 17 players turned out for football at Goodridge this fall.

Meanwhile, Connie Mariska takes over as the Goodridge volleyball coach, succeeding Susan Saurdiff.

Seniors Sheri Swanson and Angie Berndt will co-captain the Huskies this fall. They'll both be in the starting line-up when the Huskies open their 1981 season Thursday, September 10, against Plummer. Underclassmen Dianna Troska and Melissa Iverson have also looked good in practice and can be expected to play against the Cardinals.

"It's hard for me to say how we'll do because I wasn't here last year," noted Mariska, "but I think we'll be improved." The Huskies' first-year coach is a Waterville native and a recent Gustavus Adolphus graduate.

Volleyball Team To Play Detroit Lakes

Lincoln high school volleyball team begins a string of four straight 1981 season-opening home matches Friday when the Prowlers take on Detroit Lakes in the Lincoln gym. Competition starts with C team matches at 5:30 p.m., followed by the junior varsity at 6:30 and the feature varsity match at 7:30.

At the start of preseason practice, Thief River Falls coach Sharon Stauss said the Prowlers faced a major rebuilding project this fall. But nearly two weeks of drills have brightened the team's prospects, she said.

"I'm a lot more optimistic than the last time we talked," Stauss reported Tuesday. "The kids have become a real team. They've shown good teamwork. The serves look good, and they hustle."

Starting line-up Friday is expected to include LeAnn Paetznick, Karmon Espe, Pam Finney and Lynnette Huot. The other two spots are up for grabs among Joleen Gibson, Susie Waale, Denise Opdahl and Wendy Erickson.

"We're going to depend a lot on LeAnn and Karmon to get out hitting going," noted Stauss.

After facing the Lakers the Prowlers will be at home Thursday, September 10, vs. Warren; Thursday, September 17, vs. Fosston; and Tuesday, September 22, vs. East Grand Forks before going on the road for the first time Thursday, September 24, at Moorhead.

+ Mike Grant, son of Minnesota Viking head coach Bud Grant, is the new head football coach at Forest Lake and he'll coach his first varsity game on Friday night, Sept. 4, when his team plays host to Coon Rapids.

Cards Have Young Teams In Football, Volleyball

One word — young — describes both the football and volleyball teams at Pershing high school in Plummer this fall. Football coach Gary Brantl has just three seniors on his 23-player squad that open its 1981 season Friday by hosting Grygla-Gatzke in a 7:30 p.m. nine-man North Tri County Conference game, while volleyball coach Dean Miller expects just one senior to be in the starting line-up when the Cardinals open Tuesday at home against Middle River.

A bulk of the Cardinals' football squad is made up of sophomores and freshmen. Pete Gerardy, Steve Fossell and Bill Maki are the only seniors on the team, while Dean Sletten and Kyle Gustafson represent the junior class. They'll all start Friday. Gerardy and Sletten are the Cardinals' co-captains.

Also expected to be starting somewhere on offense or defense against the Eagles are sophomores Brian Fisher, Tim Gagner, Troy Gustafson, Mike Konickson and Tim Peters, freshman Russ Fisher and eighth grader Gary Torkelson, a tackle with a lot of potential, says Brantl.

"We hope to get off to a fast start — that's the big key for us," explained Brantl, whose team was winless in nine games a year ago. Opening opponents Grygla-Gatzke and Erskine were 1-8 and 2-7 in 1980. Both games will be played in Plummer, with the Comets serving as an early season homecoming opponent.

"The kids are young and full of energy. If we can win a couple of games right away it might make a big difference in our whole season," noted Brantl.

"I think Middle River will be the team to beat," said Brantl in reference to the ten-team North Tri-County Conference race. McIntosh-Winger and Clearbrook pose the biggest threats to the Skippers, he added.

Senior Sheila Gustafson is the only returning starter on Miller's volleyball team. She'll share the co-captain chores with junior Deb Braaten. Rest of the starting unit could include junior Linda Hesse, sophomores Jodi Malwitz and Helen Jaegar, along with freshman Jodi Pahlen. freshman Jodi Pahlen.

Despite the youth, Miller still thinks the Cardinals can have a successful season. "We're young, but we've got some experience. We're looking for setters right now. We've always had good serving, good basic bumping and good spikers. If we can just get some good setters we'll be okay."

Plummer starts its home volleyball matches with 6:30 p.m. junior varsity games. Among the Cardinals' 1981 home matches is their Plummer Invitational, a Saturday, October 10, affair featuring round-robin competition between Plummer, Goodridge, Oklee and Mentor.

Top Contenders Square Off In 9-Man Openers

A pair of games matching preseason North Tri County Conference favorites will highlight Friday's season-opening games in area nine-man high school football.

Coaches generally made Middle River the team to beat in 1981, with Oklee, McIntosh-Winger and Clearbrook also given title consideration. Friday's matches will find Middle River at Oklee and Clearbrook at McIntosh-Winger for 7:30 p.m. games.

Elsewhere, Erskine will be at Goodridge and Grygla-Gatzke will be at Plummer in 7:30 p.m. starts while Mentor visits Gonvick-Trail for a 4 p.m. game.

Play in the 11-man Top of the State Conference will get off to a slow start Friday with only Marshall County Central and Greenbush scheduled to kick off their 1981 season this week. The Nordics host Halstad and the Tigers entertain Crookston Mount St. Benedict in nonconference starts.

Rest of the Top of the State Conference teams — Argyle, Hallock, Stephen and Tri-County have open dates Friday and will wait until September 11 to begin play.

DNR Explains Procedures On Accidents Involving Auto-Deer

You're a motorist and you've just collided with a deer on a Minnesota highway — what do you do next?

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) explained what the law requires of a driver who runs down a deer or other wildlife and how the department handles such cases.

More than 8,649 deer were killed on Minnesota roads last year, according to DNR records, ancd the majority are killed during the fall months.

Department enforcement officials said that when a motorist runs down a deer the animal should be left where it has fallen unless it is blocking the road and can be dragged off to the side.

Next step is to call a conservation officer, sheriff or highway patrolman and report the accident. When the enforcement agent arrives the driver may be offered the deer or may ask to purchase it.

DNR regulations provide that the minimum price is $5 but may be higher, depending on the size and conditinon of the animal and the time of year. (The conservation officer (CO) has the duty of disposing of a car killed deer and the driver does not automatically gain possession of it. The CO may elect to sell it to a charitable organization or institution.)

Either a check or cash may be used to make the purchase and the driver will be given a receipt, or seizure slip, on the spot if the enforcement agent is a conservation officer. The receipt or seizure slip is proof that the deer is legally in the person's possession.

If the agent is a sheriff, deputy or highway patrol officer, the driver may be allowed to take the deer and will be contacted the next day by a conservation officer to complete the paper work.

Conservation officer must send a check ot DNR headquarters in St. Paul for the price received for the deer along with a confiscation report showing the time and date of the accident, buyer's name and other details.

Pheasants or other game birds killed on the road should be left where fallen and may be sold to the driver for not less than $1. Waterfowl and other migratory birds, by federal law, cannot be sold but must be gathered up and disposed of by the CO.

If the car-killed bird or animal is to be mounted, the seizure slips must accompany the wildlife to the taxidermist and must be attached to the bottom of the mount afterward.

MSHSL Board Member Named New President

Superintendent Fred Switzer of Morris has been elected president of the Board of Directors of the Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) for the 1981-82 school year.

Switzer, a representative from Regions 5-6A who served as vice-president of the 16-member group during his third year of service on the board last school year, was elected by his colleagues at a reorganization meeting in Alexandria recently. He succeeds Dr. John Feda, former superintendent of schools in Marshall who is the newly appointed Commissioner of Education in Minnesota.

Elected vice-president of the board for 1981-82 was Gene Olive of Richfield. Olive, who represents Regions 5-6AA, is director of personnel for the Richfield public schools. Olive will begin his third year of service on the board.

Elaine Niehoff, Melrose, a state school boards association member on the board, was elected treasurer. Niehoff was appointed to serve on the board in February of 1980.

MSHSL Notes

+ Opening football games will be played the first week in September with an abbreviated slate of contests set for Thursday, Sept. 3. More than 200 games will be played the next evening, Friday, Sept. 4, as 489 squads begin the 1981 campaign.

+ Cambridge has added hockey to its interscholastic activities program. The addition of that school to the MSHSL program brings the total number of high schools playing hockey to 153.

+ Kent Hrbek, the rookie who was recently called up by the Minnesota Twins, was a member of the 1976 Bloomington Kennedy high school baseball team that participated in the state tournament that year. A starter at first base as a sophomore that season, Hrbek hit .333 in the tourney.

+Number of schools that will participate in the MSHSL girls interscholastic soccer program has nearly doubled from last year's first season. The fall sport has 41 schools registered compared with 21 in 1980.

+ Stan Nagorski is the new Crosby-Ironton basketball coach, replacing Bill Selisker who resigned last May.

+ Bird Island-Lake Lillian, two-time defending Class C football champion, will put the state's longest winning streak, 25, on the line when playing host to Olivia Friday.

DNR NEWS

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is requesting the assistance of hunters in the collection of data on a bear research project during the upcoming hunting season which opens September 12.

Department wildlife researchers are asking successful bear hunters to remove a tooth from their trophy and send it in for analysis.

The tooth they want is the small one just behind the canine in the upper row. By sectioning this tooth, researchers can determine the bear's age. Such information is vital to determine the age structure of the bear population which in turn is used, along with other data, to monitor the productivity and survival of the population.

Envelopes in which to mail the tooth and a questionnaire providing other information are available at bear registration stations.

Under state law, all bears taken during the season must be registered.

Chuck Kinsey, DNR big game research biologist at Grand Rapids, said hunters who send in the tooth and questionnaire will receive a yellow and black "Bear Hunter" patch for their hunting coat and a note telling them the age of the bear they shot.

He said the tooth is most easily removed shortly after the bear is killed but can also be removed later. Kinsey said the important thing is not to break off the root while extracting the tooth since that is the part needed to determine the animal's age.

Last year hunters sent the DNR over 500 teeth. Based on a study of last year's teeth, the DNR said male bears between one and four years old make up 50 per cent of the total bag.

Marlys Lefrooth and Melanie, Mildred Nelson and Irene Larson visited Anna Brekke late Sunday afternoon and were lunch guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Verner Fredricks of Mentor visited and were noon luncheon guests of Mildred Nelson on Wednesday. In the afternoon Mildred accompanied the Fredricks to the Gordon Grandstrand home at rural Stephen to visit.

Esther Storeby and Marcy Nelson called at the Anna Brekke home one day this past week.

Senior Citizen News

I believe it helped that I stayed away last Thursday since I see 23 names registered in our record book. I spent a few days with my daughter who is an L.P.N. since I needed a bit of help with my ulcerated leg and came home feeling much better. Although I'll be going back for more of the same whenever I can. It's nice to have a nurse in your family.

There were some visitors at the center. Thursday, Ellen Stromberg brought her mother, Bertha Holmstrom from the KMNC, Vernice Thibado brought her mother Florence Stennes from Stephen, Clara Nelson, Grace Boen, Edna Berg and Eunice Clark came from Karlstad and Janice Borowicz was there also.

It was our fun day so Bingo was played till it was time for lunch.

Florence Stennes gave the center $5 to pay for the lunch she wants us to serve for her some Thursday. Thank you Florence, how very thoughtful and kind of you.

Ellen Stromberg gave a one dollar donation. Thank you, Ellen.

Amanda won Bertha's door prize, Mabel Borsvold and Bertha Holmstrom received the two prizes Elsie gave, Florence won Ruth Harpers and Sally won Mabel Borsvold's.

IF YOU THINK NOW IS A BAD TIME TO BUY A HOME . . . WAIT UNTIL NEXT YEAR!!!

WHAT ARE YOU WAITING FOR?

Home prices to drop?
In the last year, the median price of an existing home went up 6.6%. And, that was a small increase compared to the 10% increase of recent years. Remember, homes may seem high now, but they're an investment that will start appreciating for you immediately.

Mortgage interest rates to come down?
They might — but it's not likely. Even assuming a slight drop, your dollar savings could be wiped out by the increased cost of buying your home later.

More money in your savings account?
As long as inflation continues to surpass the interest paid out on savings, and you continue to pay tax on your earned interest, you'll come up a loser.

Your landlord to lower the rent?
Nice idea, but dream on!

If you truly want a home of your own — one that you can build equity in — NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY. DECIDE NOW!!

Why wait any longer? Call a REALTOR® for professional advice and assistance in finding the right home for you.

PUBLIC NOTICE
The Thief River Falls water utility announced today that the State maximum allowable limit for turbidity in drinking water is being exceeded.
Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand or organic matter in the water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with chlorine disinfection. However, the high turbidity levels, do not create any health hazard because the water utility is able to maintain effective levels of chlorine for disinfection.
The Thief River Falls water utility staff is working closely with State Health Department officials to reduce the turbidity to acceptable levels.
Any citizen seeking addition information should contact Allen Lamm at the Water Plant, phone number 681-3809.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

September 2, 1981
Official Proceedings
Board of County Commissioners
Pennington County, Minnesota
August 25, 1981

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board met in the Commissioners' Room in the Courthouse in Thief River Falls at 10:00 a.m. August 25, 1981.

Members present: Hoffman, Grabanski, Koop, Stenberg & Tasa. All present.

The minutes of the meetings of July 13, 16, 28 and August 11 were read and approved as read.

Gary Johnson appeared before the Board and asked for repair of about ½ mile of County Ditch 59 from Section 9 in Kratka Township. Board agreed to proceed and instructed Engineer to schedule the repairs.

A petition was presented by Lyle Olson for repair of County Ditch 44. The Engineer was instructed to determine the cost of repair and the Board would then determine whether to proceed. There could be an apparent problem of financing this repair.

At 11:00 John Parker of the DNR discussed findings of Public Hearing and of his on site visits to areas noted by individuals and his knowledge of the area. Commissioner Hoffman introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Resolution of Public Waters

WHEREAS, an intensive study has been made of the land designated by the Minnesota Department of Conservation as Public Waters or Wetlands, and

WHEREAS, an on site study has been made of other areas in Pennington County and their possible designation as Public Waters or Wetlands,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that a list of Public Waters or Wetlands developed by on site observation indicating a possible addition of 26 additional sites to be added to the original Department of Conservation list as well as several sites to be deleted from said list is before the Board for consideration, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that said list of additions and deletions be presented to the Department of Conservation and recommended for inclusion or deletion from the original designated lands, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that John Parker, Conservation Officer, be commended for his deligent work in this area and be petitioned to hand carry said list along with the suggested additions and deletions to the Department of Conservation for clarification of all proposals.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Tasa and upon vote declared adopted.

Moved by Commissioner Hoffman and seconded by Commissioner Stenberg that a Contract with St. Regis Paper Co. for furnishing Culverts be approved as complete and the Auditor be authorized and instructed to pay total Contract in the amount of $14,266.90. Motion declared unaimously carried.

Dennis Howard, Court Administrator, along with District Judge Saetre and Clerk of Court, Ardith Johnson, discussed implementation of a new record keeping system known as Trial Court Information System (TCIS). System is not for financial records but for a proper record of cases entered into the County Court and District Court. Discussion followed and it was agreed to provide a budget for the implementation of this program.

Moved by Commissioner Tasa and seconded by Commissioner Hoffman that the fee for tax certificates to be provided by the Auditor and Treasurer be $1.00 pursuant to 272.46 & 272.47 as amended, effective July 1, 1981.

Commissioner Granbaski was unable to attend the afternoon session of the Board meeting.

Barbara Jarquet, Director of N.W. Regional Library, appeared with discussion of budget allocation for Library for 1982 in the amount of $16,500.00. This is a 10 per cent increase over 1981. Matter was taken under advisement.

Commissioner Tasa introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Resolution Authorizing Application
For MHFA Housing
Rehabilitation Loan Funds

WHEREAS, the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency, State of Minnesota, has been authorized to undertake a program to provide loans to property owners for the purpose of housing rehabilitation; and

WHEREAS, Northwest Minnesota Multi-County Housing and Redevelopment Authority (herein called Multi-County H.R.A.) has developed an application as an Administering Entity for the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency Rehabilitation Loan Program; and

WHEREAS, Multi-County H.R.A. has demonstrated the ability to perform the required activities of the Minnesota Housing Financing Rehabilitation Loan Program;

NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved, that Multi-County H.R.A. is hereby authorized to make application to the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency for a grant of funds pursuant to the Rehabilitation Loan Program;

NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved, that Multi-County H.R.A. is hereby authorized as an entity to be charged with the administration of funds made available through the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency Rehabilitation Loan Program, in the County of Pennington.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Stenberg and upon vote, declared unanimously adopted.

The County Assessor presented application by John A. Konickson for adjustment in the amount allowed for Homestead. One tract of land was inadvertently listed as belonging to John G. Konickson and homestead had not been allowed. The Board approved the application.

The final report of Viewers assigned to review the benefits in Jud. 25-3 drainage ditch was filed indicating a new level of benefits for the entire area and also a recommendation that County Ditch 25 be included with Jud. 25-3 and from this point on, be handled as one ditch with a common benefited area. The Board accepted the report and instructed the Auditor to notify all benefited landowners of the Hearing.

Moved by Commissioner Hoffman, seconded by Commissioner Tasa that the Final Plat of John Nelson's known as M & J Third Addition covering 5 acres in Section 29, Township 154 Range 43 be approved. Motion carried.

City of Goodridge Council Representative, I.S. Easthouse, appeared and discussed street and storm sewer problems in the City of Goodridge. Matter was taken under advisement.

The Board agreed to meet as a Committee to conduct interviews for the Auditor's position on September 1, 1981, at 8:00 P.M.

Moved by Commissioner Stenberg, seconded by Commissioner Hoffman that the meeting adjourn to convene at 10:00 A.M. September 8, 1981.

Sherri Melvie Attends FHA National Meet

Sherri Melvie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erv Melvie of Viking, and a senior at the Marshall County Central high school in Newfolden, was one of 1,500 students selected from more than 400,000 home economics students throughout the nation who attended the Future Homemakers of America (FHA) annual leadership meeting conducted this summer in San Francisco, CA.

"Youth Energy: Unlimited Potential," was the theme of the four-day meeting designed to help young men and women gain interest in youth service projects.

Workshops focused on family relations, career employment, stress and coping, community service, and back-to-basic leadership sessions. Special seminars were presented on teen parenting, fitness and health and legislative awareness and networking. Highlight of the week was the launching of a $2 million fund raising campaign to build a leadership center in Reston, VA during which students will raise money through local and state projects.

FHA has 12,500 FHA-Home Economics Related Occupations (HERO) chapters and a national membership of 400,000. In Minnesota there are 408 chapters and 10,500 members. The organization, founded in 1945, is a non-profit national vocational student organization in which members set goals, plan their work, and develop their own potentials.

Miss Melvie has been a member of the Newfolden chapter for five years and was chapter president for the 1980-81 school year. As a result of her experiences at the national meeting, she plans to work with her chapter in promoting action activity events and fund-raisers and in getting junior high members interested in holding offices at the district and state levels.

Sherri's advisors are Mrs. Ruth Milsten and Miss Linda Larison.

School Traffic Safety Takes Cooperation

With most schools starting during the past few days, Minnesota public safety commissioner John P. Sopsic reminds youngsters, their parents and motorists to "have a safe, accident-free school year."

Motorists must again get used to seeing children on their way to and from schools, Sopsic said.

School bus safety awareness should also be increased. Motorists are reminded that they must stop for school buses when the bus displays flashing red lights and extended stop arms. When coming from either direction, a vehicle must stop at least 20 feet from the bus when the red signals are flashing. Flashing amber lights are a pre-warning that the bus is preparing to stop.

Parents can play a key role in teaching their children good traffic safety habits. The best time to teach is early in the school year.

Specific suggestions are:

+ Help children learn a safe route to school.

+ Have children wear reflective tape on outer garments.

+ Recognize and obey school patrols and school speed limits.

+ Be aware of the increased number of children riding bicycles to school.

Consumers-Read Health Club Contracts Carefully

Before joining a health club, think what membership might do to your budget as well as to your body. Unless you read the contract carefully and understand exactly what you pay for, it may not be a financially healthy experience, says the Minnesota Society of CPAs.

Inspect several health clubs or spas before you obligate yourself. If the club alternates use for men and women, you and your spouse must plan to visit on different days. Make your visit coincide with the time to use the club so you can see how crowded it gets. Does every facility advertised by the club exist? Check the pool showers and locker area for cleanliness. Does the equipment work? How many health club personnel are available to supervise use of the exercise equipment? What's the extent of their training? If the club offers exercise classes, ask for a schedule. Ask if there are extra charges for the classes.

You take greater risks if you sign up with a health club under construction, because you can't look at it first. As often happens, if the club opens months later than scheduled, you may be paying for a membership you cannot take advantage of right away. In that case, your membership fee would be better off earning interest.

Annual membership fees range from $100 to nearly $1,000. Be sure you know if any extra charges are involved. Additional costs could include locker and towel rental, fees for use of tennis or racquetball courts, and fees for extra services, like messages. A $10 massage and two hours of court time for $12 every week can grow to be financially burdensome.

Depending upon the type of membership you take, you may be able to use only one health club or a number of facilities in the same general area. If you prefer not to commit to a full year's membership, ask if a three or six-month membership is available.

How will you pay the membership fee? If the health club accepts credit cards, you can charge the membership fee, or the club may allow you to pay in installments, without any finance charges. If there is a finance charge, be sure the contract spells out the annual percentage rate and the amount of the down payment. Compare what it would cost to finance the fee through the club or with your credit card, CPAs say. Let's say the annual membership fee is $450. If the club offers you a 20 per cent annual percentage rate, you'll pay a total of $500.16, or $50.16 in finance charges. If the annual percentage rate on your credit card is 18 per cent, finance charges will be $45, assuming a total payment of $495.

Read every item on both sides of the membership contract. According to the Association of Physical Fitness Centers, half of the legitimate complaints lodged against health clubs would be eliminated if the consumer read the contract. The contract should include all rules and regulations, including when the facility is available for use, and the responsibilities of both the members and the club.

Membership cancellation provisions and the length of time in which to receive your refund should be spelled out within the contract.

Nearly 2,000 complaints against health clubs were recorded last year by the national Council of Better Business Bureaus. About 240 of these complaints fell into the "selling practices" area, which includes high pressure sales. Be prepared to deal with the salesperson who explains that membership costs "only a few dollars a week" and asks, "Isn't your health worth it?" To entice you to sign on, you may be promised additional "free" months. Should you decide to join the club, have a clause written into the contract specifying the extra months of use you are entitled to. Unless it's written out, a promise is worthless, CPAs say.

PRESENTING A first dollar of clear profit to Walt Cymbaluk, owner of Red River Specialities, on Friday were Chamber Ambassadors JoAnn White and Dwight Tangquist. Scott Pahlen, service manager; Wayne Walter, sales manager, and Carmen Bissen, bookkeeper, will be offering sales and service on a complete line of agricultural equipment including grain dryers from their location on Highway 32 N. Future plans include offering a complete line of fertilizers and employing between 12 and 20 people.

Vaccine Guards Dogs Against Parvovirus

by Robert L. Stear
D.V.M.

A young, frisky dog that usually plays outdoors all day becomes dull and listless, and develops diarrhea and vomiting the next day. The frantic owners visit their veterinarian, who eliminates any possibility of food poisoning or distemper. He tells them about a new disease called "parvovirus infection." A number of cases of parvovirus have been diagnosed recently in this area.

This was a typical scene across the country last year as an unknown canine virus swept the country, causing sickness and death among puppies and young dogs. It was a desperate situation; the disease was so new that little information was available, and only meager supplies of possibly effective vaccines.

Since then, researchers have thoroughly investigated the cause of the epidemic and have prepared effective vaccines against the new virus.

The new disease was caused by an organism known as a "parvovirus." It spreads when a susceptible pet contacts the virus in the stool of an infected animal, on contaminated feed or water bowls, or in kennels that house sick animals.

Last year, most dogs were susceptible to parvo infection, but not all became ill. Pets that were stressed by parasites, poor nutrition or those that were very young or very old sickened much more quickly than pets in good condition. Dogs that were boarded or attended large dog shows were also at risk.

Veterinarians know now that the virus destroys the cells that line the pet's intestinal tract, causing diarrhea and reducing the animal's ability to absorb nutrients. The virus also attacks heart cells in very young puppies, so that the animals died with little warning.

Research has resulted in vaccines that are much more effective than those available last year. Formerly, veterinarians were forced to try for short term protection by using vaccines that were originally developed for use against certain viruses in cats. Now there are vaccines developed specifically to prevent parvovirus in dogs. The new products give more complete protection without undesirable side effects.

Dog owners who want up-to-date information about parvovirus causes and controls may ask their veterinarian or receive a canine parvovirus infection pamphlet by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: CPV Pamphlet, P.O. Box 80809, Lincoln, NE 68501.

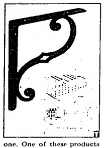
Do-It-Yourself
Tips from Stanley
Simple Ways to Hang Shelves

There are several ways to build and hang shelving but when time is limited you may choose the easiest. If you can support shelves between a wall and partition you can cut cleats of scrap wood or furring strips and secure them at each end with screws. Ordinary steel angle irons or mending brackets, two at each end secured with flathead screws are also functional, but not decorative.

A more elegant way is to support shelving with a pair of half-inch dowels at each end. Use a bit and brace or Stanley Power Bore™ bit to drill half-inch holes into the uprights at each end. Lay the shelf on the dowels. A dadoed support is probably the most sophisticated means of supporting a shelf—a groove cut across the width of a board with wood chisel or router equal in width to the thickness of the shelf which is then slipped into place.

But, quicker and easier by far than any of these is to buy Stanley Hardware's grey enameled steel utility shelf brackets. They come in six sizes to support shelves up to 12 inches in width, ideal for garage and shop use. They can be installed on wall studs or on concrete walls with special masonry fasteners.

There are other brackets to help pep up a blank space, or a lonely corner—and still make the change a practical and easy one.



One of these products is a decorative "reversible" hammered shelf bracket by Stanley. A reversible scroll-like "S" may be installed above or below the shelf. Either arm of the bracket may be attached to the wall. Above the shelf, the brackets serve as bookends as well as support for the shelf. Used beneath they support it and give it style. Brackets may be used with standard lumber widths, they come in three sizes and four finishes: textured black, brass, antique silver or antique copper. In hardware outlets.

Mrs. Alfred Solem, Rt. 2,

Recent visitors at the Lloyd Larson home were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Reierson and Marcy of Holt, Mrs. Eugene Kleinwachter and Hope of Strandquist, Mrs. Donald Larson and Mrs. Ivan Melvie, both of Holt, Mrs. Doris Kaushagen and Mrs. Edith Nabben, both of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Orlando Solberg, Lance and Keith of Plummer, Mrs. Lester Muzzy and Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Moe.

Gary Halvorson called his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Halvorson Friday evening from Lloydminster, located on the Manitoba - Saskatchewan line. The four bicyclists plan to go by way of Minot to Grand Forks and not Bismarck as stated earlier in this column. They hoped to be in Saskatoon in three days. The longest distance covered so far in one day has been 100 miles.

Mrs. Alvin Halvorson and Mrs. Lloyd Larson were among the guests at a household party Wednesday afternoon, August 12, at the Eugene Kleinwachter home at Strandquist.

Mrs. Margaret Pederson entertained her family for dinner Sunday. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Pederson, Steven, Shawn and Shelli and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gustafson, Stacy, Susan and Tony.

Friday afternoon, August 14, Mrs. Lloyd Larson brought birthday greetings to Barbara at the Clifford Johnson home. In the evening Mrs. Larson accompanied by Mrs. Jerry Sorenson, attended a household products party at the Mrs. Nina Halvorson home.

Wednesday evening luncheon guests at the Peter Solem home were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson of New Richmond, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem.

Mrs. Lloyd Larson was a luncheon guest at the Mrs. Anne Muzzy home in Thief River Falls Wednesday, August 19. Later in the afternoon she was a caller at the Arne Espeseth home.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Yonke of East Grand Forks spent the past weekend at the home of his folks, the Leonard Yonkes. Saturday afternoon they, together with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Yonke and David attended the Wayne Sourdif-Susan Bjerken wedding and reception at Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls. Marvin was Wayne's best man.

Thursday, August 20, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Larson and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Stough of Alabama spent the day sight seeing in the Bemis Hill and Rocky Point area.

Mrs. Larry Gustafson was a noon luncheon guest at the home of Mrs. Orin Green in Thief River Falls Tuesday last week.

A bear cub was seen recently in the farmyard of Steven Muzzy and bear tracks were noticed at several places in the area.

Sunday afternoon visitors at the Alfred Solem home were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Halvorson of North.

Mrs. John Lubitz enjoyed having her cousin, Bonnie Medicuf and girls as house guests from Tuesday to Thursday last week. Saturday afternoon Bonnie and girls, Mr. and Mrs. John Lubitz, David and Dean, Mr. and Mrs. James Bevel and family from Hampton, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Bevel from N.C., were among the many who attended the Wayne Sourdif-Susan Bjerken wedding and reception at Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Larson drove down to Roger and Ronda Nelson's cabin near Detroit Lakes Sat., August 22. In the evening they accompanied the Nelsons to the Lake Association annual potluck picnic. They returned home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Halvorson were overnight campers Monday last week at the Alfred Bitzer home at Williams and spent Tuesday with them.

Sunday evening coffee guests at the Mrs. Clara Jaennette home were Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lendobeja of Smiley and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem.

Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Larson brought belated birthday greetings to Mrs. Orville Harstad at her home of rural Viking.

Enjoying those watching the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sourdif open their wedding gifts at their home in Thief River Falls Sunday afternoon were his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sourdif of Newfolden, Mr. and Mrs. James Bevel and family from Hampton, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Leo Gibeau and Mr. and Mrs. John Lubitz, David and Dean.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Lloyd Larson attended a meeting of the Esther circle of the Nazareth Lutheran church ALCW at the Raymond Sagstuen home of rural Newfolden. Later in the afternoon she visited at the Nina Halvorson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Larson and Mrs. Gerry Nelson spent Friday and Saturday at the Nelson cabin at Springsteel Island at Warroad.

LITTLE OAK . .

Cora Oftelie and Clara Bjerklie called at the Gene Marquis home late Sunday afternoon.

Nazareth ladies aid will serve dinner after the 11:15 services September 6.

Bruce Bjerklie and Gene Marquis helped Cora Oftelie move her furniture into an apartment in Thief River Falls, where she will make her home. We all will miss Cora and we hope she will like her new home in town.

Mrs. Bill Gervais of Stillwater arrived at the Ernest Mostrom home on Thursday. She stayed until Sunday afternoon when her and Johnnie Flaagan returned to their home. They had visited relatives in the area. Johnnie had spent over a week at his grandparents' home, the Ernest Mostroms.

Mrs. Dave Mugaas, Sarah and Emily of rural Thief River Falls visited at the Ernest Mostrom home on Saturday and they also attended the Cora Oftelie auction sale.

The Weekly Headline

Grandpa fumed when I took this picture. "It won't look natural," he said. "My desk is never clean."

It's clean now. The umbrella stand is empty, the hat rack is bare. His old Web press has been retired. But Grandpa's presence lingers on.

For over fifty years he printed the Mayfield Progress, reporting the news with integrity. There were times when he was threatened, cajoled by attempted bribery, menaced by pressure groups, but he stayed true to principle. He was a giant in our town.

What made Grandpa strong in the face of danger — incorrupt when confronted by unscrupulous forces?

His church was the center and circumference of his being. Its truths and its goodness sustained him. It was all that he needed — he remained steadfast and sure.

Your church is eager to help you meet the pressures of your day. Its resources are unlimited and eternal. Go to your church or synagogue and take your family with you.

Tradition Accepts Violence to Women

by Kathleen Ann Kolden

(This is part two of a six part series on battered women: "Why Men Batter".)

"A spaniel, a woman, and a walnut tree, the more they're beaten the better they be." This old English proverb is an example of the traditional acceptance of violent behavior toward women. Until the 19th century it was legal for a man to beat his wife with a whip no larger than his little finger.

Historically women have been perceived as the property of their husbands with the institution of marriage. Things are beginning to change but the process is long and slow.

An understanding of the causes of abuse ultimately involves understanding the extent to which violence and sexism dominate our society, affecting all relationships and individuals within it. Our culture and family life within our culture not only permits but also teaches aggressive and violent behavior.

We learned as children to defend ourselves at a very early age. Boys in particular are encouraged to respond to aggressive behavior on the part of other children by fighting back.

I recall an incident in my own childhood that involved the myth of working out aggressions physically or "fighting to be friends". Most of us have seen the two cowboys in the movies who aren't sure they like each other. They beat each other to the point of pure exhaustion, then pull themselves up smiling through bloody lips and noses, shake hands, possibly give each other an affectionate half hug and stumble off to the nearest saloon to have a drink and become the best of buddies.

Mary and I were seven or eight years old, on our way to becoming friends and having a disagreement. Her older sisters told us we had to "fight to be best friends". I came from a violent home and I knew what fighting was all about; so did Mary. The next thing I knew Mary and I were on the floor pulling hair, biting, kicking and scratching, with her sisters cheering us on. I went home crying, with a little skin and blood under my fingernails and scratches on my face. Mary's sisters were wrong. We hurt each other and we were never friends, let along best friends.

That kind of experience is probably rare for most female children, but the pressure put on the male child to be physically aggressive is quite normal. One national survey indicated that 70 per cent of the parents contacted considered it important for a boy to have fist fights when he is growing up.

Constant exposure to violence on television and in movies reinforces in children the belief that violence is acceptable and a common dimension to their lives. Most children learn at a very young age that their parents will use physical force as an acceptable method of discipline.

Children who witness violent and abusive behavior between their parents often conclude that this behavior is acceptable not only for their parents but also for themselves once they grow up.

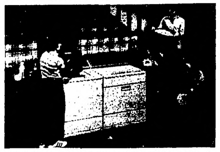
Again from personal experience, my five brothers and sisters witnessed very violent behavior between my parents. With the exception of the "baby of the family" we have all been involved in violent relationships. My brothers became abusers and myself and my sisters became victims of abuse. When I was 18, married for the first time and my husband hit me, I felt no surprise. My surprise came years later in realizing that in some marriages women didn't get beaten.

Our society not only defines aggression as a normal response to frustration but also pushes men and women into rigid and almost impossible roles, with unmet expectations and overwhelming frustration often the result. Within a marriage in particular the man has traditionally been thrust into the role of breadwinner and protector. At times when money is scarce (unemployment, inflation, Christmas holidays, a new baby arriving) the pressure involved in fulfilling the expectation of this role can prove overwhelming. At such times if the husband expresses frustrations and resentment physically, it is often the woman, who experiences the brunt of all those feelings.

It is important for many men and women to learn how to deal more effectively with frustration and conflict within their relationships. Conflict between a man and woman is a potentially positive acceptable phenomenon. However, when a man and woman attempt to solve problems through physical force and violence their behavior becomes inappropriate.

The next two articles will take a look at the woman's role in relationships and "Why Women Stay" the victim.

Touch Control Makes Life Easier



No matter what size load or type of fabric, Whirlpool Corporation's solid state touch control laundry pair makes your wash child's play.

Fall is approaching fast, and that means work for your washer and dryer. School clothes, grungy football and soccer uniforms, and delicate outfits for dates and parties. All of that requires various size loads and different fabric cycles to make sure everything is cleaned properly.

No matter what size load or type of fabric, Whirlpool Corporation's solid state touch control laundry pair makes your wash child's play. Merely select the proper water level and turn on the power. The washer automatically selects the Regular/Heavy cycle. Just a touch of the finger is needed to choose the Knit/Gentle or Permanent Press cycle. The family football player could even take care of those uniforms without any fuss.

The solid state dryer features electronic Custom Dry Control. There is no need to keep checking the clothes to see if they are dry. The dryer automatically shuts off when the clothes are sufficiently dry. To protect clothes from wrinkling, the Finsh Guard Control automatically tumbles the load in cool air every five minutes for 2½ hours, just in case you can't take them out of the dryer immediately.

This electronic control laundry pair is part of Whirlpool Corporation's growing family of solid state appliances which make life just a little easier for everyone.

Terrific Efforts

One can't help but be impressed by the efforts put forth by area communities in their annual celebrations, particularly the fall festival type of activities that are held from year to year.

Such events as the Grygla fall festival, the Blast to Brooks, the Middle River goose festival and now the Newfolden fall festival all require extensive time and effort by community residents. Such community interest and enthusiasm is great and certainly deserving of support and attendance.

Two things are impressive about the efforts of these smaller towns in organization and presentation of such events. One is that the numbers of people available to plan and work is restricted, so the percentage of participation is greater than it would be in more populous communities. The other is that the results are consistently well planned, organized and conducted.

A third impression might be the fun that the people seem to have in not only participating and sharing in the events but in doing the planning and organization.

If you missed the fall festival at Grygla, you missed one of the most established fall festivals in the area. But mark your calendars for the Blast to Brooks September 12, the Newfolden fall festival September 12 and 13 and the Middle River goose festival October 2, 3 and 4.

It's Harpo Again . . . .

Harpo Dexter, who writes the Harpo's Bizarre column for the Bemidji Pioneer, has a way of looking at human frailties from a humorous perspective that is often lacking in today's world. Who among us has ever bought a boat or other major item without experiencing at least a little of Harpo's emotion? Here is how he explains it:

My wife claims I am the answer to a salesman's prayers. She claims I am an easy mark. She has claimed that ever since we got married. She claimed it when I said, "I do," and she claimed it when I bought the furniture. She claimed it whenever I bought a car and she claimed it before and after I bought my last boat.

I thought I did pretty well on that deal. I told the salesman I wouldn't pay list price for a demonstrator. And I didn't.

He put his arm around my shoulder. Real friendly like.

"This is no demonstrator," he said. "This is really a one-of-a-kind boat." Then he whispered so no one else would hear, "Just between you and me — and if you tell the boss I'll get fired, but I'll knock 10 per cent off the list just to see that you get this boat."

"Well," I said.

"You should have this boat," he said. "You deserve it. This is the best and you deserve the best. This is the craft for you. I know. I can feel it right here," and he tapped himself on the chest.

I could feel it, too. I'd been feeling it for weeks. For months. I'd felt it every time I'd looked at that beauty. I'd felt it every Sunday I'd mashed my nose against the window just to get another look.

But this time I decided to be firm. To be a negotiator. Just this once to prove something to my wife.

"It's still a bit high for a year-old boat," I said.

"High?" he screeched. "High? With three other guys just waiting for me to make them an offer like that, you say high?" He raised his arms, then dropped them to his side.

"Take it or leave it," he said.

I wanted to take it. I wanted to take it so badly I could taste it. But suddenly I found a strength I'd never known before.

"Keep it," I said. Just like that. Firm. Conclusive. Definite. "Keep it," I sobbed. "I'll be back next spring and buy it when your price is right."

And I walked out on him. I walked right out, straight-backed and square-shouldered. And I sat in the car and cried like a baby.

"For goodness sake, stiffen up," my wife said.

"I want that boat," I said.

"There are other boats," she said.

"Not like her," I said.

"Just like her," she said. "The company makes thousands of them."

"Not just like her," I insisted. "Even the salesman said she was made just for me."

"He tells that to all the boys," she said.

"I want that boat," I said.

"I know you want it," she said. "He knows you want it. That's why he won't come down on the price. You're hooked and he knows it."

"The price isn't too high," I said, "and I dickered good."

"You dickered good," she said. "And if you hadn't drooled all over the deck you might have gotten a fair price."

"I didn't drool," I said.

"You drooled on the side deck and you slobbered on the foredeck," she said. "You even ran your hand over her sheer like a lecherous old dog."

"I want that boat," I said.

"Go in and buy it," she said. "Go in and pay for your lust. He probably has your slobber wiped off the deck by now."

"I told him I wouldn't be back until spring," I said.

"He's expecting you this fall," she said. "Today. Right now."

I dried my eyes and went back in. He was waiting. He even had a contract all made out. All I had to do was sign it and pay my money.

I looked over at the boat again. She was beautiful. And he had wiped my slobber off the deck.

"I'll take it," I said. I signed the contract, shook his hand and walked out. And I knew I'd just made the deal of my life.

I handed the contract to my wife.

"Well, I got her," I said.

"No kidding," she said.

"At my price," I said.

She didn't say a word. She just started the car and drove me home.

Two weeks later I stopped in at that store again to buy a motor. I looked at them, then I hollered at the salesman.

"Hey," I said, "how much you gotta have for this motor?"

"I don't know," he said, "you slobbered on it yet?"

Too Much Blasting

Political party people seem to think it is beneficial to their cause, but the tendency for state party chairmen to saturate the news media with their blasts against the opposition is disgusting to us. What is more disgusting is that it has come to be acceptable and even expected practice for state party chairmen.

And the annoying thing about it all is that the blasts from state chairmen are usually leveled at statements or attitudes that they are likely to have made or displayed themselves.

Two of these verbal salvoes were recently fired by Minnesota Independent-Republican party chairman Bill Morris, titled on the releases "Morris Lambasts Willet" and "Morris Blasts Hatch Over EPB Report". The first is critical of Sen. Gerald Willet of Park Rapids for being critical of Gov. Al Quie in the state employee strike. The second takes DFL chairman Mike Hatch to task for publicizing a complaint filed with the state ethical practices board.

Morris said Sen. Willet's accusation that Gov. Quie stalled state employee contract negotiations to save money to offset the contract settlement was "one of the most stupid comments to come from a DFL legislator in recent memory." That's not exactly charitable language.

The I-R chairman notes that DFL chairman Hatch "filed his complaint against us, but then holds a news conference to discuss it. It's irresponsible and little more than a cheap political ploy." No surprise there. Accusation and the hint of suspicion has always been a political tool — one of the more distasteful ones, but a tool nonetheless. And the DFL, although skillful at the employment of such a tool, is not the only party to use one.

Rather than crying and complaining about DFL chairman Hatch's actions, Morris could have made a positive point by emphasizing that the ethical practices board cleared his party of the charges and reprimanded Hatch for publicizing filing of the complaint. Instead, the negative path was taken.

We suppose that the finger pointing and accusations, criticisms and alarm cries are considered necessary to provide conversation when the election process is not in progress. But we would much prefer that they spare us the nonsense, exercise restraint of childish reactions and concentrate their efforts on making the system work. Certainly there are enough problems within each political party's house so that it isn't necessary to invade the other's looking for trouble.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Have you heard about the new deodorant called "Uff-Da"? It's a 22-hour type for the man who wants a couple of hours to himself.

The elderly gentleman was on his hands and knees in the dark theatre, squirming and groping around on the floor. Impatient at the disturbance, a theatre-goer asked what he was looking for. "Butterscotch caramel!" he snapped. "All this fuss for a sticky piece of candy?" the lady snapped. "You betcha," the old man replied. "My teeth are in it!"

Inflation-Fighting IDEAS

TIPS TO HELP YOU

A GOOD DEFENSE

A heat pump can both heat and cool your home by moving heat around efficiently to make you comfortable in all types of weather.

A first step in your defense against soaring energy prices can be proper insulation levels, sealing and caulking.

The next step should be checking your heating system. Even if your primary defense—the system itself—is in good shape—you can make your defense even more impenetrable by adding on a heating pump. Why does a heat pump work well with a natural gas or oil fuel furnace? That's because your home furnace works most effectively at very cold outdoor temperatures (below 30°F.). A heat pump, on the other hand, is most efficient at relatively warmer outdoor temperatures (above 30°F.).

When both a heat pump and furnace are used together—experts at Carrier Air Conditioning point out—your control system can then choose between furnace and heat pump depending on indoor and outdoor temperatures. The system will then select the most economical operating mode to meet your comfort needs.

Since an add-on heat pump system uses less energy—your heating bills will take a marked drop almost immediately. In addition, heat pumps provide efficient central air conditioning.

With this type of defense, you'll be able to score important points for your home team. . .and your home heating and cooling budget.

SOLVING PROBLEMS BEFORE THEY HAPPEN.
Lutheran Brotherhood announces MagniMed... a major medical program with 100% coverage for outpatient surgery and generic drugs.
A major need.
What would happen if you or a member of your family suffered a major illness or injury requiring an extended hospital stay, long-term treatment, major surgery or a combination of all three? Are you really covered against such catastrophic costs by your current insurance?
Improving on a good thing.
Lutheran Brotherhood has recently introduced an extraordinary new major medical plan called MagniMed. It's designed to provide quality coverage at an affordable cost. Broad coverage, too. Unlike most other plans, for example, MagniMed pays a full 100% of your outpatient surgery and generic drug costs, after the deductible has been satisfied.
Flexible, million dollar coverage!
Among MagniMed's many other features are these:
• There are a number of deductible options so that you can tailor your coverage to what you can afford
• There's no limit to the number of days or scheduled amount of benefits provided under the plan for intensive care, and room and board is provided based upon average local semi-private room rates.
• Coverage is provided either while confined in a hospital or while being treated as an outpatient.
• Each covered family member is eligible for up to $1,000,000 of lifetime benefits!
Taking the lead.
Once again Lutheran Brotherhood has spared no effort to provide Lutherans with the very best in insurance benefits...at a very competitive cost. Once again we're ready and able to help you solve problems before they happen.
Find out now.
Don't wait another minute to protect yourself from the kind of calamity that could happen any minute. And if you already have major medical coverage, it could still be very worthwhile to compare it with what MagniMed offers. Call your nearby Lutheran Brotherhood representative today and find out all about MagniMed!

GEE, I DIDN'T KNOW THAT!

NATURAL GAS
With oil prices currently averaging nearly $1.20 per gallon, natural gas continues to be a great buy. Not only a great buy, but a sound investment. The homeowner who replaces oil with natural gas this year for heating, can look forward to as much as 40%, or more, savings in fuel costs. Where else can one look for a similar recovery rate on the investment dollar? There is no better investment! That's real ESP (Energy Savings Payback).
Natural gas has been a vital American energy resource for 50 years. As we advance into the 1980's, we find natural gas supply readily available. Natural gas will continue to play a major role in meeting this nation's future energy needs and it will be a primary factor in reducing our country's overdependence on OPEC oil.

ASSOCIATED PIMIENTO CANNERS

Salmon Croquettes With Spicy Pimiento Sauce . . .

Here's an old favorite with a unique twist—salmon croquettes with a savory cream sauce. For color and flavor, the croquettes and the sauce are spiced with bright red pimiento pieces. For value, remember that canned salmon is virtually 100 per cent edible and compares favorably in cost with other meats. And for convenience, the croquettes may be made up ahead of time and stored in the refrigerator.

Serve this dish with green lima beans and small white potatoes which have been cooked together and seasoned with bacon drippings, and crisp lettuce wedges topped with your favorite salad dressing.

Send for a free colorful recipe brochure by writing: Associated Pimiento Canners, Dept. H, Box 73, Griffin, Georgia 30224.

SALMON CROQUETTES WITH SPICY PIMIENTO SAUCE

- 2 cups salmon (No. 1 can)
- 2 cups soft bread crumbs
- ½ cup milk
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 drops hot pepper sauce
- 3 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Bread crumbs or corn meal

Drain salmon and separate into fine flakes. Over low heat combine bread crumbs and milk and cook five minutes. Stir in unbeaten eggs and remaining ingredients. Let cool before shaping into croquettes. Make into balls and shape as desired. Coat croquettes with finely sifted bread crumbs or corn meal. Let stand to dry.

Place croquettes in baking dish, brush or drizzle with melted butter or bacon drippings. Bake in 400° oven until golden brown, about 30 minutes. Makes six croquettes.

In the meantime, make sauce:

- 4 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon onion salt
- 2 whole cloves
- 2 bay leaves
- ½ cup horseradish
- 1 can or jar, 4 oz., pimiento, cut in pieces
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- 4 tablespoons sour cream (optional)

In saucepan, melt butter, stir in flour to blend. Add milk and liquid from pimientos, stir and cook until slightly thickened. Add remaining ingredients except sour cream, and continue cooking to medium consistency. Stir in 4 tablespoons sour cream, if desired. Pour around croquettes in baking dish, heat gently to blend flavors.

Associated Pimiento Canners: Cherokee Products Co. (Osage); Monticello Canning Co. (Betty Ann); NABISCO, INC. (Dromedary). Pomona Products Co. (Pomona Sunshine and Stokely's Finest); Zebulon Foods Inc. (King Pharr).

We'll help your Labor Day memories become pictures like this.
Don't let a single holiday, picnic, family get-together or spontaneous good time be lost.
Keep your camera loaded and picture the good times when and where they happen. We'll take it from there: process your film, make extra prints for you, enlargements or prints from your slides. We'll even take the best of your pictures and make photo greeting cards out of them.
When the good times happen, don't forget to take pictures— and don't forget us. We'll treat your memories as well as you do.
We use Kodak paper... for a good look.

THE NEW ZINC CENT... "IS NOW PENNY WISE"!
ZINC, THAT MARVELOUS METAL, HAS STOPPED THE U.S. PENNY FROM DISAPPEARING...
THE PRICE OF COPPER WAS GETTING SO HIGH THAT A PENNY WOULD COST MORE THAN A CENT TO MAKE.
ENTER THE ZINC PENNY... IT'S COPPER PLATED SO IT LOOKS THE SAME AS OLD CENTS, AND THANKS TO THE NICE PRICE OF ZINC, THE NEW PENNY IS SAVING TAXPAYERS MILLIONS OF DOLLARS A YEAR IN MINTING COSTS... YET, ALONG WITH ITS LOW COST, ZINC IS A WONDER OF THE WORLD.
METAL MAGIC...
ZINC IS THE PROTECTIVE METAL THAT GUARDS STEEL PRODUCTS FROM THE RAVAGES OF RUST.
ZINC COATS EVERYTHING FROM BRIDGES TO LOWLY ASHCANS, WARDING OFF THE ELEMENTS SO STEEL PRODUCTS CAN LIVE LONG AND USEFUL LIVES.
ZINC IS THE LIFE-SAVING MINERAL ESSENTIAL TO ALL LIFE ON THIS PLANET...
WITHOUT ZINC'S NUTRITIONAL VALUE, PLANT, ANIMAL AND EVEN HUMAN LIFE WOULD WITHER AND VANISH FROM THE FACE OF THE EARTH... AND WE NOW FIND ZINC IS ALSO KEEPING THE NATION'S PENNY SUPPLY HEALTHY.

Grygla

Lillian Sundberg, Grygla, 294-6146

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Walberg attended the Lorenson family picnic at the Larry Peterson home at Middle River on Sunday, Aug. 23. A large crowd of relatives were present. They came from Mesa, Ariz.; Northwood, N.D.; Hallock, Gilbert, Warroad, Greenbush, Strathcona, Thief River Falls, Grygla and Middle River.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Brattell of Thief River Falls visited friends at Grygla on Saturday and also attended the Fall Festival here. Sam and Ruby recently returned from a trip to Churchill, Manitoba where they spent a few days touring the Hudson Bay area in northern Canada. They visited Townsend, Manitoba where they viewed the Inco Mines. They traveled by train for part of the trip.

Michelle Jelle spent several weeks during the summer with her older sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Albaugh at Aitkin. Michelle also attended Bemidji Music camp during the first week of August. She participated in the Friday night concert as a member of the cadet band and massed band. Michelle's mother, Bernice Jelle attended two sessions of Summer school at Bemidji state university this summer where she earned a Master's degree in elementary education.

Cora Olstad of Minneapolis, formerly of the Grygla community, visited friends here on Saturday and attended the Grygla Fall Festival. She has been staying at the home of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arlen Ellingson at Thief River Falls for a few days and at Olstad Acres in Grygla where other relatives have a vacation home located in Benville township in Beltrami county. Others visiting there now are Jeff Ellingson of Thief River Falls, Suzi Kostick and Adam Harmer, both of Minneapolis.

Mrs. Elaine Barclay and children Terry and Deanna of Howard Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Anderson, Janice and Kari Anderson all of Minneapolis spent the weekend at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manley Anderson.

Miss Beverly Johnson of Minneapolis spent the weekend at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Johnson and also attended the festivities at Grygla.

Mr. and Mrs Sidney Fladeland of McGregor, former residents of Grygla, renewed acquaintances with old friends and relatives in Grygla during the weekend and attended the Fall festival here.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wickstrom were guests at the Helmer Lind home at Newfolden on Friday. They also attended the wedding of their niece Ann Ristau to Lowell Johnson at Grand Forks, N.D. during the weekend and were guests at the Dennis Ristau home in East Grand Forks that evening.

Ida Mae Korstad and Leland visited friends in Bagley on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sorenson of Thief River Falls spent the weekend visiting at the Sandsmark brothers home and attended the Fall Festival activities in Grygla.

Mr. Bill Bernstein, president of the Marshall County American Dairy Association, recently fell off his combine, resulting in a broken arch in one of his feet. In spite of the handicap, he took part in one of the Grygla Fall Festival floats advertising the association.

First 767 Rolls Off Assembly Line

The first new-generation Boeing 767 airliner, resplendent in its red, white and blue markings, emerges from the final assembly bay at the company's 747/767 plant near Everett, Washington to the applause of 15,000 spectators. It will be the lead airplane in a five-plane test fleet, which will undergo rigorous Boeing and U.S. Federal Aviation Agency testing over the next several months. United Airlines will take delivery of the first of the twin-aisle 211-passenger fuel-efficient airliners in August, 1982. To date, 17 airlines have placed orders for the two-engine jet.

On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wickstrom made a trip to Northwest Angle on the northwest part of Lake of the Woods. They visited the various resort spots, the store and post office.

The Grygla Fall Festival parade displayed many clever and unusually attractive floats. The kiddie division floats were awarded cash prizes by the Lioness organization as follows: First prize titled "Grygla Eagle" by Thor Smerek and Jeremy Nordby, second prize titled "Flintstones" by Cassanda Sistad, Kristi Peterson and Terry Sistad, third price titled "A Hunting We Will Go" by Tracy and Shannon Nelson. The Festival committee also awarded prizes to kiddie float winners as follows: First prize trophy "Color My World" Shaun, Dawn and Jeremy Verbout, second prize titled "Hartz Dandy Delivery" to Stacy and Mike Jelle and Bill Stanley, third place to Tammy and Shannon Nelson. The adult division float was won by Grace Lutheran church. Honorable mention was given to the Lioness organization and to the Gatzke-Grygla school.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Thompson spent the weekend in Winnipeg where they joined five other couples who were awarded the trip as a result of being among the top five Avenge dealers (chemical weed spray dealers) in the district. The sales representative and his wife from Fargo were among the visitors. They enjoyed several kinds of sightseeing. They visited the zoo, the museum, toured market square and took boat tours and shopped at the big stores.

Mr. and Mrs. John Grund, Heidi, Erik, and Errin of Minneapolis were weekend visitors at the Luther Anderson home. Sunday dinner guests were Joni and Chris Bergerson of Thief River Falls and Lyle Anderson. Other guests at Luther Andersons have been Mr. and Mrs. Gary Anderson and Garrett and Greg Van DeWiele of Walnut Grove. Greg is a student at St. Cloud University who spent some time at the Anderson home helping with the harvest activities. He returned to his home on Monday. He also visited at the Richard Boerboom home for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Anderson and son Garrett have moved from their home in the Grygla Trailer Court in Grygla to their new home on his farm near the home of his parents, the Luther Andersons. The house is a three-level home which has just been completed and is beautifully furnished. Congratulations.

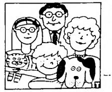
pets are wonderful

PETS: ALL IN THE FAMILY

If you've always considered your pet as part of the family, you're not alone.

An 11-state survey conducted by Dr. Ann Cain at the University of Maryland, Baltimore, recently revealed that 87 percent of pet owners consider their pets to be members of the family. Thirty-six percent treat their pets as people, and 37 percent indicated that pet ownership has helped them maintain or increase their social relationships.



A similar study at the University of Pennsylvania found that 98 percent of the pet owners spend time talking to their pets; 28 percent confide in them; and 78 percent believe that their pets are sensitive to human moods and feelings.

Such survey findings show that dogs and cats are more than pets. As important members of the family, pets are part of the cohesion that develops between family members, says Dr. Boris Levinson, psychologist and professor emeritus at Yeshiva University in New York City. In some cases, it's this cohesion that keeps a family together and strong.

When sewage sludge is disposed of in any one of several conventional ways—dumped in waterways or buried in landfills—the taxpayer foots the bill. Tax dollars must pay for the fuel to run ships or trucks to the disposal site.

The city of Green Bay, Wisc., for example, recently was able to take the heat off the taxpayers—to the tune of more than $200,000—by burning sludge to heat municipal buildings. That's how much they figure the cost of the 260,000 gallons of oil saved would have cost.

Valuable land, that could be earning tax dollars if developed for housing and industrial complexes, is being wasted as landfills which bring down the property value of surrounding areas. There is another solution. Proponents of incineration—such as Dorr-Oliver, Inc.—say that combustion in a fluid bed type incinerator is not only environmentally safe, but also uses the heat value of the sludge to burn and destroy—at 1500°F—all organic chemicals, harmful and otherwise. The hot gases are then used in a waste heat boiler to make steam, which can be used in a turbo-generator to produce electricity. . .and lessen our dependence on foreign oil, thus reducing municipal fuel bills.

Electrical Tools May Be Hazard If Used Improperly

Every year newspaper accounts describe and government agencies record the staggering number of accidental injuries and deaths in and around U.S. homes.

Last year, about 23,000 people died as a result of accidents at home. An estimated 3.5 million others suffered disabling injuries.

Safety experts warn that, during warm weather, chances for accidents increase.

One reason for higher home accident statistics in the summer is the increased use of power tools outdoors. Most people use power tools infrequently. But warm weather is "do-it-yourself" project time for many people, and electric drills, saws and other tools come out of storage. If they've been improperly stored, power cords might have become cracked or cut, water or cold might have damaged the motor or caused deterioration of the insulation.

Any tool or appliance that has not been used for several months should be checked out first to make sure it's safe to operate. And, of course, electrical products should not be used outdoors when it's raining or in wet locations. That seems like an obvious precaution but, surprisingly, some people apparently overlook the danger.

Perhaps a person is just finishing up a project and needs to make one last cut with an electric saw as the rain starts to fall; or cut that last section of grass with an electric mower. The risk is forgotten.

A good device to have installed on all outdoor electrical outlets and outlets near water are ground fault circuit interruptors (GFCI). A GFCI looks just like a regular electrical outlet except that, if there is any dangerous leakage of electrical current, it will cut off the electricity coming from the outlet before a potentially fatal shock can occur. GFCIs should be installed by a qualified electrician. Plug-in models also are now available.

Extension cords are another area of concern, safety engineers report. Only extension cords approved for outdoor use should be used outdoor. This information usually is marked on the packaging and on the cord. It's also very important that the extension cord is rated high enough for the device plugged into it. The rating is either in watts or amperes and usually can be found right on the cord. People should check instruction manuals or the electric equipment's labels for its wattage or ampere rating to make sure it's usable with the extension cord selected.

Parents should never allow children to operate power tools unless they are properly supervised. The use of power tools requires good judgment and skill. Power saws can cut down trees, drills can bore through sheet metal anc circular saws can split two-by-four's. Imagine what these tools can do to a human body.

Properly maintain power tools. In the case of saws and lawnmowers, cutting edges should be kept sharp and clean. Instructions for lubricating and changing accessories should be followed.

When using an electricl tool, check to see that it's switched off before plugging it in. Sudden starts could be dangerous.

Never carry a tool or appliance by its cord, or yank the cord out of electrical outlets. Keep cords away from heat, oil and sharp edges.

Remember that tools and appliances should be disconnected when they're being serviced, while changing accessories such as blades, and when they're not in use. And they should be stored indoors, in a dry, safe place, away from children.

One of the most important things people should do is read instruction manuals and warning labels. Household accidents often happen because people don't know how to operate the equipment they own and don't know its limitations. Most safety rules are plain common sense, but accident statistics demonstrate that common sense isn't all that common.

UNSUNG HEROES OF AMERICA

Little Known Facts About People Who Help Us

Most Americans living today and many Americans not yet born will probably be grateful to the dedicated men and women who have been working to create a viable breeder reactor program in the U.S.

Scientists, engineers, construction workers, factory workers and others have had a hand in developing a new kind of power plant that can create its own fuel as it generates electricity. It should be able to ease our energy supply situation once it's put into commercial operation.

A demonstration breeder plant is being planned at Clinch River, Tennessee. After three years of rigorous licensing and review by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the Clinch River Breeder Reactor design has been updated to reflect safety standards consistent with conventional nuclear plants.

Clinch River can be built at the right cost, too. Scrapping Clinch River and starting over on a new plant will undoubtedly cost a great deal more. The utility contribution to Clinch River is the largest commitment ever made by the industry at-large, the experts at Westinghouse point out. Over 750 utilities are participating. Cancellation of the project could jeopardize the possibility of any future joint ventures involving private funds.

What's more, Clinch River can be expected to be operating at the right time. Experience in licensing, building and operating an intermediate scale breeder demonstration plant is needed in the near-term if prudent decisions are to be made by utilities about the long-term need for inexhuastible energy from breeders. Even if one were to accept the argument that commercial breeders would not be needed before 2020 as maintained by the former Administration, we are already years behind schedule on a necessary demonstration plant in this country.

The men and women who designed and built the power plant shown here may be helping keep America solvent as far as energy is concerned for far into the future.

Once the project is completed and we see how well breeders can work, those unsung heroes who create reactors can start building commercial-size plants to provide us with the energy we will need in the years— and centuries to come.

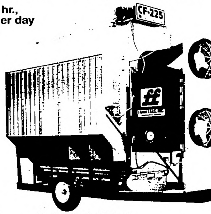
FARM FANS CF-225

"Temper Dries" up to 480 bu. per hr.,
up to 11,520 bu. per day

Here's a new advanced design dryer that utilizes the Continuous Flow principle to "temper dry" grain. This dryer is an ideal choice for the smaller operator—in both size and price. Farm Fans model CF-225 is fully automatic, and incorporates all the latest energy efficiencies and quality construction of the larger commercial models.

- Fourteen inch grain columns provide longer retention time of the drying air, to remove more moisture for each cubic foot of air.
- Air plenum dampers provide three drying stages for optimum efficiency, drying capacity and high quality grain.
- Equipped to operate Dry and Cool or Full Heat.
- High capacity, direct fired heaters are equipped with Farm Fans famous patented Star Fire burners.
- Air movement is provided by two, high output, heavy-duty vane axial fans, driven at 3450 RPM, with full overload protection.
- Built to accept an optional heat reclaimer which captures and recirculates the exhaust heat from the cooling air and a portion of the drying air to give you even greater fuel efficiency.



Plus Other Standard Features
- Auxiliary starter package
- TEFC exterior motors
- Fast-acting clean-out door in each grain column
- Compartmentalized grain columns
- Electric ignition
- Circuit breakers for added protection and convenience
- Quick release clean-out mechanism
- Meter roll monitor system
- Safety circuit shutdown detector
- Automatic shutdown upon wet grain outage
- Variable speed meter rolls with torque limiter drive

Traffic Plan Advises Street Sign Changes

Safety council recommendations regarding traffic, and use of the old library were topics at a special meeting of the Thief River Falls city council Tuesday, September 1 in council chambers at the city auditorium.

Highway Patrol Captain Lloyd Rudd explained that the Pennington county safety council had developed a traffic flow plan at the request of city council to establish criteria on which to base decisions regarding placement of traffic signs. Mayor Bob Carlson asked whether council had sometimes "acted too fast in taking recommendations" regarding placement of stop signs. He noted that people "asked to have a stop sign installed every time there is a near accident." Answering affirmatively, Rudd explained that the plan was developed to expedite traffic flow while stressing safety.

City planning director Jack Quinlivan showed the actual plan on a map of city streets showing "major arteries" of traffic flow which, under the plan, would have the least amount of restrictions. The plan dictated many changes in locations of stop and yield signs, and was complex enough that Quinlivan admitted, "I get confused just reciting it."

Nearly all of the aldermen present expressed concern with certain areas of the plan they were most familiar with. Alderman Bill Penning expressed concern over the need for stop signs to control traffic speed which, he said, "tends to move too fast." Preferring more four-way stops, he asked how long drivers could wait at

After 29 Years As Auditor . . .

Charley Rodekuhr Feels It Is Time To Move On

CHARLEY RODEKUHR has been spending time this week doing "odds and ends" at the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls. His resignation as Pennington county auditor the end of August after 29 years, forces him to be "separated" from his job for 30 days, although he will be back in October working part-time as he is needed. "It's going to be a different ball game standing on the outside looking in," he said during a recent interview.

by Bonnie Wentzel
Times Reporter

Even though it seems appropriate that a county auditor should be addressed by his entire formal name, Charles William Rodekuhr likes to stick with the name "Charley."

"Everyone seems to know me as that," he stated during a recent interview.

Charley was found working on "odds and ends" in a back office of the Pennington county courthouse Thursday morning — the morning he had chuckled he would be in to "work" at 8:30, even though the courthouse opened at 8.

That office is where he'll be working part-time beginning October 1, as he is needed. He retired as auditor for Pennington county at the end of August, following 29 years of service.

"You must be separated from your job 30 days after you retire, according to the 'rules of the game'," Rodekuhr smiled.

Since he retired, which is only a little more than a week, he has found himself arising in the mornings unsure of exactly what he will do that day and where he will go. Yet he maintains a sense of satisfaction toward leaving his position as auditor.

Rodekuhr has always found his work "interesting" and "challenging," he explained, even after 29 years. He has always liked working with figures — until perhaps the last few weeks before his retirement. "I've begun to question whether I like them or not," he admitted. It has only been during the last few years, too, that his job began to grow perhaps not quite as enjoyable as it once was, due mainly, he said, to "complicated government operations" and "regulations of tax laws."

Prior to his position as county auditor, following his graduation from the Dakota Business college in Fargo, the auditor spent 16 years with the Peterson-Biddick company, where he worked at various jobs including duties in the accounting department as manager of the company.

The job carried him back and forth from Wadena (near his hometown of Deer Creek) to Crookston and Thief River Falls where he performed "different things at different times," he said.

It was in that 16-year period that Rodekuhr also spent three years in military service. Following his discharge, he was stricken with polio, which left him temporarily

Opinions Sought On City Traffic Flow Plan

Pennington county safety council, an organization open to the public, was frequently asked by the city council for recommendations on placement of signs, and decided a uniform traffic plan was needed. A committee was appointed, consisting of highway patrol captain Lloyd Rudd, chairman; city engineer Jim Walker, police chief Ken Froschheiser, city planner Jack Quinlivan, and Anthony Madunich to study the problem and make a recommendation to the city.

A summary of the proposed traffic flow plan is shown in the accompanying map. Purpose of the plan, according to Quinlivan, is threefold: (1) To establish criteria for traffic signs; (2) to establish traffic corridors; and (3) to facilitate removal or installation of signs appropriate to road designation.

Using deputies in unmarked cars, traffic counts were taken at intersections throughout the city at different times of day. With the help of Neil Bryant, Bemidji, highway engineer with the Minnesota department of transportation, roads were then divided into four categories: Highways, primary collectors, secondary collectors and residential or frontage roads.

Using criteria established by MnDOT, the sign plan was developed. School principals, bus drivers and other council members were consulted for recommendations, and streets were driven by committee members to determine visibility problems or other safety hazards which would affect placement of signs.

No changes are proposed for state highways through the city. They will be interrupted by traffic lights only.

Primary traffic routes generally run in an east-west direction. Specifically, they are Pennington avenue (north-south), Greenwood, Nora, First, Sixth and Thirteenth streets. Stops along these routes were reduced to intersections with state highways or other primary routes. Nora and Greenwood stop at Pennington, and traffic lights remain at the intersections of First street with Pennington, Horace and LaBree Avenues. Nora would yield at Spruce.

Secondary collectors run north and south, and would have controls designated by signs. They would generally have stops for primary

Earlier Ruling Changed . . .

Baked Goods OK To Sell Sat. At Market In TRF

Food inspector Rolland Sande of Thief River Falls has revised an earlier order which he had issued in regard to food sales at the Everybody's Market in Thief River Falls on Saturday, according to word received from the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce office.

The earlier order, which had been distributed by the chamber of commerce to individuals and groups registering to sell food products at the market, had stated the following:

"All baked food, canned food, processed food, jams, jellies, pickles or candies offered for sale or dispensed to the public at the Everybody's Market on Saturday, September 12, 1981, must be prepared in an approved kitchen facility such as a church kitchen, school kitchen, courthouse kitchen, restaurant or bakery." Cited were Sections 28A.01 to 28A.16 of Minnesota consolidated food processing law.

That order was issued August 28. On Friday Sande issued a statement as follows:

"The sale of baked goods will be allowed with the exception of creamed or meringue items, which are prohibited. We recommend that all baked goods be manufactured in a suitable facility such as a church kitchen, school kitchen, courthouse kitchen, restaurant or bakery. The sale of foods processed in the home, such as jams, jellies and pickles, is prohibited."

Sande also requested that the chamber of commerce advise participants in the market that they are responsible for the wholesomeness of all products offered for sale.

Although a final date of September 4 had been set for registration to participate in the market, the date has been extended due to confusion caused by the August 28 order. Individuals or groups which planned to sell baked items but were deterred by the order may still register at the chamber of commerce office.

Approximately 70 groups or individuals have now registered to take part in the annual fall event. Some of the participants will be located in the highway 59 south shopping area in addition to the downtown area, according to the chamber of commerce office.

Cheri Onkka-Ronald Pula Vows Spoken At Trinity

Miss Cheri L. Onkka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Onkka, Thief River Falls, became the bride of Ronald Pula, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Pula, Kelliher, at a recent ceremony at Trinity Lutheran church in this city.

Rev. Carl Andersen officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Chris Kays, a friend of the bride, sang, "The Wedding Song," and "The Lord's Prayer." Lori Klemisch served as organist.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father was attired in an empire fashioned qiana gown styled with an A-line skirt with a chapel-length train. Satin embroidery outlined the Queen Anne neckline, trimmed the long, fitted sleeves, and enhanced the profile headpiece that held her fingertip veil. She carried a cascading bouquet of plum silk roses, accented with stephanotis, greenery and plum and white ribbon streamers.

Stacy Ehrenstrom, a friend of the couple, was maid of honor. Other attendants were Mary Kay Rundell, friend of the bride; Janet Cribbs of Bloomington, a sister of the groom; and Wendy Rupprecht, a friend of the bride. Brenda Smischney, Kelliher, a niece of the groom, served as flower girl. Their floor-length gowns of beige flocked voile print over beige satin were fashioned with rounded self-tie necklines and gathered waistlines. The attendants carried bouquets of silk plum roses, greenery and matching satin ribbons; and the flower girl carried a wicker basket filled with plum silk roses and stephanotis. Their free floating heart necklaces were their gifts from the bride.

Carol Onkka, Aberdeen, S.D., a sister-in-law of the bride, and Cindy Restad, a friend of the bride, were the bride's personal attendants.

Roger Pula, Kelliher, a brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Jerry Pula, Kelliher, a cousin of the groom; Steven Onkka, Aberdeen, a brother of the bride; and Robert Cribb, Bloomington, a brother-in-law of the groom. Ushers were Jerome Smischney, Kelliher, brother-in-law of the groom, and Jon Onkka, a brother of the bride. David Onkka, another brother of the bride, served as acolyte. All wore sandy beige tuxedos with bow ties, beige ruffled shirts and plum silk rose boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride was attired in a peach floor-length gown topped with a cape of peach flocked voile print. Her corsage was of plum and cream solk roses. A matching corsage complemented the floor-length baby blue gown, featuring a blouson bodice and blue lace jacket, worn by the mother of the groom. Their corsages, like all the silk flowers were scented and were made by Mrs. Pauline Aubol.

Honored guest was William Onkka, the bride's grandfather.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors for about 125 guests. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hagstrom, Cokato, the bride's godparents. At the guest book was Mrs. Shirley Ehrenstrom, a close friend of the bride's family.

Highlighting the serving table was a pillared, three-tiered rolled fondant Rose Festival wedding cake. Surrounding the base were four smaller cakes, topped with cherubs, matching the cherubs that graced the main cake. The cake, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Max (Marie) Graham, was made and decorated by Mrs. Graham, who also created the triple wedding bell ornament accented with silk roses and ribbon streamers, matching the bride's bouquet. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Dorothy Reisinger and Miss Peggy Pula.

Coffee and punch were served by Mrs. Fern McKay, Mrs. Goldie Pula, Cindy Restad and Claudia Simenson. Waitresses were Cindy Peterson and Sherry Olson. In charge of the gifts were Brian Johnson and Kristi Johnson.

The bride and groom are now at home at 8920 18th avenue south, apartment 201, Bloomington.

Rodney Andersons Note Anniversary At Surprise Party

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney (Connie) Anderson of Minnetonka were honored on their 16th wedding anniversary on August 25 at a surprise anniversary celebration given by their relatives at the home of Mrs. Anderson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anderson, rural Goodridge.

The celebration included a humorous mock wedding presented by the couple's children: Cheri, Lori and Kristi, together with Kari and Scott Anderson and Tracy Aandal.

A light supper followed. The remainder of the evening was spent visiting.

Attending were Mrs. Lynn Anderson, Kari and Scott, Mr. and Mrs. George Hovet, Mrs. Roger Hovet, Lisa and Stacy, Vicki Feragen and John Sunsdal, all of Thief River Falls; Suzie, Lelah and Jessica Marquis of Minneapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Terry Anderson, Wyatt and Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Orvin Anderson, Harold Uglem, Mr. and Mrs. Wally Anderson and Brent, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Aandal, Tracy and Travis, all of Goodridge and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil DeFreece of Thief River Falls.

25th Anniversary Is Observed By R. Sortebergs

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sorteberg, rural Thief River Falls, observed their 25th wedding anniversary recently at an open house at their farm home.

The event was hosted by the couple's children, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sorteberg, Merle, Kristine and Crystal Sorteberg, all of this city. They presented a short program which began with Rev. Berton Hushagen of Trinity Lutheran church giving devotions.

Present for the anniversary celebration were the couple's four attendants: Mrs. Harley Iverson, Mrs. Alvin Rondorf, both of Thief River Falls; Duane Austin, Crookston; and Helmer Solom of Roseau. Also present was their flower girl, Sharon St. Germain.

For the reception, the serving table was highlighted by a pillared, four-tiered anniversary cake baked by Mrs. Orvus Benitt of Holt. It was topped by the ornament that graced the couple's wedding cake 25 years ago.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Ardelle Snare and Mrs. Kenneth Hagen of Roseau. Pouring coffee were Mildred Rondorf and Marie Iverson, Thief River Falls. Crystal and Tina Sorteberg ladled the punch, Carol Dallum of Roseau presided at the guest book, and Lori Sorteberg made the flowers and centerpieces.

Relatives and friends attending were from Devils Lake, Grand Forks and Grafton, N.D.; Crookston, Holt, Roseau, Middle River, Oklee and Thief River Falls.

The couple exchanged marriage vows July 15, 1956 at Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls with Rev. Otto Dale officiating.

Republic Notes $22.2 Million Improvement

Republic Airlines reported July earnings of $183,000 on operating revenues of $128 million and expenses of $127.9 million. A year ago, the airline had earnings of $460,000, revenues of $72.2 million and expenses of $71.7 million. Results this July include gains of $6.2 million from the sale of surplus aircraft.

For the first seven months, Republic's revenues totaled $853.1 million, with expenses of $873 million, resulting in a loss of $19.9 million. In 1980, Republic had revenues of $439.5 million, expenses of $461.5 million, and a loss of $22 million.

"The results for last year do not include those of Hughes Airwest, which was acquired by Republic in October of 1980," said Daniel F. May, Republic president. "The seven-month figures for 1981 represent a $22.2 million improvement, compared with the pro forma combined loss of $42.1 million incurred by the two companies in 1980."

Commenting on the air traffic controllers strike, May said, "Republic is now operating a near-normal schedule."

MN College Fair Is Aid To Students

While costs of attending college are rising and many government - sponsored financial aid programs are being cut, prospective students need to become more knowledgeable about what opportunities and services are available when selecting a college, university or technical school.

Students will be informed of post-secondary institutions at the Minnesota national college fair to be conducted September 14 and 15 in the Minneapolis auditorium and convention hall, 1403 Stevens.

Event is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and from 6 to 10 p.m. September 14 and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. September 15. Admission is free to the public. Fair is expected to attract 20,000 visitors, according to a recent release from the national association of college admissions counselors.

Minnesota national college fair offers prospective students of all ages a chance to meet face-to-face with any of the 265 school representatives from around the country to discuss entrance requirements, application deadlines, financial aid opportunities, majors and campus environment. Representatives from accredited institutions will also distribute brochures, catalogs, and other literature describing their schools.

In addition to school booths, the fair offers several other services to aid in a student's decision - making process. Regularly scheduled financial aid sessions are conducted by counselors and representatives from financial aid agencies to explain what state and federal aid is available and how to obtain it; the importance of filling out forms, and meeting deadlines.

Representatives of the college board and the American college testing program will provide information on standardized admissions tests, advanced placement exams, credit-by-examination and college search services.

Nursing Home Care Providers Meet In Sept.

Over 6,000 Minnesotans concerned with the quality of life and care in the state's nursing homes will meet September 9-11 at the Radisson South Hotel in Bloomington, for three days of education and information exchange at the 34th annual convention and exposition of the Minnesota Association of Health Care Facilities (MAHCF).

Entire spectrum of long-term care providers — owners, administrators, nurses, social workers, therapists, housekeepers, and many more — will attend 96 hours of educational sessions offered during those days. Topics such as recent and proposed government actions concerning regulations and reimbursement, and innovative management of the many physical, social and emotional problems of today's older and more frail nursing home residents will be discussed.

All sessions have been approved for license renewal clock-hours by the Minnesota board of licensure for nursing home administrators and the hospital, institution and educational food service society. Specific sessions have been designed to meet licensing criteria of the Minnesota board of nursing.

Sens. Robert Ashbach (IR-St. Paul) and Roger Moe (DFL-Ada) will lead a session on "Future Perspectives on Long-Term Care Financing Services, Regulation and Quality of Care" at noon September 9.

Approximately 116 exhibitors will display a wide array of products and services for modern long-term care facilities.

MAHCF is a voluntary, private, non-profit organization of nearly 220 proprietary and non-proprietary homes throughout the state, and is a member of the American Health Care association (AHCA) which represents approximately 7,500 nursing homes and their 120,000 residents.

For convention registration information, call MAHCF at (612) 854-2844.

Senior Citizen News

September 3 was a cool day but it brought out 19 people to our center. Mrs. Laverne Underdahl and Hilmer Johnson of Middle River were our guests.

A quilt was sewn around the edges completing that. We fluffed up filling for more bed pillows and a few pillows were also filled. Some ladies helped Inga to lay out the painted bird blocks and also to cut out the blue in between and pinned up the blocks to make it easy to sew. We are anxious to get this quilt ready so we can begin to sell tickets on it.

Louis Lofstrom gave the center $5 to pay for the lunch we will serve for him. He has been a steady comer for a long time and now wants to do his share in serving lunch.

Inga gave two door prizes that Polly and Mabel Stromberg received. Inga received Sally's and Mrs. Underdahl received the one Mable Borsvold gave.

We prayed the table grace and Anna Brekke served a good lunch.

Stangeland Is Pleased With Crop Set-Aside

Congressman Arlan Stangeland has applauded the decision of Agriculture Secretary John Block to allow wheat farmers to set aside 15 per cent of their acreage in 1982. Secretary Block announced that decision Thursday.

Rep. Stangeland also expressed pleasure with the Reagan administration's announcement that it will permit Congress to draw up its own sugar price support program as work is completed on the four-year farm bill (HR 3603) later this month. Congressman Stangeland is the author of the house version of the sugar program.

Secretary Block announced the wheat acreage program because of the record 1981 crop. Wheat supplies are 14 per cent above last year's levels. "The carry-over next June is expected to exceed one billion bushels," Block said.

"The 1981 crop may be the largest in American history," Rep. Stangeland said. "This will deflate the prices farmers can get for their crops and may cost the Treasury $400 million in target price payments to wheat-growers.

"To discourage that from happening again next year, farmers who participate in target-price programs in 1982 will be asked to reduce the number of acres they plant by 15 per cent. This will reduce next year's crop and will lower federal spending."

Rep. Stangeland pointed out that this reduction in acreage will be purely voluntary for wheat growers. "They can decide to plant all their acres and forego federal payments, or they can accept target prices and cut back production," Rep. Stangeland said. "It will be a personal marketing decision for each farmer."

The Congressman had written to Secretary Block on July 14th, asking for a 20 per cent set-aside program. "I think this 15 per cent program is a fair and reasonable compromise," Rep Stangeland said.

The Congressman is pleased with the wheat and sugar decision for another reason. "All this summer, we have heard administration spokesmen talking about drastic cuts in all basic farm programs," he said. "But these decisions indicate that President Reagan is willing to be more flexible on the Farm Bill if that will help to ensure a strong agricultural segment of the nation's economy.

"I think we'll be seeing more give-and-take on the farm bill now," Rep. Stangeland added.

5th Grade Band Begins Tuesday September 15

Registration for this year's fifth grade band program will begin with an instrument demonstration and information night 8 p.m. Tuesday, September 15, at Lincoln high school auditorium.

New instruments will be on display by Larson Music company which will also provide information on trial rental and purchase plans. High school students will demonstrate the instruments and directors will give presentations and answer questions concerning the band program.

Although the program is designed primarily for beginning fifth graders, students in grades six, seven and eight who have an interest in the band program may also enroll.

McMahon Fails To Return From Prison Furlough

Robert McMahon took a five-day furlough from Stillwater state prison and failed to return. He was said to have friends in St. Paul, Duluth, Wyoming and Thief River Falls, where his parents live.

Associate warden John Twohig at Stillwater said it was McMahon's fourth furlough since he began serving a sentence of up to 27 months in October of 1980 upon conviction of aggravated forgery and theft by check in Beltrami county. He was scheduled for release at the end of November.

McMahon reportedly left the prison's minimum security unit Thursday and was believed to be driving a 1970 Ford Galaxie with a black top, belonging to his girlfriend, Jessica Ellefson of St. Paul. He was the sixth Stillwater inmate reported as missing this year. Three had been recaptured.

Traffic Plan Advises Street Sign Changes

stop signs before stress caused them to "play chicken."

Commenting that everyone had their own "pet corners", police chief Kenneth Froschheiser noted that a lot of thought had gone into development of the plan, with surveys done of street use during various times of the day. Noting that signs couldn't make drivers do anything, he cited an example where officers had monitored an intersection in an unmarked vehicle and reported that 80 per cent of the cars hadn't stopped for the signs.

Traffic engineer Neil Bryant, Bemidji, who helped develop the plan, also cited a survey done in Michigan which showed that traffic actually traveled at higher rates of speed between stop signs than when the signs weren't present.

Concern was expressed that sudden changes in street signs could be responsible for accidents, since "people drive by habit." Bryant commented "we want people to think when they drive". Later, urging the council to "look at the whole plan" he commented, "the signs will change driving habits."

Mayor Carlson asked why no traffic survey had been done between the hours of 6 and 8:30 a.m. and chief Froschheiser responded that the survey had been done when manpower was available. Froschheiser was asked to do an additional survey during those hours, as that was when many people were going to work.

The council was urged to "accept the whole plan," by several members of the committee, but expressed reluctance to act hastily. Mayor Carlson said, "we've been living with this thing for this long, another month won't hurt." He suggested the committee take the plan to various organizations in town to get "more public input." "Take it to the media," he urged.

Council will look at the plan again at the October 27 meeting.

Quinlivan asked council for guidance and direction on whether he should pursue grants to remodel the old library into a senior citizen center. Alderman Ambrose Wysoski explained that the Regional Development corporation (RDC) had about $80,000 available for such projects.

Alderman Milan Borsheim expressed concern over who was to be responsible for maintaining the building. "We currently pay about $450 a month to maintain that thing" he said. Clerk Gerald Wigness said he had been approached by a lady "who wished to remain anonymous" asking if the city was interested in selling the building. Quinlivan explained that the historical society had declared the building a historical site which limited changes which could be made to the exterior. Alderman Penning urged that the building be "dumped", describing it as a "white elephant."

Bill Hogan, president of the Chamber of Commerce, chided them for their haste to "throw it away." Hogan asked Mayor Carlson to appoint a committee to research possible uses for the building. "It's no good to let it sit there and deteriorate," he said. He also suggested that a committee could raise the funds locally to preserve the building. Wysoski noted that the town of Alvarado had received a $20,000 grant and had raised an additional $40,000 themselves. "If a small community can come up with $40,000 we should be able to do something," he commented.

At Wysoski's suggestion, Quinlivan was instructed to pursue the matter further by having a representative of RDC's aging committee come up and look at the library to determine if it could be modified for use as a senior center.

Rodekuhr Feels Time To Move On As Auditor

paralyzed from the neck down and put him out of work for a period of time. The only complications which bother him now are a sore back and right leg and muscles that weaken if he doesn't keep moving.

"When you go from a robust man of 188 pounds down to 135 you have to learn to think differently," he said.

Assuming his position as Pennington county auditor in Thief River Falls in August 1952 involves "an unbelievable little story," according to Rodekuhr. It began when two Pennington county board members whom he knew, asked him if he's consider taking the position. The auditor serving the county had died, and the board was having trouble settling who should fill the position.

"I think I'd been in a courthouse once at that time," Rodekuhr said, "but they asked me if I'd put in an application. I scribbled a note something like that," he said, pointing to a notepad on his desk, "and I got the job."

"I think I was a 'druthers' man," he said. "They just compromised — they druther have me than someone else!"

Leaving behind his duties involving financial management and those "unsaid things the board asks to be done," Rodekuhr faces years ahead when he can perform those duties he had little time for before. "I used to criticize others for not having plans made when they retired," he said. "Now I'm the one with no specific plans for retirement."

He knows he will remain in Thief River Falls, although he may do some traveling since his wife Cyrilla suggested spending a month this winter in San Francisco, CA. The fact that the Rodekuhrs' two children live out of the area may give them the "excuse" to do some traveling also. Judy is an LPN in San Francisco, and Mike, who is right now "between jobs", was working as a consultant in a halfway house in Minneapolis.

"Many people move away and then they're sorry because they don't have their friends there;" Rodekuhr said. "This is where most of my friends are."

He commented with a chuckle that he will probably start work on the basement of his house and work his way to the top. He enjoys woodworking and there is "no end to repair work on an older home," he stated.

"I feel it's time to move on," he added, again expressing his sense of satisfaction toward his 29 years as auditor. "I've always felt good about working for other people. I think I'm leaving the office in good shape — at least the county's not broke," he smiled.

"It's going to be a different ball game standing on the outside looking in."

Seek Opinion On Change In Street Signs

collectors and highways. Residential or frontage roads intersecting with secondary collectors would require traffic to either yield or stop. Designated secondary collectors are Spruce, Kendall, Dewey, Davis, Atlantic and Arnold Avenues.

According to Captain Rudd, the biggest changes were made on First and Greenwood streets, with four-way stops eliminated at the intersections of Greenwood with Kendall and Spruce, and First Street with Kendall and Arnold. A four-way stop was also eliminated at Nora and Kendall.

Chief Froschheiser said he expected to get the most opposition to the change at First and Kendall. The problem there, according to Froschheiser, is caused by the engineering of the street, and the fact that it is covered with ice and snow for six months of the year. A dip in First street at that point makes it difficult for traffic traveling east to stop, and for traffic traveling west to get started again. "We've had a lot of accidents there," he said. He expressed the opinion that by making it a two-way stop, more traffic would be encouraged to take Nora.

Rudd said he had hoped that city council would approve the plan at a special meeting held Tuesday night, but could understand the desire for more time to study the plan and gather public opinion. At a suggestion of Mayor Bob Carlson and the council to seek public input, the plan was presented to the noon Lions club meeting Wednesday.

"I really expected more opposition than we got," said Rudd. "Only two people were really opposed to the plan." Froschheiser added, "Frankly, I'm more encouraged now, after getting some community support."

Lewis Alby, 83, Dies Friday; Rites Pending

Lewis Alby, 83, of this city, who resided at 301 Conley Avenue South, died Friday evening at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Lewis Alby are pending. The Green Funeral home is in charge of arrangements. A complete obituary will be published in Wednesday's Times.

Florence Rusth Dies Wed. At Red Lake Falls

Mass of the Christian Burial for Mrs. Carl (Florence) Rusth, 72, of Red Lake Falls was offered Saturday, September 5, at 10:30 a.m., at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Red Lake Falls. Mrs. Rusth died unexpectedly at St. John's hospital of an apparent heart attack on Wednesday, the day of the funeral of her brother, Stephen Kadlec.

Rev. Jerome Felion was celebrant. Music was provided by St. Joseph's adult choir with Sister Patrice as organist. Interment will be in the Ocean View Memory Gardens as Coos Bay, Ore. The Petterson Funeral home, Red Lake Falls, and the Campbell-Watkins chapel, Coos Bay, Ore., are in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were George Delorme, Linus Schmitz, Clarence Vatthauer, Maurice Derosier, Sam Fournier and Henry Skala.

Mrs. Rusth, the former Florence Kadlec, was born Feb. 4, 1909 at Pisek, N.D., to John and Frances (Lovcik) Kadlec. She grew to womanhood at Pisek and following graduation from Valley City State teachers college, Valley City, N.D., she taught in the country schools.

On Nov. 20, 1937, she was married to Carl Rusth at Belfield, N.D. During World War II, they lived in Nebraska and Vancouver, where her husband worked in a munitions factory and in a ship yard. After the war, they settled in Coos Bay, Ore., where she did graduate work at the University of Oregon and South Oregon College, and taught school for many years. Since 1972, she had made her home in Red Lake Falls.

Surviving are two brothers: A. L. (Tony) Kadlec, Missoula, Mont., and Edward of Minneapolis, and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died Jan. 17, 1964; her parents, two sisters and three brothers, including Stephen Kadlec, who died August 30.

Joe Voegeli Rites Held At Red Lake Falls

Funeral services for Joe C. Voegeli, 90, of Mentor were held Friday at 10 a.m., at the Petterson Funeral chapel in Red Lake Falls. Voegeli, a resident of the Mentor community for the past 56 years, died Sunday, August 30, at Riverview hospital in Crookston.

Rev. Holt Walker, pastor of the Bethany Lutheran church, Red Lake Falls, officiated at the services. Karen Seeger was the soloist and Jan Nieland, the organist. Interment was in the Rose Hill cemetery at Mentor.

Pallbearers were grandsons: Wayne Bernard, Richard Miller, Kim Camp, Douglas Sorvig, Thomas Elfring and Donald Gerey.

Joe C. Voegeli, a son of the late Henry and Regula Swievel Voegeli, was born Nov. 27, 1890 at Monticello, Wis. He attended school and grew to manhood there. Later, he attended schools of music and business at Madison, Wis.

He was married Oct. 30, 1912 at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho to Helen Briggs.

Voegeli was a carpenter most of his life. He retired in 1956.

Surviving are two daughters: Mrs. Regula Chester, Winger, and Barbara Farsund, Seattle, Wash.; 13 grandchildren, 18 great-grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Regula Hosley, Madison, Wis.

He was preceded in death by his wife, who died Aug. 5, 1958; three daughters, two sons and one grandson.

Lloyd Taylor Services Set At St. John

Lloyd Taylor, 69, of Thief River Falls, died Thursday morning at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Lloyd Taylor will be held today (Monday) at 2:00 p.m., at St. John Lutheran church with Rev. Allen Ashbacher officiating. Mrs. Sherman Idso will be the organist and Mrs. Arnold Hammer, the soloist. Interment will be in the Rosendal cemetery.

Pallbearers will be George Vraa, Allen Jones, John Stenseth, Palmer Paulson, Kermit Maidment and Bernard Kasprick.

The body is reposing at the Green Funeral home and will repose at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

Lloyd B. Taylor was born Jan. 5, 1912 at Forest River, in Walsh county, North Dakota, to Alexander and Sophia Hutton Taylor. In 1919, he moved with the family to Grygla. There he attended school and grew to manhood.

On Dec. 19, 1936, he was united in marriage to Edith Vraa. The couple lived for several years at Larimore, N.D. Later, they moved to Honeyford, N.D. and then to Forest River, where he was a farm laborer. His wife died Dec. 11, 1959.

On Oct. 28, 1967, he was united in marriage to Lillian Kainz in Thief River Falls. They lived in Grafton, N.D., for one year before settling in Thief River Falls where they have since made their home. He was employed by Prichard Brothers and Arctic Enterprises until his retirement.

Surviving are his wife, Lillian; two sons: Larry Taylor, Alexandria, and Donald, Tucson, Ariz.; two step-sons: Dayle and Dennis Kainz, Goodridge, and Franklin Kainz, Brooklyn Center; two daughters: Mrs. Joe (Gail Padelleros, Lawrence, Mass., and Mrs. LeRoy (Ila Mae) Bounds, Ellensburg, Wash.; a step-daughter, Mrs. Lee (Jeanine) Kane, Phoenix, Ariz.; 11 grandchildren, 14 step-grandchildren, and several great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are four brothers: John Taylor, St. Hilaire; Clarence, Thief River Falls; Allen, Larimore, N.D.; and Art, Kearney, Neb.; and four sisters: Mrs. Howard (Grace) Tweeten, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Norbert (Ethel) Magnuson, Grand Forks, N.D.; Mrs. Inez Wiseth, Little Falls; and Mrs. LeRoy (Lila) Havisto, Minneapolis.

In addition to his first wife and parents, he was preceded in death by a brother, Melville, and two grandchildren.

"Nagging" No Proper Reason For Battering

by Kathleen Ann Kolden

This is part three of a six part series on battered women: "Why Women Stray"!.

Traditionally the role of the woman in a marriage is that of "homemaker". She has been expected to focus her activities on the home. Her major responsibilities have been raising children and caring for her husband. In many cases women use most of their energy devoted to child care and housework with little time or opportunity for meaningful relationships outside of the immediate family.

If she is not involved with a job, school or volunteer work, the woman often becomes isolated from communication with adults outside of the home. Women may often experience feelings of frustration and dissatisfaction as a result, and many times these feelings are expressed through "nagging," a behavior capable of provoking conflict within a relationship.

In a relationship with a man who uses physical force and violence to resolve conflict, a woman is beaten because of her "nagging". Out of this situation come the myths that suggest "women like to be beaten", "She's asking for it", "she deserves it".

In actuality only a small percentage one or two per cent of women who are beaten are masochistic. In a relationship where "nagging" occurs, a woman is asking to be heard not beaten, and no one DESERVES to be beaten. This myth puts the responsibility of the physical abuse on the woman rather than the man doing the battering. Society for a long time has viewed the battered woman as a "sick person" rather than the victim of a sick environment and so she is not taken seriously and her needs are not seen as valid.

There are varied and complex reasons for a woman to remain in a relationship where physical emotional abuse occurs. Most often a woman stays in a relationship where she is battered because she sees no alternatives. She feels beaten to the point of total failure, her self esteem is very low and she becomes immobilized and unable to act on her own behalf.

As I stated in the previous article, I grew up in a very violent environment and married for the first time at the age of 18. When my husband beat me I felt no surprise; I had seen husbands hit wives before, but I did feel responsible. I grew up believing my mother provoked my father by complaining and nagging and that was the reason he hit her, pushed and shoved her, slapped her. I figured all I had to do to avoid being beaten was to avoid nagging.

My husband became violent with me for the first time on the night we were married. He hit me in the eye when I pleaded with him not to leave our wedding reception with a group of his friends who wanted him to join them for a night on the town. I went on my honeymoon the next day with a black eye. He was apologetic, told me he loved me and promised never to hit me again. I loved him too and truly believed him. I thought I could control his behavior with a spotlessly clean house, deliciously cooked meals, a snowy white wash and a cheerful attentive attitude.

The most violent beating I received was when he had been drinking and ran out of cigarettes at 3 a.m.

For three years love and a determination to "make it work" made me stay. The violence between us became more severe. Finally in fear of being killed I took my child and ran far away where hopefully he would not find me. For 11 years now he hasn't and the fears I have that he could are diminishing.

In my work with battered women I have heard stories similar to mine and many others quite different. In the next article we will take a look at several more reasons women stay in violent relationships.

R. Bradshaw Ends Course In Army Artillery

Pvt. Randy L. Bradshaw, son of Patricia C. Bauer, Red Lake Falls, has completed the field artillery target acquisition specialist course at the U.S. army field artillery center, Fort Sill, OK.

The course is designed to provide enlisted personnel with working knowledge of sound and flash ranging techniques, installation, operation and organizational maintenance, and use of field artillery digital automatic computers in a field artillery sound flash ranging system.

Farm Prices Decline From July Figures

August 15 index of prices received by Minnesota farmers declined two per cent from last month and one per cent from August 1980, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service. The decrease from last month was due to lower prices for all wheat, corn, oats, soybeans, calves, lambs and wool. Prices for all other commodities were above a month earlier. Hog prices were the highest since March of 1979 while calf prices were the lowest since November of 1978.

The crops index decreased six per cent to 137 during the month. This was four per cent below the index a year earlier. The mid-August prices and the changes from last month are: All wheat, $3.76 per bushel, down 21 cents from the revised July estimate; Corn, $2.74, down 24 cents; oats, $1.67, down 11 cents; barley, $2.33, up six cents; soybeans, $6.64, down 40 cents; all hay was $76 per ton, up $2; alfalfa hay, $79, was up $3 and other hay at $64 was up $3. All sunflowers at $11.30 were up 10 cents from the revised July price.

The meat animal index at 152 was three per cent above last month but one per cent below a year ago. All hogs at $49.80 per hundredweight were up 30 cents from a month earlier. Beef cattle averaged $55.10, up $2.80. Calves were down $4.60 to $65.80. Sheep brought $19.30, up 70 cents. Lambs were down $3.20 to $56.80.

Dairy index at 145 remained unchanged during the month but was four per cent above the index last year. The preliminary milk price at $12.80 per hundredweight was unchaged from the revised July price.

Poultry and egg index at 117 was two per cent above last month and a year ago. Turkeys were 41 cents per pound liveweight, up one cent from a month earlier. Eggs brought 47½ cents per dozen for all grades in mid-August, up one cent from mid-July but unchanged from a year earlier.

Bemidji Woman Outstanding Senior Citizen

Minnie Hjelm of Bemidji and Einar Fridner of Willmar were named Minnesota's outstanding senior citizens during ceremonies September 3 at the Minnesota state fair.

Hjelm, 93, is active in the foster grandparent program at the Archdeacon Filfillan center in Bemidji. She also plays ragtime piano and has entertained throughout the Bemidji area.

Fridner, 82, retired as vice president of a Willmar bank in 1964. Since then, he has been involved with various civic organizations including the Willmar Lions club, Willmar United Way and the Adams educational fund.

One hundred forty-five senior citizens from 73 counties were recognized for their contributions to their communities during the ceremonies at the state fair bandshell. Hjelm and Fridner were selected to represent Minnesota's over-70 residents based on their activities since age 65.

The senior citizen program is sponsored by the Minnesota state fair, Minnesota board on aging and the Minnesota federation of county fairs.

KIM McLEAN was crowned the first Miss Grygla Friday evening during a pageant attended by more than 500 people in the school gymnasium. She won the evening gown division of competition and tied for first place in sports attire and personal interview. Talent phase of the contest was won by Sandi Nordby with a vocal and piano solo. She is pictured in her evening gown and sports attire and riding in the fall festival parade Saturday. Kim is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McLean and a senior at Grygla high school.

Japanese Labo Students Now Back In Japan

Naoguki Kogama and Minako Nakemura have returned to Japan after a month long stay in Pennington county, according to Howard Person, Pennington county extension agent. Hosts for 13-year-old Naoguki were the Ron Johnson family and Minako stayed with the Bob Rausch family. Naoguki and Minako were here on a 4-H Labo exchange program.

Labo program is an organization set up by the Japanese government to promote international friendship and cultural exchange through the sponsorship of home-stay programs in several countries. Since the program started in 1972, several hundred Japanese children have experienced Minnesota through this program, with nearly as many American youth also traveling to Japan for home stays there.

Minako and Naoguki had to adjust to a number of things when they first arrived here," Person said. "Perhaps the biggest change was the wide open spaces. Japan is quite small and mountainous so the flat open land was quite a change. Minako especially enjoyed the sunsets. From where she lives in Tokyo she cannot see the sun set at the horizon as it does here.

"The food, was quite different as well. Neither youngster was familiar with the meat and potatoes type meal that we all take for granted. Naoguki especially enjoyed the gum and candy since this is not normally available to most children in Japan.

"And, of course, the language was a problem as well since the children could speak only a few words of English and their host families could speak no Japanese at all," Person added. "But with the use of a bi-lingual dictionary, some sign language and a lot of patience, all concerned were soon communicating well.

"Minako and Naoguki are missed already, say their host families, but they will continue to stay in contact by mail, keeping the friendships they have made. Perhaps in the future the Rausch and Johnson families will visit Minako and Naoguki in their native Japan."

Rehab Hospital In Grand Forks Sets Observance

Medical center rehabilitation hospital at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks will observe North Dakota Rehabilitation Week September 20-26 with a series of public events and programs.

James A. Helten, a former patient, will be the keynote speaker at the opening ceremony, to be held at 2:30 p.m. Monday, September 21, in the activities room of the hospital. Helten, who is currently a graduate student and graduate teaching assistant in English at UND, was a patient at the rehabilitation hospital 14 years ago after a motorcycle accident.

Over 800 area school children will tour the hospital on Tuesday and Wednesday, which are designated "children's days." Exhibits and demonstrations help the children understand different disabilities, and what rehabilitation offers to counteract the disabilities. Art Heinze of Thief River Falls, who lost both arms in a farm wood sawing accident, will provide a demonstration for the children on the use of his prosthetic arms.

Students of nursing from Bismarck, Minot and Grand Forks are invited to tour the hospital on Wednesday and Thursday.

Former patients and staff at the hospital will return Friday for the annual "alumni day." In the afternoon, RAVE (Rehabilitative Action through Volunteer Energy), the volunteer organization of the hospital, will hold a reception and present awards to individuals and groups who have made outstanding contributions to the hospital. The reception will be held at 2 p.m. in the dining area.

Tours for the general public will be offered on Monday and Friday mornings. The public is also welcome to attend the opening ceremony Monday and the RAVE reception Friday.

Further information about rehabilitation week activities and the rehabilitation hospital is available by contacting the department of education and professional standards at the hospital, or by calling 701-780-2311.

FmHA Disaster Idea Unfair, Declares MFU

A provision requiring farmers to be declared ineligible for regular operating loans in order to qualify for low-interest federal disaster assistance from the Farmers Home administration (FmHA) is unreasonable in today's economy, members of the Minnesota Farmers Union (MFU) executive committee charged at their recent regular quarterly meeting.

Directors filed a formal petition with secretary of agriculture John Block, asking that the restriction be revoked because of high interest rates.

Commonly known as "credit elsewhere," the restriction requires farmers to take on operating loans at prevailing interest rates if possible, even if they face disaster status. FmHA disaster loans would only be granted if the farmer fails to qualify for conventional operating loans or an FmHA loan at prevailing interest rates.

The issue is brought closer to home with the recent declaration that several southern Minnesota counties are in federal disaster status now, following earlier hail storms.

When the regulation was written, interest rates at commercial credit sources were running at about eight or nine per cent. Disaster loan interest rates through FmHA were between three and four per cent.

In today's economy, however, the prevailing commercial interest rate is approximately 18 per cent, while disaster loans are made at five per cent interest. This differential between the two interest rates makes commercial loans far too costly for farmers in disaster status, the directors pointed out.

"Without a change in the credit elsewhere requirements, the FmHA disaster program is a hollow mockery, and of little value to the majority of today's farmers," MFU president Cy Carpenter said.

The letter of petition stated, "Conditions which existed at the time of the initial adoption of the credit elsewhere requirement were different than the economic circumstances presently faced by farmers; specifically the dramatic increase in interest rates charged by commercial lending institutions has resulted in the creation of unprecedented and totally unmanageable cash flow position on debt service requirements, particularly acute to disaster stricken farmers."

"When disaster status has been declared, farmers face conditions beyond their control," the executive committee members pointed out.

"Why not let farmers faced with a lost crop borrow under the federal disaster program provisions, as Congress intended," they said.

"We're simply asking that the secretary recognize the realities of today and the problems faced by farmers in disaster status."

Executive committee members are, in addition to Carpenter: Vere Vollmers, vice president, Wheaton; Leonard Pikal, chairman, Brownton; M.E. Beito, vice chairman, Granite Falls; Leo Zimmerman, Little Falls; Leo Fogarty, Belle Plaine; Lamont Jacobson, vice president for young farmers, Sacred Heart; Marvin Jensen, secretary of the board, Evansville; Ron Reitmeier, Fisher; and Twyla Fore, vice president for special activities, Oklee.

Executive committee members are the elected representative of the full board of directors, and represent more than 24,000 farm families who belong to Minnesota Farmers Union.

Labor Day Thoughts

They may not have been intended for this particular holiday, but these thoughts from a column by Karen Gulliver, economic analyst for Land O'Lakes, Inc., are appropriate for the Labor Day being observed today:

Guard all freedoms of democracy as you guard your life, but never forget that to abuse them is to destroy them.

Don't ask government to do anything you can do for yourself. The bigger the government, the smaller the people.

Don't rely on somebody else to do your thinking for you. Democracy demands mental alertness from those who deserve to have it.

Protect your right to be governed by men of your choice by choosing them with the same care that you do your friends.

Protect your own right to be wrong by a decent respect for the opinions of others.

Strive for new ways to spread the benefits and ownership of our industrial democracy and to give everyone a greater sense of participation and accomplishment.

Remember that a classless society is the essence of democracy. A class struggle is its mortal enemy.

Heed the rule of democracy that it works best from the bottom up. When it works well at the community level it will function smoothly at the top.

Remember that change and experiment are the foods on which democracy thrives. But don't renounce proven good for a glib promise.

Remember that the bargain counter days for democracy are over, and that our democracy is on display before a questioning world. Each of us is its custodian.

Little Cogs Turn Wheels

Following editorial is from the Burlington (WI) Standard-Press:

We know a man who felt sad because he hadn't made a big splash in life.

He lamented he never made a lot of money or reached any posts of power and importance. But this man could walk down the street and call friends and neighbors by their first names, and he could go to any store in town and ask for credit or get a loan from the bank on just his word.

He was right in the middle of the big job of raising several children and putting them through school. He owned his own home with a mortgage, like so many other people, and he drove a new car only after several years and many miles on his old car.

The thing this man and many of the rest of us forget is that life doesn't hinge on the big, important splashes people make in the world. It depends mainly on the constant, dependable efforts of millions of little people who never become famous but who keep on day after day, year after year, doing their jobs the best way they know how, with the honest and steady assumption of duties one must face in his work, in his community and in his home.

We all know many people like that; most of us probably never give them a second thought, and how many times have we given them credit for a job well done? Without the little cogs, none of the big wheels would turn. Without men like our friend, the world might never have heard of Caesar, Xerxes, Hannibal and other greats.

If we fit the description of this man, we can be proud of our accomplishments. If we know someone like that, we can give him a pat on the back now and then.

The System Suffers

State Rep. James Evans of Detroit Lakes has termed federal judge Miles Lord ". . . a maverick judge who has stretched his authority for judicial review beyond tolerable limits". Many within and without the legal profession would concur with the assessment.

Judge Lord has a history of making weird decisions for strange reasons, using the power of the decision-making authority vested in him to promote his personal opinions and ideas.

What Rep. Evans is unhappy about is Judge Lord's issuance of an injunction preventing implementation of a new law requiring step-parents to assume financial obligation for their step-children. The law was passed at the last legislative session to help cut some unnecessary expense out of the state's immense welfare program.

The injunction was issued and remains in effect until a higher court rules on the constitutionality of the law. Rep. Evans maintains the judge's action was based on his own ideas rather than constitutional grounds.

"He contemptuously announced," Rep. Evans said, "that the legislature would have decided differently if they 'had a chance to think about what was happening to the children rather than what was happening to the budget'."

The new law would have removed about 5,000 families from the rolls of people receiving aid for families with dependent children. Before the law was passed, step-parents had no legal financial obligation to support a step-child living in the same household.

It would seem the legislation reflects the attitude of the people of the state, and it was adopted through normal legislative procedures with time for public discussion and debate. Provision was made in the legislation that those families who would be placed in "undue hardship" because of the law could still draw AFDC checks, even if they technically weren't single-parent families.

Rep. Evans says Judge Lord has "set himself above the legislative process and is bucking legitimate bipartisan legislation." It's not a new position for the judge, but it isn't a proper one in our estimation. The justice system suffers when judges like Miles Lord are a part of it.

Following comments were written by Robert Dunn, chairman of the Minnesota waste management board, regarding its consideration of hazardous waste disposal in the state:

A secure hazardous waste landfill — or an "above-ground", long-term hazardous waste storage facility? Many of the thousands of Minnesotans concern about hazardous wastes support the concept of above-ground storage, and some apparently believe that the waste management board — which will eventually site a disposal facility — is unalterably opposed to the above-ground idea.

In truth, however, the board is thoughtfully and seriously considering the above-ground, "tank farm" propsal. A consultant recently contracted by the board to help develop a comprehensive Minnesota hazardous waste management plan will specifically evaluate the tank farm proposal.

In fact, as required under law the board will evaluate all proposed technologies for dealing with hazardous wastes and must utilize all "feasible and prudent" alternatives to land disposal.

As board members have stated at our many public meetings, the hazardous waste management plan will include many different approaches to handling or processing hazardous wastes. Waste disposal will be one small part of that plan: incineration, processing, recycling and waste reduction will also play major roles in managing hazardous wastes.

The board will evaluate the potential of all disposal facility proposals — including the above-ground proposal. Such a proposal is not really unique: the U.S. Environmental Protection agency (EPA) is also evaluating the idea.

If not properly processed or disposed Minnesota's hazardous wastes — produced at the rate of an estimated 150,000 tons per year — will continue to threaten our land, resources and public health and safety. The board — working with citizens — is the best tool for ensuring that those wastes are handled safely and effectively.

What's A Billion?

With all the talk of millions and billions of dollars in government circles these days, it is easy to confuse the two figures and not realize the differences which are being discussed. After all, who can understand figures that only government economists seem to be able to fathom?

If you have a problem thinking of a billion dollars as a thousand million, maybe you need a more relative comparison. The difference between a million and a billion dollars is the same ratio as the difference between a penny and a $10 bill. Frightening, isn't it?

Borrowed Nonsense:

One advantage of growing older is that you can stand for more and fall for less.

Moved by some inner thought, the husband brought home a box of candy and some flowers for his wife, rang the doorbell and offered them to her. She immediately burst into tears.

"Oh, George," she cried. "I've had a terrible day. The sink stopped up, the washer broke down, Junior fell down the steps, the phone's been ringing all day, I have a terrible headache and now you come home drunk!"

CLEANING UP, Robert Delage was one of the few to benefit from the storm. With his chainsaw, he contracted to clean up downed and damaged trees for some property owners. "I needed the job" he said. He climbed this tree only to find the saw was out of gas.

Washington Report

Sen. Dave Durenberger

I was reading a column the other day in The Washington Post on the tax reform legislation President Reagan signed into law Aug. 13. The columnist was struggling to make the case that the tax bill would help just the rich. The example he used was the estate tax reform included in the legislation.

To tell you the truth, I got a little upset with that because the estate tax section of the bill was my contribution, and it's one in which I take a lot of pride.

Ask a Minnesota farmer or the owner of a family-operated business if estate tax reform is for the rich and I know the answer you'll get. It will probably be the same comment I received from a man who attended my family farm and small business hearing in Winona earlier this year.

After the hearing — one of 11 I held around the state — the man walked up to me and said, "Senator, I am the only son of my parents and I am operating the family farm. My father died a few years ago and left the farm to my mother. I want you to look out there to the back row. You see that little old lady there with gray hair? She's 80 years old and she is dying of cancer.

"I don't know if my mother is going to live for two years or two months. But I do know that I can't afford to buy back my family's farm from the government when she dies."

As it turned out, the very next week I was in the Oval Office with President Reagan and I told him that story. By the time I ended there were tears in his eyes. I told the president that we have got to change the tax on death that is breaking up families.

He heard the message and joined me in reforming estate taxes. That's not a change for the wealthy people of this country. They don't pay estate taxes; their money is sheltered in trusts.

Our work to change the tax on death means that the man in Winona will have the chance to hang on to the family farm. It means that family operated businesses can keep operating. It means that families can continue to work together on a farm or in a small business.

The man in Winona and the people I meet every time I travel throughout Minnesota tell the story of how policy is made in this country. It's not made by the president or by senators; they just respond to the people they represent. Policy in this country is made by the people who say and do the things they believe in.

The tax reform bill puts you back in charge of your government. It gives you the chance to make your own decisions with the money you earn. And, it's the national government saying that it is finally serious about fighting inflation. The national government is going to tighten its belt the same way you and your family have been doing to fight our number one problem — inflation.

Despite what a few columnists might say, that's a policy that will help everyone.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

We had the pleasure of coming to Thief River Falls for a visit a month ago and were happy to see it had not changed even though there are some hard times. You should all be proud of your friendly town and we miss it very much. Of course, we wouldn't trade our sunshine for the cold and snow.

We tried to see everyone but for those friends we missed we are sincerely sorry; a week just isn't long enough.

You're all dear to us and keep your chins up. Good things can't help but happen to a town where everyone is somebody. If you ever pass through Kingsville, Texas, please be sure to look us up.

Thanks,

Gov. Quie's Column

Last Monday, I announced a major reorganization of the Minnesota Department of Finance and the system used to prepare economic projections for state government. These changes, taken together, present a comprehensive new beginning for a system that has in the past been plagued with numerous instances of miscalculations and inaccuracies.

The task of forecasting revenue is formidable, because every variable is based upon an tenuous assumption about how the economy will perform in the future. For example, the Department of Finance must forecast interest rates, unemployment rates and inflation rates as much as two years into the future. This task will be no less formidable after the changes, but it is my intention to perform as comprehensive a study, and therefore arrive at the best possible figures, as possible.

The most prominent change in the department was the resignation of Wayne Burggraaff as commissioner. Wayne is a fine individual, and his leaving is not a reflection of his personal or professional capabilities. However, in reviewing the operation and performance of the department, I found reason to make changes to improve the department's effectiveness and credibility. These changes will best be met with someone new in charge who is free from the burdens the past year's poor revenue forecasts have placed upon the department. Until a new commissioner is appointed, state Budget Director Val Vikmanis will serve as acting commissioner.

The other major change was to abolish an assistant commissioner position. This was done to create another high-level position on the revenue forecasting staff which will allow the department to have the personnel available to obtain additional outside financial forecasting information.

While changes in personnel were necessary, the problems with our former method of forecasting revenue were much more complex. To address those problems, I directed Richard Brubacher, a former commissioner of administration under three governors, and now a member of my staff, to compile a list of recommendations for my review.

The essence of the Brubacher report is that there is a need to depoliticize the process of forecasting by involving the Legislature, the academic community and the private business sector. By this method, we will not arrive at a separate set of figures for each group involved in the budgetary process, but will rather arrive at a set of data pertinent to the state of Minnesota as a whole. This can be accomplished only via increased communication between the groups and the executive branch.

Foremost among the recommendations, all of which I have endorsed, is the formation of a small group of top management financial officers and representatives of the academic community to study the state's financial system. I have directed that this group, which will be selected in the near future, submit its findings and recommendations to the Legislature and my office prior to the 1982 legislative session. Richard Brubacher will represent my office and has been assigned to work with this study group.

This blue ribbon panel will then appoint a subcommittee of economists and forecasters to thoroughly review the assumptions and variables that were used by the state in projecting revenues for the current 1981-83 biennium. This report will be based on the current status of the economy and will be made available no later than Oct. 1.

After this report has been completed, the commissioner of finance will establish a group composed of representatives from the departments of finance and revenue, legislative staff research aides and the panel to assist in preparing a revised revenue estimate for the current biennium. Included will be a revised monthly cash flow projection. This will be submitted, again to my office and the Legislature, at the earliest possible date.

It is essential that every effort be made to bring together available talent to work on this complex problem. This will be ensured by the joint participation of the executive branch, the Legislature, the private sector and the academic community. In addition, the Department of Revenue will participate by establishing a more formal and improved system of sharing and reviewing its information with these groups.

Legislation to accomplish these goals may be necessary. It is imperative that action be taken immediately to alter the current system of economic forecasting now in place. To this end, I have begun taking action on the preliminary recommendations prepared by Brubacher.

I am confident that we are on the right track to making Minnesota's economic projections more accurate and dependable. Now we must focus our attention upon the economic health of the nation, for it is this variable which still remains beyond our control. Minnesota is not alone in these times of economic insecurity by any means — many other states face the same problems which we face with revenue shortfalls and the need to watch the treasury closely.

Now we must give President Reagan's programs an opportunity to improve the economy, and put the course of action I have outlined in place here in Minnesota to be better able to forecast their impact upon our state.

Experience Of State Fair 4-H Winners Listed

Hundreds of 4-H'ers from 21 counties exhibited a wide variety of projects at the Minnesota state fair during August 27-29. Not to be lost in the numbers were four exhibitors from Pennington county: Julie Peterson, Loren Haagenson, Debbie Torgerson and Lisa Torgerson, according to Deborah Matero, Pennington county agent.

Julie Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Peterson, is a member of the Silverton 4-H club. Julie exhibited the grand champion needlework project at the county fair and then received a blue at the state fair for her hardanger doily.

"The hard part about hardanger work, needlework that originated in Norway," said Julie, "is that if you're off just a little, you have to rip it all up!" It took Julie a month to finish her one square foot doily.

Loren Haagenson, the 13-year-old son of Lyle and Ruth Haagenson, won his first state fair trip this year with his demonstration entitled "How to Saw a Board." He is a member of the Silverton 4-H club.

Loren wasn't sure about going to the state fair, but afterwards he was glad he went. He was slightly embarrassed when he demonstrated how to cut a board straight and it came out crooked!

As many state fairgoers walked through the 4-H building, they had the opportunity to learn new skills from 4-H demonstrations.

One of these demonstrations was by Debbie and Lisa Torgerson, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Torgerson. Their presentations, entitled "Which Stitch," showed how to do eight basic embroiderly stitches by using string on a pegboard.

This was Debbie and Lisa's first year in the needlework project, so they had a lot of learning to do before they could start teaching others. The girls are 15 and 14 years old, respectively, and became interested in needlework after attending a neighbor's needle-arts party. They were also influenced by their grandmother's needlework hobbies.

Although Debbie and Lisa gave a lot of information, the judge pointed out that the competition at the state fair was intense and there's always more to learn.

RECORD ENROLLMENT this year at the Thief River Falls Area Vocational Technical Institute required extra seating arrangements for orientation ceremonies Monday. The 515 registered students were welcomed to the community by Mayor Bob Carlson and representatives of the Civic and Commerce Association, ministerial association, and school officials, and introduced to their instructors, as well as school policies and regulations. Dr. Orley Gunderson, director, said he expected the enrollment to increase by about a dozen more as openings still available in some classes were filled. In addition, a Farm Operation and Management Class starting October 13 will add another 25-30 full-time students. The highest enrollment previously recorded was 485 students. The school employs 50 teachers and offers adult vocational education programs in addition to its 20 regular programs.

Answers from the Bible by Pastor Don Poros

Q. Pastor Don, exactly what does it mean in Revelation 3:15-16 to be lukewarm? Be specific and give examples of a lukewarm person, also a hot or a cold person.

A. Revelation 3:15-16 says: "I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would thou wert cold or hot. So then because thou are lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth." The first thing we need to do is define the words lukewarm, hot and cold.

The word cold is a Greek word that means dead, never converted, never touched by the gospel fire. It does not mean once hot and now grown cold.

Hot means really converted, touched by the gospel fire, fervent, diligent, excited in your spirit about the things of God.

Lukewarm means, tepid, moderately warm, not ardent, not zealous, cool, indifferent, lacking diligence, not too excited about the things of God, and an attitude of slothfulness.

The thing that God warns against here is the spirit of lukewarmness, where at one time the Christian has been hot, fervent, diligent, excited about the things of God, and then begins to cool off, lose his or her excitement, becoming more and more slothful about their Christian committment; putting forth less effort and energy into personal Bible study, prayer, spiritual fellowship with God's people, and putting God first in every area of life.

Lukewarmness begins to show up when we lose our sensitivity for the lost, unfeeling with the hurting and broken in heart, and seems unconcerned about the needs of others.

The Lord said I wish that thou wert hot; to be active in the Lord's work, zealous, studious, fervent, diligent, to have steady application, constant effort, always abounding in the work of the Lord.

Revelation 3:19 gives the lukewarm Christian tremendous hope that they do not have to remain in their lukewarmness, but they can repent, and rekindle their hearts aflame for God and the things of God.

He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

If you have any questions you would like to have answered from the Bible, please write Pastor Don Poros, Box 129, Thief River Falls, [illegible] 56701.

Finest Bands Compete In Music Bowl II

Horns will blare, cymbals will crash and rifles will twirl when up to 30 high school marching bands from a four-state region compete in Music Bowl II-Minnesota, October 11 at Minneapolis' parade stadium.

Because the Music Bowl II-Minnesota winner will receive an invitation to appear in the 1982 Orange Bowl parade and the national great bands of Orange Bowl competition, in Miami, FL, the music bowl competition is expected to draw the finest high school marching bands from Minnesota, Wisconsin, and North and South Dakota.

Applications for the contest have been mailed to all high school marching bands in this region.

Some 25,000 high school musicians will participate in the national Music Bowl program. In addition to Minnesota, regional 1981 Music Bowl contests will be conducted in Illinois, South Carolina, Massachusetts, California, Texas, Alabama, Idaho, Ohio and Missouri.

Music Bowl II-Minnesota is being conducted on behalf of the courage Center of Golden Valley, and the participating marching bands. Half the proceeds will be donated to the Courage Center, which offers a wide range of services to adults and children with physical disabilities, and speech, hearing and vision disorders. The remaining 50 per cent will be divided equally among the participating marching units.

Winner of Music Bowl I-Minnesota was the Red Wing Central high school "Winger" marching band. The band was invited to appear in the 1981 Orange Bowl parade. Finishing second was New Richmond, WI, high school; third, Anoka high school; and fourth, Lake City high school.

LISA GAGNER, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Gagner of Mentor, will be one of eight Miss Brooks candidates selling buttons this year for the annual Blast to Brooks celebration September 12. Girl selling the most buttons will be crowned Miss Brooks for 1981-82 during special ceremonies September 12. Lisa, a student at the Mentor public school, has been a member of H.E.A.R.T., has worked on the school paper, is a member of the Future Homemakers of America and band. For hobbies, she enjoys bike riding, horseback riding, swimming and hunting. Her future plans are to enter the field of natural resources management. She is sponsored in the event by Brooks Hartz. Strong Start For Tennis Team

On a scale from 1-to-10, Lincoln high school tennis coach Whitey Olson says his Prowlers are a 6 right now, maybe even a 6.5, he quipped. But what he didn't say is that a 6 or a 6.5 could be one of the better teams in North Half Region 8AA girls tennis this fall.

Thief River Falls' dual meet record climbed to 3-0 Thursday with a 3-2 win at Bemidji. Earlier the Prowlers beat Roseau and East Grand Forks in dual meet competition while dominating their own six-team invitational field that included Bemidji, East Grand Forks, Crookston, Barnesville and Moorhead.

Detroit Lakes has been the most prominent name in area girls tennis over the past several years and the Prowlers probably won't have a true indication of their strength in North Half Region 8AA until they meet the Lakers Tuesday, September 22, in a 3:30 p.m. dual meet on the Northland community college and Lincoln high school courts.

Thief River Falls, scheduled to host Mahnomen Tuesday at 3:30 p.m., will get a look at some different competition Friday and Saturday when the Prowlers enter the two-day invitational tournament at Brainerd.

A line-up that includes seniors Christie LaCoursiere, Nancy Swanson and Marsha Erickson, sophomores Kim Lawrenz and Amy Thorstad and freshmen Michelle Olson provides the Prowlers with a good blend of experience and youth. They might not be world-beaters, but right now they appear to be the favorites for Northwest Athletic Conference honors and among the leaders in North Half Region 8AA.

TRF-Bemidji Cross Country Rivalry

Thief River Falls cross country coach Lynn Dyer didn't pull any punches when he said the Lincoln high school boys should dominate area competition and could be one of the top two teams in Region 8AA this fall. He knows the Prowlers have a good team and he's trying to tell everybody about it; trying to gain some recognition for a group of talented, hard-working athletes who compete in relative anonymity.

However, Bemidji isn't ready to surrender its title as the top area cross country team. A year ago the Lumberjacks tied for second place in the Region 8AA meet, but missed a state meet appearance through a tie-breaking procedure.

"This year our goal is to make it back to state," said Dennis Bartz, who inherited a well-established program from his predecessor, Ray Farwell. "We want to finish at least second in the regional, and I think we can do it," he added.

Bartz had 19 senior high school boys and 12 girls report for the start of practice. "Things are looking very promising," he said. "Right now I think we're at the point where we left off last year, and that's about what I had hoped for."

Seniors Rob Iverson and Steve Doggett, junior Paul Lyle and sophomores Steve Lumbar, Jon Cameron, Bob Soular and Duane Hill rank as the Lumberjacks' top runners.

Dyer was also optimistic about the prospects of a good year for the Lincoln girls this fall, figuring the Prowlers ranked as the Northwest Athletic Conference favorites. But just as the Lumberjacks and Prowlers have identical goals at the boys' Region 8AA level, the Lumberjills and Prowlers are both eyeing the NWAC title.

"The girls' goals are to win the conference title and win two meet trophies," said Bartz, who admitted he doesn't have the dominant runner that Bemidji has featured in the past, but will rely heavily on strong group finishes — much like the Prowlers.

"The kids are very excited about the upcoming season," continued Bartz. "The boys have already made signs about winning the region and the girls are looking forward to running against other girls in competition."

Dyer, too, said the Prowlers, who will open Tuesday at Roseau, were very excited about the 1981 season. It sounds like the most spirited athletic event of the fall season just might be a Thief River Falls-Bemidji cross country confrontation.

Roughriders Beat Error-Prone Prowlers 29-0

A strong Thief River Falls defensive effort was sabotaged by the Prowlers' error-prone kicking game Friday in a 29-0 season-opening high school football loss at Grand Forks Red River.

It was a self-destructing effort by the Prowlers, who botched six punts. Center snaps that were either too high or too low caused most of the problems as snappers Randy Naeseth and Kerry Wollin had their share of trouble getting the ball back to punters Rick Langlie and Jeff Imgrund, who in turn didn't get off kicks on a couple of salvageable snaps.

Thief River Falls averaged just 10.6 on three punts that (barely) got off — one partially blocked, another that had to be kicked on the run and a third that sailed just 25 yards. Three other times the Prowlers found themselves on defense behind the original line of scrimmage when the punters were downed fielding poor snaps.

First muffed punt didn't do any damage, with the Prowlers' strong defense holding Red River on downs at the Thief River Falls 27. But the next two blunders meant instant disaster, turning a 7-0 game into a 21-0 spread at halftime.

"I'm very disappointed," said Thief River Falls coach John Schmitz. "I thought we could have been in the ball game with them, but our kicking game just killed us. It got to a point where it didn't even make sense to try to punt the ball."

Red River, meanwhile, didn't look a gift horse in the mouth.

"We got the breaks," confirmed Red River coach Nick Cichy. "It's hard to say how the game would have turned out without those breaks."

It probably would have been a defensive struggle. Obviously Thief River Falls has problems on offense: zero points, eight first downs and just 30 yards rushing from scrimmage before the losses on punts, along with three quarterback sacks, dropped the Prowlers to minus yards on the ground. And even in scoring 29 points Red River could muster little offense: seven first downs, 81 yards rushing and just 150 yards total offense — including a 69-yard touchdown pass.

"I can't fault our defense," pointed out Schmitz. "Except for that one pass play we played good defense."

That one pass play opened the scoring in the second quarter after a 25-yard punt against a stiff late afternoon breeze by Langlie to the Red River 31. On first down Red River quarterback Tim Loven lofted a long pass to a wide-open Reggie Willis, who was a startling 20 yards behind the nearest Thief River Falls defensive back. He held up waiting for the ball and still high-stepped into the end zone with 7:01 remaining in the first half. Mike Peterson's kick made it 7-0.

Shortly thereafter, Langlie had to field a bouncing punt snap, ran away from a hard rush but got off just a two-yard kick while on the run that set Red River up at the Thief River Falls 16. A 13-yard gain on the option by Virgil Hill took the ball to the three-yard line and Peterson worked his way into the end zone from the one. His kick made it 14-0 with 3:56 left.

Four plays later the Prowlers were in another punting situation and this time Langlie was forced to fall on a low snap at the Thief River Falls four-yard line.

Barry Owens squirted into the end zone on second down; Peterson split the uprights again; it was 21-0 with 1:15 showing in the first half.

Any thoughts of a Thief River Falls comeback in the second half were quickly squashed when the Roughriders' Al Larslen recovered a first play Thief River Falls fumble at the Prowlers 12. Owens went off right tackle and scored on the first Red River snap of the second half. Peterson missed this time, but it was 27-0 with just 44 seconds elapsed.

Thief River Falls ignored two obvious third quarter punting situations before finally being forced to kick from the Prowlers' end zone two plays into the fourth quarter. Imgrund was given a shot at punting this time, but he went to one knee to field a low snap in his own end zone, granting Red River an automatic safety and the final points of the game.

"I was impressed with the way we played defense," noted Cichy, who gave the 240-pound Peterson a great deal of the credit for forcing Thief River Falls' numerous mistakes in punting situations.

"We got in there and blocked that first kick, and after that their center was more concerned with blocking our nose guard (Peterson) than with snapping the ball," explained Cichy.

Thief River Falls will try to correct its problems before facing Detroit Lakes Friday in the Prowlers' 1981 home opener.

Prowlers Top Detroit Lakes In Volleyball

LeAnn Paetznick came up with four kill spikes Friday to lead Thief River Falls to a season-opening 2-0 volleyball victory over Detroit Lakes in the Lincoln high school gym.

The Prowlers handled the Lakers 18-10, 18-11.

"They moved real well to the ball," said Thief River Falls coach Sharon Stauss of the Prowlers' performance. "They played well as a team."

In addition to four spikes by Paetznick, Lynnette Huot and Wendy Erickson were set for two kill spikes apiece. Karmon Espe had an ace serve for the Prowlers.

"They played well, but they still have to work on certain things," noted Stauss.

Two other decisions went to the Lakers, who won the junior varsity match 18-9, 18-7 and triumphed in the freshman match 18-9, 3-18, 18-12.

Thief River Falls returns to action Thursday by hosting Warren in the Lincoln gym, starting with freshman action at 5:30 p.m. Junior varsity match is scheduled for a 6:30 start, with the Prowlers and Ponies meeting at 7:30.

LHS Tennis Team Beats Bemidji 3-2

Thief River Falls won two of three singles matches, then split in doubles Thursday to edge Bemidji 3-2 in a high school tennis meet at Bemidji.

In singles, the Prowlers' Christie LaCoursiere beat Jill Dunphy 6-1, 4-6, 6-1 at No. 1, while Kim Lawrenz stopped Kristi Bahr 6-4, 6-4 at No. 2.

The win, the Prowlers' third straight dual meet victory, was clinched when Nancy Swanson and Michelle Olson handled the Lumberjills' Wendi Enright and Jenny Smith 6-1, 6-0 at No. 1 doubles.

Thief River Falls will host Mahnomen Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. on the Northland community college and Lincoln high school courts.

STRETCHING THE MATERIAL, Grand Forks Red River defender Rob Andrews held onto the jersey of Thief River Falls quarterback Brent Schmitz until the Roughriders' Bob Fowler (70) could wrap him up for a two-yard loss in the second quarter of Friday's high school football game played in Grand Forks.

The Prowlers struggled offensively against a strong Red River defense in a 29-0 season-opening loss to the Roughriders, who didn't do that much on offense, either, but capitalized on several Thief River Falls mistakes for the win. The Prowlers host Detroit Lakes Friday at 7:30 p.m. in their 1981 home opener.

Middle River Overpowers Oklee 36-6 In Season-Opening Clash

Middle River used its decided size advantage to wear down Oklee Friday as the Skippers rolled over the host Bobcats 36-6 in a season-opening high school football game matching two teams with North Tri County Conference title hopes.

"We really played well," exclaimed Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "All of our kids played well. I think we out-sized them and out-hit them."

It was all Middle River at the start. The Skippers took the game's opening kickoff and marched it down to the Oklee one-yard line where Jeff Cwikla broke into the end zone.

The second touchdown early in the second quarter was a gift as the Skippers gained possession at the Bobcats' one-yard line following a high snap on a punt attempt. Mike Peterson scored from that point.

It became 28-0 before the first half was over as Cwikla and Steve Bengtson both scored on three-yard runs.

Bengtson added a 16-yard touchdown run in the third quarter, and another muffed Oklee punt saw the kicker downed in the end zone for a safety and a 36-0 game.

Oklee got on the scoreboard when Gary Parenteau caught a three-yard touchdown pass from John Cyr in the fourth quarter.

"They're a good football team," said Oklee coach in describing Middle River. "They're just too big and had too much experience for us. They're just an overall better football team than we are.

Middle River tackles another challenger in the nine-man North Tri County Conference Friday when the Skippers open their 1981 home season against Clearbrook, a 32-20 opening night winner over McIntosh-Winger. Oklee hosts Grygla-Gatzke Friday night.

TRYING TO SURPRISE Grand Forks Red River with a reverse, Thief River Falls runningbacks Jeff Imgrund (47) and Kent Kainz (43) completed a handoff deep in the Prowlers' backfield in the second quarter of Friday's high school football game played at Cushman Field in Grand Forks. The play didn't surprise the Roughriders, who caught Kainz for a five-yard loss. Red River won the game 29-0.

A BOUNCING BALL was covered by Grand Forks Red River defensive lineman Phil Miller for a fumble recovery at the Thief River Falls 49-yard line Friday in the fourth quarter of the 1981 high school football season opener for both teams at Cushman Field in Grand Forks. Thief River Falls' Dave Upham, along with Red River's Dan Larson (15), John McGarry (55) and Todd Brown (76) were all after the Prowlers' fumble before Miller got it. The Roughriders came up an easy 29-0 winner by turning Thief River Falls mistakes into points. The early 5 p.m. start featured a large sun-drenched crowd.

Nordics Open With 39-6 Victory

Bill Johnson, a 5-8, 160-pound junior runningback, rushed for 11 yards and scored two touchdowns Friday as Marshall County Central rolled over Halstad-Climax 39-6 in a nonconference high school football game played at Newfolden.

The Nordics ran up 299 yards worth of offense — 270 of it on the ground — and checked the Pirates on 116 yards — split evenly rushing and passing — in the 1981 season opener for both teams.

"We played fairly well," acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Sam Gebhart. "It was a good game for us to get started with. We ironed out a few things."

Marshall County Central scored twice in both the first and second quarters to take a comfortable 27-0 lead into intermission. Dave Kragness, who scored two touchdowns and passed for another, hit Johnson with an 11-yard touchdown pass to open the scoring, then reached the end zone himself from six yards out.

In the second quarter, Kragness scored on a nine-yard run and middle linebacker Scott Anderson returned an interception 25 yards for a touchdown.

Johnson scored from the one-yard line in the third quarter to make it 33-0 before the visitors got on the scoreboard. A four-yard fourth quarter run by Troy Broderson closed out the Nordics' scoring.

Defensively for the winners, nose guard Ron Koestner was credited with eight tackles; Anderson had seven tackles and the interception; outside linebacker Todd Stokke had five tackles and a fumble recovery; and defensive backs Jamie Sagstuen and Rick VanCamp had interceptions.

Marshall County Central starts Top of the State Conference play Friday by hosting Tri-County high school of Karlstad.

Area Volleyball Squads Start Play Tuesday

Five area high schools are scheduled to open their 1981 volleyball seasons Tuesday, including Marshall County Central, Grygla-Gatzke, Middle River, Plummer and Oklee.

The matches feature Middle River at Plummer, Marshall County Central at Roseau, Grygla-Gatzke at Badger and Oklee at home against Erskine.

A sixth area team — Goodridge — will wait until Thursday to open its 1981 volleyball season, hosting Plummer that night.

Ely To Host Wilderness Run

Wilderness Run, featuring both a 16-mile and 8-mile race, will be held Saturday, September 26, in Ely.

The races, scheduled to start at 10 a.m. in Ely, will be run on pavement through forests around Shagawa Lake.

For additional information on the race and registration forms send a self-addressed stamped envelope to S.P.O.R.T.S., Dept. PH, 1600 East Sheridan St., Ely, MN 55731.

CLOSING IN ON Grand Forks Red River runningback Jeff Bye, Thief River Falls defensive end Jim Dillon made the tackle, but not until Bye had gained five yards in the third quarter of Friday's high school football game. Red River guard Phil Miller eyed Dillon, but couldn't make the block on the play. The Roughriders shut out the Prowlers 29-0 in the 1981 opener for both teams.

Cardinals Edge Eagles 12-6 In Nine-Man Play

Plummer, winless in nine starts a year ago, opened its 1981 high school football season Friday with a 12-6 nine-man North Tri County Conference win over visiting Grygla-Gatzke.

The Cardinals combined a strong defensive effort with just enough offense to produce the victory.

"Defensively I thought we played an excellent game," pointed out Plummer coach Gary Brantl. "We still have a lot of work to do on offense," he added.

But the Cardinals still managed to net some yards: 168 on the ground and 50 more in the air. Dean Sletten rushed for 104 of those yards and quarterback Tim Gagner was 6-for-7 in the passing department, hitting Tim Peters with a 21-yard touchdown strike to start the scoring in the second quarter. Peters finished with five receptions for 37 yards.

Plummer went up 12-0 with an impressive seven-minute touchdown march with the second half kickoff, capped by a three-yard touchdown run by Brian Fisher.

Grygla-Gatzke scored before the third quarter was over when Brian Olson hauled in a 41-yard touchdown pass from Rodney Hagen. The Eagles' last chance at victory ended when Gary Torkelson, an eighth grader playing in the defensive line, came up with a pass interception in the final minute of play.

Brantl cited the defensive play of defensive backs Kyle Gustafson and Russ Fisher, along with linebackers Mike Konickson and Sletten.

Plummer will feature an early season homecoming Friday when the Cardinals host Erskine, a 34-6 winner over Goodridge in the first week of conference play. Grygla-Gatzke visits Oklee.

State Salmon Record Set

A 23-pound, 6¾-ounce chinook salmon, taken in Lake Superior near Hovland July 27 is an official new Minnesota record, the Department of Natural Resources confirmed.

The fish was taken by Jon Sanger of Hovland and breaks the old record set last year by A.J. Niedorf of Cambridge who caught a 21-pound, 4-ounce chinook near Grand Marais.

Preparations continue for the Lake Sarah 6.5-mile run and one mile fun run scheduled Saturday, September 19. First person to register for the 6.5 mile race was Keith Gunderson of Erskine. First registrant for the fun run was Heather Bailey of Duluth.

Interest has been expressed by runners from Fargo, Moorhead, Grand Forks, Grafton and Thief River Falls.

Starting time is 10:30 a.m. for the one mile run and 11 a.m. for the 6.5-mile race.

Trophies and ribbons will be awarded.

Runners not yet registered should contact the campground office for information and registration forms, telephone 687-5155.

Sportsmen At Greenbush To Host Banquet

Western Roseau County Sportsmen's Club and the "Save Our Game Fish Committee" will stage a fund-raising banquet Saturday, September 19, at the Greenlin Supper Club in Greenbush.

The banquet, designed as a fund-raiser for the "Save Our Game Fish Committee" in its efforts to ban commercial fishing on Lake of the Woods and Rainy Lake, will start at 6 p.m.

Tickets may be obtained from club members or at Wahl Bros. Bait and Tackle in Greenbush.

Scheduled to appear at the banquet are Ron Linder, publisher, and Doug Stang, editor, of the In-Fisherman magazine; Senators Keith Langseth, Colin Peterson and Marv Hanson, along with Congressman Arlan Stangeland.

Trout Stamp Art Contest Is Planned

Minnesota artists who wish to enter a contest to choose the design for the state's first trout stamp can begin submitting their entries on October 1, the Department of Natural Resources announced.

The stamp will be required beginning March 1, 1982 of anglers between the ages of 16 and 65 who fish for trout in a trout stream.

To pick a design for the stamp the DNR has organized a contest similar to the one used annually to select a design for the state migratory waterfowl stamp.

Additional information on the contest and copies of the contest rules can be obtained by contacting Chuck Wechsler at 612-296-3336 or Roy Johannes at 612-296-3325.

Huskies Lose Opener 34-6

Erskine came up with five pass interceptions Friday in beating Goodridge 34-6 in a 1981 season-opening nine-man North Tri County Conference high school football game at Goodridge.

"I don't think the score was any indication of the game," explained Goodridge coach Rick Nelson. "They got a couple of breaks on interceptions and put them in the end zone. We had some chances, but we just didn't take advantage of them."

Francis Pries three touchdowns for the Comets, reaching the end zone from the 3, 5 and 10-yard lines. Joey Farrell added a 15-yard touchdown run and Scott Willoughby closed out the scoring on a 32-yard interception return for a touchdown with just 50 seconds left.

Goodridge matched Pries' three-yard touchdown run in the first quarter on a 33-yard pass from Mike Drangstveit to Jeff Langan. But Pries' five-yard scoring play made it 12-6 at the end of the first quarter and the winners tacked on a pair of second quarter touchdowns for a 26-6 halftime cushion.

"Our defense came around and played well in the second half," pointed out Nelson, who said he was happy with the linebacking play of John Cullen, Jerry Tharaldson, Ken Fraser and Langan.

Goodridge visits Mentor Friday. Erskine travels to Plummer that night.

Erskine — Pries, 10-yard run, PAT failed.

Erskine — Scott Willoughby, 32-yard interception return, Pries run.

DNR NEWS

Department of Natural Resources has issued new instructions for hunters who wish to apply for a permit to hunt deer in the Camp Ripley military reservation this year.

Officials said an earlier announcement was in error due to the omission of a paragraph telling hunters where to send their applications and the deadline for applying.

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and the Department of Military Affairs said that 1,000 permits for each of three weekends will be made available to hunt deer with bow and arrow in the Camp Ripley military reservation and statutory game refuge this year.

Increased safety will be emphasized with approximatly one-half of the 54,000 acre camp closed by the Military Affairs Department. Wildlife officials will provide extra patrolling and posting around hazardous areas.

Archers may apply individually or in parties of up to six. DNR officials will draw 1,000 permits for each of the three October weekends of the hunt: October 10-11, 17-18 and 24-25.

All members of a party shall list their name and address and one weekend of their choice on a postcard or sheet of paper. Either the entire party will be selected or none will be selected.

List of party members and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for each party member shall be submitted in one envelope.

All applications must be mailed to Archery Hunt, RR 4, Box 14A, Little Falls, MN 56345 on or before September 15. Each successful applicant will receive a weekend permit, a map and new regulations about October 1.

Unsuccessful applicants or those applying incorrectly will not be notified. Permits are not transferrable and anyone applying more than once will be prosecuted.

Only licensed deer hunters possessing a validated permit will be allowed in the camp. Access to the camp will be through the southeast railroad gate beginning at 6 p.m. each Friday. Vehicles in line overnight must be occupied.

Oak Ridge ALCW To Meet

Oak Ridge ALCW will meet Thursday afternoon, Sept. 10 at 2 p.m. at the church. Florence Knutson and Evelyn Swanson will be hostess and Pearl Helgenset will give devotions. At this writing, a Scope study leader is still needed. A good turnout is urged, as details of the upcoming bazaar will be finalized and the slate of new officers will be elected.

Good Cheer Club Meets September 16

Good Cheer Club is scheduled to meet Wednesday, Sept. 16 at the home of Mrs. Daryl Lewis. Mrs. Ervin Olson will be assisting hostess. Members are reminded to bring items for the silent auction fund-raiser to be held following the business meeting. Visitors are welcome.

Delmer Rux was a Friday afternoon coffee guest and Russell Lane was a Friday dinner guest at the Burt Lane home.

Mrs. Frank Armstrong was a Thursday afternoon visitor at the Inar Mikkelson home.

Mrs. Burt Lane was a Saturday morning visitor at the home of Mrs. Ludwig Peterson in Thief River Falls.

Cindi Solem left with other 4-Hers via bus for the Minnesota State fair Wednesday where she participated in the Fashion Revue. While in the Cities she also visited with Janelle Monk at her parental Lee Monk home. The girls were in the recent Miss Teenage Minnesota pageant together.

Dake Ayers Dies Unexpectedly

Sincere sympathy is extended to the family of Dake W. Ayers, long-time farmer in this area, who passed away unexpectedly at his home Saturday evening. Neighbors and friends gathered at his farm Sunday with combines and trucks and finished harvesting operations for the family while the womenfolk assisted with lunch and coffee making.

Russ Smith of Thief River Falls was a Sunday afternoon coffee guest at the Russ Lane home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Swenson of Angus were Saturday afternoon visitors at the Inar Mikkelson home. They had just returned from a 3 week vacation in Denmark and Sweden visiting his two brothers and other relatives.

Clarence Anderson of St. Hilaire was a Monday afternoon coffee guest at the Burt Lane home. Mr. and Mrs. Russ Lane were early evening coffee guests. Burt also visited at the Duane Olson home Monday afternoon.

Miss Mable Christofferson of Thief River Falls and her sister, Mrs. Florence Frankenberger of Norfolk, Va., were Friday evening visitors at the home of another sister, the Pete Bradleys. Mr. and Mrs. Mike Burkel also visited later that evening.

Lance Erickson of Minneapolis spent the weekend here with his wife and son, and on Sunday they all enjoyed dinner together at the Donald Olson home.

Mrs. Marion Hoglo accompanied Mrs. Wallace Lamb, Mike, Rusty, Nancy and John of Warren to the Marvin Olson home in Rocksbury Monday evening, August 24 where the 17th birthday anniversary of Steve Olson was observed.

Mrs. Gary Hamness, Mrs. Don Hermanson, and Mrs. Lloyd Otteson attended a birthday luncheon for Mary Bieswenger at the Jerry Nelson home Thursday evening.

Mrs. Bob Moberg and Brynne of Viking and Mrs. Allen Frei of Thief River Falls were Wednesday forenoon coffee guests at the Roger Dyrdal home.

Mrs. Eleanor Joyce, Mrs. Irene Edstrom and Mrs. Esther Selseng visited after church Sunday with Ethel Johnson and Emma Rhodegaard at the CNC Unit of Northwestern hospital and with Gina Furan and Clardina Terrian at Valley Home.

Keith Moen is 17

Keith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Moen, observed his 17th birthday anniversary at his parental home Saturday evening, August 29, when the following brought him best wishes: Oscar Paulson of Thief River Falls, Evelyn Woods of Newfolden and Mr. and Mrs. LaVern Hamre of Numedal. Also present for the observance was Keith's younger brother, Corey.

VeVeas Return

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd VeVea recently returned from a week's visit at the Jerry VeVea home in Peoria, Ill. While there they attended the wedding of their granddaughter, Carrie Lynn VeVea, to Bradley Wicks. Mrs. Lloyd VeVea assisted with all the wedding preparations while there. Also among the wedding guests were Sharon Carlson of Vancouver, B.C., Canada and Kathy Sorenson of Minneapolis. During the week the VeVeas were guests at a brunch Sunday at the River Junction, and then went on a two hour cruise on the Julia Belle Swain. They also helped Patrick VeVea celebrate his birthday anniversary on Monday, with Mrs. VeVea baking and decorating the traditional birthday cake. Enroute home they spent some time visiting at the Rod Hopkins home in Minneapolis.

Jane Olson left Friday via bus for the Twin Cities to attend the wedding of a college roommate, returning to her studies at Bemidji State University from there. Kathy Olson also left Monday to begin studies at BSU. Mrs. Wilma Olson and Kathy visited Sunday at the Emil Zavoral home in Thief River Falls.

April Nygard spent Wednesday through Friday at her parental Alvin Nygard home before leaving for a teaching position at Calvin, N.D.

Mrs. Melville Bakken had as Monday morning coffee guests Gladys Nelson of Greendale Manor, Mrs. Marvin Bakken, Robby and Kevin and Melissa and Brent Dyrdal.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Farbo, Robby and Cari visited Sunday at Newfolden with Mrs. Farbo's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Nels C. Nelson and with her parents, the Wallace Roppes.

Mrs. Duane Olson was a Tuesday afternoon coffee guest at the Kendall Jensen home. That evening, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Erdmann of Thief River Falls, Deb Holt and Rick Filpula were visitors of the Jensens.

Mrs. Bill Hoglo and Jennifer were Saturday forenoon visitors at the Oscar Mossesstad home in Thief River Falls. Bill Hoglo was also a dinner guest there.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Olson and Tricia, Justin Wood of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hess, Trace and Michael of Sanders went to Grand Forks Saturday where they were joined by the Wayne Hannon family to watch the air show put on at the Grand Forks Air Base.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Langaas were Sunday evening coffee guests at the Arnold Austinson home in North.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Swick, Lisa, Tawnya and Kelly of Thief River Falls were Friday evening coffee guests at the Raymond Paulson home.

Mrs. Berton Hushagen and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Zavoral of Thief River Falls were Thursday afternoon coffee guests of Mrs. Wilma Olson. Later in the afternoon Mrs. Aldon Carlson, Jane and Gretchen were coffee guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Jablinske were Thursday evening coffee guests at the Glen Olson home.

Gary Page was a Sunday supper guest at the Daryl Lewis home. Todd Hoglo of Thief River also returned home with his dad Sunday afternoon after having been an overnight guest at the Lewises.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Bakken, Melanie, Angela and Wendy were Thursday evening visitors at the Melvin Bakken home and Friday evening visitors at the home of Mrs. Andy Hjelle in Newfolden.

Mrs. Leland Nelson, Mrs. Vernon Erdmann and Mrs. Laverne Filpula of Sanders visited Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Kendall Jensen.

Mrs. Larry Swenson and Mrs. Donald Srnsky, Kathy and Kristy were Saturday afternoon visitors at the Curtiss Halvorson home.

Ida Ordahl Honored

Mrs. Henry Ordahl was remembered on the occasion of her birthday anniversary Monday, August 31, when Mr. and Mrs. David Miller and Wayne of Thief River Falls brought a cake and helped her celebrate on Sunday afternoon.

Cindi Solem was a Sunday supper guest at the Roy Blomker home.

Mrs. Dennis Green and Meridith were Sunday callers at the Ray Soiney home.

Chris and Rick Allen of Two Harbors visited the evening of August 14 at the Russell Lane home. Mrs. Grace Lindblom of Valley Home spent the 15th and 16th there visiting with a son, Kim Lindblom, who left the 17th to resume college in Milwaukee after spending three weeks here.

Mrs. Roger Dyrdal, Lynn, Rog, Bryce, Jeri and April and Mrs. Ed Bjorgaard and Mrs. Leonard Waswick of Numedal were Tuesday afternoon coffee guests at the Daryl Lewis home. That noon Mrs. Lewis, together with Todd Lewis, Edith Dyrdal and Mrs. LeRoy Scholin were coffee guests of Mrs. Nels Dyrdal in Thief River Falls. Todd Hoglo also returned to his parental Dick Hoglo home in Thief River Falls that day, having been a guest at the Lewises since the previous Sunday.

Corey Moen and Burt Lane were a week ago Tuesday afternoon visitors at the Russell Lane home. That evening Mr. and Mrs. Lane visited briefly at the Marvin Moen home.

Vacation Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lane and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hoppe of Thief River Falls returned home Monday evening, August 24 following a 10 day vacation trip through upper Wisconsin and upper Michigan, including a tour of Mackinac City, Mich., a drive over the Mackinac Bridge, a day on Mackinac Island, viewing three of the five Great Lakes, namely Lake Huron, Lake Michigan and Lake Superior and a ferry ride down the Wisconsin coast to Manitowac, where the ships dock. There they were overnight guests at the Wendell Johnson home. From Manitowac they went to Rochester and spent from Thursday through Sunday at the home of Jack's sister, Mrs. Rob Amundson, before returning home the following Monday evening.

Cost Of Keeping Fit Is Estimated

Keeping fit can be expensive and with inflation it promises to become even more costly. Unless you run in place or do calisthenics in your bedroom, it can cost you money to stay in shape.

According to the Minnesota Society of CPAs, it is a good idea to calculate the cost of any fitness activity before you get involved only to discover you cannot afford it. In averaging out costs of such things as equipment and your fees for several fitness activities, CPAs estimate these minimum yearly costs: jogging, $40; bicycling, $200; exercise classes, $76; tennis, $415.50; racquetball, $357.50; and swimming, $441 or $121 — depending upon whether you swim all year or only in the summer. Here's the way to break it down.

Jogging is still popular enough to encourage people to spend $40 or more for proper running shoes, but there's little else needed for that sport if you have lots of old shorts and shirts you can wear. Otherwise, you will need to spend about $30 for a set of shorts and top and if you run at night you should have a glow-in-the-dark vest which costs about $10. Winter joggers, of course, require several layers of warm, lightweight clothing.

If you bicycle and insist on one of those fancy 10-speeders you will spend at least $200 unless you can find a second hand model. Biking shoes run about $20 and shirts and shorts will cost another $15. The cost of this sport rises as you add accessories.

Another way to stay in shape is exercise classes. All you need are sneakers and shorts and T-shirt, leotards, or sweat suit — perhaps you would spend $40. Check your local Y, church or community center for calisthenics, yoga or aerobic dance classes. You may be able to join a program of 12 classes for $36, or $3 per class. When you join such a class, and the fee is to be paid in advance, be sure you read that agreement before you sign it, say CPAs. For instance, you may learn there's no refund if you drop out.

Racket sports can put a bigger dent in your budget because of the expense of court time, which can cost anywhere from about $4 a person on public courts to about $6 per person in private clubs. For bargain rates, check local parks, the YMCA and colleges.

Basics for tennis are a racket and tennis balls. Plain wooden rackets start at $60, but you can pay almost $300 for one made of graphite. Racket stringing costs from $10 to $30, and a case to keep the racket in is $3. A can of three tennis balls costs $2.50 and you'll probably use 13 cans in a year ($32.50) if you play once a week. Tennis shoes range from $20 to $40, and shorts and shirt or tennis dress can cost at least $30. Outfitting yourself for tennis will cost at least $50. Your tennis equipment for the year will run $105.50, at the minimum. If you pay $5 for one hour of court time every week, you'll pay $260 a year.

Equipment and clothing costs for racquetball aren't as great as those of tennis. Rackets are less expensive, ranging from $20 to $100, and they don't have to be strung. A can of two balls costs $3.50, and if you buy 11 cans over a year you spend $38.50. A racket case is again $3. Clothes for racquetball are simpler, so you could buy a pair of shorts and a top for as little as $16; the cost of thoes is the same as for tennis. Minimum cost for your racquetball outfit is $36, and you'll spend at least $61.50 on equipment. If you again pay $260 a year for court time, your basic cost is $357.50.

While schools, Y's and community centers may have racquetball courts, you'll find them more often in health or racquetball clubs. Membership fees cost several hundred dollars, and you pay hourly fees for court time. If you join a club for $200, and pay $4 every week for an hour of court time, your total cost for this sport increases to $505.50.

Swimming may mean joining a health club or YMCA. Using a public pool could cost $8 to swim twice a week. Over a year's time, you would spend $416 in pool fees. If membership at your local YMCA is $250, you would save half the fee. If you swim during three summer months only, pool fees would total $96.

To derive benefits from swimming, you have to be a proficient swimmer. As a member at the Y, six lessons might cost $30. Other costs for swimming include a suit. Men's trunks usually range from $10 to $25, while women's tank suits go from $15 to over $40. Hold off on buying extra pool-side accessories until you find out what you actuall need.

Conference On Planning Here October 28th

"Introduction to Planning" is the topic of a conference to be held October 28 in Thief River Falls under sponsorship of the Minnesota Planning association and the Northwest regional development commission.

Attending the conference will be city, county and regional planners, commissioners, zoning officials, elected officials and other interested persons.

Conducted along with the conference on planning will be a session entitled "Economic Development for Small Businesses", dealing with the what, how and why of economic development assistance available for small businesses in Region I.

The regional development commission in July adopted policy guidelines regarding provision of technical assistance and planning services to local government units in the region. Under the policy, any city, county, township, school district or associated local government agency can receive routine technical services from the commission.

Services will include problem analysis, planning advice, grants writing, community development, economic development and related fields. These services will be provided to a local government unit without cost up to a maximum of $1,000 of service value in any fiscal year, subject to the availability of staff time. More extensive services will be provided to local government units on a cost reimbursement basis.

Biblical Course Offered In TRF September 24

A course titled "Church Renewal: Its Biblical Roots" will be offered for parish clergy, members of religious orders and others beginning September 24 in Thief River Falls.

Course seeks to "demonstrate the relevance of Biblical study to the revitalization of congregational life and mission and is designed to stimulate a lively dialogue between the results of New Testament scholarship and the contemporary life of the church," according to recent information on the course.

First class, offered through the graduate theological education program of CHARIS, an ecumenical center for church and community with offices at Concordia college, Moorhead, will meet five times from 9:45 a.m. to 2:15 p.m. at Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls. Participants may take the course for two credits or they may audit it. Accreditation is arranged through cooperating seminaries. Cost of the course is $50.

Teaching the course will be Rev. James Bailey, associate professor and chairperson of the religion department at Concordia college who received his doctorate from the University of St. Andrews in Scotland.

Working with Dr. James Hofrenning, director of CHARIS, to arrange the course, is a local planning committee consisting of Rev. James Bernauer of Saints Peter and Paul church, Warren; Rev. Richard Larson, Zion Lutheran church; and Rev. Donald Knudson, Redeemer Lutheran church, both of Thief River Falls.

Bailey will also conduct a lay academy for area residents titled "Discovering Our Biblical Roots" beginning October 8 at 5:30 p.m. at Zion Lutheran church. Same local planning committee may be contacted for additional information.

Registration can be made through the CHARIS office at Concordia college or by contacting one of the committee members. Early registration is preferred.

Grants from Lutheran Brotherhood, a fraternal benefit society, and the division of theological education and ministry of the American Lutheran church help support this program.

Narcotics Meet Slated Friday

Narcotics Anonymous open meeting will be conducted Friday (September 11) at the old library in Thief River Falls. Session, which will begin at 8 p.m., will include various guest speakers.

The Times - A Great Gift

TORN CURTAINS and broken windows were among damages caused at the Gilbert Genereux home by the storm in Brooks Monday morning. Mrs. Genereux was in the porch trying to mop up the water that was "just pouring in around the closed door" when the windows burst. "It's a miracle I wasn't cut," she said. "The air was just filled with flying glass." The TV tower was also toppled at the Genereux home.

Crop Harvest Statewide Is Behind Average

Nearly all fieldwork was brought to a standstill the last week in August as rain fell for most of the week, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service. Rains were particularly heavy in the south central portion of the state.

A large part of Minnesota now has surplus moisture as a result of both last week's rain and frequent rain throughout the entire summer. Topsoil moisture as of Friday, August 28, was rated five per cent short, 52 per cent adequate, and 43 per cent surplus.

Development of row crops has been seriously hampered by the very wet conditions. Most require some very good weather during September in order to mature before the first frost. Field corn is only 67 per cent in dough which is well behind last year's 93 per cent and the five-year average of 81 per cent. Just 18 per cent of the crop is denting which compares to the five-year average of 54 per cent and last year's 65 per cent. Cutting of silage is just getting started at one per cent. Field corn is rated 26 per cent fair, 60 per cent good, and 14 per cent excellent.

Soybeans are very slow in turning this year. An estimated nine per cent of the crop is turning yellow compared to 32 per cent for a five-year average and 27 per cent last year. Sunflowers are dropping ray petals on 58 per cent of the crop with an estimated 18 per cent of the bracts turning yellow. This compares with 83 per cent dropping ray petals last year and 81 per cent bracts turning yellow. Sunflowers are rated four per cent poor, 31 per cent fair, 58 per cent good, and seven per cent excellent.

Harvesting of small grains is nearing completion and only northern areas have measureable amounts still standing. Combining is finished on 99 per cent of the acreage for both winter wheat and rye. Spring wheat is 93 per cent combined while oats and barley are 97 per cent and 96 per cent harvested, respectively.

Flax now stands at 81 per cent ripe which is behind both last year and the five-year average of 90 per cent. An estimated 32 per cent of the crop has been cut and 22 per cent combined. This compares to 39 per cent and 22 per cent last year and the five-year average of 46 per cent and 29 per cent. Harvest of dry edible beans should be picking up with the crop rated six per cent poor, 43 per cent fair, 45 per cent good, and six per cent excellent.

Seeding of winter wheat and rye has reached 20 per cent and 13 per cent, respectively, ahead of the five-year averages of 11 per cent. Plowin of small grain and hay stubble is complete on 39 per cent of the acreage which compares to 42 per cent last year and the five-year average of 33 per cent.

Tourism And Travel Boosts County Income

Tourist and travel industry meant expenditures of $9,765,000 in Pennington county in 1979, the latest year for which figures are available, according to information provided by the Northwest regional development commission.

Figures excerpted from the Minnesota department of economic development report by the NWRDC show that total expenditures in the seven-county region exceed $23 million. Marshall, Red Lake and Roseau county data was not available so only five counties' figures were available. Total tourist and travel expenditures in the four counties of Kittson, Norman, Pennington and Polk were listed at $22,937,000.

Economic impact in Pennington county was placed at $1,953,000 for lodging, $2,441,000 for transport, $2,637,000 for food and beverage, $2,148,000 for other retail, and $586,000 for recreation and amusement. Since the county had total gross receipts of $375,801,000 from all industries in 1979, the tourist and travel totals represented 2.6 per cent of the total gross receipts.

"While the percentages are not large," the economic development commission report notes, ". . . the significant aspects of these dollars as receipts is: Many dollars were expenditures by people who do not live in Region I; most of the employees whose jobs are directly dependent on the tourist and travel industry are residents of the region; and most businesses in this industry in Region I are small and locally owned and managed."

Benefit to main street businesses is from the economic multiplier effect where a dollar spent in the region by travelers circulates through the local economy approximately two and one-half times, according to the regional development report. Applying this multiplier to the region's tourist and travel expenditures of $22.5 million results in a benefit of $57.3 million. The three other counties of the region for which figures were not available would add significantly to the total.

Several Area Students Earn UND Degrees

Several area students were among 266 degree candidates upon completion of the 1981 summer session at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks.

Candidates listed were considered tentative because degree reception is subject to successful completion of all academic work. Listed from this area were Sharon Eriksson and Kim Williams, Thief River Falls, master of science; Mary Simonson, Red Lake Falls, bachelor of arts; Terrance Ford and Ray Mair, Red Lake Falls and Jennifer Pluth, Thief River Falls, bachelor of science in business administration.

Record Entries At Everybody's Market Here

In what is believed to be the greatest participation ever in the local Everybody's Market promotion, 75 groups or individuals have registered to take part in the annual event in Thief River Falls this Saturday, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Assignments have been made for location of each of the participants, according to the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce which is handling arrangements. The chamber emphasized that the market is not to begin until the 9:30 a.m. official starting time and encouraged participants not to open sales until that time.

There had been a question about the sale of baked goods at the market, but an order issued by Minnesota agricultural department inspector Rolland Sande was rescinded last week. Sale of jams, jellies and pickles will not be allowed but sale of baked goods will be permitted, with the exception of creamed or meringue items. A number of participants will have baked goods for sale.

A listing of all registered participants, their address, items offered for sale and location of their booths or tables include the following:

Judi Egenes, TRF, crafts, Woolworth's; Mrs. Marvin-Mrs. Morris Sirjord, Bejou, crafts, needlework, Woolworth's; Sherry Hauter, TRF, crafts, baked goods, Johnson Hardware; Eastern Star, TRF, barbeques, beverages, Phase II; Mrs. Pearl Helgenset, TRF, produce, Rusty Nail; Valerie Forsberg, TRF, crafts, needlework, Thomas Drug; Ken and Dianne Knuttson, Trail, (items not listed),

Council Accepts TRFAHA Funds, Hears Problem

Hockey arena funds, a petition for sewer installation and a rock concert were major topics at the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls city council Tuesday, September 8 in council chambers at the city auditorium.

Dr. John Seaverson, representing Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey association (TRFAHA), presented a summary of the organization's operations for the past year. Concession receipts of $6,085.89 were reported, of which half was returned to the city. Then, in what was described as "legal maneuvering", the council agreed to return the money to TRFAHA by paying bills, not to exceed $3,042.95.

On questioning by Mayor Bob Carlson, regarding getting TRFAHA's help with a project to install a ceiling in the new arena, Seaverson stated he was "sure there would be no problem," but noted that they would like to finish the old arena project first.

Bonnie Swantek, 106 E. Fifth St., presented the council with a petition requesting installation of sewer main up Fifth street. She explained that there were four houses on the same drain in that block and that problems caused by the overload needed immediate action. Alderman Bill Penning who is on the utilities committee, explained that the city could install the main, but that the individual homeowners would be responsible for hooking up to it. Cost of installing the eight inch main was estimated at $7,000, to be assessed against the residents over a 15-year period. To expedite the project, the city engineer was instructed to draw up plans and specifications, with the council to hold a special meeting Thursday to "rubber stamp" them.

A request to use the sports arena for a rock concert was heard from Richard Sundval, Bemidji, representing Odyssey Productions, Inc. A character check on Sundval and his company had been requested from the Bemidji police department. Described by city attorney Robert Wurst as a "non-report", it stated that he wasn't known. Sundval expressed surprise, claiming Bemidji Police Chief Robert Tell as a "family friend", and stating that he had never had a bad experience at one of his concerts. Describing rock concerts as "a source of great vexation" for many city governments, Wurst recommended that Sundval get his references together and re-approach the council at the meeting 5 p.m. Thursday.

In other business the council:

TEARING UP THE TRACK, Don Anderson of Detroit Lakes had his turbine powered tractor whining to perfection in this division of open class competition during the tractor pull held in Thief River Falls Saturday. The tractor is powered by an engine from a "Huey" helicopter and in this division it dragged the weighted skid right on through the course. Attendance at the tractor pull was approximately 1,500 people, and sponsoring Jaycees are already planning the second annual event for next fall, possibly as part of a fall festival celebration. Results from the pull were unavailable for this issue of the Times but will be published when available.

Concert Ass'n. Begins Drive In TRF Sept. 16

Membership campaign for the Thief River Falls concert association will get underway September 16 and will continue through September 25, when all members must be enrolled. Season membership will admit members to all five concerts in the series.

Co-publicity chairmen of the association, Mrs. Margaret Saetre and Mrs. Melba Penning, remind those interested that no admissions to the concerts will be sold at the door. Volunteers will be working to reach as many people as possible, the chairmen stated. Those not contacted may call the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce office at 681-3720; Pat Martin, 681-1571; or Gerry Stocks, 681-3082. Cost is $15 for adults, $7 for students and $40 for family tickets ($3 per concert).

Approaching concert season will contain "great variety with many artists, and programs marvelous in content that will appeal to all tastes," according to Mrs. Penning. "Every person is invited to be a member of the association."

Included in the schedule for the 1981-82 year will be concert presentations such as Gilbert and Sullivan's Operetta, "The Mikado," the Re-Generation Group selected from colleges around the nation; the St. Olaf College choir; bass singer Jerome Hines; and "The Mac Frampton Trio."

October 24 will open the performances scheduled with the satirical comdey, "The Mikado" set in Japan. Performance is "guaranteed to entertain and delight audiences throughout the evening," Mrs. Penning stated.

Secular and sacred music will be performed by the Re-Generation group November 19. The group has headlined shows at Walt Disney World and has provided half-time entertainment for the National Football League's Pro Bowl game as well as appearing on ABC television in 1979.

January 20 will be an evening featuring the St. Olaf college choir, with William Saetre of Thief River Falls, a member of the group, performing with choir members. Under the direction of Dr. Kenneth Jennings, the choir became the first choral group other than the Sistine chapel choir to sing in the Sistine chapel during the choir's tour in Rome.

Jerome Hines will make his appearance in Thief River Falls February 20. Hines, who began singing with the Metropolitan opera in 1946, performed his most famous role in Paris in "Boris Godunov" in the 1975-76 season and in LeProphete, Rigolette, Don Carlo and Parsifal during the 1979-80 season.

The six-foot six-inch singer from California will perform broadway musicals as well as opera. He has appeared as soloist with many of the great orchestras and has made appearances on both television and radio.

Last concert of the season will feature the "Mac Frampton Trio" comprised of piano, bass and percussion with selections from classical to jazz.

"Frampton brings to the keyboard versatility of dynamic talent," it has been stated. "He has appeared with the boston Pops and the St. Lous, Cincinnati and Atlanta symphonies." Concert will be presented in Thief River Falls April 28.

SURE AS SHOOTIN', Cindy Waterworth of Newfolden intends to be back on duty as a campus police officer in Las Cruces, NM, following recovery from a gunshot wound in the head. She was shot by an assailant June 24 while in her squad car, miraculously escaping death as the bullet struck her in the nose, shattered her right cheekbone and exited in front of her right ear. Cindy insists her guardian angel directed the path of the bullet. Now recuperating at the parental Earl Waterworth farm at Newfolden, she borrowed her brother's .22 caliber revolver to brush up on her shooting. Ad the riddled cans indicate, she hasn't lost her touch. For Cindy's amazing story, read next Monday's issue of the Times.

7 To Compete In First Miss Newfolden Pageant

"On Broadway" Sunday (September 13) at 8 p.m. in the Marshall County Central high school gymnasium will be seven contestants who will be competing this year in the first Miss Newfolden pageant.

Event will conclude the schedule of events planned Saturday and Sunday (September 12 and 13) during the Newfolden fall festival.

Pageant is under arrangement and sponsorship of the Marshall county central Jaycee women. Tickets are on sale at Stan's Grocery, Hartz, Marshall county state bank, the Hardware Hank store of Newfolden and at LaVonne's Grocery in Viking. Advance tickets are $2 with $2.50 charged at the door.

Rehearsing now for the September 13 pageant are the following contestants:

Rebecca Swenson, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Swenson of Middle River. She is five feet three inches tall, weighs 110 pounds, has blue eyes and brown hair.

She is the second oldest child in a family of six children, including Cecelia, 21; DeLayne, 20; Cindy, 15; Dawn, 11; and Robert, who is eight.

Although she spends a great deal of time helping her parents on the family's dairy farm and with work in the field, she finds time for her favorite hobbies and sports which include cycling, riding bicycle, snowmobiling, riding horse, fishing and swimming.

Rebecca will be attending Northland community college this fall to begin studies as a therapeutic technician. Her talent presentation in the pageant will be a song and guitar selection titled, "Strawberry Roan." She is sponsored in the competition by the Hardware Hank store in Newfolden.

Plans to attend the medical institute of Minnesota in Minneapolis lie in the future of Tammy Hansen, 18, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hansen of Newfolden.

Tammy, a 1981 graduate of Marshall County Central high school, is five feet five inches tall, has green eyes and blonde hair, and weighs 105 pounds.

When she is not working in the Newfolden cafe, she finds time for reading, listening to music, calligraphy, riding bike and spending time with her pets.

In school she was a football and basketball cheerleader, was in track, and was a pom pom girl. She has one brother, Deon, who is 15.

Tammy will be sponsored in the competition by the pool hall. Her talent presentation will be a piano solo.

Jillayne Johnson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Johnson of Viking, is a senior at the Marshall county central high school in Newfolden. She is five feet six inches tall, weighs 130 pounds, and has hazel eyes and brown hair.

While in school, Jillayne has played volleyball, basketball, softball, and has been a member of the track team. She has also performed in several plays and musicals. In her spare time, she enjoys refinishing old articles, cooking, sewing, playing guitar, waterskiing, dancing and just "talking to people."

Hospital's Annual Meet Set Monday

Members of Northwestern Hospital association of Thief River Falls attending the annual meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at Lon's restaurant in Thief River Falls will elect three members to the board of trustees and hear a discussion of self health education by Gary J. Adamson of Engelwood, CO.

Adamson is vice president of Swedish Health corporation and director of the Swedish Wellness center, affiliated with Swedish Medical center. It was established to increase the health awareness and status of the population in the center's service care area.

The center is considered the first hospital-based effort in the country to provide a comprehensive wellness program for the hospital's employees, local churches, community groups, schools and business, and for hospitals on a national basis.

In addition, SWC sponsors workshops on wellness program design and implementation and provides on-site consultation to other hospitals and business organizations. Adamson will be working with Northwestern hospital physicians and staff members while in Thief River Falls.

Nominated by the nominating committee or petition for the three terms available on the board of trustees are Clyde Christensen, Silas Hanson, Arve Moser, Ken Murphy, Frances Stromberg and Evadell Tangquist. Each trustee elected will serve a three-year term.

Mrs. Tangquist will be the only incumbent board member on the ballot Monday evening. Marvin Lundin has completed three terms on the board and under the by-laws of the association is ineligible for reelection. Andrew Skaar is eligible to serve another three-year term but has declined nomination. Mrs. Tangquist, secretary of the association, has served one three-year term and is the only woman board member.

Annual report of the hospital's operation will be presented by Gerald Spinner, assistant administrator and controller at the hospital. It will show 1981 fiscal year total operating revenue of $7,474,549 as compared with $7,053,451 for the 1980 fiscal year. The hospital's fiscal year ends April 30.

Operating expenses of $7,718,107 for the year, however, compared with $6,951,085 the year before, resulted in a loss from operations of $243,558 for the 1981 fiscal year. Net income a year ago was $102,366. Total non-operating revenue of $413,333 — including unrestricted gifts and grants of $63,135, investment income of $223,132 and rental income of $127,066 — resulted in excess of total revenues over expenses of $169,775.

The hospital had a beginning fund balance of $4,451,522 and ended the year with a fund balance of $4,634,104.

At the end of the fiscal year the hospital had total current assets of $1,951,200, other assets of $1,392,675 and land, buildings and equipment of $8,925,577 (less $3,549,170 accumulated depreciation) for total assets of $8,720,282.

Current liabilities of $883,636 were down from $1,074,471 a year ago with a long term debt reduced to $3,202,542 in 1981 from $3,310,875 in 1980.

Of total patient service revenue received by the hospital in 1981 of $7,951,714,

GUEST SPEAKER at the annual meeting of the Northwestern Hospital association Monday evening at Lon's restaurant in Thief River Falls will be Gary J. Adamson, director of the wellness center of Swedish Health corporation in Engelwood, CO. The center is considered the first hospital-based effort in the country to provide a comprehensive wellness program for the hospital's employees, local churches, community groups, schools and business.

Appoint Olson County Auditor

Kenneth Olson, deputy auditor in the office of Pennington county auditor for the past two years, was appointed by the county board of commissioners Tuesday to succeed C.W. Rodekuhr who has retired after 29 years in the auditor's chair.

Olson's appointment is for the remainder of Rodekuhr's term which expires on Dec. 31, 1982. The auditor's position is an elected office with the four-year term. The county board set Olson's salary at $1,644.50 per month for the remainder of 1981.

Prior to making the decision to appoint Olson to the unexpired term, the board received 14 applications, selected three applicants for personal interviews and narrowed the field to two people before making the final decision Tuesday.

Olson attended high school in Ada before enrolling at the University of Minnesota in Crookston, where he obtained his two-year degree in computer business systems. He began work at Arctic Enterprises in June of 1975 as a computer operator where he was employed for approximately three and one-half years.

Following this he worked with the Wikstrom telephone company before assuming the duties of deputy auditor in August of 1979 at the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls. He and his wife, Janet, have two children, Corey, 5 and LeAnn, 2.

"I hope to do the best job I can," Olson stated this morning. "Having Charley back working part-time in October will help."

The commissioners set two public hearing dates Tuesday, both scheduled for Tuesday, October 13. The first hearing at 2 p.m. will be on use of revenue sharing funds. The second at 7 p.m. will be to obtain public input regarding the future of the abandoned Oakland Park nursing home which served for a time as Oakland Hall dormitory. Anyone who has a viewpoint or an idea regarding the building is encouraged to attend the October 13 evening hearing. Both hearings are scheduled for the county courthouse.

Representatives of the Pennington soil and water conservation service appeared before the board to request that the county provide unemployment and workmen's compensation insurance coverage for employees of the district. The coverage is provided for under new law and was approved by the board. Also approved was the $16,500 budget request of the Northwest Regional library headquartered in Thief River Falls.

Resignation of Erling Torgerson as executive secretary of the Red Lake river watershed board was accepted but no successor was named. Approval was given to extra payment to Thygeson Construction company for county graveling in excess of the original contract.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Tammy Lynn Lerol And Dwight G. Johnson Wed

Tammy Lynn Lerol and Dwight George Johnson exchanged marriage vows recently at a four o'clock ceremony at the Silverton Lutheran church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Orlin Lerol and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Johnson of Thief River Falls.

Rev. Duaine Espeseth officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by approximately 250 relatives and friends. The pianist was Patti Nelson, who together with Kathy Kolden sang "The Rose," You Light Up My Life," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a gown of white organza styled with a fitted bodice featuring a sheer, embroidered V-yoke accented with a lace ruffle. Lace also accented her long, full sleeves which were gathered into a ruffled cuff. Her double-tiered skirt, trimmed with lace, flowed back into a cathedral-lenght train. A lace headpiece, etched with seed pearls, held her walking length veil, edged with the same lace that trimmed the gown. She carried a bouquet of red roses, pink daisies, white carnations and babies' breath.

Raelene Stern, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Becky Butts, Kelly Rugland and Nita Prestegaard, friends of the bride. The attendants wore gowns of misty pink and carried bouquets of pink carnations, white daisies and babies' breath.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Dave Johnson. Groomsmen were Wayne Sourdif, a cousin of the groom; Bruce Lerol and Danny Lerol, brothers of the bride. The groom wore a white tuxedo and his attendants were attired in burgundy tuxedos with white carnation boutonnieres, tipped in burgundy.

Ushers were Dean Dokkin, friend of the groom, and Steve Klaven, a cousin of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Lerol selected a blue dress accented with a corsage of red roses and white carnations. A similar corsage complemented the pink dress worn by the groom's mother.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Thief River Falls armory. Mrs. Henry Anenson and Mrs. Herman Dargus cut and served the wedding cake as Mrs. Clayton Klaven and Mrs. Alice Ulchek poured.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are now at home in Greendale Manor trailer court in this city. The groom is employed by Thief River Grain. Photo, Jim Solsten.

Girl Staters Speak At Legion Auxiliary Meet

Girl Staters were guest speakers at the meeting of the American Legion auxiliary held Tuesday evening, September 1, at the Legion club rooms.

Speaking to the group and telling of their experiences at Girls State were Sherry Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Peterson of Grygla, and Kathryn Kinsman, daughter of Mrs. Kathryn Kinsman of Thief River Falls. The third Girl Stater, Angie Berndt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Berndt of Goodridge, was unable to attend. The girls, who also expressed their appreciation to the auxiliary for the opportunity of attending Girls State, were introduced by Iola Johnson, chairman of that program.

President Lovanell Kraemer presided at the meeting and named the chairmen of the various committees for this year. They are JoAnn Reeve, education scholarship chairman; Eileen Horejsh, communications; Karen Fredrickson, community service; Octavia Jorgenson, legislative; Carol Christenson and Connie Driscoll, co-chairman of veterans affairs and rehabilitation; Gloria Lee, Americanism; LaVonne Haroldson, children and youth; and Joyce Fouler, poppy;

Also Senora Kay and Iola Johnson, co-chairmen of Girls State; Barbara Hoffman, energy and national defense; Avis Odegaard, leadership; Annette Contos and Connie Kuyath, junior leaders; Patty Smeby, LaVonne Haroldson and Avis Odegaard, junior directors; Betty Graff and Audrey Hermanson, sunshine; Peg Peterson and Nancy Prichard, music; Renette Leas, lunch; and Evelyn Homewood and Stella Thomas, home service and field service.

Mrs. Kraemer asked all chairmen to attend a planning meeting set for September 14 at 7:30 p.m., at the club rooms.

Annette Contos and Connie Kuyath stated that the first junior auxiliary meeting for this year will be held September 19. They urged all junirs to attend.

Plans were made for the membership tea to be held September 12 from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m., at the Legion club rooms. Members were encouraged to attend the tea, pay their dues and pick up their membership cards. Those who have already paid their dues were also encouraged to attend and were reminded to ask for their membership cards. Dues are juniors through age 17, $3.00; 18 years through 61, $10; and 62 and over, $7.00. A 1982 paid-up card entitles the member to a 10 per cent discount on their meals at the Legion club.

Announcements were also made that a membership rally will be held September 18 at Greenbush; and that Audrey Hermanson and Mrs. Floyd Johnson were the winners of the dinner tickets at the Legion booth at the Pennington county fair.

Special music at the meeting were two solos by Terri Cuppett. A joint dinner with members of the post preceded the meeting.

'81 MN Safety Conference Is September 17

The 1981 northern Minnesota safety conference will be conducted September 17 at the Radisson hotel in Duluth, according to the Minnesota safety council, sponsor for the event.

Conference sessions of interest to business and industry will include topics on what makes safety programs work, how the occupational safety and health act (OSHA) can save you money, what an injury means to small business, employee health programs and an update on OSHA safety standards which will go into effect this fall. In-depth sessions, recreational sports injuries and how the public can become involved in traffic safety programs will also be offered.

A highlight of the conference is a one-day seminar on prevention and control of back injuries, led by Leonard Ring, international expert on the topic from Auckland, New Zealand. Back injuries are the number one occupational injury to employees. Session will cover human factors engineering, functions of anatomy, cost and statistics on back injuries, mechanics of the spine, dynamics of lifting, and correct lifting methods.

A half-day cardiopulmonary resuscitation course will be conducted by the Northland chapter of the American Red Cross to assist business and industry to comply with Minnesota (OLHA) requirements for personnel trained in emergency medical procedures.

Other sessions of interest will be topics on safety of small cars, railroad grade crossing safety and an in-pool water safety demonstration. A two-day course will also be conducted to train instructors in the defensive driving course, an eight-hour classroom course for licensed drivers.

Registration is open to the public; conference programs and registration forms are available from the Minnesota Safety Council's general office at 555 Wabasha Street, Suite 102, St. Paul, MN 55102; or its northern area service office at 30 West Superior Street, Suite 500, Duluth, MN 55802.

from Lloyd Knutson, 1209 Labree Ave. N., regarding cattails near his property. Alderman Milan Borsheim noted that the problem was caused by high water resulting from a culvert under the tracks which was plugged with concrete. He stated that they were working to clear it, but until the water receded so that they could get some heavy equipment in there they couldn't do much.

—Set a hearing date for 7:30 p.m. September 29, to discuss extending water service from Eleventh to Tenth street on Dewey avenue.

—Raised the mileage rate for vehicles used on city business from 18 to 21 cents per mile, effective September 15.

—Approved a permit for the Teamsters to have beer in Oakland park September 13.

—Renewed a lottery permit for the Coin Club.

—Requested that county assessor Gerard DeHaan be present at the September 22 meeting to explain a request to extend 12th street west to the cemetery from Arnold avenue.

—Approved the final plat for M and J's Third Addition, owned by John Nelson, and located on Dawn avenue, north of the intersection of Sixth street and Highway 59.

—Approved progression raises for Jan Thorstad to $1,041; and for Amber Sollom to $1,026.

Lewis Alby Rites Held At Our Saviour's

Funeral services for Lewis Alby, 83, a resident of this city who lived at 301 South Conley, were held Tuesday at 10:00 a.m., at Our Saviour's Lutheran church. Alby died Friday evening at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Les Galland officiated at the services. Mrs. Arnold Hammer was the soloist and Mrs. Gary Erickson, the organist. Interment was in the Rindal cemetery, rural Thief River Falls, with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Ronald Alby, James Carlson, Kyle Gausen, Jeffrey Olson, Randy Olson and Phil Van Erem.

Lewis Alby, a son of the late Ole and Marit Sjosvold Alby, was born July 10, 1898 in New Solum township, Marshall county. He attended rural school in New Solum township and grew to manhood there.

On April 28, 1928, he was united in marriage to Mabel Thompson at Newfolden.

Alby was a carpenter for some time. Later, he worked for the Soo Line railroad as a pump repair man. He retired in 1961 as foreman of the bridge crew.

Surviving are his wife, three sons: Robert Alby, Heldsburg, Calif.; and Gerald and Lyle, both of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; four daughters: Mrs. Ronald (Darlene) Olson, East Grand forks; Mrs. Jack (Phyllis) Carlson, Duluth; Mrs. Larry (Karen) Gausen, Bemidji; and Mrs. James (Cynthia) Zacharias, Sisseton, S.D.; 21 grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Tina Nybo, Puyallup, Wash., and a brother, Martin Alby, Thief River Falls.

He was preceded in death by two sisters: Olga and Martina, and five brothers: Hjalmer, Joseph, Peter, Julius and Albert.

J. C. Ackerman Services Held At Hill City

James C. Ackerman, 65, a former Thief River Falls resident who was active in the furniture business in the Twin City area for many years, died Friday in Hill City after a two-year bout with cancer.

Funeral services for James Ackerman were held Tuesday at 2:00 p.m., at the Trinity Lutheran church in Hill City. Interment was in Fairview cemetery at Remer.

James C. Ackerman was born Sept. 28, 1915 in Thief River Falls.

A veteran of World War II, he served for 35 months in the Army Air Forces as a First Lieutenant. He served in England, Italy and France as a C-47 power pilot with the last Allied Airborne army. He participated in five major campaigns in the European theatre of operations, including the Normandy Invasion on D-Day, and the Invasion of Holland; and he was active in the air evacuation missions in Germany that liberated the Jews. The AAF awarded him the Distinguished Flying Cross, three Oak Leaf Clusters, the Presidential Unit Citation, five Bronze Stars and the Air Medal.

He opened Ackerman's Furniture in Richfield in 1947 and moved it to Bloomington in the early 1960s. When he sold the store about 10 years ago, he semi-retired and moved to Hill City. Since then he traveled often to Carver to help two sons: John and Jerry in Ackerman's Furniture service, which repairs and restores furniture, and Contract Designs, which designs offices.

He was a member of the German Shorthaired Pointer club and the American Kennel club.

Wm. Marciniak Dies Sat. In Grand Forks

William (Bill) Marciniak, 67, of this city died unexpectedly, Saturday afternoon while visiting relatives in Grand Forks, N.D.

Funeral Mass for William Marciniak was offered today (Wednesday) at 11:00 a.m., at St. Bernard's Catholic church with Rev. Stanley Bourassa and Rev. David Super as concelebrants. Christie LaCoursiere was the organist and Mrs. Judy Dupree, the song leader. Interment was in the church cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were grandsons: Miles Cornellie, Oscar Cornellie, David Cornellie, Mike Cornellie, Ricky Hinden, Kel Hinden, Kevin Hinden, Rodney Hinden, Jeff Emerson, Jim Emerson, Lee John Haugen, Jr., and Terry Marciniak.

William Max Marciniak was born Jan. 19, 1914 in Walsh county, near Grafton, N.D., to Edward and Lillian Klaba Marciniak, now deceased. He was baptized as an infant in the Oakwood Roman Catholic church. He attended school and grew to manhood in that area.

On May 19, 1935, he was married at Devils Lake, N.D., to Doris Rasmussen. The couple lived for several years at Drayton, N.D., before moving to Thief River Falls in 1956. Since then, they have made their home here.

Marciniak was employed at Fred's Mobile station for many years. Later he worked for 12 years at Arctic Enterprises, retiring in 1978, due to ill health.

He is survived by his wife, three sons: William Marciniak, Jr., of Halstad, Curtis of Blaine, and Dwight, Alvarado; five daughters: Mrs. Leo (Aurelia) Laundreville, Warren; Mrs. Melda Nelson, Mrs. Virginia Bustrack and Sharol Haugen, all of Thief River Falls; and Sharon Risdahl, East Grand Forks; 25 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are four brothers: Walter Marciniak, Elk River; Zigmunt, San Diego, Calif.; Edward, Drayton, N.D.; and Steve, Bosemont, N.D.; and four sisters: Mrs. August (Aurelia) DeClark, Detroit, Mich.; Elmira Marciniak, Grand Forks, N.D.; Stella Arneson, Salt Lake City, Utah; and Mrs. Ross (Cecelia) Landowski, Drayton, N.D.

Two grandchildren preceded him in death.

Local WCTU To Host State Meet Here Sept. 14-16

Thief River Falls Alice Mae Stuart Women's Christian Temperance Union will be hosting the 104th State convention in this city on September 14-16 at Our Saviour's Lutheran church. Guest speaker will be National WCTU treasurer Mrs. Margaret Gee of Evanston, Ill.

Registrations will be on Monday with Mrs. Olga Larson and Mrs. Gust Gustafson in charge. The convention will open officially at 7:30 p.m., with welcomes by President Mrs. Tarkel Ose and Mayor Bob Carlson, together with several other local dignataries.

Tuesday's sessions will be highlighted by a banquet at 6:30 p.m., at Our Saviour's Lutheran church. Speaking at the banquet will be National WCTU treasurer Margaret Gee, State director of the Youth Temperance Camp Mom Posten, and several youth who attended the camp. Special music will be provided by the Kings Men and a group of youth campers with Mrs. Floyd Dalzell as organist.

All sessions, including the banquet are open to the public. Meals during the convention will be available at the church.

Final plans for hosting the state meeting were made at the local meeting of the WCTU held September 4 at the Alfred Longren home. Mrs. Olga Larson was in charge of the devotional meditation. She read Colassians 4:1-6, stressing verse two, "Continue in Prayer. . ." She said it is absolutely certain that God will hear the prayers of His people. Though for wise and gracious purposes, the answer to those prayers may be delayed, yet it is absolutely certain they will be answered. Without prayer, a person can not gain the understanding that is needful to live a Christian life to its fullest."

President Mrs. Tarkel Ose presided at the meeting and also gave a report of the National WCTU convention held August 26-31 at Calvin college at Grand Rapids, Mich. She stated that at the Memorial service held at the convention, she paid tribute to the late Huldah Ripley and Hilda Wilson, former members of the local unit. Highlighting the service was the pageant, "The Cross and the Crown," emphasizing the need for younger members to continue the work begun by senior members.

Mrs. Kermit Edgar of Evanston, Ill., presided at the convention and gave the keynote address. She spoke of the changes that have taken place since the national convention was held in Grand Rapids in 1941. She said that although three wars have come and gone since that time, the WCTU warfare against beverage alcohol is still in effect. The WCTU purpose hasn't changed. Its cause for existence is as great today as it was when the union was organized 107 years ago. Its purpose, "The stand for total abstience for the individual and total elimination of beverage alcohol from society and the state," is still the Number One issue.

Her recommendations included daily morning devotions, continuance of noontime prayers for all WCTU work and workers; rededication in the education of the Nation's youth to the harmful effect of beverage alcohol, drugs and tobacco; increased subscription to the "Union Signal" and "The Young Crusader" for use in homes, churches, schools and doctors' offices; and keeping abreast of legislative developments and the continued expression of opinions to those in office;

Mrs. Edgar also stressed the importance of graining new members, especially young mothers, and the forming of new unions. She concluded by saying that like all other organizations, financial support was needed. She urged all unions to pay their dues promptly and encouraged the support of the national projects, the Lillian Stevens legislative fund, the Frances E. Willard organization fund, and the $50,000 club for education.

The theme of the convention was "Abundant Treasurers." Delegates were told that the local unit was the most important part of the state and national organization. The importance of setting goals, working towards that goal and letting the public know what the unit was doing was emphasized.

Mrs. Ose stated that at the report by the state presidents, Minnesota state president Mrs. Saari paid tribute to the Thief River Falls unit by reporting that the group had sent 25 young people to the Youth Temperance camp, that Mayor Bob Carlson had contributed $150 to enable three youth to attend, and that the Mayor and the Thief River Falls city council had signed the proclamation for Youth Temperance Education week.

Saturday evening's session was devoted to the importance of educating the youth and leading them to Christ, thus replacing their need for alcohol, drugs and a life of emptiness.

Sunday afternoon the conventionaires, were informed that there were 10 million problem drinkers in the United States, many between 14 and 17 years of age; that yearly cost to society is $43,000; that fifth percent of the accidents are alcohol related and that alcohol is the third leading cause of birth defects.

National treasurer, Margaret Gee, in her presentation, "A Garden of Treasurers," stated that membersship was the union's lifeline. She introduced the money tree project, stating that the funds will be used for hosting the World WCTU convention in Chicago in 1983.

The convention concluded with a banquet with the guest speaker, Dr. Kenneth Smith of Pittsburg, Pa., asking the WCTU to keep the "C" in WCTU. He stated that hedonism, pleasure and self-seeking has become a way of life and has caused confusion among the youth and controversy over right and wrong. In tracing the history of the WCTU, he noted that the prime focus has been on the principals of Christianity.

The convention also included essay, poaster and matron's speech contests. First place winners were from Illinois, Washington and Illinois, respectively. An organ concert by John Potter, featuring a sonata dedicated to General George Washington; and a bus tour of Grand Rapids were special events.

The 1982 National convention will be held in Syracuse, N.Y.

Collectors Should Consider Cost, Items

by David M. Maxfield
Smithsonian
News Service

Collectors starting out today might consider the following pointers offered by Edward P. Lawson, education director at the Smithsonian's Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden, and Jackson L. Blanton, an assistant vice president at the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond.

Decide how much you want to spend each year, then pinpoint what you might like to collect. 'Don't just go down and buy something because it looks nice,' Lawson cautions.

Study your field by visiting museums, talking with other collectors and dealers, reading the specialized literature and training your eye.

If someone tells you to buy a piece because it is going to go up in price--and you can't stand it--that is going to be a big mistake,' Lawson argues. 'First and foremost, the collector must love the object he is buying.

Buy from respectable sources; know who is selling to you.

Try to be ahead of the pack--remember the 19th-century collectors who bought those French impressionist paintings before the rest of the world caught on.

Don't buy anything at 'first blush.' At gallery openings, especially, there's always the danger of buying in opening-night fever.

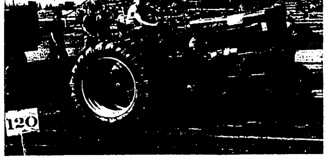
She has two brothers, Timmy, 18 and Eric, 16. She is being sponsored in the pageant by Berggren Insurance agency. Her talent presentation September 13 will be a vocal solo.

A humorous interpretation will be presented during the pageant by Gwen Gonsorowski, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Gonsorowski of rural Newfolden.

Gwen, a senior at Marshall County Central high school, is five feet two inches tall, weighs 130 pounds, has hazel eyes and light brown hair. She has two older brothers, Joe, 35, and Dexter, 30.

In high school, Gwen is active in speech and drama. In her spare time, she enjoys sewing, baking, talking with friends, swimming, reading and crocheting. She is also in 4-H and has been involved with various church groups.

Gwen presently works as the concessionaire at Old Mill state park. She is sponsored in the competition by Dean's Standard.



DON DUFNER of Buxton, ND, put his Model G John Deere through its paces in the out-of-field class of the tractor and pickup pull in Thief River Falls Saturday. Dufner won one of the classes with this entry but was bested by Gene Linder of Gatzke in another class.

War Prisoners Status Changed By Legislation

Former prisoners of war (POWs) held for a minimum of 30 days may now have certain disabilities accepted as service-incurred without furnishing medical proof, according to the Veterans Administration.

Morris Nooner, Jr., director of the VA Regional Office/Insurance Center at Fort Snelling, said that the 30-day imprisonment period is a change from the original six months.

Legislation recently enacted by Congress also waives the two-year period following service during which certain psychological disorders must manifest themselves in order to be service connected.

These and other changes are contained in the "Prisoner of War Health Care Benefits Act of 1981," signed into law by President Reagan August 14.

The new law is designed to meet needs of an estimated 100,000 former POWs. A joint Veterans Administration-Department of Defense study last year found these veterans have higher incidences of physical and psychological disabilities due to confinement, starvation diets, lack of medical care and inhumane treatment.

Nooner said that former POWs may also have experienced difficulties in establishing claims for service-connected disabilities due to inadequate repatriation examinations.

The legislation also creates an advisory committee on former POWs which will make biennial reports to the VA Administrator and Congress on problems about compensation, health care and rehabilitation.

Lakehead Gives Scholarships To Two From Area

A Viking student and a Thief River Falls student are among 13 who have been awarded scholarships this year under the higher education awards plan of Lakehead Pipe Line Company, Inc. The plan, established in 1965, provides scholarships for children of company employees and annuitants who have displayed a high degree of scholastic ability.

The Viking student is Patti Bjorgaard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold O. Bjorgaard. Bjorgaard is the maintenance man at Lakehead's Viking pumping station. Patti plans to study accounting at Thief River Falls Area Vocational Technical Institute.

The Thief River Falls student is Robert Houston, son of Robert E. Houston, senior pipeliner at Lakehead's pipeline maintenance headquarters, Bemidji. He is presently studying community service at Bemidji State University.

This will bring to 45 the number of sons and daughters of company employees and annuitants currently being sponsored in courses of higher learning by Lakehead in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan, and New York. Selection for the awards is made by an independent committee of college faculty members.

The firm also sponsors a plan of assistance for students not connected with the company, which this year will provide $57,800 to 13 mid-west colleges and 6 college foundations. Included in the recipients of such funds are Bemidji State University and the Minnesota Private College Fund.

Bomb Group To Hold Reunion In Colorado

More than 775 members of the 451st bomb group have been located by two members who set out to organize the first nation-wide reunion of the World War II group. That reunion was held in Chicago in August of 1980.

A second reunion is planned for August of 1982 in Colorado Springs, CO. Bob Karstensen and Peter Massare, who shared an interest in reunion of the 451st, have published a twice yearly newsletter and chartered the group as a non-profit veterans organization in the state of Illinois.

Former members or those who know of former members may contact Karstensen by writing 451st Bomb Group, Ltd., Marengo, IL 60152.

T. Roosevelt Musical At NCC Sept. 19

"Teddy Roosevelt," musical about one of America's most popular presidents, will be playing at the Northland community college theater in Thief River Falls, September 19 at 8 p.m. under the auspices of the Thief River Falls community arts council.

Produced by PART foundation of New York City, this new musical for young people and their families takes the audience through Roosevelt's first 24 years.

Author of "Teddy Roosevelt" is Jonathan Bolt, who has spent most of his theatrical life as an actor and who has had three of his full-length plays produced for the stage.

PART Foundation, is a non-profit organization. For the past 19 years PART has performed from coast to coast, entertaining over 6 and one-half million people in 43 states. PART is funded by the national endowment for the arts and the New York state council on the arts, among others, and has been commended for excellence by the American educational theatre association and endorsed by the New York city department of cultural affairs.

Social Security Men Here Tues.

Ted Hoversten and Neil Rowe, field representatives of the Grand Forks social security office will be in Thief River Falls at the city auditorium on Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Answers from the Bible by Pastor Don Peres

Q. Pastor Don, would you please write an article on what the Bible says about eternal security.

A. In the middle 1500's two men came to some strong disagreements upon the subject of eternal security.

The doctrine of eternal security, sometimes associated with the perseverance of the saints, is referred to as a Calvinistic doctrine. John Calvin taught from those scriptures declaring that eternal life is always connected with believing and encourages the believer to depend upon the work of Christ and the omnipotence of God.

Yet against this Calvinistic interpretation is Arminianism, so named after its founder Arminius, he taught that the final triumph of the Christin is dependent upon his own steadfastness and diligence; that although a child of God he can yet forfeit the gift of God by backsliding and apostasy.

John Calvin felt when the scriptures like John 3:16, John 3:36, John 4:14, John 5:24, John 6:40 just to name a few, used the words everlasting life, that it meant everlasting no matter what we did in our life style.

He clung to words like eternal life, forever, never perish, not condemned, names are written down in heaven, enter into the kingdom of God, gift of God, born again, sealed, etc. were promises to all those who believe in Christ, and could never lose them.

Arminius however felt very differently. He saw the warnings in the scriptures that were to Christians about falling away. He felt when scriptures like John 15:2 about every branch that beareth not fruit he taketh away or John 15:6 if a branch abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered, and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned or James 5:19 if any of you err from the truth unless brought back will die spiritually. II Peter 2:20-22, I John 3:8-10, Hebrews 10:38-39, die spiritually. II Peter 2:20-22, I John 3:8-10, Hebrews 10:38-39, Hebrews 6:1-6, Hebrews 10:26-31 he felt were warnings to Christians that they could lose their salvation.

I believe that the safest position to be in is to believe in the Lord Jesus Christ according to Acts 16:31, John 1:12, John 3:16, etc. Then do your best to deny yourself, take up your cross daily, and follow Jesus. Luke 9:23.

Do your best to live and be excited about the Lord, but always depend upon God's grace and not your good works to get you to heaven. Ephesians 2:8-9.

If you have any questions you would like to have answered from the Bible, please write Pastor Don Peres, Box 129, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Golden K Club To Tour Refuge Next Tuesday

Members of the Thief Fiver Falls Golden K Kiwanis club will be going on a guided tour of the Agassiz refuge Tuesday. The tour has been arranged by members of the club in cooperation with the staff of the refuge.

The tour group will assemble and leave Thief River Falls at 8 a.m. on Tuesday. Assembly area will be at Centennial park just east of the Eighth street bridge. Transportation has been arranged. The group will be met by a guide and lecturer who will lead the group through some of the outer reaches of the refuge where it is hoped that many of the interesting animals and birds of the refuge will be seen. Some of the on going programs of the refuge will also be explained.

Members of the tour group expect to return to Thief River Falls by noon. They are encouraged to bring cameras and binoculars. Members of the Thief River breakfast Kiwanis club have been invited to join the group if they wish. If any of them are going they should contact Quentin Jones, president of the Golden K. as soon as possible in order that adequate transportation will be available. Any retired person interested in joining the Golden K club may do so by contacting any of its members. Featured speaker at the September 22 meeting will be Sen. Marv Hanson of Hallock.

Family History Workshop Set September 26

Sixth annual family history workshop will be held 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. Saturday, September 26 in Comstock memorial union, Moorhead State University, open to anyone with interest in tracing family roots.

Two visiting genealogists will be featured: Eric Jonasson, Winnipeg author of "The Canadian Genealogists Handbook" and "Tracing Your Icelandic Family Tree"; and Maralyn Wellauer, a lecturer and author from Milwaukee who's written over a half dozen books on tracing European family roots, including "A Guide to Foreign Genealogical Research."

To register, contact the university's continuing education division at 236-2181. Cost is $10, which includes lunch if registrations are in by September 21.

The workshop will include small group sessions for beginners and advanced sessions for more experienced genealogists, on topics from basic research to sifting through records and writing family histories. Specialists in several areas of genealogy will host information booths around the student union.

New this year, area residents may submit printed family histories or genealogies for a family history purchase award. Entries should contain information of regional interest and must be received at MSU by Sept. 15.

Third Payment Due Sept. 15 On Income Tax

Third installment of estimated federal tax payments on 1981 individual income is due by September 15, the Internal Revenue service says.

This installment should be paid using "Declaration of Estimated Tax for Individuals."

Taxpayers whose anticipated income changed during 1981 may have to file an amended declaration. Space is provided in the estimated tax package to cumpute an amended estimate.

For more information, IRS Publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax," is available free by calling the toll free IRS forms-tax information number, 1-800-652-9062.

Viewers Pledge $93,351 For PBS Television

Some 1,691 callers pledged $86,394 to Prairie Public Television during Ten Good Nights On The Tube, Prairie Public Television's annual August membership drive. The average pledge was $51.09.

Canadian viewers pledged $38,550 during the fund-raiser, with the remaining $47,844 pledged by viewers in North Dakota, Minnesota and South Dakota. An additional $6,957, unpledged over the phone, had been received in the mail to raise the Ten Good Nights On The Tube total to $93,351.

Goal for the ten-day membership drive was $100,000. Prairie Public Television general manager Dennis Falk optimistically noted that "although we didn't reach our goal during our pledge breaks, there's a good chance that we'll raise the $100,000. Quite often viewers who don't call will send us a membership check — that mail has brought in nearly $7,000 already and that mail is still coming in."

Falk continues, "This fund drive was the first one we've held since the financial cutbacks were announced by the federal government — that's something we'll continue to stress in future fund drives."

Programs bringing in the most telephone calls were The '50's: Moments To Remember; Gala Of Stars 1981; and Austin City Limits: Willie Nelson.

Prairie Public Television's next fund drive is scheduled for the end of November and the first week of December.

"Outstanding" Young Men Are Named Locally

Randall G. Adamson, Timothy James Wang and Rockford E. Ammerman, all of Thief River Falls, have been selected for inclusion in the 1981 edition of the biographical compilation, "Outstanding Young Men of America".

The program, which is endorsed by the United States Jaycees, recognizes the achievements and abilities of men between the ages of 21 and 36, and honors them for their outstanding civic and professional contribution to their communities, states and nation. Their complete biographies will appear in the book.

Using their voluntary service to community, professional leadership, academic achievement, business advancement, cultural accomplishments, and civic and political participation as criteria, they were selected from nominations received from senators, congressmen, governors, mayors, state legislators, university and college presidents and deans, as well as various civic groups.

The U.S. joined the International Labour Organization in 1934, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's "Important Events in American Labor History.

Earlier Price Notice Given In Milk Orders

Under changes the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is making in 29 federal milk marketing orders, milk processors and dairy farmers will know earlier the price paid for milk used to make ice cream, yogurt and cottage cheese.

Preliminary estimate of milk prices will tell proprietary and cooperative handlers and dairy farmers by the 15th day of the prior month what the cost of the milk used for these manufactured dairy products will be during the month of manufacture. Previously, there was no firm indication of the milk price until the month was over, said Herbert L. Forest of USDA's agricultural marketing service.

New procedures, which went into effect September 1, were approved by more than the required number of affected farmers — two-thirds or three-fourths — for each marketing order. Federal law requires that producers approve amendments to milk orders.

"Handlers will learn the final price no later than the fifth day of the next month," Forest said. "And this price can't be less than the Class III price for that same month."

Under the orders, farmers actually receive one payment that is a "blend" of three milk classes based on how the handlers use the milk. Class I milk — the highest valued milk — is used for drinking. Class II prices cover milk that is used to make such products as yogurt, cottage cheese and ice cream. Class III is for lower valued milk used to make butter, hard cheese and nonfat dry milk.

Determination of producer approval under each of the 29 milk marketing orders followed a public hearing, held in Clayton, MO, in August 1980, and other USDA rule-making steps that gave the public a chance to take part in the decision-making, Forest said. The hearing was forced by an order of the U.S. Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia, which ruled the existing way of announcing prices was invalid. The court acted in a suit brought by a group of handlers.

The 29 milk orders that are affected by the new procedure are: St. Louis-Ozarks, Georgia, Tennessee Valley, Chicago Regional, Southern Illinois, Louisville-Lexington–Evansville, Indiana, Central Illinois, Greater Kansas City, Nebraska-Western Iowa, Upper Midwest, Neosho Valley, Wichita, Eastern South Dakota, Iowa, New Orleans-Mississippi, Greater Louisiana, Memphis, Nashville, Paducah, Fort Smith, Red River Valley, Oklahoma Metropolitan, Central Arkansas, Lubbock-Plainview, Texas, Central Arizona, Texas Panhandle and Rio Grande Valley.

A copy of the new procedure is available from the market administrators for the orders or from: Dairy Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

ONE OF EIGHT candidates in the annual Miss Brooks competition planned during the Blast to Brooks celebration this Saturday is Charlene Rysavy, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rysavy of Red Lake Falls. While attending Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls, Charlene has been a member of the band and choir, and has participated in cheerleading and speech. She enjoys roller skating, swimming, biking, dancing and waterskiing. She has stated that she would like to someday study astronomy. She is sponsored in the competition by Brooks elevator. ON OCTOBER 1 YOU CAN CONVERT YOUR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES INTO OUR TAX-BREAK CERTIFICATES WITH NO PENALTY.

After October 1 you can convert your current savings certificate into a Tax-Break Certificate, even if it's not mature yet, with no penalty for early withdrawal. But it must meet these requirements:

1) The maturity date of your current certificate must fall within a year of the day you convert it into a Tax-Break Certificate,
2) the interest rate you're currently earning must be equal to or higher than the current Tax-Break Certificate rate,* and
3) your current certificate must be with our bank.

Even if you don't already have a certificate you may want to look into investing in a 26-week certificate now. So you can earn high interest rates now (last week's rate was 15.896%). Then convert it after October 1 with no penalty into a Tax-Break Certificate to take advantage of the tax exclusions.*

Up to $2000 interest exclusion

Simply put, with our Tax-Break Certificate, you keep what you earn. Because it gives couples filing a joint return a total lifetime exclusion of up to $2000 from their Federal income tax. Those filing single returns can exclude up to $1000 interest from Federal income tax.

A low-minimum, one-year investment

With just $500 you can invest in the Tax-Break Certificate and receive a high return on your investment. You're guaranteed your high rate for the life of the certificate.

Look at the example chart to get an idea of the type of return you can expect. Find your income level or tax bracket, then find the equivalent interest rate you'd have to earn before taxes with any other investment to equal the returns from our Tax-Break Certificate.

The Tax-Break Certificate matures one year from the date of purchase, and is fully insured up to $100,000 by the FDIC.

So is it right for you?

Frankly, that depends on a number of factors. First, remember that your money is tied up for one year in the Certificate. And if you choose to withdraw or borrow against your certificate before it matures, you lose the tax advantage and will incure the substantial penalty for early withdrawal.

Second, and most important, if your 1982 tax bracket is less than 30%, you may not find the Tax-Break Certificate that beneficial. In that case, you'd probably be better off to invest in some other type of certificate, such as our 26-week certificate.

Confused? Today most people are. Especially since many banks and savings and loans have been promoting these certificates with all kinds of incentives. Add to that confusing Governmental statements that have raised doubts about the eligibility of the tax benefits of these certificates when combined with incentives.

What to do? Talk to us. We'll explain our Tax-Break Certificate to you, and even explain the deals the other financial institutions are offering. Then we'll help you decide what's right for you.

Because, after all, we've been telling you we're on your side for quite a few years. And we still mean it.

*The depositor and bank must agree to this conversion. Only the interest on a converted certificate earned after conversion can be considered for a tax exemption. Interest earned prior to conversion is still taxable.

Net amount subject to Federal income tax after deductions and exemptions.

The Tax-Break Certificate rate is based on 70% of the most recent 52-week Treasury Bill investment yield. The 10.17% rate is based on the Treasury Bill rate as of August 6. This percentage disregards effect for state tax.

Substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal on Tax-Break Savings Certificates.

Task Force on State Finance

Last week I appointed a Task Force on State Finance, composed of experts in finance and management from private industry and higher education, to fully investigate the Minnesota financial system.

This group, chaired by Edward Foster, associate dean of the School of Management, University of Minnesota, will begin work immediately to review our existing processes and make recommendations for improvements.

The charge I outlined for this task force at its first meeting is three-fold.

First, to review fully the operation of the state finance department and interagency finance systems. This will be the task force's greatest responsibility. They should examine the management, personnel, planning, budgeting, accounting and reporting procedures of the department. They will also investigate how the finance department relates to the revenue department and the Legislature.

Second, to critique procedures used by the state in projecting revenues. In the last 18 months our current system has cast serious doubts on the state's ability to accurately forecast revenues. We are now in the third month of a new biennium. If any changes must be made in our revenue projections, they should occur as soon as possible so subsequent adjustments can be made in our budget.

Third, to identify qualifications and possible candidates for a new commissioner of finance. The resignation of Commissioner of Finance Wayne Burggraaff left vacant a critical position in state government.

Through the work of this task force I hope we will be able to restore credibility in the Department of Finance's revenue projections and move ahead with confidence. Only with good, reliable figures will we be able to continue with our goals of reducing the size and spending of state government and allowing the private sector to grow and prosper.

Independents Verdi and Beardsley must have a winning percentage equal to their qualifying game opponent — the Pheasant Conference champion — if it is to be involved in a post-season game.

Qualifying game pairings are as follows:

Upper bracket — Northern Lights - Top of the State winner vs. North Tri-County; Agassiz North vs. Agassiz South; Longbow vs. St. Louis County; and Heartland vs. Little Eight.

Lower bracket — Pheasant vs. Verdi or Beardsley or Bye; Mini vs. Circle Eight; Buffalo Ridge vs. Red Rock; and Border East vs. Border West.

Changes find two former Class C conferences now becoming affiliated with the nine-man division. They are the Top of the State and Red Rock conferences. Other changes find the Buffalo Ridge becoming a new conference of schools in the southwestern part of the state and the Border League has split into two divisions.

Hoffman-Kesington is the defending champion.

Attendance

Sometime during the 1981 state playoffs attendance will surpass the half-million mark. Through its first nine years state playoff total attendance is 458,473. the highest single year figure was 74,669 in 1978. Last year's attendance for the playoff games was 60,172.

Rep. Nysether Wants Session To Reapportion

Rep. Myron Nysether, District 1A, has requested that Governor Al Quie call the legislature into special session to deal with reapportionment of the state's congressional and legislative districts in a timely and orderly fashion.

"I feel that this is a matter of fundamental importance for our representative form of government," Nysether said. "The legislature has a constitutional responsibility to develop and pass a reapportionment plan to reflect population changes and shifts which have been indicated by the recent census, and this should be accomplished this fall, well in advance of the Minnesota precinct caucuses held in February," Nysether added.

"I realize that the reapportionment issue is always a touchy one politically because one party, or the other, may lose strength due to population changes, but the issue is also of fundamental significance to our governmental system," Nysether said. "The people have a right to expect that partisan political consideration will be set aside so that the requirements of the Constitution can be carried out."

Reapportionment may mean a larger voice in the legislature for outstate and small-town Minnesota. The suburbs and some of the outstate towns and areas have gained population while the inner cities have lost.

"The Governor should call a special session to deal with reapportionment, and the legislature should do its constitutional duty," Nysether said. The DFL leadership of the legislature may not be ready to assume its responsibilities, but I believe the people are ready to see that reapportionment is accomplished properly and expeditiously."

Football Playoff Format Altered

Word was received this week from the Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) that the overall won-lost record will be used to determine which of the three area independents — Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks and Crookston — will be eligible to participate in the 1981 Minnesota State High School League Class A state football playoffs.

With the demise of the Northwest Athletic Conference after the 1980 season, Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks and Crookston will be playing as Class A independents this fall while Bemidji and Fergus Falls play as Class AA independents.

In Class A, 13 conference champions will earn post-season MSHSL state playoff berths. They'll be joined by either Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks or Crookston, along with a fourth Class A independent — LaCrescent, if the Lancers win the Wisconsin Coulee Conference in which they play.

Should a tie develop in the final records of Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks and Crookston, results from among the three area rivals will determine the post-season qualifier. Only hitch is that the team with the best record must be over .500 to make the playoffs.

The playoff-qualifying format for Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks and Crookston adopted by the MSHSL differs from the plan suggested by the Class A football forum held last January that said the Thief River Falls-East Grand Forks-Crookston playoff qualifier would be "the team with the best success in play against each other," providing they have a better than .500 record.

Thief River Falls appears to be at a disadvantage under the MSHSL playoff format because of the Prowlers' 1981 schedule that includes Grand Forks Red River, Detroit Lakes, Grand Rapids, Staples, Moorhead, Bemidji, Fergus Falls, East Grand Forks and Crookston. The Green Wave, meanwhile, play Grand Forks Central, Grand Forks Red River, Rugby, Langdon, Breckenridge, Crookston, Devils Lake, Thief River Falls and Fergus Falls. The Pirates, the defending Class A state champions, play West Fargo, Grand Forks Central, Park Rapids, Fergus Falls, Hillsboro, East Grand Forks, Barnesville and Thief River Falls and also have an open date prior to closing out against the Prowlers.

Bemidji and Fergus Falls join Moorhead as Class AA independents this fall. One of those three teams will qualify for a playoff game spot only if they finish unbeaten or with just one loss, or if their number of losses do not exceed the number of losses suffered by one of the eight Class AA conference champions.

Northmen Host Royals Saturday

It'll be a football doubleheader weekend on the Thief River Falls athletic field Friday and Saturday with Lincoln high school hosting Detroit Lakes Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Northland community college entertaining Golden Valley Lutheran Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

The Prowlers will be trying to correct the mistakes they made — especially on the specialty teams — in a 29-0 season-opening loss at Grand Forks Red River last Friday. Detroit Lakes dropped a 21-0 game to Fergus Falls that night.

The Northmen, meanwhile, will be opening their 1981 season against the Royals, and they couldn't have found a tougher task. Golden Valley Lutheran has been the class of the Minnesota junior college athletic association (MJCAA) Northern Division in recent years, winning three of the past four division titles. They were 7-2-1 a year ago, and apparently have enough talent to shoot for another pennant.

Golden Valley Lutheran is two-deep at quarterback with sophomores Tom Hill and Matt Wente, who was the starter last year until an injury gave Hill the job. Wente is the better passer and Hill is the better runner. They have a top-notch target in wide receiver Ken McCullum, a gamebreaker.

But the Royals' real strength rests with their defense, which is reportedly good enough to equal last year's club record of allowing just 40 points in eight division games. Strong safety Tim Robinson was an all-region pick in 1980 and cornerback Charles Rucker was all-conference. Both have blistering speed. Rick Lunderholm, a 6-5, 265-pounder, was an all-region tackle.

Not that the offense will be all that shabby. In addition to Wente and Hill, the Royals have fullback Tony Shanley back and top freshmen include Eric Nelson of Wayzata, who played in the 1981 high school all-star game, and a pair of huge tackles: Jerry Fox, 6-8, 275; and Mike Griffin, 6-3½, 265.

While Golden Valley Lutheran has been handling Northern Division foes, the Royals haven't fared as well against Southern Division opponents in the MJCAA state playoff game, losing all three post-season starts.

Two years ago Golden Valley Lutheran blew a 28-14 lead over Normandale and lost the title game 35-28. Last season the Royals led Rochester 14-3 in the third quarter, only to lose 24-14.

"One good thing about losing (the MJCAA playoff game), is that we still have a strong incentive to win the state championship," Royals coach Dave Skrien philosophized. "We figure if we keep getting there, we're eventually going to win it."

Miscellaneous

+Bemidji high school football team opened its 1981 season Friday with a 28-0 win over Crosby-Ironton as Troy Hendricks rushed for 201 yards and scored two touchdowns in his first start at tailback. Bemidji observers are concerned, however, with the large number of personnel losses. The junior class lost 16 of last year's 38 players, with only two of them moving, and just 18 of last year's 34 freshmen reported this fall.

+Bemidji, expected to battle Thief River Falls for area high school cross country honors this fall, won the season-opening Moorhead invitational Saturday with a 71-79 victory margin over runner-up Jamestown, N.D. John Kreig of Fargo South won the 5,000-meter race in 17:25, followed by Mike Thomas of Moorhead in 17:32 and Steve Lumlar of Bemidji in 17:35.

A PAIR OF 8½-pound walleyes were taken from below the dam in Thief River Falls during the Labor Day weekend. Wally DuChamp (top) caught his lunker Saturday morning, with the fish hitting a minnow about 9 a.m. Sid Brouse landed his prize Monday night as the fish went after a frog about 8 p.m.

Prowlers, Lakers Look For First Points, Win

Two teams who were shut out in their 1981 season openers will be trying to break into the scoring and win columns Friday when Thief River Falls hosts Detroit Lakes in a 7:30 p.m. high school football game that will serve as the Prowlers' home opener.

Thief River Falls suffered a 29-0 defeat at the hands of Grand Forks Red River Friday afternoon, with Detroit Lakes losing a 21-0 decision to Fergus Falls that night.

A big part of the Prowlers' problem against the Roughriders was their performance in punting situations where poor center snaps either sailed over or bounced to the punters. Six times the Prowlers tried to punt and they met disaster every time.

Thief River Falls' coach John Schmitz was upset with the situation at the time, but now he takes most of the blame for the problems that surfaced. "The mistake was mine for not spending more time finding someone who we would have been more comfortable with," he explained.

Naturally there was some time spent in practice this week seeking a new center for the long snaps, and sophomore Scott Johnston appears to have earned a shot at the job. Others who are able to get the ball back on the snaps are Brent Schmitz, the team's No. 1 quarterback, and Rick Langlie, the punter.

In addition to the kicking game, the Prowlers will have to improve upon their offensive performance. Some changes have been made in the offensive line to improve upon a ground game that wasn't effective against a strong Red River defense.

The switch finds Mark Harder moving from center to tackle, with Jim Hallamek moved into the starting line-up at center. Hallamek was slated as a starter last week, but was bumped when Harder got a pre-game okay from the officials to wear a special pad that covers a wrist he broke last winter playing hockey. He had the cast removed just prior to the start of practice.

Dillon at fullback.

The change up front was made to make the Prowlers stronger at tackle, said Schmitz. "We feel it will make us a better football team," he said.

Defensively, Dillon and Kainz will be at the ends, Ness and Bondy at tackles, Upham, Harder, Hallamek and Jorstad will be the linebackers, Grochow will be the safety, with sophomore Rick Spong moved into the starting unit to join Imgrund at a cornerback. Hallamek, a junior, is the only other underclassman in starting the line-up.

"Our defense played well," said Schmitz about the Prowlers' play against Red River. "Our linebackers were performing well. We have to play aggressive defense to be effective."

Detroit Lakes will test the Prowlers' pass defense, according to scouting reports, with quarterback Dan Douglas and end Todd Jorgenson giving the Lakers a potentially strong passing combination.

"We expect them to throw the ball a lot," warned Schmitz. "We still feel defense will have to be our strong point. We're working on our offense, hoping it will come around. It's something that just seems to be taking more time. We had a lot of breakdowns against Red River, but the middle of the Red River defense played so well we have to give them a lot of credit."

Thief River Falls beat Detroit Lakes 32-21 a year ago, but the Lakers have won on their last two trips here - taking a 13-10 victory homein 1977 and winning by a 13-6 margin in 1979.

The Prowlers tackle Grand Rapids next Friday. Results of other future Thief River Falls opponents' games last week saw Grand Rapids shut out Duluth Denfeld 28-0, Staples lost to St. Cloud Cathedral 6-2, Moorhead fell to Fargo South 20-14, Bemidji shut out Crosby-Ironton 28-0, East Grand Forks dropped a 14-7 double-overtime decision to Grand Forks Central and Crookston downed West Fargo 26-14. This week Grand Forks Red River is at East Grand Forks, Grand Rapids is at Duluth East, Staples is at Perham, Moorhead hosts Fargo North, Bemidji entertains Little Falls, Fergus Falls is at home against Alexandria and Crookston hosts Grand Forks Central.

Grade School Cross Country Fun Run Set September 17

Second annual elementary school fun run conducted by Thief River Falls cross country coach Lynn Dyer will be held Thursday, September 17, starting at 4 p.m. behind Franklin middle school.

The event is open to all boys and girls in grades 3-6.

"The purpose of the fun run is to give the elementary students some exposure to cross country running," explained Dyer. There were 165 fun run participants last year, and Dyer's goal for the 1981 event is 300 runners.

Ribbons will be awarded to all fun run participants, with the individual winner of each boys and girls race also receiving a T-shirt that says "1981 Elementary Fun Run Champion." Team points will also be kept to determine a building champion in each grade for boys and girls.

Third and fourth grade runners will compete over a one-half mile course. fifth and sixth grades will cover three-fourths of a mile. Races have been shortened since last year.

Order of events will find the third grade girls starting at 4 p.m.; third grade boys 4:15; fourth grade girls 4:30; fourth grade boys 4:45; fifth grade girls 5 p.m.; fifth grade boys 5:20; sixth grade girls 5:40; and sixth grade boys 6 p.m.

Awards will be presented to each class following the completion of their races for both boys and girls.

Signs will be posted at the race site for each school so runners will know where to gather before and after the race. After runners cross the finish line they will receive a card that has a number on it, representing their place in the meet. After receiving the card they should report to their assigned area and give the card to the person recording names and places for their building. The information will then be turned in at the scoring table.

High school cross country runners teachers from each building will aid in running the meet.

In order to pay for the awards and other meet costs the Lincoln high school cross country team will hold a chili feed Monday, September 14, from 5 to 7:30 p.m. at the American Legion. Chili and crackers, along with a hot dog and beverage will be served for $2. Parents of elementary school students planning to take part in the fun run are urged to attend the chili feed to help pay for the meet costs.

For additional informatin on the fun run or Monday's chili feed, contact Dyer at 681-2700, extension 325.

Prowlers Post 3-2 Win Over Indians

A sweep in doubles helped Thief River Falls beat Mahnomen 3-2 Tuesday in a high school tennis match played here that kept the Prowlers unbeaten in four dual meet starts this fall.

Mahnomen took two of the three singles matches, but the Prowlers' Christie LaCoursiere and Michelle Olson handled Jackie Wamback and Shirley Goos 6-0, 6-0 at No. 1 doubles, while Nancy Swanson and Marsha Erickson outplayed Niki Wamback and Karen Colligan 6-1, 6-0 at No. 2 doubles.

The defending Region 8A champion Indians were ranked No. 8 in the Class A tennis coaches association poll.

Thief River Falls was a 6-0 winner over Mahnomen in junior varsity competition.

The Prowlers will compete in an eight-team, two-day invitational tournament at Brainerd this weekend, with matches scheduled to start Friday at 5 p.m. and Saturday at 9 a.m. Joining the Prowlers and host Warriors will be Blue Earth, Coon Rapids, Hastings, Lakeville, Hutchinson and White Bear Lake. Blue Earth in the No. 3 rated team in Class A, with White Bear Lake holding down a similar position in Class AA and Coon Rapids rated No. 11.

Northmen, Royals Meet In 1:30 p.m. MJCAA Football Game

Northland Tackles Division Power Golden Valley Lutheran In Opener

Golden Valley Lutheran, winner of 19 straight Minnesota junior college athletic association (MJCAA) Northern Division football games, will be the opening day test for Northland community college Saturday when the Northmen kick off their sixth season with a 1:30 p.m. confrontation with the Royals on the Thief River Falls athletic field.

John Helley, beginning his second year as Northland head coach, recognizes the challenge Golden Valley Lutheran presents. He watched a year ago when the Royals blasted the Northmen 43-0. It was typical of the series between the two team, a lopsided series to date that has seen Golden Valley Lutheran out-score Northland 214-3 in five previous meetings. The Royals won 62-0 in 1976, 28-0 in 1977, 47-0 in 1978 and 34-3 in 1979. However, Helley said the Northmen won't be in awe of the Royals.

"We're going to face the toughest team we'll see this season," admitted Helley, "but we're glad it's our first game. The kids are looking forward to playing Golden Valley Lutheran. If our guys play as hard as they're capable of playing I think we'll do well."

Northland's probable opening day line-up has a definite Thief River Falls flair for a change, with Lincoln high school graduates holding down 10 of the 22 starting positions on offense and defense.

Three of the four starters in the wishbone backfield will be former Prowlers, including freshman quarterback Scott Wiebolt, sophomore fullback John Dillon and freshman halfback Darcy Harbott. Sophomore halfback Mike Punton of Baudette will round out the backfield.

Three other Thief River Falls graduates will be in the offensive line where Dave Kays will be the center, Rick Gobell and Greg Harder the tackles. All three are freshmen. Others expected to start in the line are freshmen Ken Demarais of Fisher and freshman Kevin Kundert of Winger at guards, sophomore Dave Gorski of Lancaster at tight end and either Jeff Westberg of Warren, a converted quarterback, or Ken Crouch of Inkster, Mich. at a wide receiver. They are both sophomores.

Four Lincoln alumni starting in the 4-4 defense will be Dean Dokken at an end, Marty Senanko and Steve Jorstad at Linebackers and Jon Stimac as defensive back. All four are freshmen.

Northland was 1-7-1 a year ago, but Helley expects a big improvement this fall. "I think we're strong at every position this year. Man-for-man I think we'll be a better ball club than we were last year," said Helley.

In 1980 the Northmen generally played solid defense but had troubles on offense. With a number of Thief River Falls players familiar with Northland's wishbone attack similar to that used by the Prowlers, Helley expects Northland's offense to be greatly improved. They're minus a number of individuals on defense, but Helley says the potential is there to field another strong defensive team.

In other season-opening Northern Division games Saturday, Mesabi will be at Fergus Falls for a 1:30 p.m. game while 7:30 p.m. kickoffs will feature Vermilion at Hibbing and University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) at Itasca.

Northland visits Crookston next Saturday.

Fall Clinic, Season Registration; Skate Exchange . . .

TRF Recreational Skating Regstration Is Sept. 17

Thief River Falls recreational skating program will hold its annual registration for the fall clinic and season skating, along with a skate exchange Thursday, September 17, from 4 to 9 p.m. at the city auditorium.

Offering skating for all ages, the recreational skating program fall clinic will start Monday, October 19. Splitting ice time with the Thief River Falls amateur hockey association (TRFAHA), the recreational skating program will have clinic classes Monday, Wednesday and Friday during the first and third weeks, and will go to Wednesday and Thursday during the second and fourth weeks, with a test session scheduled Thursday, November 12.

Classes offered during the clinic and on Tuesdays and Thursdays during the season include:

1. United States figure skating association (USFSA) basic test program — consisting of the 12 badges taught in the past. Clinic fee is $3.50; season fee $3.50.

2. Precision line — consists of precision skating to music. There will be two lines, and both lines will perform at hockey games and in the ice show. They will meet every day during the clinic and on Thursday evenings for lesson time with the professionals. Extra practices will be scheduled in preparation for a performance. Practice sessions are generally held before school in the mornings, or on Tuesdays before games. To be eligible a skater must have passed Badge 8 of the basic test program. You may be required to furnish a costume. Clinic fee is $3.50; season fee $3.50.

3. Beginning dance, patch and freestyle — a continuation of the basic test program leading to official USFSA testing — real achievement. The skaters must have Badge 9 to sign up. In most cities private lessons are necessary to complete these tests. However, the first test series will be offered here as a group lesson. Skaters are strongly encouraged to try the classes as they near completion of the basic 12 badges. Additional information will be made available to those who sign up for the classes. Clinic fee is $3.50; season fee $3.50.

4. Power skating — offered only during the clinic. Individuals must be fairly strong skaters and must be able to skate on edges to participate. Classes will be divided by ability and age. Clinic fee is $3.50.

5. Private lessons — available on a first-come basis to those skaters who enjoy learning more skills than can be covered in a group lesson, or for individuals who need help working out particular problems. Fees will be paid to the professional. Lessons will be held during the day on Thursdays, and students may be excused from school to receive the lessons. Some private time may also be available during the evening hours. If interested, sign up with Jan Nelson at the registration.

Parents, in registering their children for the clinic or the season program, should know the last badge their child passed and approximately what time of the day they would like to attend class. You will be asked to sign up for a class time and for the clinic. A week before the clinic a class schedule will be posted at the arena, in the schools and in The Times.

Skaters not planning to attend the clinic, but who will be taking part in the recreational skating program this season should still register Sept. 17. If you are unable to register that day, you may do so at the park and recreation department office located in the Municipal Service Center on highway 59, with the program director or with any recreational skating board member. Fees must be paid at the registration.

Recreational skating is a park board sponsored program administered by a paid program director and a nine-member skating board representing all levels of skating. Meetings are held approximately once a month, or as needed. Each board member has a small assigned job to help keep the program cost down, enabling all children and adults to skate. Additional volunteer help is also utilized. Persons interested in helping with the program in any way are invited to contact the program director or one of the board members during the registration.

Jan Nelson is the recreational skating program director, telephone 681-7139. Board members include Jan Fessler, 681-6092; Mike Lee, 681-1169; Nancy Tofte, 681-2133; Linda or Earl Lorenson, 681-6053; Rick Thomton, 681-3686; and Ila Anderson 681-2056.

There is also a skating club in Thief River Falls. Persons interested in joining the club are invited to contact Ray Nelson at 681-7139, or Ila Anderson at 681-2056. They'll provide you with more detailed information.

MIDDLE RIVER ball carrier Doug Kilen picked up big yardage before being brought down by a pair of Oklee defenders Friday in a North Tri County Conference nine-man high school football game played at Oklee. It was billed as a match-up of conference title-contenders, but the Skippers came out an easy 36-6 winner. Middle River faces another key early-season confrontation Friday afternoon when the Skippers' 1981 home opener will feature Clearbrook, rated with Middle River as co-favorites in North Tri County Conference play at this point in the season. Prowlers Win Opener . . .

Cross Country Teams Triumph

Thief River Falls was an easy winner in both the boys and girls varsity races Tuesday as the Prowlers opened their 1981 cross country season by participating in the Roseau invitational.

In the boys' portion of the meet, Thief River Falls was a winner with 24 points, followed by East Grand Forks 43, Roseau 101 and Crookston 135, with Grafton fielding an incomplete team.

It was an even easier triumph for the Thief River Falls girls who won with 25 points, followed by Crookston with 66 and Roseau 106, with East Grand Forks running on incomplete line-up.

"Overall, I felt our runners had a good day," reported Thief River Falls coach Lynn Dyer. "We came home with two team trophies, five medals and ten ribbons. Needless to say the kids were pretty happy."

Ted Sundin of East Grand Forks ran a 17:31 to win the 3.2-mile boys race. Thief River Falls pretty much dominated the rest of the top ten places as Bruce Johnson placed second with a 17:39; Lon Aune, third, 17:56; Steve Kruta, fourth, 18:17; Matt Grabanski, seventh, 18:59; Todd Broadwell, eight, 19:04; and Tim Bergland, ninth, 19:12.

It was the same type of performance for the Thief River Falls girls. Robin Skoglund of Roseau won the two-mile race in 13:01, but the Prowlers took six of the next nine places as Susie Hanna finished second in 13:06; Kristy Forsberg, third, 13:49; Julie Finstad, fifth, 14:43; Jessica Soine, seventh, 14:51; Jackie Thune, eighth, 14:53; and Sherry Sabo, tenth, 15:01.

"The times were a little slower than last year," admitted Dyer, "but the course is a little longer, too, so I think that's where the difference comes from. Basically we've been working on over-distance, so we don't have a great amount of speed right now. But hopefully with this base, we can begin to start some changes in our workouts to add speed and build our wind over the next four weeks. Our goal is to peak for conference on October 20; we'll worry about region after that."

Grafton won the junior high school boys race with 15 points, followed by Thief River Falls with 64 and Crookston 78, with Roseau having an incomplete team.

Roseau and Thief River Falls both entered runners in a junior high school girls race, but neither the Rams nor the Prowlers were able to field complete teams.

"The junior high teams had a little more trouble than the varsity," noted Dyer. "The meet was only one mile and many found it hard to set a pace for that short a distance. Grafton had some super freshmen; we had two freshmen running and the rest are sixth, seventh and eighth graders. For our young runners, I was happy with the mile times they had."

Thief River Falls returns to action Thursday by participating in the 4:30 p.m. Grand Forks Central invitational.

North Tri County Contenders Tangle

Middle River and Clearbrook, impressive winners in season-opening action last week, will clash Friday afternoon at Middle River in another key early-season showdown in the North Tri County nine-man high school football conference. Kickoff is scheduled for 3 p.m.

The Skippers rolled over Oklee 36-6 and the Hornets outscored McIntosh-Winger 32-20 in crucial season-opening clashes involving the four teams most observers expected to compete for North Tri County Conference title honors this fall.

Elsewhere in first week results, Gonvick-Trail beat Mentor 56-22, Plummer edged Grygla-Gatzke 12-6 and Erskine defeated goodridge 34-6.

Plummer will celebrate an earlier-than-normal homecoming Friday when the Cardinals host Erskine in a 7:30 p.m. game. Rounding out the second week North Tri County Conference schedule will be Grygla-Gatzke at Oklee and Gonvick-Trail at McIntosh-Winger.

Top of the State Conference begins its nine-man slate of games Friday when Tri-County high school of Karlstad tackles Marshall County Central at Newfolden, Greenbush visits Stephen and Hallock drives to Argyle in a match-up of top contenders.

Only a pair of non-conference games were featured for Top of the State teams on the opening week of the 1981 season as Marshall County Central handled Halstad-Climax 39-6 and Greenbush fell to Crookston Mount St. Benedict 48-0. Hallock, Argyle and Stephen were all idle last week, unable to fill out a nine-game schedule.

Volleyball Is Underway For Northwomen

Volleyball practice at Northland community college started Tuesday and will be held at 4 p.m. for the rest of the week before the Northwomen begin their regular 3 to 5 p.m. practice schedule Monday, it was announced by Northland coach Deb Jacobson.

DNR NEWS

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reported that the first reward has been paid under the DNR's new anti-poaching program.

Acting on information supplied by an anonymous citizen, officers arrested a northern Minnesota man and charged him with taking deer out of season.

The new program called TIP (Turn In Poachers), was activated Sept. 1. Informants may call their anonymous tips in to the DNR on the toll-free number 1-80-652-9093.

Rewards can range up to $1,000 for cases involving organized poaching operations. However, officials said most rewards would be for lesser amounts.

A reward of $250 was paid on the first case reported to the DNR under the new program.

Funds to finance the rewards have been raised through a series of banquets held around the state this summer and by contributions from conservation groups, sportsmen's clubs and concerned individuals.

Persons who want to phone in a tip to the DNR but desire to remain anonymous may simply tell the DNR employee who takes the call of this fact and the person will be assigned a code number. Thereafter, all communication between the DNR and informant will be carried out by use of the number. Not even DNR employees will know the informant's name. Rewards will be paid in cash and in such a way as to conceal the tipster's identity.

Wild Rice Can Not Be Taken On Sundays

Department of Natural Resources has reminded wild rice harvesters that harvesting is prohibited on Sundays.

The harvesting season opened state-wide August 27 and was permitted on an every-other day basis through September 5.

Starting September 7, harvesting is allowed every day except Sundays. Harvesting hours are 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Minnesota Starts Tenth Year Of HS Playoffs

During the latter days of October the select field of 40 high school football teams that will enter the 1981 state football playoffs will be known. Leading up to those days there will be brilliantly executed plays to win games and dropped passes in the end zone to lose them.

It all began in August with playbooks, sweat, strain and water breaks. It will end on a chilly November night with dreams come true for five of those teams who will claim state championships. It is high school football season in Minnesota and this year it will culminate with the tenth anniversary of state playoffs, according to Larry Larson, director of information and publications for the Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL).

From early September to late Octobert some 489 squads will play games that will determine the qualifiers for state playoffs in five classes — AA, A, B, C and nine-man. Nearly 25,000 young men will be involved in the interscholastic football program this season, a season that has more than 4,300 varsity games scheduled to be held, most on Friday evenings.

All but 15 of the Minnesota State High School League's 512 member schools will compete in football in 1981. And each of those 489 participating teams — all but 15 of which are conference-affiliated — were in a position to decide their own state playoff fate with opening games in early September.

Overall Changes

The 1981 season brings with it some changes in conference football alignments, and a change in enrollment figures which results in some conferences being reassigned to a new classification.

New class enrollment figures effective this year include Class AA — 800 and above (upper three grades); Class A — 320 to 799; Class B and Class C — 319 and under (largest 50 per cent of conferences will be Class B and smallest 50 per cent Class C); and nine-man — all schools playing nine-man football.

Previously, enrollment breakdowns by classes were as follows: Class AA — 950 and above; Class A — 400 to 949; Class B — 200 to 399; Class C — 199 and under; and Class 9-Man.

In all five classes conference champions and independents with outstanding won-lost records will be involved in post-season playdowns. Eight teams in each of the five classes will vie for state playoff berths.

A breakdown of schools playing in each class is as follows: Class AA — 92; Class A — 101; Class B — 88; Class C — 89; nine-man — 119.

The following reviews each of the five classes for 1981:

Class AA

Class AA football in Minnesota involves the state's largest enrollment schools. There are 92 such schools competing in the class, varying from the Lake South Conference's average enrollment of 1,899 students in grades 10, 11 and 12 to the 911 average of the Missota Conference. Other conferences in the class include the Big Nine (1,330); Central Lakes (1,298); Lake North (1,470); Minneapolis (985); St. Paul (1,222); Northern Lakes (997); North Suburban (1,811); and St. Paul Suburban (1,348). In addition to the 10 conferences, Moorhead, Bemidji and Fergus Falls are entered as independents.

Changes this year compared to 1980 find the Missota Conference new to Class AA as they were classified in Class A a year ago. In addition Bemidji and Fergus Falls join Moorhead, long-time independent, as independents. Bemidji and Fergus Falls were members a year ago of the now defunct Northwest Conference, a Class A conference in 1980. One other change finds the two Edina schools, West and East, becoming one school again since splitting in 1972.

Champions of five conferences — the Central Lakes, North Suburban, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Missota automatically qualify for state playoff berths this year. Champions from the Northern Lakes and Lake North loops will play off for a sixth berth and the winners of the Big Nine and Lake South circuits will meet in a qualifying game for a seventh position. The eighth spot will be filled by the champion of the St. Paul Suburban conference, unless one of the three independents qualify. Should that happen, the St. Paul Suburban winner would be forced to play a qualifying game against the independent representative. An independent could qualify for a playoff game spot only if its record of losses does not exceed one or if its losses do not exceed the number of losses suffered by a conference champion.

Qualifying games for the state playoffs will be played November 3. State playoff quarterfinal games are on tap November 6 and 7 with semifinal contests slated for November 12 and 13. The championship game is set for November 20.

Class AA state playoff pairings look like this: Upper bracket — Northern Lakes - Lake North winner at Central Lakes and St. Paul Suburban or Independent at North Suburban. Lower bracket — Big Nine-Lake South winner vs. St. Paul at Lake South if they win or at St. Paul if Big Nine wins; and Missota at Minneapolis.

Burnsville, a Lake South conference school, is the defending champion. Last year they became the second Lake conference school to capture a state title in the nine-year history of the playoffs.

Class A

Defending champion Crookston is joined by 100 other schools to comprise the Class A division. The class is divided into 13 conferences in four geographical groupings for purposes of pairings for state playoffs. Crookston, East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls and LaCrescent are independent schools. At least five post-season qualifying games are needed to determine the eight state playoff qualifiers. Within each of the four geographical groupings, the conferences drew for qualifying game byes.

Qualifying games are set for November 3 with state playoff quarterfinal games on tap November 7. Semifinal and championship contests are slated for November 13 and 20.

Qualifying games to determine state playoff participants will involve conference champions pitted against each other. The independents could qualify only if they meet the following criteria: Independents Crookston, East Grand Forks, and Thief River Falls — the independent with the winningest record if it is better than 500 per cent. In case of a tie, a tie-breaking criteria has been established as all three schools play each other. Independent LaCrescent must be the champion of the Wisconsin Coulee conference to qualify.

Host conferences have been determined for qualifying games and state playoff quarterfinal games. The MSHSL will determine sites for semifinal and championship games after previous sites have been named.

Pairings for qualifying games are as follows:

Upper bracket — Crookston, East Grand Forks or Thief River Falls (if qualifies) at Sea Range; Heart O'Lakes at Mid-State; Wright County at Central Gopher; and Suburban West at West Central.

Lower bracket — Rum River at Tri-Metro; Don Bosco vs. Bye; Hiawatha vs. Bye or LaCrescent; and Southwest at South Central.

State playoff quarterfinal games in the upper bracket will be played at sites of the conference most easterly in direction, while lower bracket sites will find the Don Bosco conference playing host to one game and either the Southwest or South Central the other game.

Changes this year in Class A compared to a year ago find three former Class B conferences moving up to Class A because of the enrollment standard. Those three include the Heart O'Lakes, Hiawatha Valley and Wright County conferences. Meanwhile, Class A lost a conference when the Missota loop moved up to Class AA. One other change has Crookston, East Grand Forks, and Thief River Falls becoming independents. They were former members of the new defunct Northwest Conference, a Class A circuit last year.

Class B

Twelve conferences and five independents make up the 88-member Class B division. Three conference champions, the Pine to Prairie, Central Minnesota and the Whitewater, will have their winners automatically qualify for the state playoffs this year while the other loop titlists and the best team from among the independents will be involved in qualifying games leading to state playdowns.

Pairings for state playoff games have been determined on a geographical basis. Those pairings will be as follows for 1981:

Upper bracket — North Star at Arrowhead winner at Pine to Prairie and Great River at Polar winner at Central Minnesota.

Lower bracket — West Lake at Minnesota River winner at Independent at Little Sioux winner; and Wasioja at Mississippi Valley winner at Whitewater.

Among the five independents, the one with the most wins will qualify for post-season play. If a tie exists a tie-breaking criteria has been established in the MSHSL rules and policies manual. The independents include Mineota, Minnesota Valley Lutheran (New Ulm), New Ulm Cathedral, Sleepy Eye St. Mary's and Russell-Tyler.

Qualifying games must be completed no later than November 3 with state playoff first round quarterfinal contests on tap November 7. Semifinal and championship games are slated for November 13 and 20 at sites determined by the MSHSL after previous sites have been named.

Makeup of Class B has changed somewhat from a year ago. No longer are the Heart O'Lakes and Wright County conferences affiliated as they are Class A and the Tomahawk circuit moves down to Class C. The Polar Loop is new, moving up from Class C, and the Whitewater Conference is a new loop — its four members were previously in other Class B and Class C conferences.

Mahnomen is the defending champion.

Class C

Twelve conferences with three grouped in four geographical locations make up the 89-school Class C division. Four of those 12 circuits will have their conference winners automatically qualify for state playoffs in 1981, while the other eight will be involved in qualifying games.

Receiving state playoff berths will be the Park Region, Tri-Valley, Valley and Maple Leaf conference winners.

Qualifying games, which must be completed no later than November 3, will be played at the school which is located geographically east of the other participating school, while state playoff quarterfinal games will be played at the school which is located geographically west of the other participating school. Those games are scheduled for November 7.

State playoff semifinal and championship games are slated for November 13 and 20 at sites determined by the MSHSL after previous sites have been named.

Pairings for the state playoffs look like this:

Upper bracket — Valley Plains vs. Prairie winner vs. Park Region and 212 vs. Tomahawk winner vs. Tri-Valley.

Lower bracket — Middle Eight vs. Gopher winner vs. Valley and Centennial vs. River Valley winner vs. Maple Leaf.

Changes in the makeup of Class C compared to a year ago finds two former Class B conferences now affiliated with Class C — the Tomahawk and Gopher loops — and a new conference has emerged — the Valley Plains. Schools in the new league are Ada-Borup, Dilworth, East Grand Forks Sacred Heart, Fertile-Beltrami, Glyndon-Felton, Hawley, Waubun and Wheaton.

Bird Island-Lake Lillian is the two-time defending champion.

Nine-Man

Nearly 25 per cent of the state's football teams will be participating in the nine-man division. An all-time high 119 schools, up six from last year's record high, comprise this classification. This season 16 conferences and two independents are involved in this class.

Qualifying games for loop winners and the independent representative if it qualifies must be completed no later than November 3. State playoff quarterfinal games must be completed no later than November 7.

Sites for qualifying games will be played at the school which is located geographically east of the other participating school, while state playoff quarterfinal games will be played at the school which is located geographically west of the participating school.

State playoff semifinal and championship games are slated for November 13 and 20 at sites determined by the MSHSL after previous sites have been named.

Cards Defeat Skippers 2-0 In First Match

Plummer volleyball coach Dean Miller said he was pleasantly surprised by the Cardinals' performance Tuesday in a season-opening 18-2, 18-12 home court triumph over Middle River.

"They did a pretty good job; better than I expected for the first time out," explained Miller, who said Jodi Pahlen came up with some impressive spikes and Debbie Braaten excelled as a setter while also serving 11 points.

Oklee debuted with an 18-14, 18-13 victory over visiting Erskine, and Bobcats coach Ardis Hofstad said she, too, was satisfied with the team's first-match performance. Jana Klasan's serving sparked the Bobcats.

Views On Dental Health

By Donald R. Goodrich, D.D.S.

DENTAL CARE COSTS TRAIL INFLATION RATE

Washington — Health and Human Services Secretary Richard Schweiker noted in a recent speech that the costs of dental care have not matched inflation in recent years.

"Until the most recent years of double digit inflation, almost every index of medical pricing (with the exception of dental needs and drugs) has increased at a significantly higher rate than the overall Consumer Price Index," Mr. Schweiker said.

In his remarks, Secretary Schweiker said the Administration is instigating fundamental changes in the government's philosophy on health care. He said two words describe the new plan to improve health care delivery while reducing excess spending and taxation on behalf of the government — prevention and competition.

Mr. Schweiker explained that by allowing the health care system to be exposed to the forces of the marketplace, the "self-healing power of consumer choice and patient awareness" will prove to be the single greatest impetus for lower prices and higher quality.

Dentists have for many years been advocating preventive measures. Regular dental exams and treatment, cleaning and fluoride treatments, home oral hygiene instructions, as well as good diet habits.

The private practice of dentistry is, and will continue to provide the most affordable dental care of the highest quality.

In Memoriam

In memory of our beloved husband and father, Johnnie Ruud, who passed away 9 years ago Sept. 11th, 1972.

I lost a life companion
a life linked with my own
Year by year I miss you more
As I walk thru life alone
How sad this day is for me
The day on which you died
Your memory will cling to my heart.
Till I rest by your side.
A loving father true and kind
What a beautiful memory he left behind
Upright and just in all his ways
Wonderful father, to the end of his days.

Sadly missed by wife Vivian and children Jean, Darlene, Russ and their families

Moth Migration Keys Discovery Of Plant Protection

by Madeleine Jacobs
Smithsonian
News Service

The year was 1964. The 27-year-old biologist stepped out the front door of the venerable Tivoli hotel in Panama City and basked in the warmth of the early morning tropical sun. He had arrived only hours earlier on a night flight from the States, and this was his first real look at the tropics. After four years in the Arctic studying the behavior of gulls, he liked what he saw — the stately palms, the multi-colored crotons, the rich canvas of unfamiliar flowers and forms, the black-and-green snowflakes swirling rapidly by.

Black-and-green snowflakes? The startled scientist did a double take. Relieved, he realized the snowflakes were butterflies, lots of them, all moving with the same deliberate speed in the same direction.

His escort arrived. "Oh yes," she replied. "They come almost every year. No one knows where they come from and no one knows where they go." She shurgged.

The scientist made a mental note and hopped into the waiting car, which was to carry him to a new job at the Canal Zone biological area, now known as the Smithsonian tropical research institute.

Later, he would learn, the incredible black-and-green snowflakes weren't really butterflies, they were moths. He also learned that the flights of these spectacular creatures were indeed an annual event in Central and South America, but the numbers varied enormously, from a few thousand in some years to hundreds of millions in others. In really big years, the flights were in sight without equal in Latin America.

"There was only one question I wanted to answer," biologist Neal G. Smith now recalls, "and that seemed simple enough. 'Why do these animals migrate?' "

Seventeen years later, a wiser Smith knows that nothing is simple in the tropics, but at least he has a partial answer to his question and enough information to predict confidently that 1981 could go down as a record year. "Perhaps the flight of the century," he says. Outside his office, the black-and-green snowflakes are on the move.

Smith's saga is a classic story, one with which anyone who has ever asked the question "Why?" and then tried to find the answer can identify. It is, in many ways, a model scientific detective story, replete with tantalizing clues, wrong assumptions, blind alleys, the passage of time, sudden insights and plain old hard work.

At the Smithsonian tropical research institute, Smith turned his attention to studying birds, but in his spare time he began to pursue the handsome swallow-tailed moth, Urania fulgens.

He reasoned that a spectacular flight, such as he had witnessed, could not escape the notice of local newspaper editors, even if taken for granted by most residents. The papers turned out to be a rich source of information; Smith eventually read all the July, August and September issues of the Panamanian papers back to 1850.

From these accounts, articles in the scientific literature, information supplied by scientific attaches and scientists throughout Latin America and his own observations, Smith pieced together this picture:

Urania moths are found in Jamaica, Cuba and from Vera Cruz in Mexico southward through the lowland tropics in South America to Argentina. Curiously, this limited distribution exactly matches the distribution of a luxuriant woody vine known as Omphalea.

Adult Uranias lay their eggs on the leaves of this vine; the larvae, or caterpillars, that emerge from the eggs voraciously consume Omphalea leaves. In fact, the larvae are very picky — they will only eat Omphalea, a vine resembling Tarzan's mode of transportation.

Adult moths begin to migrate during the rainy season, late July through October, and always move in one direction, usually eastward through Panama. The really large migrations of these moths, Smith noted, seemed to occur in cycles. Before 1954, the big flights occurred once every eight years; thereafter, large flights occurred once every four years. Migrating moths are in reproductive conditon and apparently lay eggs along their migration route. Unlike many moths, Uranias fly during the day at speeds up to 30 miles per hour and are capable of flying over 150 miles of water at a stretch.

All of which was interesting, but not terribly impressive to Smith. After all, many animals have cycles of one sort or another and lots of creatures migrate, in some cases thousands and thousands of miles — salmon and seals, turtles and bats, whales and dolphins, birds of all kinds, even monarch butterflies and ladybird beetles.

"But in each of these cases," Smith says, "migration seems to be a case of 'going south for the winter.' What struck me as especially unusual was one fact: The distribution of the vine, the larval plant food, exactly matched the distribution of the moth itself."

By 1973, Smith was growing Omphalea vines in pots outside his office and in his garden at home. The vines were clones, genetically identical individuals collected and propagated from a single plant growing on the Atlantic side of Panama.

Smith devised a series of experiements designed to determine the factors influencing migration. Some experiments involved feeding the larvae different amounts of leaves, other experiments involved raising the larvae individually and comparing their migratory behavior to those raised in groups. Smith raised literally thousands of Uranias.

But the results were confusing. In some cases, the adult moths showed migratory behavior, in other cases they didn't, and Smith was unable to draw any conclusions about their living conditions as larvae and subsequent flight behavior. During these experiments, the wild Uranias were migrating in large numbers through Panama.

Then, as luck would have it, Smith ran out of Omphalea leaves in his garden and he began to mix his garden supply with freshly cut leaves from the mother plant which was still growing well in the wild. Immediately, most of the larvae stopped eating and began to die. The few insects that made it to adulthood showed migratory behavior.

"At first, I thought the wild plant had been sprayed with an insecticide," Smith recalls. "But the pertinent officials assured me that there had been no aerial spraying. Then I thought that the larvae were being killed by some disease, but that turned out negative as well.

"Meanwhile, a colleague and I noticed that adult Uranias in the wild were ignoring the large Omphalea vines, which had been heavily damaged by Urania generations of the previous migrations. The migration seemed to have something to do with the plant itself, but what?"

For several year, Smith put aside work on the moths. During this period, he became aware of the new and rapidly developing field of plant defense mechanisms — techniques that plants have evolved to defend themselves against attacks by predators.

"This research completely reversed my ideas on Urania," Smith says. "In the laboratory, scientists had discovered that plants which are continually 'attacked' by leaf-eating insects or other herbivores produced a type of toxic material which made them unpaltable to their attackers. Now I thought, was Omphalea displaying some sort of 'wound response' to repeated attacks by Urania?"

Once again, Smith turned to the vines growing in — and almost overtaking — his garden. By now it was 1977, and Smith had raised hundreds of clones from 19 different plants. The vines had not been disturbed since 1974. Zealously, Smith went at most of the plants, simulating Urania "attacks" by using a razor blade to strip the youngest leaves and a hand-held paper punch to put the older leaves. "After each "attack," he allowed the vines to recover, thus mimicking an assault by a single generation of the moth. Some vines were treated in this way three times, some twice, some once. The remainder were left untouched.

When the annual migragion began that year, Smith was ready. He collected eggs and fed the larvae leaves from one of the four groups of vines. The larvae grew well on leaves from the untouched vines, as well as on leaves from plants that had been attacked once or twice. But the larvae which ate leaves that had already been attacked three times began to die, with few living to adulthood.

"It now seemed clear to me that what happened to plants in the laboratory was happening to Omphalea in the wild," Smith says. "As an Omphalea vine is attacked by repeated generations of Urania, the vine apparently undergoes some kind of internal biochemical change. It may be producing a toxic chemical that makes larval growth difficult, or perhaps the leaves lack certain critical nutrients that are required for normal development of the insects.

"After several generations of attack by Uranias, Omphalea leaves are no longer desirable food. The annual migration occurs when the moths take off in search of more suitable foodstuffs. The four and eight-year cycles make more sense if you think in terms of the time it takes the plant to 'raise its defenses' during repeated attacks by Urania, gradually undergo a chemical change and then return to normal in the absence of the moths."

Is Urania unique? "Probably not;" Smith replies, noting that many insects migrate in response to food pressures of some sort or another. "But, to my knowledge, no one has yet reported the migration of an animal in response to a change occurring in its food plant." The case of Urania and Omphalea raises the possibility that there are other such cases existing in nature which simply have not been explored.

"Urania's intimate relationship with a single plant is, at the very least, unusual," Smith concludes. "It's probably a very old relationship, going back millions and millions of years."

THERE WASN'T ANY sod to bust, only a hard-packed track to solve, when the Wakshinsky Brothers of Winnipeg, Manitoba, competed at the tractor pull in Thief River Falls Saturday. Their "Sod-Buster" entry performed well during the day as illustrated in the photos above. The twin engines provided lots of power as the tractor pulled with weighted skid down the track.

Prairie Public TV Appoints New Directors

Larry Spears, Reba Driver and Nancy Furstenberg have been elected to three-year terms on Prairie Public Television's 19-person board of directors.

Spears, a Bismarck resident, and Driver, from New Town, were re-elected to their second terms on the board. Furstenberg, of Grand Forks, was elected to her first term. Spears, Driver and Furstenberg — elected from a field of six — will begin their term on October 1, 1981.

Prairie Public Television general manager Dennis Falk noted that the new board members will have a challenging job facing time when they begin their duties. "The federal cutbacks faced by public broadcasting will mean our board and management will have to be on its toes if we want Prairie Public Television to grow. I'm sure that our new board members are aware of that fact and are up to the task. I'm looking forward to working with these people in the months ahead," Falk said.

Ballots for the election were distributed in Prairie Public Televison's program guide, with all members allowed to vote for three of six nominees.

Spears, the top vote-getter in this year's election, is assistant statee court administrator for the Supreme Court of North Dakota. He and his wife have two children. He has served four years on the Prairie Public Television board, the last year of which as chairman of the board.

Driver is telecommunications planner for the fort Bethold Communications Enterprise, Inc. in New Town. Driver has served one year on the Prairie Public Television board. She is married and mother of two.

Furstenberg is associate dean for students and admissions for the University of North Dakota. A practicing physician for 30 years, Furstenberg was elected to her first term on the board.

FARM LAND
We don't just advertise it, we sell it. And we need some more. Every week we are selling 1-2 or 3 farms. Many of them are purchased by buyers who pay our fee; it costs you nothing.
BEFORE . . .
you list your farm, talk to us. We don't like to call ourselves experts. We just sell more farms than anyone else.

LEC Listed 9 Cases Sept. 2

Law enforcement center (LEC) report dated September 2 listed the following cases handled by the Thief River Falls police department by reporting date:

August 9 — Breaking and entering was reported at two unoccupied trailers in Thief River Falls, with nothing found missing. $75 damage was done to the door of one trailer, and $35 damage to the window of the other. The case is under investigation.

August 29 — Two juveniles were charged with vandalism after damaging the garden and two portions of a screened-in porch at the Merle Lindberg residence.

August 29 — Cathy DuChamp, Thief River Falls, reported theft of her 26-inch Regent bicycle, value $90. The bike was later recovered at its original value behind Solheim Furniture.

August 29 — Entry was gained to a trailer house in a Thief River Falls trailer park by cutting a screen window. Damages estimated at $10 occurred when a stereo and one speaker were tipped over and a knick knack broken. The case is under investigation.

August 31 — Jodi Mattison, Thief River Falls, was waiting to make a left turn into the Area Vocational Technical institute when Loren Slette struck the rear of her vehicle. The Mattison pickup received $500 in damages, and the Slette car was totaled.

September 1 — Leigh LaSalle, was driving a station wagon owned by Bruce Pharmacy east on Third street, and Terrance Courneya, Thief River Falls, was making a left turn from Third onto Main avenue when the two collided. Damages were $3,000 to the Courneya car and $2,500 to the Bruce Pharmacy car. Both drivers had slight injuries.

Cases handled by the Pennington county sheriff's office listed by reporting date included:

August 31 — Raymond Anderson, Grand Forks, ND, received slight injuries when another vehicle cut in front of his motorcycle, forcing him into the ditch on State Aid 3. Damages to the motorcycle were $100.

September 1 — Stanley Skibicki reported theft of approximately five gallons of gas, value $6.20, from his tank during the night.

September 2 — Brian C. Ranum, Thief River Falls, reported damages estimated at $250, occurred when someone made deep scratch marks in the right side of the hood and rear quarter panel, and sprayed shaving cream on the driver's side window of his car while at the drive in threater.

"MINNESOTA THUNDER" rumbled down the track Saturday during the tractor and pickup pull sponsored by the Thief River Falls Jaycees at the Pennington county fairgrounds. This entry was by the Wiedewitsch Brothers of Detroit Lakes.

Travel Center Inquiries Up 22 Per Cent

Visitor inquirires during the second quarter (April through June) of 1981 at Minnesota travel information centers increased 22 per cent, compared with last year's second quarter, according to R. Douglas Olson, travel information center coordinator, Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT).

Seven centers — Albert Lea, Anchor Lake, Beaver Creek, Dresbach, Duluth, Fisher's Landing and Moorhead — handled 67,729 travel inquiries, an increase of 12,384 from 1980. Olson said about 340,000 visitors stopped at the information centers during the three-month period, compared with 253,000 in 1980. More than 150,000 brochures and mpas were also distributed at the centers during the second quarter of 1981.

Albert Lea center responded to the greatest number of inquiries overall — 14,718; followed by Duluth, 14,270; Anchor Lake, 10;271; Dresbach, 9,975; Beaver Creek, 7,456; Moorhead, 7,181; Fisher's Landing, 3,858 (opened as an information center June 5).

Mn-DOT Travel information centers are located at: Albert Lea — northbound lane I-35, one mile north of Minnesota-Iowa line; Beaver Creek — eastbound land I-90, 4.5 miles west of Beaver Creek; Dresbach — westbound land I-90, 2.5 miles north of LaCrescent; Thompson Hill — junction US 2 and I-35 at west limits of Duluth; Moorhead — eastbound lane I-94, 1.5 miles east of junction with US 75; Anchor Lake — US 53, nine miles south of Eveleth; and Fisher's Landing — US 2, nine miles west of Crookston.

Hearings On Health Plan Sept. 15, 16

Public hearings on the 1982-83 Quin county community health services (CHS) plan will be conducted September 15 and 16 at the following locations.

September 15 — 10 to 11 a.m., board room, Roseau social services building;

September 15 — 2 to 3 p.m., law library, Hallock courthouse;

September 16 — 9 to 10 a.m., board room (auditor's office), Warren courthouse;

September 16 — 11 a.m. to noon, first floor meeting room, Thief River Falls courthouse;

September 16 — 2 to 3 p.m. commissioner's board room, Red Lake Falls courthouse;

Quin county CHS covers five counties — Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau, and supplies funding for community nursing, home health services, disease prevention and control services, health education, energy medical services, and environmental health services.

In the Quin county area funding is supplied for the four county EPS service, four nursing services (five counties), nine emergency medical services, and one medical recruiting council.

A copy of the 1982-83 CHS plan is available for review in each of the five county auditors' offices, in the county nursing office in each county, and in the Quin county office in Newfolden. Comments may be made orally or in writing at the public hearings or mailed to the Quin county CHS, Newfolden, MN 56738-0248.

Rock Music Is Topic Of Meet In R. L. Falls

"Rock Music and You" will be the topic of a gathering Sunday, September 20, at 7 p.m. at Bethany Lutheran church in Red Lake Falls. Guest speaker will be Dave Buehring, staff member of Youth With a Mission in Kona, Hawaii.

According to Rev. Holt Walker, host pastor, areas to be covered include the origin of rock music, how it affects an individual mentally, emotionally, physically and spiritually as well as a look at individual artists and groups. All young people and their parents or other interested adults are invited to attend.

Would you like to be able to go to a retreat like this when you are worried — a place where you could be alone with your thoughts — a place where you could untangle your problems?

If you would, then you are like most people. Everyone needs a retreat, at moments. And everyone has one! It isn't a mountain cabin or a seaside cottage — but it is a place far better suited to prayer and contemplation, a place to sort out old errors and make new resolutions. It is your place of worship.

Let it be your sanctuary. Go to it when you are troubled. You will find within its walls your moment of peace and you will walk out into the street again far better able to make the most of your life.

New Fitness Test Technique Studied

by Ralph Heussner
'U' M News Service

When U.S. army national guardsmen are asked to strip to the waist, strap on combat boots and walk and run in concentric circles for 20 to 30 minutes, a little grumbling is inevitable.

"If they're going to treat us like (test) mice, how about some cheese?" "Sir, I'm about to drop. May I stop and save some energy for chow duty?" "I prefer the four-mile march; at least we're allowed to sing."

Their good-natured quips aside, approximately 4,000 guardsmen stationed at Camp Ripley this summer are helping a University of Minnesota researcher evaluate a new fitness testing technique.

Dr. John O'Leary, professor of family practice and community health, is assessing the effectiveness and practicality of a multistage walking test that may someday replace current methods of determining the fitness of both military and civilian personnel.

The Army is looking for a safe, simple and cost-effective alternative to the two-mile run, which regular troops must complete in under 18 minutes, and the four-mile course, which guardsmen must finish in under 60 minutes during the annual two-week summer camp. "These tests may be too strenuous for older military personnel," said O'Leary, who is a colonel in the Minnesota Guard.

The most accurate measure of cardiorespiratory fitness is oxygen consumption during maximal exercise on a treadmill, O'Leary said. Unfortunately, treadmill testing is too expensive and time-consuming to be widely used. The new walking test permits one man to monitor as many as 60 men in an hour. Here's how it works:

Beginning at the innermost of 10 circles (painted on the floor of the Camp Ripley theater), four men begin walking at the sound of a beep. As the beep sounds every six seconds, the men must cross one of four diameters marked on the circle.

After four minutes, the first group moves to a wider circle and four new participants join the test at the interior circle. The two groups are now shoulder to shoulder, the men in the outer circle walking at a lightly faster pace. They continue to move to wider and wider circles until they can no longer keep up with the beep. Men usually begin to drop out between the sixth and seventh circles.

The men are also measured for height, weight and amount of body fat. O'Leary hopes to use this information, combined with the walking test results, to prove that the standard height and weight charts in use today "don't tell us if an individual is fit or out of shape. All the defensive linemen for the Minnesota Vikings are overweight for their height, but they are in excellent physical condition," O'Leary said.

Once the test results are analayzed, O'Leary will report to the U.S. army surgeon general. If the military endorses the fitness exam, it could be used to screen young recruits.

Community and school exercise programs could use it, too. "And if it involves a comfortable level of activity, it could also be adapted to include EEG telemetry and thus meet the safety requirements for testing elderly persons, a group neglected in most cardiorespiratory fitness tests," O'Leary said.

For now, however, those who seem most eager to get the test results are master sergeants at Camp Ripley. "It's sometimes dangerous to tell someone he's too fat or out of shape," O' Leary said. "Now, the master sergeant can just show the men their test results."

The Grygla senior citizens met at the community center on Wednesday, September 2. The monthly business meeting was held with Nora Engelstad presiding. The secretary's report was read and approved. Treasurer's report was read. The people who had planned and built the log cabin and took part in the fall festival parade were thanked and applauded. The group of singers who entertained at the talent show were thanked and praised. It was decided to donate $100 to the Channel 4 radio tower fund. A discussion regarding the price of meals served to the members and the public on the last Friday of each month was held. The request of one of our neighbor clubs to rent the log cabin was granted. An announcement was made that the annual flea market will be held at the community center on September 25.

Mrs. Alice Tweten who spent the past two months at the home of her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Art Nordby left on Tuesday to spend some time at the home of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Jones at Goodridge.

Mrs. Vernon Wikstrom visited at the Mrs. Kathryn Kinsman home in Thief River Falls on Tuesday evening.

It Makes Sense — Somewhere

Following editorial is from the Ely Echo:

It has now been three years since the passage of the 1978 Boundary Waters Canoe Area Act. Including the 1982 budget, the taxpayer will have spent in excess of $41 million to administer the law. Possibly he or she is entitled to know what was gotten for this money.

In 1980, the Congress appropriated $14,092 million to manage provisions of the law. In 1981, the Congress appropriated $13.9 million. Presently, the Congress is agreed on something like $13.2 million for 1982. That totals up to $41,192 million. Spelled out, that is forty one million, one hundred ninety two thousand dollars under the provisions of the 1978 law (PL-95-495). Included in that bundle of cash are funds to purchase resorts which are being squeezed out of business, funds for growing trees to offset timber withdrawn from commercial cutting, funds to help the tourist industry in northeastern Minnesota try to figure out what it can come up with to compensate for lost tourist business, funds to pay guides for guide business lost, funds to pay loggers for not cutting trees plus a number of other items.

But lest someone construe this as a negative view, let us look at the results of the law: There are now a number of lakes where fishermen can no longer fish with their boats; there are a number of logging operations and sawmills shut down; there are some timber areas which will not now be cut but which, we are promised, may be burned; there are a number of resorts now shut down which formerly served the public; there are something like 240 people out of work who were formerly employed in the timber and tourist industries.

The taxpayer paid $41 million for this. So far.

According to the way the law is written, funding for one thing and another will run on to 1990. Even if the Congress gets the largesse down to a mere dribble, say $10 million per year, the final grand total will run somewhere in excess of $100 million to shut down 19 businesses and put a few hundred people out of work. It is, of course, difficult to understand a Congress which bickers daily over methods of providing jobs, and then votes several million dollars each year to shut down existing businesses and put people out of work. Somewhere, without doubt, there is a rationale for this.

There has been a considerable amount of animosity and ridicule aimed at the U.S. Forest Service for being involved in this process. The USFS did not pass the law. In the Superior National Forest, at least, they did not need nor want the law. However, as so stipulated by the Congress, the Forest Service is the agency singled out to handle the program. At times, members of that agency have expressed a certain amount of bewilderment and exasperation although they must be careful that the Congress, plus other watchful agencies, do not construe this as disapproval of the program.

Here in Ely, it seems like $100 million is a lot of taxpayer's money to keep a few fishermen off some lakes and put a few loggers and resort owners out of business, but then, our perspective from the backwoods is admittedly limited and our views provincial. It must make sense in Washington. It was the Congress which passed the law.

Rules Should Be Changed

One opinion on the announced plan by the federal administration to reduce part of the paperwork load of American business is given in the following editorial from the Swift County Monitor:

There is a great outcry from some civil rights and women's groups throughout the country over the Reagan administration decision to relax rules that require companies doing business with the government to file plans for hiring women and minorities. We think the administration is taking at least one step in the right direction.

Affirmative action is just a sanctimonious way of saying discrimination. It certainly isn't promoting individual freedom to tell a firm with a government contract that it must have so many minority and-or female employees. We can't see anything affirmative about discriminating against a well qualified white male by not hiring him because of a law that says this will put too many white males on the payroll.

From all the complaints about discrimination coming from some women's minority groups, we can't see these laws have accomplished very much. It is a fact they have added tons of paper work and millions of dollars to operations under federal government contract. This is not only costly to American taxpayers, it is a foolish attempt to cover centuries of discrimination against minorities and women with silly laws.

Farmer's Last Will

Many farmers would have you believe that this last will would be quite appropriate. The farmer in question covered just about everyone when he wrote:

I leave:

To my wife — My overdraft at the bank. Maybe she can explain it.

To my son — Equity on my car. Now he'll have to go to work to meet the payments.

To my banker — My soul. He has the mortgage on it anyway.

To my neighbor — My clown suit. He'll need it if he continues to farm as he has in the past.

To the PCA — My unpaid bills. They took some real chances on me and I want to do something for them.

To ASCS — My grain bin. I was planning to let them take it next year anyway.

To the farm advisor — 50 bushels of corn to see if he can hit the market. I never did.

To the junk man — All my machinery. He's had his eyes on it for years.

To my undertaker — A special request. I want six implement and fertilizer dealers for my pallbearers. They are used to carrying me.

To the weatherman — Rain, sleet, and snow for the funeral, please. No sense in having good weather now.

To the grave digger — Don't bother. The hole I am in should be big enough.

To the monument maker — Set up a jig for the epitaph, "Here lies a farmer who has now properly assumed all of his obligations."

Columnist Sydney Harris picks up a number of common sayings and asks some unanswerable questions about them. Consider these questions:

Can a cat dog your steps or a fox wolf down its food?

Can a crew of women man a ship or a husband henpeck his wife?

Can a piano really be played by ear or can a food be a drug on the market?

How can you be armed to the teeth or win anything with your hands down?

Where are you going when you go the whole hog and what is holding the candle when it is burning at both ends?

What legs were you on before you were on your last legs and how can you be heard when you talk through your hat?

Why is a swoop always fell and why do we go to pot and not to pan?

Can a duck go on a wild goose chase and can a snail worm its way out of a bad situation?

Why does death have a door and why is a brief usually long?

Where is a person when he is beside himself and where is your chin when you are down in the mouth?

Can a wasp travel in a beeline or a hyena cry wolf?

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

History Shows Us President's Economic Plan Will Work

If you accept the theory that national elections are decided on simple, but compelling ideas, then it could be said that last fall's election boiled down to this issue: Is inflation (with all the economic and social distresses that accompany it) controllable or not? Critics, depending on which side they were on, called Jimmy Carter's assessment too gloomy; Ronald Reagan's was too glibly optimistic.

The American people sided with Ronald Reagan — and rejected the proposition put forth by the Carter Administration that inflation is some kind of economic Frankenstein which has a momentum of its own beyond our control.

Not so, says President Reagan. "We are in control here," he has reminded us. "There is nothing wrong with America that we can't fix."

Nevertheless, many Americans are still very pessimistic about the future prospects for our economy. If you are one of them, I suggest you take a look at some fascinating historical evidence which Tomas J. Sargent, an economist with the Federal Reserve Bank of Minnesota and the University, has uncovered recently.

If you have had a tough time making ends meet with inflation hovering around 10 per cent, imagine what it must have been like for consumers in various European economies after the devastation of World War I. "Between January 1922 and April 1924, the price index increased by a factor of 263 times," Sargent reports of postwar Hungary. Poles had it even worse. The price index there increased by a mind-boggling 2,402 times in just two years. Even more incredible, the value of the postwar German mark had eroded to such a degree that it took one trillion of them to equal the value of just one prewar gold mark!

Surely inflation like this could never be controlled, right? Wrong! In each case, not only was the inflationary spiral broke, but it was done within a matter of months.

That seemingly impossible task was accomplished, Sargent explains, by making a clean break with the economic policies of the past — and that meant an end to runaway government deficits, subsidies, bureaucracy and money supplies. Germany, Hungary, Poland and Austria "each persistently ran enormous budget deficits," Sargent discovered. But when these policies were renounced, "the price level and foreign exchanges suddenly stabilized." Other measures contributing to these economic success stories included sweeping reductions in the government work force, as well as legally-binding limitations on both the money supply and the amount of debt the government could incur.

Together, these dramatic steps convinced each nation's citizens that they finally had a government which was committed to controlling its own growth — that it would adhere to stable fiscal and monetary policies upon which businesses, workers and consumers could depend. The result? Inflationary expectations burst like a balloon.

The ends of these four big inflations should come as welcome news to inflation-weary Americans. The bottom line lesson, as Sargent sees it, is this: "Inflation only seems to have a momentum of its own, while it is actually the long-term government policy of running large deficits which imparts momentum to the inflation rate... People expect high rates of inflation in the future precisely because the government's current and prospective monetary and fiscal policies warrant those expectations." When the postwar European governments discarded their big-spending ways, their citizens responded by lowering their inflationary expectations — and demands.

President Reagan has proposed a similar change in economic course for our nation. The evidence suggests that if the American people respond to his efforts to control the growth of the federal government with support and confidence, then our inflation too will become a matter for the history books.

By the summer of 1982, American cities will be afflicted with riots similar to the recent disturbances in Great Britain — a by-product of Reagan economic policies and renewed racial tension.

That is the suggestion of a number of journalists in recent weeks who have tried to portray the turmoil in Britain as a harbinger of similar troubles in this country once the President's budget restraints take effect.

This parallel is foolish at best, and at worst, a prime example of irresponsible journalism.

To equate the economic policies of President Reagan and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher is inaccurate enough. Despite good intentions, Mrs. Thatcher has presided over sharp increases in government spending as well as a doubling of Britain's value-added tax. The President's approach is exactly the opposite: To slow the growth of spending and reduce the tax burden.

Even more indefensible is the notion that the Reagan economic program, especially its reliance on the private sector to secure prosperity for our people, is a prescription for economic misery. By cutting so much as $35 billion from a federal budget which will exceed $700 billion, these commentators suggest, the President is tearing apart the very fabric of our society. There will be no jobs, no hope, and eventually, no law-and-order in our cities once this plan is carried out.

The most extreme expression of this attitude that federal spending programs are the cure-all, catch-all and end-all of American society comes from Washington Post writer Henry Fairlie, who stated recently: "The private sector cannot invite the poor into its supermarkets. . . The citizenship in the supermarket and in the commercials can be granted only by government."

And then, he issues a blunt warning:

"Can you get that, Mrs. Thatcher? Can you get that, President Reagan? If you do not, even though you do not intend it, your gutters will one day run with blood."

But wait a minute. Didn't the worst wave of urban riots this nation has ever experienced occur at the very crest of Lyndon Johnson's Great Society spending binge in the mid-1960's?

Well, er, yes, admit Great Society liberals, but that was because we succeeded in raising the expectations of the poor — expectations which couldn't be matched by economic performance.

What they refuse to admit is that the poor became the victims of over-promising politicians who insisted that if we simply waved the magic wand of federal spending over poverty, then it would all but disappear. In fact, the federal government attempted and failed at precisely what Mr. Fairlie claims we should still be attempting today: To increase the wealth of one group of Americans by taking wealth from another group. Instead, the federal government with its bloated budgets, punitive taxes and over-regulation, has hampered the productivity and undermined the earnings of all Americans.

To correct this, President Reagan has formulated a program in which all segments of our society share the burden of the budget axe. He has promised no overnight miracle cures, but he has sought to remove many of the shackles which have been clamped on the private enterprise system since the inception of the Great Society. He has done so in recognition of a simple fact — that private enterprise in America is responsible for the greatest and most evenly distributed material prosperity in man's history.

Rioting is about the most pernicious form of lawlessness that can afflict a modern society, because it is not the act of an isolated criminal but infectious destructiveness on a mass scale. Before Mr. Fairlie and others bandy about any further predictions and comparisons arising from Britain's recent riots, I suggest they check their facts, their history and their hyperbole.

cancer answers

"Cancer Answers" is a weekly column sponsored by the Red River Valley Medical society, the Red River Valley unit of the American Center society and the Thief River Falls Times. Questions may be mailed to the editor, Thief River Falls Times. All questions will be answered, and those of a general interest will be published in "Cancer Answers."

Dear Cancer Answers:

I know that so far vitamin C has not been proved to be any good for treating cancer, but since it is a natural chemical and good for you, it couldn't hurt a cancer patient to take vitamin C pills, could it?

Beliver in natural remedies

Dear Believer:

Persons who are being treated for cancer should not take any sort of medications, including vitamin and mineral supplements without telling their doctors. Certain chemicals or drugs can change the way a cancer patient will respond to his or her treatment. Also certain chemicals used in treating cancer can be affected by other medications such as vitamins, hence should be taken only after discussion with one's doctor.

Dear Cander Answers:

I've been smoking for 20 years, and I'm fed up with people telling me I should quit. After 20 years the damage is already done, and it won't make any difference if I quit now. After all, we're all going to die from something eventually — I picked my poison 20 years ago.

L.C.

Dear L.C.:

There are lot of smokers who feel as you do that after so many years of smoking the damage cannot be undone. Several medical research studies have proved that you're wrong — it's never too late.

The most recent and overwhelmingly convincing study was carried out over a period of 13 years with nearly 26,000 people in California. It found that smokers who quit improve their chances to live longer by more than half, no matter how old they are or how long they've smoked.

While it's true that everyone eventually will die, smokers can expect to live considerably longer if they quit. Smokers are three times as likely to die before they're 55 than people who don't smoke.

Dear Cancer Answers:

Is there much being done in rehabilitation for cancer patients: What about special research programs? As a nurse who cares for these patients, I'd like to know more.

Sarah J.

Dear Sarah J.:

You're right to recognize that rehabilitation is an important part of caring for cancer patients. Getting people back to living as nearly normal lives as possible has to be a major goal.

Rehabilitation programs right now can offer a great deal to some cancer patients. Women who've undergone mastectomy operations for breast cancer can participate in the American Cancer society's reach - to - recovery program.

The YWCA also has started in some communities a new exercise program called ENCORE to help these women.

United Ostomy association, with local chapters in many Upper Midwest towns, provides assistance and group meetings for people who've undergone radical surgery resulting in colostomies and ileostomies.

The Lost Chord clubs offer similar help for people who've had the larynx removed and must learn to talk again.

For people who need assistance in locating a different job or job retraining, state vocational rehabilitation offices can be of help. Occasionally, the person who's had cancer encounters difficulties because of questions about insurability. A recent study by the Mayo clinic, however, found that very few cancer patients returning to work had a problem with this kind of discrimination.

In the academic medical centers, there is research being funded by the National Cancer institute, American Cancer society and other agencies to develop new prostheses — or replacement parts — for people who've had cancer. Dentists and plastic surgeons are trying to devise new plastics which are more lifelike and durable.

With these plastics, new parts of the face can be created, such as noses, cheeks and ears, to replace the tissue removed in cancer surgery.

Orthopedic surgeons and doctors specializing in physical medicine are joining forces to do an even better job with artificial limbs. In some instances, the orthopedists are able to take out a section of bone that's become cancerous. Instead of amputating the limb, the surgeons insert a unique metallic replacement.

Fixing the physical defects is not enough. Increasingly it's recognized that cancer patients need some emotional assistance in getting over the effects of their disease. The National Cancer institute has funded several research projects to identify the problems which adults and children have in coping with cancer.

These projects go on to provide counseling and support services, while evaluating the differences in people's coping abilities.

The one other major effort being done in cancer rehabilitation is professional education and training. Both the National Cancer institute and the American Cancer society have underwritten special training programs for the health professionals who help rehabilitate cancer patients. These programs include physical therapists, occupational therapists speech therapists, enterostomal therapists, nurses and social workers.

Further, each agency has sponsored a number of national and regional meetings where information and practical techniques can be exchanged.

The net result is that more and more attention is being paid to rehabilitating cancer patients so that they're back participating in the mainstream of life.

Dear Cancer Answers:

My mother and I would like you to settle a disagreement we've had. Mother says that a Pap smear can detect cancer in any of the female reproductive organs. I've always thought it was only used to detect cancer of the cervix. Who is right?

Mother and Daughter

Dear Mother and Daughter:

The Pap smear is generally considered to be 90 per cent effective in detecting cervical cancer even at its earliest stages when the disease can nearly always be cured. It is, however, only about 60 per cent effective in detecting cancer of the uterus and is not useful in diagnosing cancer of the ovary.

Like the skin, the lining of the uterus and the cervix continually sheds cells. Those loose cells collect in the vagina and are expelled by the normal discharge of vaginal fluid. A doctor does a Pap smear by gently scraping loose cells from the cervix and vagina and examining them with a microscope to look for any abnormal cells.

As you know, a Pap smear is only part of a complete pelvic examination. The doctor also feels for any abnormalities in the uterus and ovaries by pressing on the outside of the abdomen and on the inside through the vagina and rectum. The doctor may recommend further diagnostic tests, like x-rays, ultrasound, or surgical exploration, if the examination reveals any abnormalities.

Dear Cancer Answers:

I don't understand how a person can have cancer in one part of the body and then have it show up somewhere else completely separate.

M.L.

Dear M.L.:

Cancer can start in any organ or tissue of the body. Its main characteristic is an abnormal, seemingly unrestricted, growth of cells that destroys or otherwise harms surrounding normal tissue or organs. These cells form a cancerous tumor or mass, sometimes called a primary cancer. Cancerous tumors are different from benign (noncancerous) tumors in that they can invade neighboring tissues or spread (metastasize) to other parts of the body.

Cancerous cells from a primary tumor may break away and be carried by the blood or lymphatic system to other, sometimes distant, parts of the body, producing secondary tumors known as metastases.

The lymphatic system is a part of the body's immune (defense) system. Lymph nodes are found throughout the body. Under normal circumstances, the nodes act to remove foreign cells or substances from the body. The nodes are connected by channels which contain a fluid called lymph. The lymph circulates through the body and ultimately is drained by the lymph nodes. Sometimes cancer cells that ars shed by a primary tumor are carried by the lymph to nearby or distant lymph nodes, thereby spreading the cancer.

The cells structure of these secondary cancers resembles that of the original, primary cancer. By examining the cancerous tissue with a microscope, a physician often can determine whether a tumor is a primary or secondary cancer. When a second cancer is discovered in a patient already known to have cancer, it most often is the result of metastasis, rather than another primary tumor. Metastatic cancers may appear at about the same time as the primary tumor, or they may may not become evident until months or sometimes years later. Treatment for metastatic cancer depends on the site of the primary tumor and many other considerations, such as the general health of the patient.

Dear Cancer Answers:

My wife says she just real something about low cholesterol causing cancer of the colon. I've been on a low cholesterol diet for years because I have a heart condition. Are they saying that the diet I've been on to prevent a heart attack could give me colon cancer?

Mr. C.S.

Dear Mr. C.S.:

A group of scientists and physicians met at the National Institutes of Health last month to examine all the available scientific evidence and arrive at an answer to your question. They concluded that low-fat diets to reduce cholesterol cause no risk for the vast majority of people.

Only a small segment of the American population with very low blood-cholesterol levels should be advised against low-fat low-cholesterol diets. And these people would not normally be at risk for cholesterol-related heart disease.

The studies your wife has read about appeared to show a higher than expected rate of colon cancer among people with very low blood-cholesterol levels. Many of the scientists who met at NIH felt this might mean these people are more susceptible to cancer caused by other factors. They do not believe that lack of cholesterol caused the cancer.

Heart and coronary artery disease is still the number one killer in this country. People with high blood-cholesterol levels are at higher risk for heart disease. By following low-fat diets, these people can reduce their risk. A low-fat diet will not cause colon cancer.

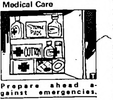
FIRST AID FACTS

1-2-3's of Home Medical Care



Prepare ahead against emergencies.

A few moments of planning can prepare any member of the household to tend to minor daily emergencies that require first aid treatment.

First, check your medicine cabinet. Is it adequately stocked with Band-Aids in assorted sizes, gauze pads, rolled gauze, and adhesive tape?

Show all family members where these dressings are stored, making sure that every item is visible, so no one has to hunt for things when there is no time to spare. You may also want to clip this article and tape it to the inside of your medicine cabinet for reference.

Always cleanse all minor wounds with mild soap and water. Remember to wash your own hands first to prevent germs from entering the cut or abrasion. Then, treat with a first aid cream or topical antibiotic for further protection.

To prevent contamination and to absorb fluids leaking from the wound, cover with a gauze dressing. First, fold the gauze in place and secure with a first aid tape. If the wound is small, use a Band-Aid. Covering a wound also protects against reinjury.

First aid experts caution that deep wounds or serious burns require immediate medical attention. Take the victim to the doctor's office as quickly as possible. If you cannot reach your doctor or you have no family physician, take the patient to the closest emergency room for treatment.

Any time the skin is broken due to an injury, tetanus may result. So check with your physician to see if a booster is needed. Children's inoculations are usually up to date, but adults somehow feel that they are not vulnerable and this leaves them open to dangerous illness. Parents should keep records of all inoculations, yes, including their own and provide for booster shots whenever necessary.

After the accident, keep the wound clean, change dressings frequently and check for signs of infection: hot, painful reddening around the injured area, swelling, chills or fever. Any or all of these symptoms require immediate medical care.

Cutting Firewood?—Heed These Chain Saw Safety Tips

Last year, more than 60,000 Americans required hospital treatment for chain-saw injuries, many of which could have been avoided, the safety manager of a major forest-products company says.

"With more people using wood in their fireplaces and with wood stoves increasing at about a million each year, we're seeing a lot more inexperienced chain-saw users in the woods," Stovall Farmer of Georgia-Pacific Corp. observes, noting that chain saws in use have tripled to about 15 million over the past decade.

Most chain-saw injuries involve kickbacks and falling on the saw, Farmer explains.

"A lot of people don't consider tripping hazards—like tree limbs and uneven ground—when they're cutting wood," he says. "Then they get caught up in what they're doing and go from one job to the next with that saw just buzzing away.

"They can stumble and fall with that thing running . . . and those chains can really chew you up."

As for kickbacks, which can result in a sudden and violent loss of control when the moving chain binds or touches some object, Farmer recommends a careful reading of the safety literature provided with every chain-saw.

"Keep a tight grip," he says. "Don't let the tip of the saw come in contact with other objects. Keep your left arm straight. And make sure your chain is adjusted.

"Never, never cut above shoulder height," Farmer emphasizes, pointing out that a kickback and loss of control can have disastrous consequences in such a case.

Other safety rules are largely common sense, but bear repeating, Farmer notes, because so many people seem to forget them when it comes time to fire up their saws. These include:

—Think ahead; don't work too fast; quit before you're tired.

—Keep others away from cutting area.

—Dress to protect head, feet, legs and hands; and preserve your hearing with ear protection.

—Be careful with fuel.

—Do your cutting with the engine running wide open.

According to Farmer, a "safety attitude" is the most important factor of all. He says he has seen this to be the rule in all lines of work.

"Bad attitudes and poor work habits cause injuries," he observes. "Eighty percent of your injuries involve only 20 percent of your work force. We've got some employees who've worked 45 years and never had an injury."

Farmer points out that owners of wood stoves and fireplaces shouldn't wait until cold weather sets in to cut their firewood.

"You should be cutting next year's firewood now to give it time to season," he explains. "Better yet, you should be cutting it for the year after next.

"And when it comes time to burn it, do it safely. Wood stove and fireplace accidents are also on the rise."

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q — Under the new improved Veterans Administration pension law, can a veteran who does not have custody of his child receive additional pension if the veteran is not paying child support?

A — No. Under the new improved pension law the veteran must be paying child support to be entitled to any additional allowance for a dependent child.

Q — I have a Veterans Administration guaranteed home loan. I plan to sell my home to an individual who will assume the payments. Can I do this? Are there any special procedures I should follow?

A — Another individual may assume your loan. However, you should contact the nearest VA regional office to obtain a release of liability or you may be held liable in the event of default on the loan.

Q — I was denied widow's benefits from the Veterans Administration because I was never legally married to a veteran with whom I had lived for 20 years. What, if anything, can I do about this?

A — VA will recognize an established common law marriage if such marriage is recognized by the state in which the couple resides. Any VA regional office will provide information and advise veterans on the evidence required to establish a common law marriage.

Q: I was honorably discharged from the Army after serving four years, part of which was in Vietnam. Can I use my entitlement for a Veterans Administration home loan and go to school under the GI Bill at the same time?

A: There is no restriction on receiving both of the benefits at the same time.

Q: I have been receiving Veterans Administration outpatient care for a service-connected disability. Will the outpatient treatment reports be sent to the rating board for re-evaluation of my disability?

A: Generally, the veteran or his representative must request that the outpatient treatment reports be reviewed by the rating board for possible re-evaluation of the disability.

Q: When are dividends paid on participating National Service Life Insurance policies?

A: Dividends are normally paid on the anniversary date of the insurance policy.

Q: What is the maximum amount I can borrow on a Veterans Administration guaranteed home loan?

A: There is no legal maximum. The VA will guarantee 60 per cent of the loan or $27,500 whichever is less. The total amount of the loan is determined by the policy of your lending institution and by your ability to repay the loan.

Q — My husband, a disabled veteran, has a serious drinking problem. Can the Veterans Administration help him?

A — Yes. VA has alcohol treatment programs at many of its hospitals. Contact your nearest VA regional office for details.

Q — I'm planning to buy a home under the Veterans Administration GI home loan guaranty program. Will the VA guarantee that the home I buy is free of any defects?

A — No. VA cannot guarantee a home to be defect-free, nor can the agency compel a builder to remedy construction defects or otherwise force a builder to fulfill a contract.

Q — Is an incarcerated veteran eligible for Veterans Administration benefits?

A — A veteran in prison or on parole may still be entitled to VA benefits. Detailed information is available in a pamphlet, "Veterans Benefits, Inside . . . Outside." For a free copy, write Veterans Administration (27), 810 Vermont Avenue N.W., Washington, D.C. 20420; or check with your nearest VA regional office.

Q — Where can I get my own copy of the booklet "Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents?"

A — This handy 78-page booklet highlights all veterans and survivor benefits. It is available for $2.50 from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Q — Who is eligible for veterans mortgage life insurance from the Veterans administration?

A — This insurance is restricted to those service-connected disabled veterans who have received grants from the VA for the purchase of specially-adapted wheelchair housing.

Q — Can I use my GI bill education benefits to attend school in a foreign country?

A — The Veterans administration will provide education benefits to eligible veterans who attend approved schools in foreign countries. Contact your nearest VA regional office for further information.

Q — Can I enroll in a vocational or trade school under the GI bill?

A — Yes. The Veterans administration says you can use your GI bill education benefits at any approved vocational, technical or trade school.

Q — I'm a Vietnam-era veteran and have been thinking about visiting one of the Veterans administration's vet centers. Do the centers offer any help for wives of Vietnam veterans?

A — Yes. The vet centers will be glad to help any Vietnam veteran, including wives. The centers were designed to help Vietnam-era veterans readjust to society, and often unhappy home lives contribute to the veterans' problems.

Q — I've heard a lot recently about something called Agent Orange. What is it?

A — Agent Orange, so named because it was shipped to Vietnam in orange striped barrels, was a chemical defoliant used to uncover enemy hiding places and to destroy Viet Cong food crops. It was made up of two chemicals, 2, 4-D and 2,4,5-T which have been used widely throughout the world since the 1940s by farmers, foresters and homeowners to kill unwanted vegetation.

Q — Are World War I veterans eligible for Veterans administration outpatient medical care?

A — Yes. All veterans of World War I are eligible for VA outpatient care for any medical condition.

Q — Is there an expiration date on my Veterans Administration home loan benefit?

A — No. Loan entitlement is no longer subject to an expiration date.

Q — What is the maximum amount I can borrow on a Veterans Administration guaranteed home loan?

A — There is no legal maximum. The VA will guarantee 60 per cent of the loan or $27,500, whichever is less. The total amount of the loan is determined by the policy of your lending institution and by your ability to repay the loan.

Q — My husband died in 1975. At the time of his death I did not want the headstone or marker provided by the Veterans Administration, but I heard recently that the VA pays an amount toward the purchase of a headstone. Am I entitled to this VA benefit?

A — No. The law providing for this benefit was not passed until late 1978. The deceased must have been buried after the law took effect in order for the survivor to be eligible for reimbursement.

Energy-Saving Homes Present Health Problem

Homeowners who invest in energy-saving additions to their homes without the proper know-how may be exposing their families to a serious health hazard — indoor air pollution.

According to the current issue of National Wildlife magazine, air-tight homes outfitted with triple-glazed window, air-lock vestibules, weather stripping and plastic vapor barriers in walls, floors and ceilings may be "residential thermos bottles," which trap dangerous pollutants inside. In fact, a report recently released by the National Academy of Sciences concluded that exposure to indoor air pollution is "common enough to account for substantial mortality and premature mortality."

The problem is much more prevalent in newer homes, the National Wildlife Federation's bimonthly publication emphasizes. In older, draftier homes the air is replaced by fresh air about once an hour. But in some of today's tightly-sealed houses the inside air is replaced only about once every ten hours. Because most Americans spend 80 to 90 per cent of their time inside rather than out, there is a real health threat. "In some circumstances, there's much more exposure to indoor pollution than outdoor pollution," Yale epidemiologist Dr. Jan Stolwijk told National Wildlife.

Pollutants trapped inside airtight dwellings may include:

+Formaldehyde, which is found in a host of products — particularly board and plywood, insulating foam, adhesives and household furnishings. The gas given off can cause eye irritation, breathing difficulties and nausea.

+Carbon monoxide and oxides of nitrogen, which are mainly generated by gas ranges, heaters, wood stoves and tobacco smoke. The gasses can cause headaches, dizziness and are linked to a variety of respiratory ailments.

+Suspended particulates from tobacco-smoking and wood-burning which can be inhaled and lodged in the lungs. The tiny particles of hydrocarbons can cause respiratory ailments.

+Radon, a decay product from radium, often found in soil and building materials. Where radon levels are high, the radioactive particles can accumulate in the lungs and may eventually cause cancer.

+Household chemicals, including furniture polish, oven cleaner, hair spray and air freshener. These products contain organic chemicals that add to indoor smog. Health impacts from these pollutants are not yet known.

Homeowners hoping to cut down on fuel bills needn't be discouraged. They can still take such energy-saving measures as installing storm windows, insulating ceilings and hot water heaters and turning down thermostats. They should also be on the alert for warning signs. If the home seems stuffy, if there is excess moisture in the winter, or if family members suffer from frequent headaches or eye irritation, indoor air pollution may be a problem.

For energy efficient homes the U.S. Department of Energy recommends air-to-heat exchangers. These divises, widely used in Scandinavia and Japan, boost ventilation while retaining much of a dwelling's heat.

"Conservation remains our cheapest form of available energy," NWF executive vice president Dr. Jay D. Hair emphasizes. "With proper guidance, homeowners can make energy efficient improvements to their homes and avoid the hazards of indoor air pollution."

Nutrition News and Notes

If you have a healthy interest in the food you eat, here's some nutritional information you should find nourishing.

- Vitamin C, what many experts refer to as the "glue" that holds the body together, is water soluble, and cannot be retained in the body for further use. It must be "reapplied" every day.

- One of the world's most important cereal crops is rice. It has one certain advantage over other cereal grasses such as oats, rye, wheat and barley. Rice does not create many of the allergic conditions of other cereals, and it has a better vitamin profile than other related cereals.
- A versatile yogurt culture that's considered good for intestinal hygiene is acidophilus. Acidophilus reintroduces friendly bacteria and is often taken when one is using an antibiotic. One company, Schiff, perhaps the most respected name in nutrition, offers its Acidophilus Preparation in a powder form in a two piece capsule. This allows the organism to revive when it enters the moist atmosphere of the stomach, and start to do its work efficiently.

A complete catalogue of that company's wide range of vitamins, minerals and food supplements is available free by writing to: Schiff, Dept. N, Moonachie Avenue, Moonachie, N.J. 07074.

HOW'S YOUR HEALTH?

The burn is one of the most painful injuries suffered in day to day activities around the home, the work place and while at play, says the Minnesota Medical Association (MMA). Physicians classify burns by degree. In first degree burns the outside layer is affected, most sunburn is first degree. The burn is second degree if layers of the skin beneath the surface are involved. If all layers of the skin are involved the burn is third degree.

Cold water of cold compresses to ease the pain should be used to treat first degree burns. Cover the first degree burn area with a clean bandage. Do not apply butter or grease and do not use other medications or home remedies without a physicians' recommendations.

Cold water or cold compresses — not iced — may be used to ease the discomfort of second degree burns. Cover the burned area with a dry sterile bandage or a clean cloth, and then elevate burned arms or legs. Do not attempt to break blisters. Do not apply ointments, sprays, antiseptics or home remedies. Seek medical attention promptly.

In third degree burns the burned area appears white or charred. Do not remove clothes that are stuck to the burn. Do not put ice or water on the burns. Avoid the ointments and sprays. Check to make certain the victim can breathe. Place cold cloth or cool water — not iced — on burns of the face, hands or feet to cool the areas.

The MMA urges that you call for an ambulance immediately in third degree burns. Prompt medical attention is imperative. If the victim is having trouble breathing, elevate head and shoulders slightly. If medical attention is more than two hours away, give the victim water or a weak solution of salt — one level teaspoon — and baking soda — one-half level teaspoon — mixed with one quart of cool water. Give an adult half a glass, less for a child. Have the victim sip slowly, and repeat every 15 minutes. Clear juices, such as apple, may also be given. Do not give fluids if victim is unconscious or is vomiting.

For chemical burns, a rapid flushing with water of the burned area is important. Let the water run over the burned area at least five minutes. Use a garden hose, shower or a tub. Do not use a strong stream of water.

Read the instructions for first aid on the label of the chemical bottle or package and follow them. Seek prompt medical attention.

Millions See Better Because of Eyeglasses

What is the most frequently used medical device in the world today? Give yourself a perfect score if your answer was prescription eyeglasses. There are very few people who do not need glasses at least part of the time at some time during life.

Prescription eyeglasses, including contact lenses, are used for the correction of refractive errors. The main function of glasses is to help focus rays of light on the retina. Improperly fitting glasses will not damage the eye, but they can cause headaches, nausea, eye fatigue, blurred vision and irritation, says the Minnesota Medical Association (MMA). Tinted glasses and sunglasses only cut down on glare from light, and unless they are also corrective lenses, have no effect on vision. It is best to limit use of tinted glasses to the beach, snowy areas, and to use when driving over concrete highways in bright sunlight.

Contact lenses are growing more popular and seem to benefit some people more than others. Unlike glasses, improperly fitted contacts can irritate the cornea and cause serious eye problems. Two types of contact lenses are now available: hard and soft. Soft lenses for some are more comfortable. They easily conform to the shape of the cornea, absorb moisture from eyes, and keep foreign matter away because they cover a large area of the eye surface. They are less likely to fall out that are hard lenses.

But soft contacts may sometimes give a less crisp image, are more difficult to clean and often are more expensive. Some eye conditions rule out their use entirely and others are not helped by them.

Some ophthalmologists (medical eye doctors) have expressed concern that the soft lenses may more easily become contaminated with bacteria and cause infection, or that they may absorb chemicals that could injure the eyes. An ophthalmologist can best advise you on whether eyeglasses or a type of contact lense is best for your particular eye condition.

Don't let a fishing accident put you on the hook, warns the Minnesota Medical Association (MMA). A barbed hook in the flesh is the most common fishing accident. Don't leave lures and hooks unprotected. Be extremely careful when baiting your hook or removing a fish. Train yourself to look for spectators or fellow fishermen before you cast to make certain no one is in your way.

Lures and hooks left lying unprotected on a dock or in the bottom of the boat are particularly threatening. The wise fisherman guards against hook accidents by shielding the hook. Stick a small cork over the barb. Store your lures in the tackle box until needed and always promptly return them to the box when they are not in use. Get a firm grip before dislodging a hook from a fish. Hold the fish firmly under the gills so that its head cannot flop or wiggle.

"Sidewinders" who cast with a side arm motion rather than overhead, are responsible for many hook accidents to their fellow fishermen. Watch out for persons near you when you cast and learn to cast overhead. If a hook becomes imbedded in your skin despite precautions, do not try to pull it out. See your doctor. He will snip off the shank and push it through thereby avoiding further damage. If necessary, he will administer antibiotics and tetanus toxoid. Hook wounds often lead to infection.

Other fishing and boating safety tips offered by the MMA include:

+ Show respect for other boats, swimmers, and fishermen. Do not buzz a dock, wharf or anchored craft.

+ Reduce speed through anchorages. Avoid boating too close to water skiers, fishermen and other boaters.

+ Make certain the boat contains life jackets for each passenger.

+ Know and observe state and federal regulations governing the registration and operation of the boat.

+ Do not jump out of or dive from a moving boat. You may have the breath knocked out of you or be hit by floating debris.

+ Stay within easy range of the shore on large bodies of water. Sudden squalls can play havoc with the unwary boatman.

+ Stay with the boat if it overturns. Do not assume that you are in good physical condition, capable for a long swim in rough or cold water.

THE MICROWAVE COOK

A microwave main dish prepared right in its serving dish.

A new microwave cook — terrific! Try a simple main dish like Cheese Stuffed Beef Balls made moist, flavorful and delicious with Campbell's Condensed Tomato Soup. These beef balls are cooked in an ordinary glass pie plate which also doubles as a serving dish. Before buying special utensils, check your microwave manufacturer's cookbook for recommendations.

CHEESE STUFFED BEEF BALLS

1 can (10 3/4 ounces) Campbell's Condensed Tomato Soup
1½ pounds ground beef
2/3 cup Italian flavored fine dry breadcrumbs
2/3 cup chopped onion
1 egg
¼ teaspoon salt
4 ozs. mozarella cheese, cut in 6 cubes

1. Mix thoroughly ¼ cup soup, beef, breadcrumbs, onion, egg, and salt; divide into six parts. Shape firmly around each cheese cube to form 6 balls. Arrange balls to form a circle in 10-inch glass pie plate. Cover with plastic wrap. 2. Microwave on HIGH 6 to 8 minutes, turning dish once. Drain. Pour remaining soup over balls. Re-cover. 3. Microwave on HIGH 3 to 4 minutes or until done. 4. Let stand 2 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Scientists Can't Explain Tornadoes

by William Hoffman
'U' News Service

The tornado is the most violent windstorm in nature. It is also among the most demonic and devastating of all natural events: a swirling vortex descending from a black cloud, an overhead vacuum cleaner, a great and random leveler.

Because it is unpredictable and elusive, the tornado presents a challenge to scientists bent on understanding its formation and dynamics. Ordinary meteorological instruments rarely survive its passing.

Sophisticated weather radar is making a contribution to the understanding of the motions of air within severe thunderstorms from which tornadoes can emerge, and laboratory models can simulate a tornado vortex, but much of what is known about the behavior of tornadoes still comes from eyewitness accounts.

"We try to learn everything we can from sightings and pictures," said George Freier, a professor of physics at the University of Minnesota. Freier was one of 30 area meteorologists who met recently to discuss the tornado that struck the Twin Cities area June 14 and did approximately $40 million worth of damage.

Even though tornadoes visit the United States more often per year than any other country, "you can't go around setting up tornado research centers," Freier said. The national severe storms center in Norman, OK, in the heart of the infamous "tornado alley," is the major such research center in the country, but few tornadoes have been observed directly by station scientists, he said.

The states of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri are ideal for the formation of tornadoes because they are the meeting places for warm, moist air flowing northward from the Gulf of Mexico and cold, dry air blowing southward from Canada. The meeting of these air masses, which occurs most frequently in late spring and early summer, creates a "synoptic situation" that produces violent thunderstorms and tornadoes, Feier said.

Warm, moist air penetrates the layer of cool air overhead. An updraft or chimney effect is created when the warm air rises and cools and makes contact with the jet stream, which tends to draw it out. The parent cell of the tornado gets its energy from the heat of condensation of the warm, moist air as it rapidly rises and cools. "Heat energy is changed into mechanical energy," Freier said. That mechanical energy takes the shape of a vortex around a low-pressure core.

According to James Serrin, regents' professor of mathematics who has studied the fluid dynamics of the vortex, the tornado funnel is "not very happy" when it bumps into solid ground.

"Contact with the ground creates a dynamic problem for the tornado and puts a strain on the cloud that sends it down," Serrin said. If a funnel does make contact with the ground, often it will form a conelike shell at the point of impact, he said. That shell is the cutting edge of the tornado.

One of the difficulties in studying tornadoes is that, unlike laboratory vortex models, there is "a whole set of dynamic possibilities for tornadoes, depending on the conditions," Serrin said. Small rope-like tornadoes "are less able to maintain control. They may bounce up and down and wobble, and may be only 10 yards wide.

"Another type, called the elphant's trunk, is always moving forward. The bigger ones don't mind contact with the ground so much. Some of them have diameters of more than 200 yards," Serrin said.

Clouds that spawn tornadoes can have incredible energy, Frier said. The cloud that passed over the Twin Cities was about 10 miles wide and several miles higher than an ordinary thunderstorm. At a given instant, the cloud probably contained as much power as the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima, he said.

While most thunderstorms in the Twin Cities occur in the late evening to early morning hours, severe thunderstorms, including those that produce hail and tornadoes, are more likely to occur in the late afternoon or early evening, said geography professor Richard Skaggs.

Severe thunderstorms require a certain set of environmental conditions, including high temperatures and high amounts of low-level moisture, Skaggs said. Those conditions are most likely to arise between 3 and 9 p.m., he said.

The Wagner-Peyser Act created the U.S. Employment Service in 1933, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's "Important Events in American Labor History."

Wildlife Group Operates New Research Center

National Wildlife Federation (NWF), the nation's largest citizens conservation organization, has established a new wildlife research unit which will emphasize its studies on rare, threatened and endangered species.

With the help of grants from Exxon Company, U.S.A.; Union Oil Company of California; and the Robert J. Kleburg, Jr. and Helen C. Kleburg Foundation, the Institute for Wildlife Research will be the NWF's chief information-gathering and research body for the study of wildlife in its natural habitat. "We have wanted to establish a wildlife research center for some time, but lacked the funds," explained Dr. Jay D. Hair, executive vice president of the NWF. "These grants demonstrate that when industry and the non-profit sector work together to achieve common goals, the public is the beneficiary."

Scheduled to open at the NWF's Laurel Ridge conservation education center in Vienna, Va. in October, the Institute will be headed by Dr. S. Douglas Miller of Amherst, Mass. Miller is a wildlife biologist with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's Massachusetts cooperative wildlife research unit at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. He is also a member of the graduate faculty there, directing graduate research on black bear habitat, raccoon populations and non-game studies of mammals and amphibians.

A 1972 graduate of Auburn University, Miller received his Master's degree in 1974 from Colorado State and his Ph.D. in zoology in 1979 from Auburn. He has published numerous articles on the bobcat in scientific journals. As a visiting professor in the Department of Zoology at North Carolina State University, he taught courses in the conservation of natural resources and wildlife biology.

Miller will also head the NWF Institute for Wildlife Research's Center for feline species, which will collect and analyze data on the nation's shrinking populations of wild cats, emphasizing research on the often controversial bobcat.

Another arm of the Institute will be the FWS already-existing Raptor Information Center. Created in 1976 to serve as a clearing-house for information on the bald eagle and other birds of prey, it is headed by William S. Clark. The RIC has published reference works on the owl and the bald eagle, conducts workshops for state and federal conservation officials and annually conducts a bald eagle survey — a nationwide census that provides invaluable data on the habits of the national bird and symbol.

Other special study units may be established under the aegis of the new Institute for Wildlife Research in the future, Hair emphasized. The Institute will provide fellowships in order to "free researchers from any cost limitations and to encourage them to do deep-digging research on individual wildlife species," he said. "Unless we support our researchers, we will not have the scientific data necessary to make responsible wildlife management decisions."

HOME BUYER CLINIC

Fred B. Fromhold
President-Elect
American Land Title Association

EXPENSIVE DELAY

When considering precautions, remember that the time for a title search and owner's title insurance is before your purchase of a home is completed. In order to receive full protection, you must obtain a new owner's title policy since the policy of a previous owner is non-assignable to others.

Fromhold

In a southern state, a couple bought a home site and decided a short time later to purchase an adjacent tract in a separate transaction. Although they purchased owner's title insurance on the first site, the couple bought the adjacent land without ordering an owner's policy.

Not long after completing their second real estate purchase, they decided to order an owner's title policy on this property also. The title search showed a money judgment had been recorded against the previous owners, and had become a lien against the property. Since no title search was made and no title insurance was ordered in advance of purchase completion, the buyers didn't learn of the lien soon enough to ask the previous owners to clear up the problem before the transaction closed.

By the time the buyers discovered the lien, the previous owners had left the state and could not be found. The unfortunate couple then realized their delay in ordering owner's title insurance was expensive as they faced negotiating with the creditor at their own expense to secure a release of their property from the judgment lien, so the title would be marketable.

Most problems of land title will be shown in a search of public records and this affords a prospective buyer an advance warning. Although owner's title insurance protects against hazards including those a search will not reveal, a policy will not cover existing difficulties that can be discovered and corrected before completion of a real estate purchase unless these are acceptable to the insurer for coverage.

For free information on home buying safeguards, write American Land Title Association, Box 566, Washington, D.C. 20044.

Granola Is Oh So Versatile

"Eating right" has become more important for many Americans. In fact, one study indicates that the perceived healthfulness of food may be more important in making food choices than cost, taste or convenience.

"Eating right" has different meanings for different people. Some want natural foods, and granola cereals, like Nature Valley® Granola which is 100% natural, are preferred by many. Already popular as a breakfast cereal and snack food, granola can be used in many other exciting ways, too.

For a free, 16-page booklet from Betty Crocker with granola recipes for brunch breads, coffee cake, main dishes, snacks and much more send your name, address and zip code to: Nature Valley Granola Goodness, Box 6, Dept. 815, Minneapolis, MN 55460.

This is one of the delicious recipes from the booklet.

Granola-Brandy Pie

Granola Pastry (below)
1 cup dark corn syrup
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup brandy
1/4 cup margarine or butter, melted
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups Nature Valley granola (toasted oat mixture)
Sweetened whipped cream

Heat oven to 375°. Prepare Granola Pastry. Beat corn syrup, sugar, brandy, margarine, eggs, vanilla and salt with hand beater. Stir in granola. Pour into pastry-lined pie plate. Cover edge with 2- to 3-inch strip of aluminum foil to prevent excessive browning; remove foil during last 10 minutes of baking. Bake until set, 40 to 45 minutes. Serve with sweetened whipped cream.

Granola Pastry: Prepare pastry for 9-inch One-Crust Pie as directed on 1 package (11 ounces) pie crust mix or sticks except — stir in 1/2 cup Nature Valley granola (toasted oat mixture), crushed, before mixing in water.

Let's Create Homemade Conserve

It's Easy the Freezer Way!

If you're searching for new ways to add excitement to the family's eating enjoyment, consider a delicious Plum Nutty Conserve. Jot down "fresh plums" on your marketing list. Be sure to include a package of powdered fruit pectin. Promise yourself to prepare this easy conserve recipe that will complement a good many meals.

Fruit in this freezer recipe isn't cooked — just mixed with sugar, chopped walnuts and powdered fruit pectin. By not cooking the fruit, the flavor stays much fresher, closer to nature. That's a major reason why commercial pectin is added. It helps capture fresh flavor and assures a good "set." Keep in mind that natural fruit pectin decreases as fruit ripens. Because pectin helps a mixture to "jell," it's necessary to supplement natural pectin with the commercial variety.

Refrain from making any recipe changes. At the time you purchase powdered fruit pectin, it's likely you will see packages of liquid fruit pectin. Do not use liquid and powdered fruit pectins interchangeably. While both bring successful results, remember that recipes are developed for a specific type of pectin.

Before you begin to prepare the conserve, read the recipe insert tucked inside the package of powdered fruit pectin. Follow directions for preparing small freezer containers, of not over a pint capacity, with tight-fitting lids. Containers as well as glass jars should be dishwasher safe.

The recipe moves swiftly along: the prepared fruit mixture with pectin is stirred for just 3 minutes, quickly ladled into containers and covered with lids. After standing for about 24 hours, containers can be stored in the freezer up to six months. Jam, either freshly made or thawed from freezer storage, can be stored in the refrigerator up to at least three weeks. Refrigerate a few for ready "sampling."

Inspired to make a variety of fresh fruit jams and jellies? The recipe leaflet is a good place to start. Enjoy the satisfaction of adding to your stock of homemade spreads.

Plum Nutty Conserve

2-3/4	cups prepared fruit (about 2 lb. fully ripe plums and 1 orange)
1/3	cup finely chopped walnuts
5-1/2	cups (2 lb. 6 oz.) sugar
3/4	cup water
1	box Sure-Jell fruit pectin

First prepare the fruit. Pit about 2 pounds plums; do not peel. Cut in small pieces; then chop very fine. Measure 2-3/4 cups into large bowl or pan. Grate the rind from orange; measure 1 teaspoon. Squeeze the juice from 1 orange; measure 1/4 cup. Add orange rind, orange juice and walnuts to plums.

Then make the conserve. Thoroughly mix sugar into fruit mixture; let stand 10 minutes. Mix water and fruit pectin in small saucepan. Bring to a full boil and boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Stir into fruit. Continue stirring 3 minutes. (A few sugar crystals will remain.) Ladle quickly into scalded containers. Cover at once with tight lids. Let stand at room temperature 24 hours; then store in freezer. Small amounts may be covered and stored in refrigerator up to 3 weeks. Makes about 7 cups or about 8 (8 fl. oz.) containers.

Education Ass'n. Files Notice Of Strike Intent

Initial action which sets in motion a strike procedure by the Thief River Falls Education association (TRFEA) was taken Wednesday evening following a negotiations session in the Lincoln high school library. Notice of intent to strike on or after September 25 was given to the board of education over the signature of A. Mike Lehrer, president of the local association.

Prior to issuing the strike notice Wednesday, the TRFEA rejected the board's last contract proposal made the same evening and which would have increased salaries to faculty by $903,869 over a two-year period. According to figures supplied by Supt. Robert Block, the offer amounts to an average increase of $2,062 per teacher in 1981-82 and $2,094 per teacher in 1982-83.

Presented to board chairman Ken Wiebolt, the strike notice states: "Pursuant to M.S. 179.64, Subdivision 1a, notice is hereby given by the Thief River Falls Education association that a legal strike may be conducted against Independent District No. 564 commencing on or after September 25, 1981."

State law requires teacher bargaining units to inform boards of education 10 days in advance of intent to strike. Following the 10-day notice, teachers may legally strike at any time within the next 20 days. At the end of that 20-day period, a new 10-day minimum notice requirement goes into effect and the process is repeated.

Following the meeting, Supt. Block prepared a "Board Brief" publication which provides the district's

From Anchorage To Bemidji . . .

Bikers Still Smiling Following 3,100 Miles

by Bonnie Wentzel
Times Reporter

It wasn't just the fact that we spotted four individuals standing behind Marcoux Corner with bicycles and camping gear that aroused our curiosity as we passed the Corner last week. These bikers were comfortably standing outside that chilly fall morning brushing their teeth as if they were in the confines of a comfortable motel.

It was 7:30 a.m. — an hour before we were told the travelers would be departing from their campsite near Marcoux Corner destined for Bemidji where their 3,100 mile journey would come to a close.

Their story began July 17 of this year in Anchorage, Alaska.

"We drove Mike's car up there and sold it in Anchorage," Gary Halvorson, one of the travelers stated. Halvorson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Halvorson of Thief River Falls. Other team members included Chuck Donkers, Red Wing; Mike Lamaack, Windom; and Sandy Kaplan, Minneapolis.

All four graduated from Bemidji state university last spring — Sandy, an environmental studies-biology major; Chuck, who graduated with a degree in aquatic biology; Mike, who majored in business administration; and Gary, who plans to pursue a career in technical illustration and commercial design.

The trip wasn't organized, according to Chuck, who stated that the idea actually began with Mike and "another guy who chickened out." The four students talked about a bike trip in college although no definite plans were made. "We really don't know how it got started," Sandy said. "We just wanted to try it to see if we liked it. It's been great. It's just too bad it had to take us 3,100 miles to find that out!"

Although Gary was the last to get "talked into" the trip, he shared with his three companions positive feelings toward their journey.

On they way up to Anchorage, the four travelers ferried from Prince Rupert (city and port in Canada in Northwest British Columbia) to Haines — a long story in itself, Gary commented, without revealing just what the story was (and without our prying since the four seemed eager to complete their journey shortly after 8 a.m. that morning).

"That part of the trip was more expensive and longer than we thought it would be," Gary said, recalling that he and Chuck had to wire home for more money.

From mountains to plains the four journeyed south from Anchorage, covering 50 miles per day in the mountains and over 100 miles per day once they reached flat ground. "We had to ride with our brakes on all the way down some of the steeper mountains," Sandy explained. During the last four days, the four had traveled a total of 500 miles.

NCC Library To Get $1,200

Northland community college library will be among 49 college libraries in Minnesota to share over $58,000 in grants from the department of education to improve their services and facilities. Each college is to receive $1,200 for the acquisition of materials and establishment of networks for resource sharing.

Marathon For Non-Public Education Set

Thief River Falls Knights of Columbus of St. Bernard's parish have announced that the sixth annual marathon for non-public education will be conducted October 3.

Marathon is regarded as a viable public relations and fund raising activity in behalf of non-public education.

This year, participants in Thief River Falls will again be obtaining money from per mile pledges to clean roadside ditches. Last year, 30 miles of roadside ditches and Thief River Falls parks were cleaned.

Filings For City Office Open Sept. 22

Second and fourth ward aldermen, an alderman at large and mayor will be elected by Thief River Falls voters at the annual city election scheduled for November 3, according to Gerald Wigness, city clerk-treasurer.

Filing for the offices will open September 22 and continue Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the city clerk's office through Tuesday, October 6. Filing fee is $2.

Four-year terms of Ole Engelstad as second ward alderman, William Penning as fourth ward alderman and Dr. Donald Goodrich as alderman at large expire this year, as does the two-year term of Mayor Bob Carlson.

Peggy Hanson Is Miss Newfolden

Peggy Hanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hanson of Newfolden and a 17-year-old senior at Marshall county central high school, was crowned the first Miss Newfolden Sunday evening at a pageant attended by more than 500 people in the high school gymnasium.

Enroute to the title, Peggy won the evening gown, talent and personal interview divisions and tied with Charmaine Brodersen in the swimsuit division. Jillayne Johnson and Karen Kjensrud were selected as Miss Congeniality winners.

Jillayne Johnson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Johnson of Viking and also a senior at Marshall county central, was first runner-up in the contest. Second runner-up position went to Charmaine Brodersen, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Brodersen of Newfolden and a student at Moorhead state university.

Peggy was sponsored by Stan's Grocery, Jillayne by the Hobo Haus and Charmaine by Marshall County state bank. Other contestants and their sponsors were Rebecca Swenson, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Swenson of Middle River, sponsored by Newfolden Hardware Hank; Tammy Hansen, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hansen of Newfolden, sponsored by the Pool Hall; Karen Kjensrud, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kjensrud of Holt, sponsored by Berggren Insurance agency; and Gwen Gonsorowski, 17, daughter of

Despite Bullet Wound That Nearly Ended Her Life . . .

Newfolden Girl Anxious To Be Back On Patrol

TARGET PRACTICE with her brother's western style revolver was one of the almost daily routines while Cindy Waterworth was on a visit to her parents' farm recently. An assailant's bullet has deprived her of the forward vision in her right eye, but she can still hit a pop can consistently at 50 feet. "This isn't the kind of gear we use on the job," she noted about the low slung western holster, "but I didn't want to go through the hassle of bringing my own guns along on the plane." She hopes to be back on regular patrol duty in a month or two.

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

"You bitch!"

She turned at the words, just as his finger squeezed the trigger. The bullet struck her in the face, its force hurling her across the center console of the patrol car. Then he was gone from the window of the car, leaving her for dead.

Something out of a dime store mystery?

At home at the parental Earl Waterworth farm for a couple of weeks before heading back to Las Cruces Saturday, she took time to share her story. It's a story filled with drama, courage and faith — as well as a mixture of good humor.

"The doctors said it was my hard head that saved me," Cindy laughs. "Some people say I was lucky. Luck didn't have anything to do with it. I believe there was a guardian angel right there guiding that bullet the whole way through."

Cindy had been on the police force at the University of New Mexico for just a few months when the incident took place. She attended Northland community college for a year and served as a parking monitor for the Thief River Falls police department before earning a bachelor of science degree in criminal justice from the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks. She was on the police force in Stillwater, OK, before moving to New Mexico.

On the night in question she had answered a call to a disturbance in one of the dormitories on campus. A 27-year-old Jamaican student had attacked one of the women dormitory residents, pulling her hair and kicking her in the leg. He left the dormitory and Cindy left shortly afterward.

As she was driving on campus a few minutes later, the man flagged her down as he was walking down the street. He came to the driver's side of the patrol car and Cindy remained inside.

"We talked a little bit, he called me a nasty name and I said 'I got to get goin'," Cindy recalls. "I looked away to start the car. He said 'You bitch' and I turned just as he shot. I had no idea he had a gun. It's against the law to have a gun on campus." As it turned out, her reaction to his epithet saved her life; he had intended to shoot her in the back of the head.

Despite the wound and the sudden surprise of the attack,

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Johnson And VanLith Marriage Vows Spoken

Starr Johnson and Carter Van Lith exchanged marriage vows recently at a 7:00 p.m., ceremony at the Bethany Lutheran church, rural Thief River Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Johnson of rural Goodridge. Parents of the groom and Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius VanLith, rural Plummer.

Rev. Gene Broughton officiated at the single-ring ceremony. Organist and soloist was Mrs. Arnold Hammer, a friend of the bride's family. For the processional she played "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring."

Bouquets of roses, in Daphne rose and burgundy, corresponding with the bride's chosen colors, graced the altar.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a gown of organza and Chantilly lace styled in empire fashion with long, tapered sheer sleeves with a lace ruffled cuff. Adouble ruffle of Chantilly lace outlined her scooped neckline and edged her bouffant, floor-length skirt and chapel-length train. Her veil of bridal illusion flowed from a white, wide-brimmed hat. She carried a white pillow, edged with a lace ruffle and topped with a cluster of roses in white and Daphne rose accented with stephanotis, and an orchid.

Cheryl Van Lith of rural Mountain Iron, a sister-in-law of the groom, was matron of honor. She wore a sleeveless burgundy gown designed with a floor-length pleated skirt and a chiffon poncho cape.

Serving as bridesmaids were Rose Johnson, Goodridge, a sister of the bride, and Doreen Marquis, Goodridge, a friend of the bride. Their gowns, styled like the matron of honor's, were in Daphne rose. All wore orchids in their hair and carried nosegays of roses in white and Daphny rose, accented with burgundy roses, and white stephanotis.

The bride's personal attendant was Betsy VanLith.

Jeff VanLith of rural Mountain Iron attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Doug and Vincent Horachek of Goodridge, cousins of the groom. Serving as ushers were Bruce and Brian Hanson of Thief River Falls, cousins of the bride. The groom wore an all-white tuxedo with tails, a white ruffled shirt and a Daphne rose boutoniere. His attendants wore gray tuxedos with burgundy roses pinned on their lapels.

The mother of the bride wore a rose gown featuring a floral print in burgundy and Daphne rose. Her gown was designed with a floor-length pleated skirt and an elbow-length cape. The groom's mother was attired in a blue long-sleeved, floor-length gown in a Daphne rose print. Their corsages were composed of three Daphne rose roses. White roses, tipped in Daphne rose, complemented the gray tuxedos worn by the fathers.

All the flowers at the wedding were of silk and were made by Linda Hegland.

Honor guests at the wedding were the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Kore Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Johnson.

A reception followed with Bonita Johnson and Claire VanLith serving the punch. Mrs. Donald Horachek, an aunt of the groom, poured the coffee and Marlene Hanson, an aunt of the bride, cut and served the three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with Daphne roses. Matching roses and white wedding bells topped the cake. Between the tall pillars that supported the upper tier was a feathered dove.

Waitresses were Kim and Kelly Koropatnicki, Robyn Johnson and Charleen Nerhus.

The groom is a 1979 graduate of the Plummer high school and is employed at the Donald Horachek farm. Photo, R.L. Nieland studio, Thief River Falls.

Officers were elected at the meeting of the Chat and Chew homemakers club held Tuesday at 1:30 p.m., at the home of Camille DuChamp. Outgoing president Betty Feragen presided at the meeting.

Elected were Vi Sullivan, president; Betty DeHaan, vice president; Marian Williams, treasurer; Geneva Overum, secretary and publicity chairman; Wanda Murphy, junior councilor; and Pauline Aubol, senior councilor.

The program booklets were completed with members selecting the topic they will be giving and the month they will be serving. Raising the dues for the coming year was approved.

Plans were made for serving the Friendship club on September 17 at 2:00 p.m., at the courthouse meeting room.

Pauline Aubol gave a report on the last homemakers council meeting; Wanda Murphy was in charge of the topic "Selecting and preparing natural foods;" and Marian Williams led the group in reading the Homemakers creed.

Highlighting the meeting was the revealing of the secret pals with a gift and card. Secret pals for 1981-82 were selected.

A dessert lunch was served by the hostess.

Kimberly Sandnas And Richard Skallet Wed

Kimberly Ann Sandnas and Richard Alan Skallet were married recently at a five o'clock ceremony at the Christ Lutheran church in Eveleth. Rev. Roland Lindeman officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Jane Roberts, Eveleth; Robert Sandnas, Virginia; and Mrs. Evelyn Skallet, Thief River Falls.

Maid of honor was Kelli Greiner, Duluth. Lisa Skallet, Duluth, a niece of the groom; Ronda Hocevar, Janet Deloria and Tracy Sedgeman, all of Eveleth, served as bridesmaids. The flower girl was Molly Wiedenhoft of Makinen, a cousin of the bride.

Larry Skallet of Oklee, a brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Ronald Skallet, Thief River Falls, a brother of the groom; Robert Sandnas, Duluth, a brother of the bride; Dave Swanson, Fargo, N.D., and Dave Skallet, Coon Rapids, a nephew of the groom. Jeremy Verbout of Grygla, another nephew of the groom, carried the rings.

Following the ceremony, a reception with a buffet dinner and a dance was held at the Holiday Inn at Eveleth.

Punch servers were Michele Skallet and Tammi Skallet, Oklee, nieces of the groom. Cutting and serving the wedding cake were Darlene Koropatnicki, Thief River Falls, a sister of the groom, and Sue Skallet, Eveleth, a sister-in-law.

After a wedding trip to Mackinac Island, Michigan, the couple is now at home in Virginia. Photo, Thomas-Leonard studio, Eveleth.

Homemakers Of Rocksbury Meet To Reorganize

Organizational meeting of the Rocksbury homemakers club was held recently at the home of Gina and Synneva Gunderson. The meeting opened with the members reading the club creed in unison. Roll call was answered by reporting on the most enjoyable event this summer.

Presiding at the first meeting of the season was Evelyn Nelson, who together with Audrey Heieren, is serving as club counselor. Other officers for the year are Gladys Heinze, secretary, and Gena Gunderson, treasurer.

Lessons for the year were discussed and assigned, and meeting places were determined. Door prizes were won by Julia Finstad and Gladys Heinze. A dessert lunch was served by the hostesses.

Members attending, in addition to those already mentioned, were Bertha Anderson, Goldie Breiland, Olga Engelstad, Ann Gunderson, Gloria Johnson, Hildur Lian, Dolly Mead, Ivadell Reierson and Minnie Krause.

Susan Kaye Olson To Wed Wayne J. Hjelle

Mr. and Mrs. Duane Olson of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. James Hjelle of Newfolden announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their children, Susan Kaye and Wayne James.

The bride-elect is a 1980 graduate of Lincoln high school. Hjelle is a 1975 graduate of Marshall county Central high school, Newfolden, and is employed by Hjelle Roofing, Newfolden.

The wedding ceremony will take place December 19 at 2:00 p.m., at Trinity Lutheran church, Thief River Falls. All friends and relatives are welcome.

Zehlian Club Organizational Meeting Is Set

Mrs. Alma Elofson will be hosting the fall organizational meeting of the Zehlians at her home at 327 North Merriam on September 16 at 1:00 p.m.

The Zehlian club is a member of the General Federation of Women's clubs, the largest organization of volunteer women in the world. The Federation has a membership of 10 million in 12,000 clubs in 46 countries. A North Dakota woman, Mrs. Don L. Shide of Larimore, is current international president.

All Zehlians are encouraged to attend Wednesday's meeting.

Senior Citizens Of Newfolden Plan Activities

At the meeting of the Newfolden Senior Citizens Inc., held September 3, several fall activities were discussed and planned.

It was announed that the group had been asked to serve the Green Thumb dinner on October 15 for about 80 workers and interested parties. It was noted that the club would be able to plan the menu, at a cost of $3.50 per person. The group voted to serve the dinner. Plans for the meal will be made at the meal site meeting on September 2.

Plans were made for participation in the Fall Festival at Newfolden by entering a float in the parade and by having a craft booth at the County Market.

The organization decided to issue invitations for a free dinner at the Meal Site to members of the Newfolden City council. The council members will be given a choice of three days to use the invitation.

Fun day, the third Wednesday of each month, was discussed. Members were encouraged to assist in planning the program and all were asked to participate in the entertainment.

It was noted that the booklet "Me" made by Tri Valley, will be given to those donating 75 cents to the meal center.

The meeting also included the secretary's report by Mrs. Ruth Martin and the treasurer's report by Lucille Skadsem.

Northland Retired Educators To Meet

Northland Retired Educators association will meet Wednesday at 1:30 p.m., in the Public Library meeting room.

Presiding at the meeting will be the newly elected officers: Dr. David Brown, president; Alma Peterson and Geneva Overum, vice presidents; Libby Jones, secretary; and Estelle Grinde, treasurer.

All retired teachers are welcome to attend.

August Events At Oakland Park Home Are Varied

Birthday parties, private Sunday dinners, baby and wedding showers, and a father and son fish fry highlighted the August activities at Oakland Park Nursing home.

Hosting the monthly birthday party were members of the Hope circle of Zion Lutheran church, Viking. In addition to serving a birthday lunch, they presented gifts to the residents who had birthdays in August. Those honored and the date of their birth were Kathryn Duis, August, 1, 1895; Daniel Danielson, August 1, 1892; Ernest Erickson, August 8, 1907; Constance Ruud, August 29, 1891; and Rudolph Larson, August 29, 1899.

At a separate event, on August 29, Constance Ruud was honored on her 90th birthday when her family visited the home and served birthday cake and ice cream to all the residents and staff.

During August, five residents hosted private Sunday dinners for members of their families or for close friends. On August 2, Connie Hjelle hosted a dinner for Nora Rokke; August 9, Louise Aamodt had Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Muzzy as her guests; August 16, Arthur Stenberg's guests were Inga Berg and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Stenberg; August 13, Rudolph Larson had Rev. Larson and Emmy Larson as his guests; and on August 30, Myrtle Marks was hostess and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Peterson were guests.

Showers given by the residents and staff were a baby shower for Eric Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tim (Sandi) Peterson, and wedding showers for Tami Skibicki and Susan Manning, members of the staff.

The annual father-son fish fry and picnic supper was held August 15. Frying the fish were members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Devotional services were given by Rev. Frank Armstrong, pastor of the First Baptist church; Rev. Jonathan Law of the United Methodist church, and Rev. Roger Raebel, vacancy pastor at St. John Lutheran church. Members of the Martha circle of the Nazareth Lutheran church, Holt, visited the home, on August 4, led a song fest and served lunch; and on August 27 the Marion circle of Trinity Lutheran church visited with the residents and served lunch.

Special entertainment was presented by Raymond Husker and Terri Cuppett, who played the guitar and sang; the Manning family, who gave a vocal concert; and the Rhythm band, who played for listening and dancing pleasure.

Vera Pyle And Kenneth Olson Feted At Dinner

Mrs. Vera Pyle of Gering, Neb., and Kenneth Olson of Denver, Colo., were honored at a dinner on Saturday, September 5, at the Holt Senior Citizen hall.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Keith Olson, Kim Kelly, Donald and Jim of Holt; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Magner and Gene, Mr. and Mrs. Orlin Magner, Brent, Trevor and Shannon, Mrs. Art Skadsem, Mrs. Beverly Boe and Jerod, Mrs. Julia Blinsmon, Mrs. Mabel Sorum, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Magner and Garrett, and Jackie and Thea Peterson, all of Newfolden;

Also Mr. and Mrs. Myron Anderson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Magner, Mayme McLaughlin, Mrs. Laverne Israelson and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Magner and family, all of Thief River Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Martin and family and Mrs. Gary Tanner and Kim of Middle River; Mrs. Vincent Larson and girls of Viking, and Mrs. Krantz and Mya of Halma;

Also Mr. and Mrs. Gaylyn Magner and family of Red Lake Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Silver and Kevin, Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Magner and Danny Magner and children all of International Falls; and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rose and family of Grand Forks, N.D.

Wallace Sparbys to Note 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Sparby will be honored on their 25th wedding anniversary at an open house at the Thief River Country Club on Saturday, September 19, beginning at 4:00 p.m.

The open house is being hosted by the couple's children. No invitations are being sent. All friends and relatives are welcome to attend.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Ervin Broten
rural Viking
Dusty Miller Cookies

- ¾ cup shortening, part lard
- 1 cup white sugar
- 1 beaten egg
- ¼ cup dark molasses
- 2 cups sifted flour
- 2½ teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- powdered sugar

Method: Cream shortening and sugar, add beaten egg and molasses. Sift together flour, soda and spices and stir into creamed mixture. Chill for a couple of hours. Form into balls, the size of a walnut, and dip into powdered sugar. Place two inches apart on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in a hot 400 degree oven for about 10 minutes. Mrs. Broten stated that when the cookies start cracking, she gives the pan a little jolt to increase the cracking. Adding lard to the shortening also makes for deeper cracks in the cookies. Makes about four dozen.

The Brotens live on a farm about 11 miles from Viking. They have six children with three sons Robert, Kent and Steve, at home. Their daughter, Jayne, a home economics instructor at Newburg, N.D., is in her first year of teaching, David is an engineer at Advanced Irrigatin company out of West Fargo; and Derwin, their oldest son, lives in Warren and is employed by Pribbs Manufacturing company.

One grandson and two granddaughters complete the family circle.

Nelson-Wilson Place In Dist. Flower Show

Two members of the Moccasin garden club received highest division points for their entries in the 13th District Minnesota State Horticularural show held recently at the Warroad school.

They were Mrs. Norton Nelson of Thief River Falls, in the roses division and Mrs. Sidney Wilson of Goodridge, in the dahlia division. Mrs. Wilson also had the champion dahlia exhibit. In the new introductions of vegetable division Mrs. Nelson placed first with her variety of summer squash.

Receiving the highest total points at the show was Lewis Wallace of Middle River. To correspond with the show theme, "Fairy Tales in Flowerland," he had the most points and won the grand champion in the flower arrangements, class A novice division for his entry, "Little Red Riding Hood." He also received grand champion in house plants, roses, and perennial flowers and highest points in annuals. In the new introduction to flowers, he won with his new kind of impatiens.

Other winners at the show were Shirley Andol, Roseau, most points and grand champion in class B amateur flower arrangements for her "Rumpelstiltskin" entry and grand champion gladiolus; Mrs. Stanley Roadfeldt, Badger, most points in class C advanced amateur in flower arrangements, grand champon for her "Cinderella" arrangements, and the winner in the corsage division; LaRae Barrett, Roseau, most points in potted plants and African violets and grand champion violet; Mrs. Andy Erickson, Badger, highest number of points in the gladiolus division; John Lamberson, Baudette, grand champion exhibit in annuals; Gladys Krohn, Williams, most points and champion exhibit in vegetable and fruit division; and Bonnie Schuh, Roseau, highest points in perennial flowers.

The Gro-Rite club of Badger won the award for the club having the highest total points.

Clubs hosting the show were the Green Thumb, North Star and Williams Gardeners.

Compost Making Is Studied By Campanula Club

Campanula garden club meeting was held Wednesday at 2:00 p.m., at the home of President Ruth Holmes. Mrs. Holmes presided at the meeing and led the group in reciting the club creed and reading the September poem. The eight members present answered roll call by giving a tip on making a compost.

To correspond with the roll call theme, Edith Franson was in charge of the topic, "Making a Compost." Reports were given by secretary Viola Koglin, good cheer chairman Bernice Knutson and treasurer Olga Johnson. The "Happy Birthday" song was sung in honor of the hostess's birthday.

The meeting concluded wth an exchange of plants, fruit, bulbs and perennials.

Guests at the meeting were Ellen Peterson and Eleanor Tornes.

Ripley Alliance Refunded By State Dep't.

Word was received recently that the Martha Rogers Ripley Alliance for Battered Women, Inc. has been refunded by the state department of corrections for the years 1981-1983. Original grant was awarded in August, 1979.

The Alliance, the governing organization of the Ripley Shelter, was founded by members of the women's resource center from Crookston, and members of the women and health task force of the Agassiz chapter of the National Organization of Women (NOW). Shelter for battered women, located in Thief River Falls, opened March 17, 1980.

Services provided by the Ripley Shelter include emergency shelter for battered women and their children, advocacy, appointment transportation, information and referral, and a 24 hour crisis line. If you are or have been a victim of violence and need shelter services, call (218) 681-5557.

Importance Of Crop History Emphasized

U.S. secretary of agriculture has announced his intention to implement a 15 per cent "reduced acreage" or set-aside program for 1982 wheat to offset the effects of record supplies and depressed wheat prices, according to the Pennington county ASCS office.

The program would be voluntary and based on market conditions; producers could decide whether they want to participate. Benefits from other programs would, however, be available only to those producers who participate in the set-aside program.

Chairman Harold Kalsnes of the Pennington county ASC committee reminds producers that the certification of 1981 planted acreage now becomes more important than ever.

Any farmer who does not certify his 1981 planted acreage is automatically given a zero base acreage for the program crops for 1982", Kalsnes reported. "And depending on the language in the new farm bill, a producer without a crop history could be prevented from participating in the set-aside program as well as all other ASCS programs."

Kalsnes stated that the deadline for filing acreage reports at the ASCS office was July 15, 1981. A late-filed report can be accepted if the producer will pay an inspection fee, and if evidence of the crop is still apparent.

If you have not filed a 1981 planted acreage report, the announcement of a set-aside program for 1982 makes it more important than ever. Call at the ASCS office on Dale street in Thief River Falls for more information.

AVTI Workshop Geared For Adult Educators

Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute (AVTI) is offering a two-day workshop for patient educators, floor nurses, public health nurses, social workers, parent-educators and anyone involved in planning educational experiences for adults.

"Adult Learning: Tools for Effectiveness in Helping Adults Change" will be conducted September 28 and September 30 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at United Methodist church, First and Horace, Thief River Falls. Workshop fee is $40 for two days, which includes lunch and refreshments.

Workshop leaders are Paula Cooper, assistant director of nursing in charge of patient education and staff development at Fairview hospital in Minneapolis, and Rhoda Redleaf, trainer for parents and child care professional with Toys 'N Things resource center in St. Paul.

Workshop, sponsored with Northwestern hospital, is designed to give practical tools to help those in their roles as educators, whether it be in a one-to-one, small group, or workshop setting; whether it be formal or informal, whether educators are planning or conducting the training.

Pre-registration is required by September 23 by contacting Adult Education, Thief River Falls AVTI, Highway One East, Thief River Falls, MN 56701; (218) 681-5424.

Bikers Still Smiling After 3,100 Miles

much of a problem during the trip. It rained every day in Alaska, making up for the absence of rain during the entire month of August once they were out of Alaska. Mosquitoes didn't bother, them until they got to Marcoux when they "were as bad there as they were during the entire trip," Gary said. As far as other pests, they were only bothered once by a bear at camp near Contact Creek in the Yukon on the British Columbia border, which ate half of their food while the four travelers sat helplessly (and hungrily) watching their rations disappear.

Another incident hindering their efforts, other than minor bike repairs, was the disappearance of Chuck's sleeping bag and tent at Moose Jaw (city in southern Saskatchewan). The two hitchhikers who were carefully making their way down the highway with stolen goods were apprehended, however.

"We got them back," Gary said, "with a little help from the police."

The night before the incident, temperatures had hit the freezing point, Chuck said, so they were lucky to get their sleeping facilities returned.

It was during the entire way to Moose Jaw, too, that the travelers experienced 20 mile-per-hour head winds causing them to cover the least amount of miles, although they were able to make up for lost time by covering more miles than normal the following day.

The travelers made their journey with two tents (which they hadn't set up for the past two weeks), a minimal supply of food, water, less money than they could have used, and little clothing (sweat pants, socks, shirts, jeans and a couple pair of underwear).

"What we've got on is about all we brought," Gary smiled, standing comfortably in his V-neck sweater, sweat pants, T-shirt and hat.

"We had to carry lots of food through Alaska," Sandy said, "because there weren't many towns." But once they got out of that territory, stops to buy food became more frequent. Maybe too frequent when fast-food restaurants began to appear along the roadsides.

"We've eaten our share of rice!" Gary commented, "and instant potatoes."

"And millions of grilled cheese sandwiches!" Chuck added.

Although they carried a map, their ruote was quite simple.

"There was only one road the whole way!" Gary said, referring to the Alaska Highway. "When we got to Saskatoon (city in central Saskatchewan) we could either go to Winnipeg or Minot. I guess the wind was right to go to Minot so we did."

The bikers traveled across

342 miles of gravel on the Highway. "As far as roads go, the last 90 miles of gravel over the Alaska Highway were the worst," Chuck said.

Although the four met many "storytelling" folks along the way, it wasn't until they got farther south that people begin to find the bikers the storytellers. "Most people thought we were crazy," Sandy said.

But the 54 days they had been gone with their bicycles the day we caught up with them at Marcoux was surely a reality. (That is, 54 days with one week off since the group took a break at least once a week). And they should have reached Bemidji pretty much as they had planned, according to Halvorson.

As for making the trip again — the four agreed they may make "a" trip, but not the same trip again. "We wouldn't ride the Alaska Highway," Gary said.

"We'd maybe get motors on our bikes and go on a shorter trip — by about 50 days!" Chuck laughed. "And go someplace where prices are lower."

"I don't think we saw as much as we figured we would," Gary added, "You can't stare into the mountains or you'll run off a cliff!"

The four, not by their choice, missed one of the most beautiful parts of their journey, when fog created by forest fires at Fort Nelson (city in British Columbia) permitted them to see only 200 yards ahead of them.

"They needed help fighting fires, and we were prepared to stay there a few days if they needed us," Gary said.

The four agreed that bike repairs would be necessary as their journey came to an end, along with job hunting, which was certainly unavoidable.

"The wind is not really with us today," Gary said, as he examined the sky, his cap half-concealing a reddened face from days spent in the sun.

Yet the four were packed and ready to go at their scheduled time — smiling — despite sun and windburned faces, and 3,100 miles of biking.

NOW Meet Features Birth Control Study

Agassiz chapter of National Organization for Women, Inc. (NOW) announces a meeting Thursday (September 17) at Northland community college on the topic "Feminism and Fertility".

This Upson lecture was given last winter at the University of North Dakota and the publicity did not reach our area in time for people to attend.

Germaine Greet discussed her research on the various methods of birth control and the variety of dangers that they present to both male and female users.

Lecture will begin at 7 p.m. in room B-21 and the public is encouraged to attend. Anyone making decisions on the use of birth control should have access to the information Greet presents. She has been researching the effects of all forms of birth control in use around the world and casts her doubts about them in questions that the individual user should consider before making a decision.

"The best reason to attend a FREE Weight Watchers meeting is you."
Jan Schonwetter, Director of Weight Watchers in the Upper Midwest

"I could tell you what Weight Watchers has done for millions of people just like you...for example, most Weight Watchers members enter with 10 to 25 lbs. to lose. I could tell you that Weight Watchers has changed people's lives and the way they think about themselves. I could tell you about the support of the Weight Watchers group and everything you can learn in the classes. I could tell you that the Weight Watchers food programs include lots of good things to eat like popcorn, peanut butter, wine, beer, cheeseburgers. (In limited amounts, of course.) I could tell you that you don't have to speak at meetings (if you don't want to) and you don't have to eat a lot of food you don't want to.

But I want you to see for yourself, without cost or obligation, how Weight Watchers helped more people lose more weight than any other weight loss program in the world."

School Night For Scouting This Thursday

Opportunity for boys to join the scouting program will be provided at the annual "School Night for Scouting" to be observed Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Knox, Washington and Northrop elementary schools, St. Bernard's school and Franklin middle school in Thief River Falls and the elementary school in St. Hilaire.

Adults working in the scouting program will be in attendance at all schools and parents are encouraged to attend with their youngsters. More information on the scout program will be given and questions will be answered.

Boys in grades three, four and five will join the Cub scout program and those from sixth through 12th grades are eligible for the Boy scout program. Boys should register at the school where they attend school classes.

Boys who have been Cub or Boy scouts and have reregistered need not attend the school night program. Youngsters may join Pack or Troop 199 at St. John Lutheran church, Pack or Troop 59 at Zion Lutheran church or Pack or Troop 57 at St. Bernard's Catholic church. No pack or troop presently exists at St. Hilaire but plans are to organize units there.

Local scout units are part of the Voyageur Trails district which includes Pennington, Polk, Norman, Roseau, Kittson, Marshall, Red Lake and Mahnomen counties and is part of the Northern Lights council. The organization is funded by sustaining membership enrollment and the United Way.

Peggy Hanson Crowned Miss Newfolden

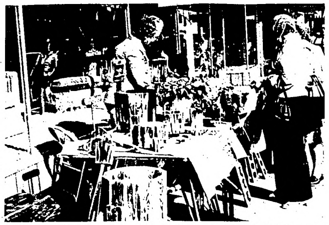
Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Gonsorowski of Newfolden, sponsored by Dean's Standard.

As winner of the title and the individual divisions, Peggy Hanson will receive a $100 award from the sponsoring MCC Jaycee Women, $100 savings bond from the Marshall county state bank, jewelry, hair styling, gift certificates and other gifts from participating businesses in the Newfolden and Thief River Falls areas.

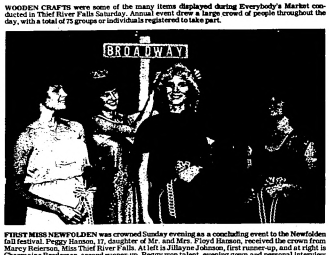
Visiting royalty at the pageant included Kim McLean, Miss Grygla; Mary Gentry, Miss Middle River; Vickie Hams, Miss Karlstad; and Marcy Reierson, Miss Thief River Falls, who crowned the new Miss Newfolden. Rich Fillafer served as master of ceremonies, Becky Olson of the Jaycee Women gave the welcome, and Judy Duray served as pageant pianist. Cindy Borg gave commentary during on-stage personality and evening gown competition. In addition to talent performances by Kim McLean and Mary Gentry, entertainment was provided by Wendy Swenson.

Judges for the pageant were Mr. and Mrs. Neil McEwen, Mr. and Mrs. James Matson and Mrs. William Ness, all of Thief River Falls.

The Miss Newfolden pageant, conducted under the theme "On Broadway", was concluding event for the weekend fall festival at Newfolden.



WOODEN CRAFTS were some of the many items displayed during Everybody's Market conducted in Thief River Falls Saturday. Annual event drew a large crowd of people throughout the day, with a total of 75 groups or individuals registered to take part.



FIRST MISS NEWFOLDEN was crowned Sunday evening as a concluding event to the Newfolden fall festival. Peggy Hanson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hanson, received the crown from Marcy Reierson, Miss Thief River Falls. At left is Jillayne Johnson, first runner-up, and at right is Charmaine Brodersen, second runner-up. Peggy won talent, evening gown and personal interview divisions of pageant competition and tied with Charmaine in the swimsuit division. She is a senior at Marshall county central school. Photos from the pageant and fall festival parade will appear in Wednesday's edition of the Times.

Babysitting Co-Op Has 1st Anniversary

This month the Thief River Falls babysitting co-op will be noting its first anniversary, with 17 families now involved in the program.

Thief River Falls co-op began last fall, according to Linda Weiss, secretary, through an adult education class on babysitting co-ops offered by Peggy Johaningsmeir. Three families were represented at that class. The co-op now involves 17 families with a total of 39 children.

Monthly meetings are conducted by the co-op to decide upon co-op policies, update family information, discuss problems that might arise within the co-op, welcome new families into the co-op, distribute information, and revise format.

Secretary, who serves a three-month term and assumes her responsibilities when her name comes up on the list, serves as the only official in the co-op. Secretaries are on the membership list in the order in which they joined the co-op. Thier duties include maintaining families' point records, and receiving phone calls from families reporting any sitting they have provided including who sat, whose children were cared for, number of children cared for, and number of hours cared for as well as any meals served.

Secretary records this information for both families, adding points to the sitter's total and subtracting the same number of points from the total of the family which had its children provided care.

Basic premise of the co-op according to Weiss, is for responsible families to exchange points instead of money for child care. Co-op members choose assignments according to their own discretion. Members try to keep their points balanced on a monthly basis, and must not have a deficit or accumulation of more than 50 points at the end of any one month.

Main reasons for joining co-ops, Weiss said, include economic reasons, the concern of parents for children to be with other children, working parents who need sitters for their children and for newcomers who may want to meet other families. Membership includes both traditional and single parent families within the Thief River Falls area.

Cost for joining the co-op is $1 per family per quarter (three months) with dues used for secretarial supplies. Upon joining, each family submits information to be placed on a master list which is distributed to all members. Such things as the parent's name, address, phone number, children, who to contact in case of emergency, medical problems of children, and special instructions on childrens' habits, are included on the list.

A number of open meetings have been scheduled this fall with each to include a short business meeting, followed by informational presentations by Linda Worth and Peggy Johaningsmeier.

Meetings have been scheduled at the Northwest Regional Library in Thief River Falls from 7 to 9 p.m. Dates are September 14, "Healthy Food for Healthy Kids," October 12 — "Playing Safe and Happy," and November 9 — "Disciplining Other's Children."

Interested families are invited to attend any or all of the fall meetings. Even those not interested in the co-op but who wish to hear the presentations, are invited to attend. For further information, persons may contact Dee Nelson, fall secretary, at 681-7243.

Marshall Co. Considered For Disposal Site

Nearly 19 square miles of public land in Marshall county has been designated for study as possible hazardous waste disposal sites by the Minnesota waste management board. (WMB).

A public meeting to discuss the possible sites will be held from 6:30 to 10 p.m. Wednesday, at the Spruce Valley community center in Middle River. Representatives of WMB will display maps and aerial photographs of the study area and provide information on the siting process. Residents are encouraged to attend and provide specific information and recommendations regarding suitability of the study area as a hazardous waste disposal site.

All land in Cass, Kittson, Koochiching, Marshall and Polk counties had been ruled out last May, but a preliminary analysis July 23 eliminated 950 acres because of ground water ans surface water conditions, leaving only about 50 square miles of public land under consideration. On August 27, the board added about 60 square miles of public lands in nine northern counties to its 900 square miles of study areas statewide as a result of a decision to relax its criteria and intensively examine all available public lands.

The proposed Marshall county sites include county state and federal land in sections 33 and 34 in East Park township, section 25 in Como township, sections 2 and 3 in Thief Lake township, sections 28,32,33 and 34 in Moose River township, section 23 in Whiteford township, sections 19, 30 and 31 in Rollis township, sections 4, 5 and 6 in Eckvoll township and sections 33, 34 and 35 in Espelie township.

The board also added three sections in Kittson county, four square miles in Polk county, four square miles in Beltrami county, seven square miles in Cass county, nine square miles in Itasca county, nine square miles in Aitkin county, six square miles in Koochiching county and two square miles in St. Louis county.

The board was to trim the list of potential sites to about 100 at its September 10 meeting, and then will reduce it to 20 at a session September 24. After testing by the state pollution control agency, six final sites must be picked by March 15. Governor Quie then will appoint six local review committees from each of the areas, with one member of each local committee added to the state board as a voting member to help pick the final site by January 1984.

Marshall county currently does not even have a sanitary landfill.

Newfolden Girl Anxious To Be Back On Force

Cindy reacted by drawing her own gun but falling out of the car. "I was going after him," she said, "and I'll admit that I intended to kill him."

How far did she get?

"About half way to the back wheel of the squad car," she recalls, laughing. "Then I realized I probably couldn't do anything. I had my gun in my right hand, my left hand over my right eye, it was dark outside, I had blood in my eyes and I couldn't see. I thought that if I didn't get back in the squad car some student would come along and run over me."

She radioed to the campus police dispatcher for assistance, and the dispatcher had to contact the Las Cruces city police department because there was no other campus officer on duty. Then she turned on the flashing lights of the squad car and waited for help.

"I remember thinking, 'Hey, I've been shot. I better treat myself for shock.' " She decided to lie down beside the squad car.

"But there was blood all over the place," she said. "I thought, 'Oh, no, I'll get my uniform dirty.' That's one thing I remembered from police work in Oklahoma. They always told you there's two things that make a good police officer. You never miss a coffee break and you don't get your uniform dirty." She decided to ignore the uniform and did lie down.

Help arrived within minutes. Throughout the entire ordeal she never lost consciousness and she insists she felt no pain. Within a couple of hours she was in Providence Memorial hospital in El Paso, Texas, about 50 miles away. She had lost several pints of blood but never required a transfusion. "God just helped me keep manufacturing red blood cells," she said.

About the time she arrived in El Paso for medical treatment, her parents were notified at Newfolden. "My understanding was that it was just a flesh wound," Mrs. Waterworth recalls. "I didn't even wake Earl. He had had open heart surgery a short time before and I didn't need two sick people in the family. Later her minister called and suggested that we come out there. I realized then that it was more serious."

Cindy's church congregation in New Mexico paid for round-trip airplane tickets for her parents to come to visit her in the hospital. The University of Texas, El Paso, provided room for them to stay without any charge and an auto dealer provided them with a car to use while in the area. Two of Cindy's close friends, Monica Lujan and Renae Mayer, visited her every day and Monica spent the first three days and nights at the hospital.

During her recovery, Cindy has had six specialists involved in her case, including an ear, nose and throat specialist, two ophthalmologists, a neurologist, a reconstructive surgeon and psychologist. The reconstruction surgeon took bone from her hip and reconstructed her nose, cheekbone and eye socket.

Because the bullet severely damaged the chewing muscles on the right side of her face, she has had to work at stretching them to avoid further surgery. The doctors gave her a stack of tongue depressor sticks which she was to use between her teeth to force the jaws apart. She started with a stack of four depressors, gradually adding another as the muscles were stretched.

"Since I've been home eating steak and corn on the cob, I've been giving those muscles a real work-out," she laughed. The simple therapy may have been effective, but it wasn't comfortable. "It hurts," she said of the tongue depressor routine, "but I'll do anything to keep from having more surgery." By the time she left for New Mexico Saturday, she had increased the stack to 17 depressors and had run out of her supply.

Use of the flat sticks and massage of the lower eyelid where an incision was made for the reconstructive cheek and eye surgery are the only therapy she presently requires. She has seen a psychologist for evaluation, primarily because it's a requirement to get back on the police force actively.

"The psychologist can't believe it," she said. "She says I'm not even paranoid. She asked me if I was depressed and I said, 'What's depressed?' She said I was one of the most normal people she had ever seen."

Not that Cindy doesn't think about the incident often, and about the man who did the shooting and is now held in a Las Cruces jail. He is in an isolated cell because of possible harm from other prisoners. And the university community was especially upset by the shooting. "Cut the sucker loose and we'll take care of him," was the sentiment most often expressed, Cindy said.

Does Cindy have personal thoughts about her attacker?

"I've thought about that a lot," she said. "I know that God loves him as much as He loves me. But I also believe God is just and that we have to pay for our crimes. I'll be very, very disappointed if he isn't found guilty and sentenced to prison for a good long time."

The defendant is charged with attempted murder of a police officer and aggravated battery. He could receive a maximum of nine years on the first charge and three years on the second, for a consecutive total of 12 years. Considering the brutality and intent of the crime, it doesn't seem long. What if he had been successful in the attempt?

"He would probably never have been caught," Cindy said. "When help came I gave them his name, where he lived, everything. I wanted to make sure that if I didn't make it he was going to be caught."

Cindy said that the tought of dying entered her mind and that she found out later a mortician had been contacted. "But I kept thinking 'I'm too young to die. God gave me 70 years or more. I refuse to die!' Four hours later when they were sewing me up in the emergency room I was still yakking away."

Two days later the pain hit. "For two days — nothing," she recalled. "Then I woke up in the middle of the night screaming my head off because of the pain. The doctor hadn't prescribed any pain-killers, only antibiotics. "I told the nurses 'You better call him!' or I was going to scream all night. But after about two weeks I could get by with two or three Tylenol, and that's all I need now."

Cindy said she received flowers and cards and calls from many different states. She remembers cards from the Thief River Falls police department and the department in Stillwater, Oklahoma, and she greatly appreciated the thoughts and prayers for her recovery.

There is no doubt in her mind that she wants to get back into police patrol work. "What happened is one of those things you accept as a possibility when you put on a badge and a gun," she philosophizes. "You hope that if it does happen it happens to anybody but you. It just happened to me. I was the first police officer shot in the Las Cruces area in 22 years. This hasn't changed my attitude toward police work one bit."

Another thing it hasn't changed is her view of gun control. "Somebody asked me about that in the emergency room," Cindy said. "I told them it hasn't changed my opinion one bit. Nobody is going to take my guns away from me, and I don't think they should be taken away from any citizen of the United States. As far as that gun control business goes, they can stick it in their ear!"

Cindy has one physical problem as a result of the shooting. She has only peripheral vision in her right eye; with about half of the frontal vision blocked out. She doesn't believe it will hamper her police work, and she disagrees with her doctors that it will be permanent.

"I've got a pretty strong God," she says, "and I believe He is going to heal my eye. It may sound funny to you, but I don't think God intended for me to be partially blind. I expect to get my sight back again."

Meanwhile, it is back to her home at Tortugas, near Las Cruces, more visits to the doctor, more work on the jaw muscles, more waiting to get back her strength and back to work.

And then there will be the trial, probably later this year. No plea bargaining is expected; the prosecution wants the full measure of penalty under the law.

"I feel a whole lot more comfortable when he's in jail," Cindy says.

Conservation Education Day Set Sept. 18th

Pennington county sixth graders from Franklin middle school, Goodridge and St. Bernard's school are invited to participate in conservation education day, sponsored annually by the Pennington county extension service. It will be held on Friday, September 18 at Northland community college ecological area.

Students participating in this event will have an opportunity to attend ten different classes taught by a staff of volunteers from various agencies. This year's classes and instructors include: Orienteering — Howard Person, Pennington county extension agent; Waterfowl Managerment — Jon Parker, department of natural resources; Wildlife Management — Tom Feiro, University of Minnesota, Crookston; Soil Conservation — Al Gustafson, soil conservation service; Entomology — Carlyle Holen, University of Minnesota, Crookston; Camping — Dave Kabes, Red Lake county extension director; Trapping — Doug Courneya, 4-H member; Waterfowl — Ron Bell, Agassiz national wildlife refuge; Forestry — Bill Sliney, University of Minnesota area extension agent; and Wild Edible Foods — Ann Olson, Crookston.

Apples for the morning snack are provided by Hartz wholesale and milk for the noon lunch is provided by Bridgeman creameries.

AVTI Schedules Workshop On Solar Energy

A solar geothermal workshop will be offered by the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute, (AVTI) October 2 from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Best Western Inn, Thief River Falls. A fee of $20 includes coffee, rolls, and lunch.

Morning session will be conducted by Vance Schipper, rural Crookston, who uses passive solar and a heat vault to store heat plus geothermal to heat and air condition his own home. He has no other type of standby system.

Afternoon session will be presented by Leland Hayes, Thief River Falls who will discuss domestic solar hot water and active solar heating.

Pre-registration is required by September 25 by contacting Adult Education, Thief River Falls AVTI, Highway One East, Thief River Falls, MN 56701; (218) 681-5424

Info Sessions For Ex-GI's Set In Bloomington

Retired personnel from all branches of military service and their spouses are being invited by the navy to attend the seventh annual retired personnel seminar, October 10 at the Marriott Hotel, Bloomington.

This year's seminar will cover such topics as military benefits, health care, rights and benefits under social security and any pending legislation which may affect retired members and their families. Speakers from governmental agencies at the national, state, and local level will present updates and answer questions. These will include representatives from the Minnesota Department of Revenue, Social Security, Veterans Affairs, and the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS).

Since the seminars first began in 1975, nearly 1,000, representing the navy, marine, coast guard, army and air force retired communities in a five state area, have participated.

Cost is $3.50 (per person) for registration and coffee, or $12.50 with lunch. Reservations should be sent by October 1, to Gene Krueger, 9036 11th Ave. South, Bloomington, MN. 55420. Further information is available by calling Master Chief Gene Jarnagin at Naval Reserve Readiness Command, Minneapolis, (612) 725-5700.

S. Anderson On TV Show

Steve Anderson, Thief River Falls, who entertains regularly at Lon's restaurant in Thief River Falls, will present the "Unicorn Song" by Shel Silverstein next Thursday (September 17) on WDAZ TV channel 8 during the Noon Day show. Hour-long show begins at 11:30 a.m.

School Board Meets Set At Area Schools

Minnesota school boards association (MSBA) will sponsor 24 regional meetings starting today (Monday). Meetings in this area will be on Tuesday in Karlstad and Wednesday in Fertile. All meetings start at 7:30 p.m.

A featured segment of the program will be a legislative forum where members of the Minnesota legislature will address questions raised by the school board members and superintendents of schools in attendance. All members of the Minnesota legislature have been invited to participate in the legislative forum.

Discussions will include topics addressing employer-employee relations, school finance, taxation, governance and the impact of federal legislation on Minnesota's public education system.

During the meeting members of the MSBA delegate assembly will be elected. All 138 seats in the delegate assembly are open and are for two-year terms. The delegate assembly is composed of school board members and is charged with recommending a legislative platform to the association's membership for the 1982 legislative session.

MSBA staff members conducting the meetings are: W. A. Wettergren, executive secretary; Willard Baker, associate executive secretary; and James Jacobs, administrative assistant. These meetings are the first step in developing MSBA's 1982 legislative program and it is anticipated that over 2,000 school board members and school admininstrators will participate.

NWRDC Meet September 22

Northwest regional development commission's (NWRDC) board of directors will conduct their regular monthly meeting September 22 at 1:30 p.m. at the NWRDC office, 425 Woodland Ave., Crookston. Meeting is open to the public.

Here's how Chiropractic treats Nervous Tension

If you find yourself irritable or constantly "on edge" and not easily able to relax or to concentrate, it would be wise to consult a doctor of chiropractic. He is highly skilled in correcting spinal misalignments, reducing spinal tension, and aiding the restoration of normal nerve function to all vital organs of the body. In addition, the doctor of chiropractic can recommend a thorough program for releasing tension, developing your ability to relax, and more adequately coping with environmental stress.

Subcommittee Hearing

Testimony regarding commercial fishing on Lake of the Woods and Rainy Lake will be heard by a Minnesota Senate subcommittee Friday at the Moose lodge in Baudette. The hearing is scheduled for 2 p.m.

Sen. Collin Peterson of Detroit Lakes chairs the subcommittee of the senate agriculture and natural resources committee. Testimony will be on a bill introduced by Sen. Keith Langseth of Moorhead which would restrict the commercial taking of fish from Lake of the Woods and Rainy lake to rough fish only.

Anyone who has an interest in the subject is permitted to attend the hearing as an observer. Persons who so desire will be permitted to present testimony to the subcommittee and such testimony will become a part of the subcommittee's record. This will likely be one of the geographically closest official hearings on proposed legislation regarding the Lake of the Woods commercial fishery.

Major opposition to the commercial fishing has been brought by a group known as the "Save Our Game Fish Committee" which contends that the Lake of the Woods walleye resource should be reserved for the angler. Commercial fishermen insist that catch and sale of walleyes is necessary to sustain their rough fish removal operations. The department of natural resources has determined that the commercial catch of walleyes has not been harmful to the walleye resource.

Not Funny Any More

Remember laughing the first time you saw a cartoon indicating that it was impossible to drill for water because oil wells kept coming in? The situation may not be so funny any more.

Water is another of the resources upon which life is dependent yet is often taken totally for granted. As long as it is at the tap or the top of the well, why worry about it? In our area especially the surplus of water has usually been a greater problem than the absence of it.

In some areas, however, where surface water supplies have been over-taxes, groundwater has been available to fill in the gaps. Reports indicate that this source is dwindling as well. Groundwater use was providing 39 per cent of all irrigation in 1975 and the use has been increasing. Much of that water was coming from pools where the water supply is replenished more slowly than the rate of withdrawal.

This "mining" of groundwater is now estimated to be depleting the nation's water supplies at the rate of 21 billion gallons a day. If the trend continues, there will be few new supplies available underground in the future.

Lyle Bauer, president of the national association of conservation districts, calls attention to a serious situation as follows:

"In total, it is doubtful if irrigation will make the contribution to the expansion of agricultural yields that it has in the past 30 or 40 years. Rising energy prices are expected to double the costs of irrigating with standard center pivot systems between 1980 and 2000. Improved system efficiencies may hold down costs somewhat, but there will still be an economic disadvantage facing irrigated agriculture in the future."

Perhaps untimely rains really are better than no rains at all.

While Appeals Pile Up

Following editorial is from the St. Paul Pioneer Press:

One of the more serious side effects of the continuing increase in lawyers and lawsuits has been the expansion of the Minnesota Supreme Court's workload.

The number of cases filed with the court increased by 500 per cent during a 20-year period from 1957 to 1977. In 1957, there were 213 filings; in 1977 there were 1,065.

This trend has continued upward. Obviously, the court can handle only so much work, which means the percentage of cases in which an opinion is rendered has been declining just as steadily as the filings have been increasing. The court decided 178 of those 1957 cases — 80 per cent of the total. In 1977, the court issues opinions in only 40 per cent (424) of the cases.

Inability to handle this volume has led the justices to seek some means of relief. There is concern for the quality of the decisions, as well as the number. Associate Justice Douglas Amdahl, who will become chief justice this fall, has said that time pressures have resulted in wrong decisions and poorly-written opinions that raise further legal questions.

What to do? The court has hasked for establishment of an intermediate appeals court to hear many of the less complicated cases that are appealed from district courts. Establishment of this new court would require a state constitutional amendment.

The need for relief is obvious. Our law schools continue to produce lawyers who are looking for work. There are now 500,000 attorneys in the United States, or 25 lawyers for every 1,000 citizens. Japan has one lawyer per 1,000 citizens and Britain has seven per 1,000, by way of comparison. Chief Justice Warren Burger of the U.S. Supreme Court, has been moved to say that what this country needs is not more lawyers but better lawyers.

Creation of a brand new court does not seem to be the answer, however. If anything, the addition of a new lawyer of judiciary will encourage even more appeals. The new court would soon be inundated as thoroughly as the Supreme Court is now.

Nor would appellants who lost their cases before the intermediate appeals court be satisfied. Chances are there would be a constant clamor from the losers to move their appeals upward to the Supreme Court.

What's more, the new court system would add the cost of salaries for judges and staff and for court facilities to a budget that already is stretched too tight.

There are other solutions to the problem. The most basic is for the Supreme Court to simply be more selective about the cases it accepts for review. This attitude might be encouraged in the lower courts, where judges could be more selective about which cases are worth hearing and which are frivolous.

Frivolous cases? There are plenty of them filed in this litigation-happy country every year. Jethro K. Lieberman, legal affairs editor of Business Week, has just written a book in which he lists such ridiculous lawsuits as:

—A man suing his parents for $350,000, alleging parental malpractice.

—A group of Washington football fans going to federal court to have a referee's decision reversed.

—A $6 trillion class action suit against General Motors on behalf of "all persons everywhere now alive and all fiture unborn generations."

—A discrimination complaint by a man confined to a wheelchair who was denied a permit to participate in the New York City Marathon.

Our state Supreme Court could also expand its practice of having some cases reviewed by three-justice panels before a decision is made by the full court. Panels of district judges might also provide appellate review of some of the more routine cases.

These other ways or reducing the Supreme Court's workload should be tried before asking Minnesota taxpayers to take on the added expense of a new appeals court. Every citizen is entitled to his day in court, but the state is not obligated to provide so many avenues of appeal that sundown never comes.

Doc In The Box?

Drive-in health care could be the trend of the future, "Next" magazine reports. A concept that started nearly eight years ago in Delaware finally is starting to take off across the country, and it could demand a whole new outlook from the medical profession.

The new type of service revolves around walk-in medical facilities that are called minor emergency centers or convenience clinics. They have been designed primarily to fill a need for convenient, low-cost medical services. They are open nights and weekends and combine many of the fuctions of a hospital emergency room.

There are now some 150 clinics across the country, usually located in shopping centers or at busy suburban intersections. Some of them have the look of fast-food restaurants and detractors refer to them as "Doc in the Box," or "Kentucky Fried Medicine."

Borrowed Nonsense:

The kids had been sent to camp the day before and Mom and Dad were at the breakfast table. "I miss them already," sniffled Mom. "Me, too," said Dad. "Why don't you knock over my coffee and rub jam in my hair!"

"What did you learn at school today?" Mother asked her young son.

"I learned to whisper without moving my lips," he beamed.

Residential Development: A place where the developer bulldozes all the trees and names the streets after them

LHS Yearbook Editors Study At Camp FISH

Five editors on the staff of Lincoln high school's yearbook, the "Prowler", attended a yearbook camp in late August Camp F.I.S.H. near Walker.

Editor-in-chief Scott Hvidsten, photo editor Brian Poppenhagen, layout editor Janell Williamson, copy editor Julie Peres and caption editor Janelle Hamness were among 90 students attending the workshop—sponsored by Josten's American Yearbook company (AYC). "Prowler" advisor Judith Schmit was also an instructor at the workshop.

The students planned and worked on the 1982 "Prowler" and attended advanced photo workshops, in addition to utilizing the many recreational facilities available.

Camp F.I.S.H. (Fishing Instructional Seminar Headquarters), owned and operated by Steve Lund, is claimed to be the only school of its kind in the world, and has been featured on several national TV shows, and magazines and newspapers.

Grain Harvest Advanced Says Crop Summary

Near normal temperatures during the week ending September 6 accelerated small grain harvesting and row crop development, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service. Most small grains have been harvested, but some still remain in northern counties.

Corn maturity remains a week to 10 days behind the five-year average but the per cent in the dough stage is four points ahead of the average. Soybeans are also seven to 10 days behind normal. Topsoil moisture as of Friday, September 4, is rated three per cent very short, five per cent short, 64 per cent adequate and 28 per cent surplus.

Harvest of small grains was nearly complete with 97 per cent of spring wheat, 98 per cent of oats, and 99 per cent of barley now combined. Winter wheat and rye seedings for 1982 are now 33 per cent complete, matching 1980's fall progress for this date. Plowing of stubble fields is now 50 per cent complete, about the same as last year.

The flax crop is still somewhat behind 1980 and the five-year average. Only 84 per cent is turning ripe compared with 97 per cent last year and the five-year average of 95 per cent. Combining increased by only two per cent during the week for a total of 24 per cent to date.

Field corn is 45 per cent dented, up 27 points from last week but still far behind last year's 85 per cent and the five-year average of 73 per cent. The corn crop has good yield potential, with three per cent rated poor, 24 per cent fair, 63 per cent good, and 10 per cent excellent. Cutting of corn silage is seven per cent complete, behind the five-year average of 17 per cent. Soybeans were turning yellow on 33 per cent of the crop, up 24 per cent from last week but behind the five-year average of 64 per cent and 58 per cent last year. Soybean condition is rated five per cent poor, 28 per cent fair, 61 per cent good and six per cent excellent.

On sunflowers, 89 per cent of the plants have dropped petals, about the same as last year but only 37 per cent have bracts turning yellow compared with 87 per cent in 1980.

Field work on potatoes made good progress with 16 per cent now harvested compared with 10 per cent last year, and nine per cent for the five-year average. Some sugarbeets were being treated for a leaf fungus; condition of the beet crop is rated 11 per cent poor, 26 per cent fair, 51 per cent good and 12 per cent excellent.

First Fall Parenting Class Tonight

"Healthy Foods for Healthy Kids," a parent resource class sponsored with the Thief River Falls babysitting co-op, is scheduled to meet tonight (Monday) from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Northwest, regional library meeting room in Thief River Falls.

Home economist and mother Linda Worth will share informatioon on planning nutritious, low-cost meals and snacks for children. This class is open to the public free of charge.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

by LeRoy Stumpf

STATE REPRESENTATIVE DISTRICT 1B

The school year has begin for children in public schools and with that I would like to tell you about funding for primary and secondary education over the next two years.

A $2.29 billion school aids bill was passed by the 1981 legislature for school years 1981-83. The per pupil unit spending allowance will increase to $1,318 this year and to $1,400 in 1982-83. The revised law continues the discretionary levy at a rate of one mill this year and 2.25 mills in 1982-83. This is in addition to the basic maintenance levy which increased from 21 mills in 1980-81 to 23 mills this year and then will move back to 21 mills in 1982-83.

The discretionary levy is set to earn school districts an additional $64.48 per pupil unit for 1981-82 and $136.96 next year. In total that means a possible per pupil unit spending allowance of $1,382.48 for the 1981-82 school year and $1,536.96 in 1982-83.

Transportation aid will reimburse districts $1.48 per gallon in 1981-82 and $1.68 per gallon in 1982-83. Transportation costs will not be reimbursed for secondary students living within one mile of their school buildings in 1981-82 and within two miles next year.

In the area of special education close to $100 million was appropriated for each of the next two years. Limited English proficiency programs were given over $3 million million each year, and the Indian language and culture programs will receive around $500,000.

Health screening aid is set at over $1 million each year and early childhood and family education receives $1.5 million and $1.2 million in 1981-82 and 1982-83 respectively.

One dollar per pupil is provided each district for chemical dependency programs, and $16.25 per pupil is specified for gifted and talented student programs.

If you have any questions on the new educational aid legislation of other issues in the state, please write me at Route 1, Box 47, Plummer, MN 56748, or phone 465-4274.

Quie To Head Task Force On Resources

Gov. Al Quie has been selected to serve as chairman of the Midwestern Governors' association task force on energy and natural resources.

The task force will study such issues as soil conservation, alternative energy and the feasigility of a regional energy financial authority.

Other governors on the task force are Robert Ray, Iowa; Charles Thone, Nebrasja; Allen Olson, North Dakota; and John Brown, Kentucky.

Minnesota department of energy, planning and development will provide staffassistance to the task force.

AVTI Offers Office Seminar October 2nd

Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute (AVTI) is offering a six hour workshop, "Office Procedures Update" October 2 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Best Western Inn, Thief River Falls. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. A fee of $30 includes coffee, rolls, lunch, and materials. Dr. Grace Guemple, professor at Moorhead State University and Moorhead AVTI, and co-owner of Business Success Consultants of Moorhead, is the workshop leader.

This is an informative seminar designed for secretaries, executive assistants, clerical personnel, aides, and all other office personnel. Topics include: meeting the public, effective communication keys, understanding office politics, assertiveness, time management, and public relations on your job.

Pre-registration is required by September 24 by contacting Adult Education, Thief River Falls AVTI, Highway One East, Thief River Falls, MN 56701; (218) 681-5424.

Ault To Chair Workshop At Moorhead

Ev Ault of Thief River Falls, a member of Congressman Arlan Stangeland's small business advisory committee, will serve as moderator for one workshop session at the second annual small business workshop scheduled September 18 in Moorhead's Ramada Inn.

Ault will moderate a panel on "Financial Planning of Your Business" which will include information on formulating a small business plan, cash flow planning and interpreting financial statements.
